Allied Planes Wreck Bridges, Railway Through Brenner Pass

By NOLAND NORGAARD,
Associated Press War Correspondent

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa, Sept. 3 —(AP) — United States four-engined bombers knocked out the vital railroad line from the Brenner Pass into Italy— the German highway for defence of the peninsula—yesterday in their deepest blow into Italy from North Africa.

They blasted Bolzano, Trento and Bologna, and an official headquarters announcement to-day declared photographic reconnaissance showed "this main artery of German reinforcements which have been pouring into Italy is now cluttered with wreckage at least temporarily."

Line Severed.

Most of the railway line was severed when bombs destroyed the railway bridge at Bolzano 35 miles south of Brenner Pass, and the railroad at Trento 30 miles farther south was cut by four direct hits.

Freight yards at Bologna 170 miles below the Pass were torn by great fires and explosions. Bologna is an important rail and highway junction near the centre of the northern neck of the Italian peninsula.

Medium bombers blasted the railroads near Cancello northeast of Naples, and the offical report asserted that "when the bombing was over, all lines to Naples, Salerno, Torre Annunziata, Capua and Benevento had been blocked. Five sheds and 50 railway cars were destroyed in the yards and nine sheds were destroyed in the warehouse area."

Between 40 to 50 enemy fighters challenged the bombers, but were beaten off. One bombaimer said, "I was in the fourth and last wave to go over Bologna. Bombs were going down and terrific fires had already been started."

Four enemy fighters were downed at Bolzano. A radio-gunner said smoke and fire covered the place.

Big Aerial Duel.

One of the largest aerial battles ever waged over Italy was precipitated when 60 to 70 fighters tangled with the medium bombers and fighters at Cancello.

Twenty of the enemy attacked the bombers shortly after they dumped their bombs and the dog fight continued to the coast. Then more fighters swept in to conitnue the battle out over the sea.

Ten Allied fighters were lost.

Yesterday's onslaught on the toe of Italy was opened with a heavy blow by R. A. F. and U. S. planes on enemy troop concentrations and gun postions near Reggia Calabria. Although these positions were well-camouflaged, a pilot reported "we messed them up with our bombs," and another said "they were pretty well dug in btu we dug them out again."

The raids were carried out by

OAKLAND, Calif., Sept. 3—(AP).—E. B. Rutledge paid for a hotel room with a $1,000 bill that he thought was only $10. Police Lieut. L. M. Carroll said the hotel manager discovered the error. Next day, Rutledge again registered at the hotel and was brought to police headquarters to be given his $990 change. "It's not mine," he insisted. "Sure, I had a $1,000 bill but it's in my trunk." It wasn't. "All right," Rutledge acknowledged. "I guess it's mine."

4-Prong Attack In Asia Theatre

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3—(AP).—A promise of devastating naval and aerial blows on the Japanese homeland indicated to-day that the United States Fleet, with its growing armada of carrier-borne planes, is preparing swiftly to join in a four-pronged offensive in Asia and the Pacific this fall.

The September 1 raid on Marcus Island, some 1,200 miles from Tokio, hinted at mighty operations to come, and this portent has now been translated into plain words by Vice-Admiral John S. McCain, United States Deputy Chief of Naval Operations for Air.

"The attack on Marcus is only a token," he said in a radio broadcast last night. "Such blows will increase in tempo, in power and in fury until finally—for Japan — in continuous attack we lay waste in blood and ashes the home islands of this treacherous, brutal and savage people."

Get Go-Ahead Signal.

The final go-ahead signal for the vast new offensive doubtless was given at the Quebec Conference last week, although Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt in their continuing meetings here may further review the general strategy designed to carry the war directly to Japan.

McCain's emphasis on the importance of the Marcus raid, details of which had not yet been released by the Navy, was but the latest of a number of official disclosures which began with announcements at Quebec and which, taken together, suggest campaigns against the Japanese from four directions.

1. North Pacific, by American and Canadian forces based in the Aleutians.

Vice-Admiral Thomas Kinkaid, commander in this area, calls it "the short route to Tokyo."

Artillery Barrage, Shells From Warships Demolish Coastal Batteries And Forts As 8th Army And Canadians Storm Ashore

By EDWARD KENNEDY
Associated Press War Correspondent

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa, Sept. 3.—(AP).—British and Canadian troops, practised veterans of Gen. Montgomery's 8th Army, made landings in Southern Italy to-day in the first of several expected invasions of Hitler's Europe.

A few hours after they swarmed across Messina Straits from Sicily in small boats they had gained their first foothold on the mainland of Europe.

Headquarters said no further official announcements concerning the progress of the invasion were expected before tomorrow, however.

On the other hand, German sources indicated to-day that Allied landing forces on the Italian mainland had occupied both Scilla and Reggio Calabria.

Both those cities are on the Italian west coast, directly across the Strait from Messina.

HUNS REPORT TANKS HAVE LANDED.

The German International Information Bureau broadcast that the Allied invasion forces had penetrated as far as Scilla on the coast road. It said another force, led by many tanks, had penetrated eastward from Reggio Calabria.

(The United Nations radio at Algiers in a broadcast recorded by U. S. Government Monitors said 8th Army troops had swept ashore past "knocked-out pillboxes, coastal batteries and road blocks" and were working through lemon and olive groves, diches and mine fields toward a 6,000-foot range of mountains.)

The invasion force was supported by an armada of Allied cruisers, destroyers, monitors and gunboats hurling broadsides into the enemy's shore defences and by great fleets of British and American planes which dumped tons of explosives on gun positions, trenches and the battered communications network behind them.

BATTLE RAGES OVER ROUGH TERRAIN

There still was no definite word of the degree of resistance, but it was certain the invaders had cut out a difficult task for themselves as the fighting was over rugged terrain, marked by crags and cliffs close to shore which lent themselves naturally to defence.

Before the swarm of small craft bobbed across the choppy waters in the pre-dawn offensive, powerful formations of heavy bombers struck mighty blows at Brenner Pass communications between Italy and Germany.

Thus once again Hitler's legions, which had boasted they held the continent secure, were being engaged on the European mainland.

The first of the invaders, British and Canadian contingents of Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery's famed command, set foot on the Calabrian coast opposite Eastern Sicily at 4.30 a.m. (10.30 p.m. Thursday, E.D.T.)

The crossing of the Strait was made under cover of a moonless night. It entailed the moving of a great armed force across the narrow arm, two miles wide at its narrowest.

But even in the starlight the outline of the mountains rising from the Italian toe could be seen from Sicily.

Gen.. Dwight D. Eisenhower was in supreme command of the historic operations.

WARSHIPS BOMBARD BEACHES.

While troop-laden barges churned across the narrow Strait of Messina, artillery on Sicily thundered a heavy barrage against enemy gun positions, warships bombarded the beaches, and a big concentration of aircraft hovered protectively overhead.

The attack came on the fourth anniversary of Britain's declaration of war on Hitler's Germany.

First announcement from Allied Headquarters came shortly after 7 a.m. (1 a.m., E.D.T.) The text:

"Allied forces under the command of General Eisenhower have contiued their advance. British and Canadian troops

Newest Blow At Italy Is Not Big Show

Action At Other Invasion Points May Be Expected Soon

By DEWITT MACKENZIE,
Associated Press War Analyst.

The invasion of Italy is a further heartening exhibition of already great and rapidly growing Allied striking power, and we are warranted in having full confidence in the outcome.

We shouldn't make the mistake, however, of pinning our expectations too high on the assumption that this is the anxiously awaited Continental operation— the much debated "second front"— which one of these days in conjunction with the Russians most certainly will create the giant vise which will break Herr Hitler's bones.

This is a big show. but it isn't The Big Show.

Indeed, it is emphasized at Allied Headquarters in North Africa that it isn't the opening of a "second front" but just continuation of the campaign which has begun there and was continued with the conquest of Sicily.

An Essential Job.

Invasion of Italy is a job which had to be done, and it will be immensely useful in many ways. Still I have a hunch that there are other things the Allies would rather be doing right now than cleaning up this peninsula which is merely an appendage of the Continent and cannot bring the Western United Nations Armies immediately to grips with the Nazis forces witnin Hitler's European fortress.

Indeed, it's my suggestion that we watchers keep one eye on the unfolding of the drama in Italy, and the other cocked in the direction of other possible invasion points The Allies have more than this one trick in their old kit bags.

The invading forces swarmed ashore in lower Italy with the expectation of encountering stiff resistance, and according to the Algiers radio the British and Canadian troops of the Eighth Army—spearhead of the operation—already have run into it. Most of the opposition was looked for from the Boche, but it seemed unlikely that they would be in great force in Southern Italy. In the north of the peninsula, however, the Germans are reported to be holding the line of the Po river in strength, and likely have defensive positions south of there, as well.

Cut Supply Route.

One of the most important and interesting operations in connection with the invasion was the Allied bombing of the bridges in the Brenner Pass, the great gateway through the Alps into Italy from Germany. This has been the main invasion route into Italy from the north through the centuries. Its railway and highway have provided the thoroughfare for Axis transport, and a crippling of this communication would be a calamity for the Germans.

One of the main assets the Allies will acquire by overrunning Italy will be air bases in the north from which they can extend their bombing of the eastern part of the Reich and occupied territories.

Another great prize would be the acquisition of the Italian Navy — greatly whittled down through the

Will Probably Hit Italy At New Point

LONDON, Sept. 3 — (CP). — The London Star speculated today that the U.S. 7th army, not mentioned in the communique on the Italian invasion, had been "assigned a very important task."

In an article in the Star, Gen. Sir Robert Gordon-Finlayson said, "We can be quite sure that the 7th U.S. Army . . . is destined by Gen. Eisenhower to land somewhere in Italy very soon, but it is impossible yet to say where. The Seventh Army will have been assigned a very important task."

"Messina is just the beginning," an Evening Standard editorial said. "It is not likely that Allied strategy forsees only a landing at the toe and steady sober progress up the foot of the mainland."

Surmising that the British 8th Army probably had crossed the Strait of Messina in small boats carrying only light equipment, Gen. Gordon-Finlayson predicted that initial progress would be slow if opposition were met.

For several hours the London censors halted dispatches quoting speculation appearing in London newspapers. Dispatches were released when the Germans drew the obvious conclusion that American forces might go into action later.

Labor Should Become Partner To Industry

TORONTO, Sept. 3 — (CP). — A political and economic group report to the Canadian Malvern Conference here yesterday said industry should be organized to give democratic control to labor, but that labor should not be allowed to run industry.

"Many of the faults of which labor is accused— poor workmanship, waste, agitation against employers, lack of responsibility—can be traced directly to the feeling that the worker is not part of the concern, but only hired by it," the report said.

Unemployment was the responsibility of citizens and rested primarily with those financial and industrial institutions which at present controlled economy," the report added.

The section of the report on policies said the democratic form of government "seems the best one to express Christian principles," and urged Christians to give active support to parties and candidates who would implement Christian ideals.

The Conference concludes today.

The report attacked "fundamentally unsound dicta" which had come to be regarded as immutable laws, such as those which stated there always must be unemployment, human nature cannot be changed and humans are controlled by the law of supply and demand.

LONDONERS JUBILANT AS WORD OF INVASION REACHES BRITAIN

Canadian Labor May Cooperate With Alien C.I.O.

QUEBEC, Sept. 3 —(CP) — The Trades and Labor Congress of Canada to-day continued its study of Canada's labor situation, after yesterday's sessions had been highlighted by discussion on the degree of co-operation with C. I. O. unions affiliated with the Canadian Congress of Labor.

The discussion on co-operation or lack of it with the rival organization started suddenly when the British Columbia Provincial Executive Committee presented its report which mentioned with the committee had joined with the C. C. L. and the Canadian Federation of Labor in a joint submission to the British Columbia Government.

J. N. Ross of Vancouver touched off the debate on co-operation by objecting to association with the C. C. L. degegate C. Chivers of Victoria replied that "splendid co-operation" had been received from the C. L. delegate C. Chivers of Vic-last two years.

Debate Is Lively.

A large number of delegates took the floor in the debate that followed, some opposing any association with the C. C. L. and others suggesting that labor would be strengthened by a united front, supporting teh argument of Dewar Ferguson of Montreal that "if you want to get a correct labor policy by the Government, we must go out in a body and press for it, and not stay in our own little cell."

The report of the B. C. executive finally was passed by voice vote, without clarification of the co-operation issue.

Also passed during the day was the report of the committee on legislative activities, which said that the "labor situation has progressive deteriorated" in the period since the Congress submitted a memorandum to the Government last February.

The report said that in the Government's "unwillingness or inability to implement the assurances of the Prime Minister (for increased Labor representation on War Boards) can be detected the hand of the invisible Government —the financial and industrial hierarchy whose set policy it is to maintain its privileges and the social and economic status quo."

A resolution to give "entire support to the organizing campaign now being carried on by the American Federation of Labor Unions in the Aluminum Industry" —was adopted withotu debate.

In all these areas extensive preparations have been underway for months. The importance of the Burma theatre, through which passes the only practicable supply route to free China, was pointed up by the Quebec announcement that Lord Louis Mountbatten, the daring British Commando chief, had been given supreme command there with orders to undertake vigorous prosecution of the war against Japan.

The prospective Burma operations more or less fix the time for the whole gigantic offensive to get rolling. The Monsoon season there should end early next month.

Studies Housing

TORONTO, Sept. 3.— (CP). — Mayor F. J. Conboy, of Toronto, will head a delegation to study housing problems in Buffalo, Detroit and Cleveland, which will leave Toronto next week, it was announced last night.

These days most people are working harder, worrying more, sleeping less. This strain on body and brain makes physical fitness easier to lose—harder to regain. Today's tense living lowers resistance—increases body and mental fatigue. Overwork; hasty meals; irregular hours; worry—any of these may upset proper kidney action.
When kidneys get out of order, excess acids and poisons remain in the system. Then backache, headache, rheumatic pain, disturbed rest or that "tired-all-the-time" feeling may soon follow. We shall have to take the bitter with the sweet, though. Among the liabilities we shall acquire if we overrun all Italy will be the necessity of putting a force of several hundred thousand men into the country for garrison duty. The Allies also will have to help feed 40,000,000 hungry Italian mouths, and find the cargo vessels on which to move in supplies.

Cubs Lead Grab Off Second Win

At Memorial Park, last night, Cubs shellacked St. Peter's to the tune of 15-11 to take a 2-1 lead in the Catholic Softball Loop.

Up until the sixth it looked like a walk-away for the Cubs who were holding the Saints scoreless. However, in the sixth the Saints pushed in one marker and in their half of the seventh rallied for ten runs. The game was called after two out in the seventh, due to darkness and the big rally was to no avail. The Cubs played sparkling defensive ball as well powdering the pill most freely.

Heffernan again performed the mound duties for the Cubs and sailed through till the seventh with no worry at all. He is pitching brilliant ball and is mowing down the Saints handily. H. Gordon started for St. Peter's but was sent to the shower, being relieved by Honey Tompkins who finished, but who was also nicked freely.

For the winners N. Hayes lead at bat getting four safties for six attempts. He was followed by G. Heffernan and J. Caravaggio with three for five each. For the losers Reynolds was tops with three for four, followed by H. Tompkins with two for four.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS

The California Athletic Commission ruled yesterday that consent would be withheld to the proposed 10-round bout between Luther White of Baltimore and Henry Armstrong at Los Angeles September 18, on the advice by physicians that Armstrong would endanger his eyesight by continued boxing.

Supreme Hall, the big pacer owned by Sullivan and Mawhinney of Machias, Me., last night set a new track record of 2:01¾ for the mile in the twilight Grand Circuit card at Empire City, New York. The horse eclipsed the trot mark of 2:02½ made by Volo Song and Worthy Boy in the recent Hambletonian, as well as the same record set last Monday by the pacer, Lew McKinney.

Sets Record.

In the Canadian Swimming championship meet at Winnipeg last night, Joan Langdon, Vancouver's record-breaker, not only outdistanced Lorraine Fischer of New York but established a new Canadian mark of 1:55 4-5 for the women's 150-yard Medley race. Doug Nothstein of Winnipeg won the men's 400-yard free-style.

Only two of eight starters finished the five-mile road race from Westmount to Lachine Manning Depot for airmen last night. The winner, LAC. Lloyd Harrison of Fredericton, was closely followed by Flt. Sergeant Ernie Outwin of Oshawa, Ont. The time was 31:57.

The grid classic of the year in the United States, the army-navy game, received the stamp of approval yesterday at Washington but the venue has not yet been arranged giving rise to the belief that the rivals will meet in a large city stadium, such as New York or Philadelphia, to offset transportation handicaps.

Invasion Fleet Sailed In Total Darkness

By ALAN MOORHEAD
Representing the Combined British Press (Distributed by The Canadian Press)

A SICILIAN INVASION PORT, Sept. 3—The first wave of attacking British and Canadian troops sailed against the toe of Italy at night and without a moon.

On a sea which has been consistently calm for a week many hundreds of ships and barges began setting out for the Italian coast with only starlight to guide them to the enemy beaches.

They had continuous air cover.

Extraordinary scenes led up to the moment when the first wave of the invasion expedition got underway. For 10 days past vast numbers of men and vehicles have been feeding down to the invasion ports

If you can imagine a pre-war London or New York traffic jam you can guess what the roads in Sicily have been like.

New and complex road signs sprang up all over the country to guide the columns of men and machines down to their right coves and beaches. Meanwhile invasion barges— the same mosquito fleet that made the landing on Sicily—stole up the coast to take the army on board.

The enemy seems to have been aware that something was going on. Their high speed reconnaissance planes were over from dawn until evening.

By last night everything was pretty well set. Stores and vehicles which were not already embarked were waiting in long lines on the lava plains, ready to go down to the shore. In the darkness you could hear many thousands of voices, the rumble of treads on the docks and the shouted orders of officers calling their men to come forward.

A Big Adventure

Though they had not been told their exact destination, the troops knew they were bound on their biggest adventure yet and the atmosphere was tense. Two weeks of rest and quiet had given them great steadiness and confidence.

A great deal of all the intense organization was carried out in the full view of the Italian mainland. There has never been any real sign of movement on the mainland beyond an occasional shell lobbing over the straits from the Calabrian Hills.

From this distance the mainland looks like uninhabited rock and at times the silence there has been uncanny.

of the 8th Army, supported by Allied sea and air power, attacked across the Strait of Messina early to-day and landed on the mainland of Italy."

It was emphasized here that the new assault was not to be regarded as a "second front," but as a continuation of a campaign begun in North Africa and moving in Europe step by step — Tunisia, Pantelleria, Sicily, and now Italy itself.

That was the meaning of the phrase, "Allied forces . . . have continued their advance" . . . from Sicily. The first announcement gave no details of the fighting on the new beachhead.

NO AMERICAN TROOPS MENTIONED.

There was no mention of American ground forces taking part in the amphibious attack.

The landing came after two weeks of intense bombardment of Southern Italy, attacks that almost without exception were aimed at railway and other communication facilities to disrupt enemy troops and supply movements.

On frequent occasions, too, British and American warships had steamed up to the coasts for inshore bombardments.

Fierce German opposition was expected on the mainland.

Explosives cast from Sicily by Allied artillery in the early stages of the landings were said to have silenced several enemy guns even before the first assault neared shore.

The thrust was made opposite Messina in the vicinity of Reggio Calabria, mainland ferry port which has been attacked by air almost daily for several months.

The Strait there is a mere seven miles wide, and northwards it narrows down to about two miles—distances that could be spanned by boat in less than a half an hour.

19 DAYS AFTER SICILY CLEAN-UP.

The landings were preceded by several reconnaissance stabs at the enemy shore, Commando-type jabs which Axis radios had described as attempts at invasion but which in reality were only exploratory

The invasion, the first Allied land attack on the European mainland since the Canadian-led Dieppe raid in August, 1942, came just 19 days after the final cean-up of Sicily on Aug. 18 in a campaign which lasted 38 days.

Within that period, British and American war planners—topped by Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt—met in Quebec and presumably put the final stamp of official approval on this new strategic setup.

Even before the close of the victorious Sicilian campaign, the hard-hitting Canadians were withdrawn from the front and it was understood they were drilling for a new assignment, presumably to-day's attack.

Giants Enter Junior Finals

The two East City clubs, the Giants and the Yanks, hooked up last night in the third game of the Catholic Junior League semi-final series at Memorial Park.

After a hard fought tilt the Giants came out in front by a 14-6 count and they now meet the Tigers, league winners, in a 3 out of 5 series.

B. Guerin started for the Giants but was a trifle wild and B. Sullivan took over and held the Yanks in check the rest of the route. He allowed only five scattered singles. Spencer pitched good ball for the Yanks but was given wobbly support throughout. He allowed ten hits.

B. O'Rourke led the winners at bat with a double and 3 singles in four trips. G. Sullivan had a double and single for three and M. O'Heron a double and single for four.

F. Fitzgerald again led the Yanks at bat with a double and 2 singles.

G. Sullivan was the fielding star, handling several chances without a slip.

The first game of the finals between the Tigers and Giants will be played Friday night at 6.30 sharp at Memorial Park. The youngsters improve every time out, and they should prove good material for senior ball in the near future.

Business firms and the Government need capable stenographers and accountants. Young people can serve their country by preparing for office positions, and when the war is over will likely hold these positions. Rather important, is it not?

Brintons Win Spot In League Finals

Brintons won their way into the final round for the intermediate girls' championship and the Knox Cup last night when they pushed up the winning run with none out in the last of the ninth to defeat the luckless Johnson Motors 11 to 10. Brintons thus took the semi-final round in two straight games and will meet the winner of the Electrics-Generals bracket for the title.

The Motors team spotted the Brintons nine runs in the first two frames and then battled themselves right back into the ball game, gradually overhauling the Carpet girls until they finally succeeded in sewing up the score in the first half of the ninth, only to have Brintons come through with the winning marker in their end of the innings.

The Outboards outbatted the Brintons 20 to 13 and they would have won the argument if it had not been for their slow base-running. Hits were thrown away because of this tardiness on the runways, and two or three times runners were thrown out on force plays after the batter had come through with a clean hit. The base-runner would hold up on the paths and eventually get thrown out and that kind of work really cost the Johnsons the ball game.

Brintons bunched five hits including doubles by T. Batley and Beryl Lee to score four runs in the first inning and when they came back with five in the second on three hits, a couple of errors and a walk it looked like a runaway. However, Johnson Motors put on the brakes with a vengeance then blanking the winners for the next four innings, allowing a single run in the seventh and finally the winning marker in the ninth.

Meanwhile the Outboards kept hammering away. They got single runs in the first and second innings, chased three over in the fifth, came baek with two in the sixth and then wound up with single runs in the last three frames.

They were down 10 to 9 when they went to bat in the ninth and Vera Mitchell and Helen Mark opened with singles and the former scored on a fielder's choice with nobody out. However, with a great chance to chase in the winning run the next three batters flied out.

Brintons wasted little time in getting the winning run. Marg. Thompson opened with a single, T. Batley was safe on an error and when Beryl Lee's fly to the outfield was dropped Marg. Thompson sped home with the winning run.

Big Tiny Herman Loves the Navy

OTTAWA, Sept. 3.—(CP).—Lieut. Charles (Tiny) Herman, R.C.N.V.R., who formerly ranked as Ottawa Rough Riders' place-kicking star and during 21 years of football worked his way into the top flight of its players, has arrived in Ottawa to renew acquaintances with the Capital's football followers.

In April, 1941, Herman gave up the life of a Royal Canadian Mounted Police officer and football star to become a naval man. He wouldn't have it otherwise, he said. "I love it," he replied when asked his opinion of life on the high seas.

"I still like to know what's going on in the football world," said Tiny, "but how in heck can you get hold of a sports page when you are at sea?" At all events, he's out of active participation in sports.

Enlisted for the duration of the war, the 290-pound athlete said he did not know what his life would be centred around in postwar years.

Army Swamps Lachine Club

VALLEYFIELD, Que., Sept. 3 — (CP).—Valleyfield Army swamped Lachine 20-9 here last night in the first game of a best-of-three Quebec senior lacross league semi-final series. Winners of the series meet the winners of the R.C.A.F.-Canadiens semi-final in the league finals.

Army, led by Charlie Phillips with two goals and six assists, piled up an 8-2 margin in the first period, chiefly on the strength of seven straight goals. Lachine's main bid of the evening came at the start of the second when they scored three in a row and cut the Army margin to four by the end of the period.

The game was all Army's from then on, with the servicemen scoring five goals without a reply in the third and showing a 5-3 margin in the final frame.

Invasion Starts On Vast Scale

By LEWIS HAWKINS
Associated Press Staff Writer.

LONDON, Sept. 3 — (AP). — Word that British and Canadian soldiers are surging on to the mainland soil of Europe brought a strong psychological lift to-day to London although the news was no surprise.

While there was a measure of disappointment among the more ardent "second frontiers" who had hoped the next blow would fall from the west, there seemed general acceptance of the idea that the Battle of Italy would have to be fought through to victory before the United Nations would be free to bring their fullest land, air and sea forces to bear on the main European enemy.

The invasion of Italy was not expected to satisfy fully the Russians, whose press only yesterday was complaining that the Sicilian campaign had not drawn off a single German division from the Russian front.

Differ in Strategy.

Prime Minister Churchill in his broadcast on Tuesday from Quebec acknowledged the sharp division of strategical opinion when he declared that an invasion of Western Europe would not be attempted until there were sound military grounds for confidence in success.

Mr. Churchill also indicated the Allies determination that an invasion would not end in tragic failure like the attempted rescues of Norway and Greece early in the war.

The Italian communique said the Three Brothers Face Charges

LONDON, Ont., Sept. 3— (CP). —The three Zoccano boys—Joe 18, Frank 21, and Pat 24—arrested yesterday after a wild ride in a stolen automobile, to-day were charged with illegally carrying a revolver and remanded without plea to September 8.

The trio were taken into custody by Ontario Provincial Police after officers fired seven shots at the fleeing car.

A fourth man, said by police and Army Provost officials to be Anthony Kallman, 20, was being sought following his disappearance in the vicinity where the others were taken.

Police said the car in which the men were riding was stolen and bore stolen licence plates.

Munro Says German Airforce Soundly Trounced Over Sicily

By ROSS MUNRO,
Canadian Press War Correspondent.

July 24: From Assoro peak watch beginning of attack up Agira road. Artillery barrage on Nissoria area in mid-afternoon and R. C. R.'s going in through orchards. Canadian and British gunners firing lot at night now. There must be three or four regiments of artillery around camp in behind Leonforte. You just get to sleep at night when they begin to shoot. For miles there blazing flashes of our guns. Little sleep for anyone in area then. Gunners having time of their life. They'd never expected they'd get such big shoots on their first campaign. Twenty-five pounder field guns still finest gun in the world.

July 25: Went up Nissoria road but not cleared yet. More attacks going to be put in; 48th Highlanders take it on to-night. Slope east of the town the tough spot. You can see it clearly from this side of Nissoria and it looks like any other hill but it is full of dug-in Germans. Dropped in on Edmontons resting just behind forward troops. Walked over hills they'd captured. They'd killed a lot of Germans. There still sickening smell death on those hills.

July 26: There are even political stories around here. BBC broadcast about Mussolini's political demise comes through this morning. There's Canuck in camp who speaks good Italian and I take him to Laonforte. He tells people on street about the news and reaction electric. Never seen such spontaneous expression of delight. Whole town in uproar cheering the news. They could hardly believe it true. Made a lot of friends among those poor Italians.

Sicilian Diary

War Correspondent Munro used up 15 notebooks during the 30-day Sicilian campaign. This is the second of two stories in diary form, giving sidelights and personal impressions gleaned from the notes. It covers the final 15 days of the action.

Go to Enna again. City coming back to life. Some civilains well dressed. Back on front followed Patricias along road as they march up in single-file columns for attack tonight. They're going to break through that Nissoria Hill. Great to see stacks ammunition by field guns among almond trees. German guns pegging road occasionally from positions to the north. A brigade H.Q. has to move back.

Turretless Tanks

July 27: First real air support came in. They haven't needed it up to now. Agira and area is target. Good bombing. Pats and Seaforths have gone over Nissoria Hill and advance on Agira. Wandered all over Hill and ground a shambles. They've been burying Germans up there most all day. Many killed by our shellfire. One Nazi tank there too with whole turret blown off. Turret seems to be very weak part these tanks. Lot of German equipment lying about. I pick up a Berlin newspaper dated July 10—invasion day. Nice souvenir. Heavy gunfire down road. There seems to be a flap on but Seaforths lunging ahead to Agira.

July 28: Agira fallen at last. Canucks had tough job on Cemetery Hill and on another ridge south of main road, but they knocked enemy off them. Germans withdrawing. It is almost a rout this afternoon. German air force isn't giving any support to ground troops. Doesn't seem possible that it could be beaten for Tunisia where they go strong only six months back. Still we seldom see Hun planes. Lack of them exasperating Canadian ack-ack gunners. They've begun to shoot up pillboxes to pass the time of day.

July 29: Go into Agira but leave hurriedly. Germans shelled town. They'd mortared main road, too, during morning. Canadian tanks pasing through Agira drew fire I suppose. Never saw any tanks hit. Again we camped in centre three regiments field guns. Every time we pick a bivouac we seem to draw the guns around us like flies. They pounded and pounded all day and night. It's the best sound we know here, but there is a limit.

We getting now some melons, green oranges, tomatoes, almonds and grapes for a change. Getting used to hot sun now. Everyone has good tan. They insisting everyone sleep under mosquito nets as anti-malaria precaution.

Southern Sector.

July 30: Loop around to southern sector of Canadian front. West Novas with Royal 22nd and Carletons and Yorks took Catenanuova, and won bridgehead over Dittaino River during night. See old friends in 78th Division from Tunisia which gone secretly into line here. Guns and infantry massing for attack on Centuripe and Aderno. Canadian and British guns in actions for hours and again fire all night.

July 31: Advance slows down while Canadian and British get into position for drive on Regalbuto and Centuripe, Been making daily calls at Canadian Divisional H.Q. Every officer on staff been most helpful keeping us in know. Simonds himself goes out of his way to explain his moves to us.

Try to Keep Clean

Aug. 1. Able to take time out most of day. First chance to loaf since landing. Write couple of general stories. One of biggest problems is keeping clean and getting clothes washed. Canadians been moving so fast we haven't stopped one place long enough to get organized. At no place has water been plentiful. But there's a river ahead—the Simeto—and there's water flowing in it, too.

Aug. 2: Big day. Regalbuto and Centuripe both fall. Aderno is in sight. Zero hour close now. Move to new camp which is under shade trees and with plenty of slit trenches dug. Only trouble is that it was former German ammunition dump. Piles of shells and mortar bombs still stacked there.

Aug. 3: Edmontons are away off in mountains on a sneak play towards Aderno. Being supplied with mules. Mountains like small-sized Rockies. Edmontons must feet at home. But everyone says it is one of the toughest assignments any troops have taken on.

August 4: Go into Regalbuto. Worst bomb damage so far. Whole streets blocked with walls which have caved in under blast. Date palms in central square looked odd amid wreckage. Western Brigade staff in orchard on edge of the mountains gives us details on the Mountain War Infantry fighting. Impossible to reach Edmontons without spending couple days trekking on foot. Everyone very tired. Canadians will have to rest soon.

August 5: Canadian "Jock Column" of Seaforths, tanks, reconnaissance squadron and guns moving fast down valley to Simeto river. It is a brilliant attack that, if it does go through OK, will mean the finish in front of Etna because the 78th Division pressing hard now on Canadian right flank. We get news that Catania, Misterbianco and Paterno have fallen. Germans are in retreat now. Whole division elated at news.

Canadian Road.

August 6: Drive on road built by Canadian engineers along Salso river valley. Wonder to me how they did it. Germans firing on them most of the time. The big bulldozers were used right on the front through it all. Wonderful machines, these bulldozers. Get about six miles from Aderno in valley below with good sight of city when air force bombed it. Plastered one end of the city, then the other. Devastating. Smoke and dust billowing up bloted out part of Mount Etna behind city. Talk to Canadian tank crews in vineyard and pick up scraps of information from friends along the front. It all adds up to a Canadian victory here in Simeto river valley. The Etna line has gone to pieces.

Perhaps we're going out on a limb in conceding a decisive breakthrough here but you feel it and sense triumph among the troops at the front. They're the men who ought to know. There's that atmosphere which follows a hard-won victory. Canucks have done their job and done it well. What a month this has been. One thing, though, it has brought us to a lush fruit country here in the Simeto Valley. There are oranges on the trees, eatable but not quite ripe, and eating grapes and tomatoes. Luxury after steady army diet.

Have Icy Shower.

Aug. 7: Aderno occupied early this morning. We drive hell-bent for city and see 78th Division Infantry unit. British went in following artillery barrage. Bomb damage colossal. Whole city laid waste. Wish some misguided Italians from mainland could see this. Call on Royal 22nd in Simeto Valley. While we eat tomatoes, Colonel tells us of regiments night crossing of Simeto which factor in occupation of Aderno by British. Seaforths Colonel relates story of his Highlanders at great length.

One of month's biggest personal events—finally get a bath and wash off dust and grime of travel from Pachino to Etna. We found broken aqueduct over Simeto river with spray of ice-cold water from Etna slopes making magnificent shower. Soaked in it for half an hour. Hundreds Canadians also getting really clean for first time since landing.

Would Overhaul City Government

TORONTO, Aug. 2. — (CP). — Centralization of powers in the Federal government at the expense of municipal institutions is likely to break down the two-party system, Prof. J. A. Corry, of Queen's University, said to-day before the Ontario Municipal Association.

Prof. Corry said Members of Parliament would be forced to become champion of regional o rclass interest should the Federal government have "to be making decisions which reach deep into the heart of every community.

He charged that many units of local government are too small to be satisfactory units of administration. "If municipal governments are to be equipped for the administration tasks which they must either shoulder or relinquish in the reconstruction period," said Prof. Corry, "a substntial overhauling of municipal services is necessary."

Council Sells 4 Town Lots In Campbellford

CAMPBELLFORD, September 3—(ENS) — Council held another of its short summer sessions on Thursday night four days ahead of the usual time as the result of Monday's holiday. All members were present and the various items of business were disposed of in quick order. There was only one person in the visitor's gallery. Harry Ayrhart who was interested in the purchase of four lots South of Inkerman Street. He offered to pay $35.00 for them and when council hesitated fearing a subsequent request to open a road to the lots would cost them more than they would ever get in taxes. Mr. Ayrhart offered to sign an agreement waiving his right to a road. On motion the deal was authorized and the town solicitor instructed to prepare the necessary by-law.

Spraying Completed.

Deputy-Reeve MacMillan reported for the Road and Bridge Committee that all spraying of weeds had been completed. He advised members that the spraying had also killed a couple of privately owned hedges and this lead to a discussion of the merits of weed spraying. Councillor Donald suggested the town might as well cut the weeds in the first place as spray them since this did not kill the roots. The Deputy Reeve maintained however that the spraying material did kill the roots and cited the fact poison ivy treated three years ago had not grown again.

Mayor Long passed on an invitation from Rev. W. J. Lennox who had invited Council to attend the National Day of Prayer service at the Church of England on Sunday morning. With several members declaring they would be out of town that day no action was taken. The Mayor also told of being interviewed by an officer of the R. C. A. F's recruiting force who had suggested council might assist financially for their mobile recruiting unit which is slated to pay its monthly visit here next week. In other municipalities large industries on war work often sponsored a large advertisement to publicize the presence of the recruiting unit but with no such industry here it was felt the corporaiton as a whole might look after it. Councillors felt the proposition was one for the war industries, not for them and turned it down.

Only communication read by the clerk was a letter from Mrs. W. Underwood, Rear Street, who advised council that her child had been bitten by a dog. She held that the animal should be destroyed and complained to council that she had been unable to get any action from the Police Chief. The letter was received and filed.

A Silly Argument

BOISE, Idaho, Sept. 3 — (AP).—To settle a fishing argument, Howard H. Sell of Pocatello appealed for aid. The Attorney-General responded. "We are of the opinion that it would be unlawful to fish for trout from the back of a camel."

Bank Robber Faces Old Count

OTTAWA, Sept. 3. — (CP). — Donald R. Edwards, 35, sought for nearly five years on a charge of armed robbery following a bank hold-up at Richmond, Ont., appeared in police court yesterday and was remanded for a week.

Edwards was arrested recently in Oregon City, Ore., and was brought to Ottawa by Chief Inspector A. R. Ward and Inspector George McKay of the Criminal Investigation Department of the Ontario Provincial Police.

Oscor Campbell, arrested a few days after the $12,000 robbery in 1938, now is serving a term of 12 years. His brother, Milton Campbell, is serving a seven-year term for a bank hold-up at Mount Brydges, Ont., and has still to face a charge based on the Richmond bank hold-up.

Three Are Bailed On Burglary Counts

COBOURG, Sept. 3.—(ENS). — Preliminary hearing of a breaking and entering charge against each of four Toronto people, occupied most of yesterday afternoon's police court session. Magistrate O. E. Langley of Peterorough, presided. The accused were Alfred Natale, Dorothy Flear, Mike Spizziri and Jean Natale, of Toronto. The evidence was taken in the charge against Natale and by consent the same evidence stood in the hearings of Spizziri and Jean Natale. The charge against Dorothy Flear was dismissed when Crown Attorney Harry Deyman informed the court that the Crown would offer no evidence. The other three were bailed to the next court of competent jurisdiction, no plea being taken. The two men were bailed to the amount of $1,500 and the woman was allowed on $750 bail. E. Murphy, K.C., of Toronto, was defence counsel.

The four were arrested in Toronto on August 25, the same date as the robbery of the home of Clarence Atkins of Presqu'ile, on which the charge was based. Constable Frank Atkinson of Brighton, encountered them in the act of leaving the Atkins home shortly after six o'clock in the morning. A quantity of cutlery and household goods, which police say came from the Atkins house, were in the car they used. Constable Atkinson took their name and addresses and registration cards. He transferred some silverware to his own car and went to phone for further police assistance. When he returned they were gone. Their car number was transmitted to Toronto police and they were picked up soon after.

First Forest Ranger School In Ontario Opens at Sherwood Camp, Boshkung Lake

MINDEN, Sept. 3 — The first forest ranger school in Ontario has opened near Boshkung Lake, Haliburton, and 40 men from all districts of the Province are taking the month's course. Lands and Forests Minister W. G. Thompson said yesterday it was proposed to erect permanent buildings to house the school. Sherwood Forest Camp is being used now.

The objective of the school is to increase the efficiency of the rangers in the Provincial service. The School of Forestry at University of Toronto is conducting the school, with Dean G. G. Cosens in charge, assisted by Professors R. C. Hosie and T. Dwight. The department pays $1,000 a year to the university and also pays the teaching staff.

Everything from the use of the compass to land administration is compressed into the four-weeks' course. Theory and practice are given and the curriculum is designed to give the rangers an education in their own work. The university forest property nearby is used for practical demonstrations.

Next year the school will stay open for two or more months, and it is planned to incorporate the scal-s' school with the new venture.

"We anticipate splendid results from this school," said Mr. Thompson. "The men will benefit and the Province will gain through the increased knowledge of the forest rangers."

Gaucho Heads For Moscow On Horseback Border Officials Rob Stalin Of Horse

BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 3 (AP)—The alertness of Brazilian border authorities has done (a) Joseph Stalin out of a fine Argentine horse and (b) Marcelino Soule, the gaucho, out of a unique journey.

Astride a stallion and followed by eight more, Senior Soule set out two weeks ago for Moscow where he planned to present one of the string to Stalin.

The gaucho, who in 1940 made a 16,000-mile trip on horseback through 18 countries, had said he and his animals would board a ship at Recife, Brazil, for Lisbon and get to Russia "by hook or by crook."

He was back in Buenos Aires yesterday, explaining that he would not get across the Brazilian border because he lacked the proper Brazilian entry papers.

The Japs Have The Jitters

Churchill has apparently given the Japanese a serious case of jitters, by his Quebec broadcast, when he declared that the conference had much to do with "heating and inflaming" the war against her. We find this evident in the Japs own announcement of the U.S. raid on Marcus Island, 1,200 miles southeast of Tokyo, for they say the American forces could have raided the Japanese mainland itself just as well.

The tune has greatly changed for it is not so long ago that Japan boasted that the homeland was safe from attack—a boast that was being broadcast at the very moment American raiders came winging over that country 16 months ago.

The Japs today fear that the American bombers will return to her cities. Those fears were clearly expressed when they executed some of the American fliers who were captured at the time of raid and slaughtered whole Chinese villages who gave shelter to the fliers forced down.

Japan's easy conquests gave her groups of islands, far away from the homeland, which were supposed to act as barriers and keep the enemy bombers still further away. These are being recaptured and Attu is perhaps one that will give the Japs the most worry.

General H. Arnold has announced that U.S. will use a new and revolutionary bomber in the near future capable of great distances and no doubt this is adding to Japan's case of jitters.

A Wise Move

The managements of three local theatres have announced that they intend to clear all children who are not accompanied by their parents out of their theatres at nine o'clock every night. In other words there is going to be a strict enforcement of the curfew law. We commend the theatres for this action, for if the parents of these children do not take sufficient interest in their welfare to see that they are home, someone else must. However, for proper enforcement of this curfew, the city police and others must assist and see that the children are off the streets, and not allowed to loiter around even after they have been thrown out of the theatres. Too often in the past children have gone to the theatres in the afternoon, smuggling in a bottle of pop and a chocolate bar, and there they have stayed until asked to leave. In the fine summer days, which they should have been spending in the open, they have spent the whole afternoon and a greater part of the evening in the theatre. The managements have tried to be on their guard, but it is a difficult task and help is scarce.

Then, too, many children have been brought down town early in the evening, sent to the theatre, and their parents have gone off some place else, and this some place has too often been to one of the beverage rooms. They have told their children not to return home until a late hour, knowing full well that they would not be there themselves.

While authorities, theatres and everyone else interested in the welfare of children may seek to do their best, primarily it still remains the job of the parents to look after and bring up their own children as good citizens.

Stripped Of Trust

The stigma of universal abhorrence and distrust which the German people have brought upon themselves as a permanent disfiguring scar and brand was peculiarly bound up between two otherwise unrelated sentences in the Tuesday edition of the New York Times.

They were separated by nearly twenty pages and by four years of war which have left the German soul naked and possibly still shameless before the world.

One sentence was the beginning of the leader editorial of that day: "When the Nazis took Denmark in the early morning of April 9, 1940, they had just assured King Christian that they had no intention of doing so."

The other was deep in a story of the disembarkation of German prisoners at a United States base camp in Africa. Electric lights blazed along the railway, and American soldiers, at intervals of twenty yards, with rifles at the alert surrounded the train. When the prisoners lined up beside the tracks, standing at attention, their Prussian leader said to the commanding American officer: "Sir, we are ready. There is no need of the great precaution. We will obey."

The reporter continued his account with the sentence that invites sequence to the quotation from the editorial, as follows: "The American officer thanked him, then warned the guards behind him to be doubly cautious."

These two sentences noted in casual reading condense to thumbnail outline the abysmal tragedy of the German people. It is something indelibly imprinted upon the conscience of mankind and fixed in memory as an automatic reaction to German protest and promise of good faith.

But, the people who have wallowed in the blood of their fellows are not likely to be greatly or penitently moved by the intangible penalty of the world's ill opinion. At least, not yet, nor for that long and unpredictable stretch of years until the heart of a people is regenerated.

Keeping The Weeds Down

During the past few years workmen of the Board of Works have done a splendid job in keeping the weeds cut on the city streets, but we feel that enough attention has not been given by the local weed inspectors to the vacant lots, lanes and back yards. Too often in wandering about the city we see huge burdocks well loaded with burs, ragweed, the dread of all hay fever victims and many other varieties of noxious weeds. If the inspectors will take about one minute to walk north from George and Hunter Streets they will see a back yard, in view of everyone who goes along the street, and this yard has a wonderful crop of burdocks and other weeds.

More Care In Drafting

In a Toronto police court last week, George Rush, a market gardener, was fined because he (Rush) had given his wife a ride in his truck for a distance of less than half a mile. Possibly Mrs. Rush in speaking about the truck would say "OUR" truck. The charge was not one of wasting gasoline, by pleasure driving, but that the accused had contravened Order No. 121 of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board "prohibiting the transportation in a commercial vehicle of any person other than the driver or the assistant necessary for the operation of the truck."

We are fully aware that the purpose of the order was for, preventing the wastage of gasoline and tires through unnecessary driving. The magistrate may have thought that such was the case, but we have been advised this week by a release sent out by the Wartime Prices and Trades Board that "farmers and truckers may obtain permits to carry passengers, or transporting employees to or from work or transporting their families on essential business when there is no other means of travel"; and also on July 4 the Administrator of services ruled "that when a truck is being operated for the purpose of hauling any products or materials, as many as two passengers may ride in the cab as passengers, in addition to the driver."

Could the Toronto magistrate have been acquainted with these rulings or do these rulings mean anything in the eyes of the law. The order was designed to conserve essential trucking equipment, which cannot be replaced, but it should have been made plain enough so that no such occurrences could have arisen as did in the Rush case. We have had too many of these poorly drafted orders.

Plasma Saves Lives

Hundreds of lives were saved in Sicily by plasma, which was more extensively used than ever before in the Mediterranean war theatre. This is what a dispatch from Allied Headquarters in North Africa says. Hundreds of men and women who go to the blood donors' clinic must often be inclined to wonder if their donations really are of any help, and this announcement will certainly answer the doubts which they may have had.

Peterborough clinic, in operation now over one year, still requires more blood donors. Many in our industries have responded nobly but there are still hundreds of citizens who are able and have not as yet registered. Sicily says your donations will not be in vain.

Litvinoff Goes To Moscow For Bigger Job?

By PAUL R. LEACH
In Chicago Daily News

MAXIM M. LITVINOFF'S recall as Soviet Ambassador to the United States is more closely related to post-war European politics than to "second front" pique, according to diplomatic sources familiar with internal Russian affairs.

As the war progresses toward destruction of the Nazis and Fascists and more definite thinking about spheres of influence, the smaller nations of Europe, especially in the Baltic, Balkan and Middle Eastern regions, will have to make up their minds whether to seek British or Russian protection. Meanwhile, there must be someone in Moscow qualified to devote most if not all of his attention to dealing with delegations from those countries. The well informed here believe that to be Litvinoff's job.

An overlooked or little known fact about Litvinoff's place in the Moscow Government is that when he was made Ambassador to the United States he was also appointed Vice-Commissar of Foreign Affairs, seconded to Commissar Vyacheslav Molotov. Litvinoff arrived in Washington one day ahead of the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor, presumably charged with furthering the ideas he had when he headed the Foreign Ministry in Moscow—strengthening joint security between Russia, Great Britain and the United States.

LITVINOFF as Foreign Commissar opposed relations with Germany, was deposed from his job and virtually disappeared from public view until the Russian war with Germany began. Thereupon, he again became prominent in Moscow's diplomatic picture.

The Soviet Union has been giving evidence of intending to play a much larger role on the European diplomatic stage when the war ends than ever before. Instead of this role being purely political, in the sense of winning the smaller countries into a Soviet world revolution pattern, Russian spokesmen expect it to be more economic and financial. If those smaller countries lean to the socialist state idea, naturally Moscow is not going to tell them to go and do otherwise.

In the face of suspicion in the democratic countries of the Soviet Union's aims, due in large part to Moscow's reticence in discussing them frankly for public consumption, Litvinoff's task, if it is to be his job to work with the smaller nations, will be a tremendous one. His well known leanings toward British and American friendship in the war as well as post-war world should be extremely valuable in making Moscow's policies better understood here.

A CONTRIBUTING factor in Litvinoff's remaining in Russia—he left here early in May—has been the Russian contention that his representations for his Government have been received with coolness by the State Department.

Russian supporters here say that Under Secretary of State Sumner Welles' difficulties with Secretary Hull have partly been due to their seeing Russian relations with too wide a difference in viewpoint. Welles has been much closer to the Russians than Hull has been and is reported to have listened sympathetically to such post-war Russian ideas as have been placed before his Government, while Mr. Hull has been more inclined to favour the pre-war political status of Europe as far as Moscow is concerned.

Litvinoff has been succeeded as Ambassador by Andrei A. Gromyko, who was previously counsellor of Embassy. Gromyko is rated as an able man but not of Litvinoff's calibre, experience or ability. Moscow evidently regards Gromyko as wholly capable of handling its affairs here until such time as better relations call for appointment of another Ambassador.

The Quebec Conference bid for Russian participation with President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill in their next war conference, to be held before this year's end, may signalize the beginning of better understanding between England, the United States and Russia.

The explanation for Premier Stalin's failure to accept previous invitations to meet with the President and Prime Minister—or to be invited, whichever was the case—has been that the latter have discussed war moves against Japan in which Russia, with its Tokyo neutrality pact, could not participate. If the next conference has more of a political and less of a war-planning character Russia might accept the bid and send Litvinoff as Stalin's representative, according to some Washington analysts.

State Etiquette

The Peterborough Examiner takes to task "two or three Canadian newspapers" for complaining that when Prime Minister King gave a state dinner at Quebec he did not invite Mr. John Bracken, the Progressive Conservative leader. Thus:

"We do not see the sense in this line of argument. We cannot recollect that when Mr. Roosevelt entertained Mr. Churchill at the White House he asked Wendell Willkie to join them."

Well, the newspapers which wanted Mr. Bracken at Mr. King's state dinner may have been wrong, but not any more wrong than the Peterborough Examiner. The man who should have been invited to Mr. King's dinner was not Mr. Bracken, who is merely the leader of a party, but Mr. Gordon Graydon, leader of His Majesty's Loyal Opposition in the House of Commons. Between that position and the position of Mr. Wendell Willkie in the United States there is no analogy at all. In the United States there is no official opposition, and Mr. Willkie is not even an official party leader.

In Canada, on the other hand, the leader of His Majesty's Loyal Opposition is a recognized official of the Crown, paid by the Crown, and accorded the rank of one of the King's Ministers. That post belongs to Mr. Graydon, not to Mr. Bracken, who is a party leader in the sense that Mr. Coldwell is a party leader; and though we make no pretence at being an authority on state etiquette or protocol, we have a notion that Mr. Graydon had as much right to be at Mr. King's state dinner as any of Mr. King's cabinet ministers. That he was not there, or not invited, surprises us; seeing that Mr. King is a stickler for state etiquette and the amenities. — Ottawa Journal.

THE THRILL THAT COMES ONCE

CONSULTED AS A MILITARY EXPERT

Washington Spotlight

(By J. F. SANDERSON, Canadian Press Staff Writer)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3 (CP)—The appointment of Lord Louis Mountbatten as Allied commander-in-chief in south-east Asia has been well received in the United States, largely because of his connection with the Commandos.

Actually little is known here of Lord Louis' military ability of record except that he was one of the men chiefly responsible for the technique of the Comando raids. Apart from that, and despite his brilliant record as a sailor, he has been known in the United States chiefly as a sort of military glamour boy.

There's concern in high government circles over feverish activity in the farm land market. Thousands of people are buying land, some for speculative purposes, other for long term investment and a few as a hedge against inflation.

Land prices have advanced sharply in many farming areas with the bureau of agricultural economics warning that a disastrous land boom, similar to the one after the First Great War, may be in the making.

Highly placed officials here hold a growing conviction that the Battle of the Atlantic has been won permanently.

They say the dwindling number of attacks on convoys means that Hitler hasn't got the submarines to carry on a winning fight against the ever-increasing sea and air patrols that cover the trade routes.

If he had them, they say, now would be the time to use them—to cut off the flow of supplies from the United States and Canada being freighted across to support another European front.

Six hundred war plants, surveyed by the U.S. War Production Board, show three main reasons why the output of munitions of war has fallen below the schedules of military and naval leaders. They are lack of manpower, materials shortages and design changes. It is significant that complacency over good war news, about which there has been so much discussion, appears far down the list.

The Tokyo radio has been extremely busy explaining to the Japanese people its version of the Quebec Conference which "turned very largely upon the war against Japan."

The Japanese propaganda bureau has been saying:

1. The western democracies are lacking in the men and materials to conduct offensive war in Europe and Asia—a theme that was true, undoubtedly, a few months ago.

(2)—The democracies are "continuing their strategy of seeking the line of least resistance, making it imperative for the Soviet Union to bear the heaviest burden of the war,"—the old Axis line seeking to split the Allies.

(3)—It is impossible for Britain to divert warships from convoy duty in the Atlantic to the Indian Ocean for use in a campaign against Burma and "American forces are expected to take on the Japanese for the benefit of England. Leave that to Mr. Churchill,"—another pretty example of divide and rule.

The United States now has an army of 7,000,000 men and it will be 7,400,000 by the end of the year or 8,200,000 counting officers and members of the Women's Army Corps. Having reached that total, it will begin to level off, meaning that only replacements and reinforcements will be inducted. The age range is 18 to 38, with a start to be made Oct. 1 on the general induction of fathers.

Nazi Spider Uneasy In Huge Web

New York Herald Tribune Survey Surveys European Invasion Possibilities

WITH the air full of warnings, promises and demands on the subject of an invasion of the European mainland it does not require much imagination to picture Allied ports filled with shipping; muted men tramping up the gangways; tanks and trucks rumbling down to the docks for embarkation; para-troopers boarding planes for their desperate missions; destroyers, cruisers and battleships taking station to guard the convoys and blast the enemy coasts; bombers and fighters warming up to supply air cover or sweeping out to open the road. The world knows how seaborne invasions strike, but when and where the next blow will fall are still in the realm of speculation.

The Germans have the advantage of interior lines, which means that the Nazi spider is crouched in the centre of a great web of communications systems, ready to dart wherever danger threatens. His attackers, on the perimeter of the web, are poised at several points, ready to strike, but once they have committed themselves to a given operation it will not be easy to meet an unforeseen need for reinforcements around the circle, or to withdraw from a spot where matters are not going well, or change direction to capitalize on some sudden political or military development.

But the spider is far from secure in his web. For the thing, he is already under attack from the East. For another, the web is not a fine, symmetrical affair, all portions of which may be reached with equal ease. Finally, the threads of the web, the railway lines, the river and canal systems, over which the spider must pass to defend himself, have been strained by four years of war and particularly by an air bombardment which has been concentrated upon shops, rolling stock, barge docks and the like.

If the Western Allies propose to put the web to its final test of strength, to draw upon themselves all that Hitler can spare from the Russian front, they can attack France, on the Mediterranean, the Atlantic or the Channel coast; the Low Countries or Germany's own North Sea shores. All of these points provide relatively easy geographical access to the centres of German power; they would involve broad fronts, which must be well manned if they are not to be outflanked or pierced. Good railway lines—at least they were good once—and roads would enable the Germans to concentrate rapidly. The Allied sea lanes would be quite short in the case of an attack on the Channel coast; quite long (about 400 miles) for an assault on France's Mediterranean coast, and very hazardous, because of the flanking position of German airfields in the Low Countries, if an invasion were attempted upon Germany proper.

Besides these "all-out" invasion possibilities there are points at which a limited attack may be made, possibly expanding later into full-scale campaigns. Norway is far from Britain or Iceland by sea and air, but it is not too easy for German positions could be successively outflanked from the sea, as the Japanese worked their way down the Malay Peninsula and as the Americans hustled their enemies along in Sicily. Italy offers a parallel to Norway in this respect, but Italy is much closer to Allied bases and would provide a better springboard for attacks on other Axis-held territories—France, the Balkans or Southern Germany—than Norway affords. Another sea assault into Denmark—again a land where geography makes for narrow fronts—and the opening of the Baltic to Allied surface vessels might accrue from success in Norway.

The Balkans offer many tempting strategic opportunities. Communications with Germany are far from good; they could be invaded by way of Italy, central Greece or Salonika (provided the guardian islands of Crete and the Dodecanese were first seized or by-passed), and while Germany might employ holding forces, in relatively small numbers, at first, she would eventually be compelled, as the Allies approached the Danube, to make a major stand.

These are some of the possibilities of invasion. They do not offer any easy roads to Berlin. But they can bring little comfort to Hitler when he considers that it is 2,000 miles from Brest to Taganrog; nearly 3,500 from North Cape to Crete. His web is huge, but its very size makes the spider uneasy.

A Bible Message

In that day shall the branch of the Lord be beautiful and gloroius, and the fruit of the earth shall be excellent and comely for them that are escaped of Israel. And it shall come to pass, that he that is left in Zion, and he that remaineth in Jerusalem, shall be called holy, even every one that is written among the living in Jerusalem. (Isa. 4: 2, 3.)

Now there is at Jerusalem by the sheep market a pool, which is called in the Hebrew tongue Bethesda, having five porches. In these lay a great multitude of impotent folk, of blind, halt, withered, waiting for the moving of the water. For an angel went down at a certain season into the pool, and troubled the water: whosoever then first after the troubling of the water stepped in was made whole of whatsoever disease he had.

And a certain man was there which had an infirmity thirty and eight years. When Jesus saw him lie, and knew that he had been now a long time in that case, he saith unto him, Wilt thou be made whole? The impotent man answered him, Sir, I have no man, when the water is troubled, to put me into the pool: but while I am coming, another steppeth down before me.

Jesus saith unto him, Rise, take up thy bed and walk. And imemdiately the man was made whole, and took up his bed, and walked: and on the same day was the sabbath....

Afterward Jesus findeth him in the temple, and said unto him, Behold, thou art made whole: sin no more, lest a worse thing come unto thee. The man departed, and told the Jews that it was Jesus, which had made him whole. (John 5: 2-9, 14, 15.)

Sir,—The following sentences appeared in a church advertisement last week in your paper: "Recently a widely known and highly respected clergyman confessed to his congregation, 'For twenty-seven years I have been trying to lead people to God, but had never found him myself.' What a confession."

I have spoken to a number of ministers in this city regarding this advertisement and they all expressed the wish to know the name of this man, and the circumstances under which the words were spoken. We ask the writer of the advertisement to make these facts public.

Yours sincerely,

Crowded Out

Stanstead is significant of the movement in Quebec. The Eastern Townships were originally settled by English-speaking settlers. They sent a solid English representation to Ottawa only three decades ago. Thirty years ago there were 1[illegible] English-speaking representatives from Quebec in the Dominion House. Today there are only nine English members, and four of these represent Montreal seats.—London Free Press.

Drew Seeking Cooperation In Farm Scheme

TORONTO, Sept. 3 — (CP). — yesterday told 335 delegates to the Ontario Farm Conference which proposes to form a permanent Provincial Agricultural Committee for g·'dance o' the Government's agricultural policy, that "this committee will be the most important committee ever organized in Canada." The conference opened to-day.

Col. Drew said the permanent organization will be immediately "cloaked with full official authority to make all enquiries, to secure evidence and to appoint experts." He said it will be given the full powers of the Public Inquiries Act.

The Premier foresaw years of work for the committee, formation of which, he said, will implement one of the 22 points of the platform upon which the Progressive Conservative Party was elected in the August 4 Ontario General Election. He hoped no Government, regardless of party, would withdraw the support which the present administration promises this organization of farmers.

The proposed committee, as outlined by Col. Drew, will be comprised of 12 or 13 individuals delegated to it by the Provincial Agricultural Organizations given that authority by the nomination committee meeting to-night.

Problems Vary.

"We have an extremely varied agricultural economy," Col. Drew said. "In some areas the farming is highly specialized. The problems of the fruit growers in the Niagara Peninsula differ greatly from the Dairy Producers of Eastern and Western Ontario. Those who grow tobacco and sugar beets have problems entirely their own. And even in the same line of production the problems vary in different parts of the Province .... all this must be taken into consideration in preparing the plan to be adopted...."

Col. Drew said he wanted to stress the "urgent need for greater production even to meet our own requirements," adding that Ontario faces the prospect of "disastrous food shortages." He said the Province owes "a humane obligation to the world at large," as well, in food production. He called for organization of 1944 food production " on an efficient basis" this Fall.

Col. Drew recommended Britain's "county unit system" of agricultural organization with its decentralized administrative machinery as a model for the embryonic Ontario plan. The British system principle of which, Col. Drew said, has been adopted by the 6,300 counties of the United States—is to be outlined to the conference later today by Thomas P. Manson, of the British Ministry of Agriculture.

Lauds British Plan.

"I do not suggest that we can adopt their plans in every detail," the Premier said. "The problems vary in many ways. There are constitutional differences. But subject to those governing factors, I am satisfied that there is much we can adopt with great advantage to ourselves."

Represented at the two-day conference, called by Col. T. L. Kennedy, Ontario Minister of Agriculture, are each of the 40 war committees previously formed in Southern Ontario, members of every county council, of each county branch of the Federation of Agriculture, of junior farmer and farm women's organizations, and of each specailized farming group in the province.

Headed by R. J. Scott, the committee named to choose organizations to be represented, on the permanent committee includes W. R. Reek, Deputy Minister of Agriculture; L. E. O'Neill and J. A. Carrell of the Ontario Department of Agriculture; W. A. Dryden, Brooklyn; C. F. Luckham, St. Williams; Alex Stewart, Aila Craig; H. D. Glover, Fruitland; Alex McKinney, Jr., Brampton; J. L. Joss, Belleville; James Sanderson, Kemptville; Earle Kitchen, Woodstock; Alex Pope, Fort Francis; H. L. Craise, St. Catharines; and Walter Davis, London.

American Jews Opposed to National Jewish State

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 3 — In its first statement of principles, the recently organized American Council for Judaism, Inc., appealed to the United Nations for the earliest possible repatriation or re-settlement under the best possible conditions of all peoples uprooted from their homes by the Axis powers.

The statement, appearing over the signatures of more than one hundred Jewish leaders from all parts of the country, criticized attempts by other groups to establish a national Jewish State and a Jewish army of stateless and Palestinian Jews. It expressed a hope for the ultimate establishment of a democratic autonamous government in Palestine, "where Jews, Moslems and Christians shall be justly represented."

The council was formed last April under the leadership of Lessing J. Rosenwald, Philadelphia industrialist and philanthropist, and in the interim has been gathering the support of Jewish leaders throughout the country. Jewish leaders from twenty-nine States and the District of Columbia were listed among those endorsing the statement of principles.

Appeal for Equality Made

The council was formed, the statement declared, "to present with views of Americans of Jewish faith on problems affecting the future of world Jewry as well as their own lives in the present hour of world confusion." For those Jews, it added, "we ask only this: equality of rights and obligations with their fellow-nationals."

The council reaffirmed the truth that the Jews of the world shared the common traditions and ethical concepts which find their derivation in the same religious source. For countless generations, it said, "Hear, O Israel, the Lord of our God, the Lord is one," had been the cry uniting "all Jews in trial and tribulation, in suffering, hunger and want, in despair and in achievement."

As Americans of Jewish faith," the council members said that they believed "implicitly in the fundamentals of democracy, rooted, as they are, in moralities that transcend race and state, and endow the individual with rights for which he is answerable only to God."

"For centuries Jews have considered themselves nationals of those countries in which they have lived," said the members. "Whenever free to do so, they have assumed, and will again assume, full responsibilities of citizenship in accordance with the ancient Jewish command, "the law of the land is the law.'"

Tells of Hopes for Future.

American Jews, the council said, hoped that in the peace the old principle of minority rights would be supplanted by the more modern principle of equality and freedom for the individual. Their interest is in the individual Jew in countries where the minority principle prevailed should not be confused, it said, with acceptance of that East European political concept.

After emphasizing that the Jews had been the most brutally attacked victims of the Axis, the council said it believed that the Jew would rise or fall with the extension or contraction of the great liberal forces of civilization, adding that "by relying upon the broad, religious principles inherent in a democracy and implementing them whenever possible, we join our forces with those of all lovers of freedom; strengthened, in that we do not stand segregated and alone upon exclusive demands."

In addition to seeking repatriation and resettlement of refugees after the war, the council asked that the United Nations persevere in their efforts to provide immediate sanctuary or refugees of all faiths, political beliefs and national origins.

"Palestine," the statement went on, "has contributed in a tangible way to the alleviation of the present catastrophe in Jewish life by providing a refuge for a part of Europe's persecuted Jews, we hope it will continue as one of the places for such resettlement, for it has been clearly demonstrated that practical colonizing can be done, universities built, scientific agriculture extended, commerce intensified, and culture developed.

Philosophy of Defeatism.

"We oppose the effort to establish a national Jewish State in Palestine or anywhere else as a philosophy of defeatism, and one which does not offer a practical solution of the Jewish problem. We dissent from all those related doctrines that stress the racialism, the nationalism and the theoretical homelessness of the Jews."

If it were not for the intrusion of Jewish national statehood, the counsil said, Palestine would to-day be sheltering more refugees from Nazi Germany.

Two Germans Still At Large

NORTH BAY, Sept. 3. — (CP).—Royal Canadian Mounted Police here said a widespread search was being made for Petty Officer Arnhold Schott, 23, of the German merchant marine, who escaped Aug. 26 while returning under guard to a prisoner-of-war camp from a labor project where he had been working.

Police said the German at first was believed lost in the bush near where he was working on a South River labor project about 40 miles south of North Bay. Officers said, however, that the area had been combed without success and expressed belief he has either made good his escape or taken his own life.

A description of the man has been sent to all police bodies in Ontario. He is described as five feet 11 inches in height, weighing 170 pounds, brown hair, blue eyes and speaks both English and German. He bears scars four inches long on both legs.

Announcement of his escape came on the heels of an announcement that the 19 Germans who escaped from Fort Henry last Thursday now have been captured and returned to the camp.

His escape, however, brings the number of German prisoners of war now at large to two. The other escapee still at large is Eckhart Brosig, 22 year old German parachutist, who escaped from custody of guards at the internment camp at Monteith, Ont., Aug. 3.

Italy Will Fall Very Soon MacDonald Says

TORONTO, Sept. 3 (CP). —Rt. Hon. Malcolmn MacDonald, United Kingdom High Commissioner, said in a speech prepared for delivery here today that the confidence of Allied leaders in war operations was demonstrated by the fact that plans for the Quebec Conference were launched as the initial attacks on Sicily were made.

The arrangements were made for a conference between Prime Minister Churchill, President Roosevelt and their chiefs of staff to work out in detail the general plans already agreed upon for the military and diplomatic stroke which should follow victory in Sicily, Mr. MacDonald said.

Speaking at a luncheon in aid of the United Welfare Fund campaign, Mr. MacDonald said it was doubly fitting that Canada should be chosen for the meeting, since the war effort of the Canadian people was as fine as any among the United Nations, and Canada could play an important role as a partner of Great Britain and neighbor of the United States in promoting cordial understanding and co-operation in war and peace between the two "greatest democratic powers."

"Mr. Churchill often expressed to me in conversation how pleased he felt that during this month of all-important decisions the direction of the British Empire's and the United States' effort against Germany, Italy and Japan should come from Canadian soil....

"Italy will be the first to fall. Her time is already up. Then Germany will be exposed to merciless attack.

"We must not expect that her collapse will come easily or soon. It will not. The Nazi regime is fighting for its life. It has no hope except in resistance."

School Children Can Have Planes Named for Them

OTTAWA, Sept. 3 (CP).— Air Force headquarters announced yesterday that under an agreement between Air Minister Power and Finance Minister Isley, school children throughout Canada soon will be able to have aircraft of the R.C.A.F. named for their communities by purchasing War Savings Stamps to a stated amount.

The announcement said that school children of Kitchener, Ont., have subscribed War Savings Stamps totalling more than $25,000, and an R.C.A.F. Hurricane fighter has been christened "The City of Kitchener."

In the past, donations for other aircraft named after a community or in honor of the donor have been accepted. This tendency is still being encouraged, but the new plan makes it possible for school children, through their purchases of war savings stamps, to acquire a real interest in a Canadian-flown aircraft.

The headquarters statement said subscriptions required for various types of aircraft were as follows: Elementary Trainer (Cornell, Fleet, Tiger Moth) $10,000; Advanced Trainer (Harvard, Anson, Norseman, Crane, Oxford) $15,000; Fighter (Hurricane and other types) $25,000; Bomber, $100,000.

The sums represent only the partial cost of such aircraft, the actual figures not being divulged for security reasons. Groups of children wishing to subscribe under the plan are asked to advise the National War Finance Committee at Ottawa, stating their preference as to type of aircraft.

OUTBOARDS TAKE FIRST CONTEST IN INDUSTRIAL LEAGUE ROUND

Drafting Room Scores Five In Last of 9th

Outboard Marines won the first game in the Industrial League semi-final round last night by beating C.G.E. Drafting Room 9 to 8, but only after the C.G.E. boys had thrown a decidedly big scare into the Marine camp by scoring five runs in the last of the ninth, just falling a run short of tieing up the ball game.

The ultimate winners went out in front 2 to 1 in the first innings, increased it to 4 to 1 in the third, added two more in the fourth and another pair in the fifth. Drafting scored a brace in the last of the fourth but they were down 8 to 3 at the close of the fifth and the score remained that way until the ninth when Outboards pushed over a run in the opening half of the inning.

They needed it, too, for the C.G.E. team cut loose with a last-inning rally that saw them chase five runs over the plate, and they were just a run down when Outboards finally got the side out.

Feature fielding play of the game was contributed by Bill Shadgett, centre fielder for Drafting who ran back in the ninth and made a leaping catch of Bob Shaughnessy's hard-hit drive.

Bill Enger, Drafting third baseman, led the hitters with a double and two singles in four times at bat while English for Outboards had a triple and a single in three appearances at the plate.

The lineups:

Outboards—Loucks ss, Metcalfe c, Shaughnessy cf, Murphy 3b, p, Heffernan p, 3b, Carter 2b, English 1b, McArthur rf, Collins lf.

Drafting—Shaughnessy lf, Shadgett cf, Kemp p, Edger 3b, Stewart ss, H. Dunford rf, W. Dunford 2b, Bedord 2b, Tanner c, Mathison 1b.

By Innings:

Outboards	202	220	1—9	9	2
Drafting	100	200	5—8	9	5

Umpires—Phillips at the plate, Dorrell and Hillier on the bases.

Ottawa Girls To Play Here

Although Toronto Coulters had to cancel their visit to Peterborough at the last moment because they were ordered to play play-off games over the week-end the Westclox team has been lucky in getting worthy substitutes and the strong Clark's Dairy team of Ottawa will make the trip instead of the Toronto girls.

The Ottawa team will meet Westclox here to-morrow night at 6 o'clock at Riverside Park and will also play the Peterborough champions on Monday afternoon at 5 o'clock, providing two fine games for folk who are spending the Labor Day week-end at home.

The Ottawa girls are a senior aggregation who are going great guns in the Ottawa League. They won a playoff game last night by 19 to 1 which gives a fair idea of their strength. It is expected that Marg. Watson will pitch tomorrow evening's game against the invaders and probably Isobel Bullock in the second battle on Monday.

LAWN BOWLING

To-night we expect a large crowd will be out to play in the mixed tournament, with all proceeds going to the British War Victims' Fund. The draw is scheduled to be made from the board at 7.30 o'clock. Phone your name in early and bring a friend. The fee is $1.00 per bowler. Remember, the cause, and we will be well repaid by knowing that we are doing our share in a small way.

The men's extra series got under way last evening, and while it is a little early to do any guessing on just how this series will work out, it was unfortunate that on the opening night there were so many defaults.

In the ladies' section, they began their club doubles and judging by some of the games that we were privileged to see, it looks like a good series. No doubt, now that the holiday season is about over, there will be less substituting in this contest than thare was in another one just recently completed.

"B" Softball

BRANTFORD —(CP) — The senior "B" playoff series in the Ontario Amateur Softball Association for this district was tied up last night when the Guelph Wireless team went down to defeat before Brantford Cockshutt 9-6. The third and deciding game will be played Saturday at Galt.

SPORTS – DAY BY DAY

By FRED D. CRAIG

"It was the quietest Peterborough softball crowd we have ever heard." coments Sports Columnist George Campbell in his Oshawa sport column in telling about Tuesday's game. His impressions will be interesting. Here they are: "How it happened to be the Canadian General Electric team will never be really known. "Genelecs" lost the deciding game of their playoffs last Saturday afternoon, 7-6 after leading 6-5 with 2 men out in the 9th. The 4th Field Battery team actually won the Peterborough softball league championship but apparently there was some kind of protest made and when the O.A.S.A. investigated the protest (on something else entirely) they happened to find that the Battery certificates were all dated July 22. O.A.S.A. rules call for July 15 as last date for signing and the O.A.S.A. Secretary suspended the entire Field Battery team. Peterborough softball fans stat that the "Battery" team was slightly stronger at the plate than "Genelecs" but actually, not a great deal sronger on the whole. Another angle was that Eakins, a Lindsay hurler, was used Tuesday night as a "military replacement" granted by the O.A.S.A for a "Genelec" player who actually is still residing in Peterborough and hadn't played a single inning all season. The Peterborough League refused a military transfer for this same player but apparently the O.A.S.A. gave him an O.K. However, Eakins himself proved only average against the Colts and that perhaps pleased a lot of Peterborough fans. They had more than 700 cash customers at 25c a piece on hand, a total gate of over $175.00 but it was the quietest Peterborough softball crowd we have ever heard. The majority of the fans apparently wanted and expected 4th Field Battery to be meeting the Colts."

Medals for consistency and good sportsmanship should go to the members of the Johnson Motors girls' team who were eliminated from the intermediate playoffs last night when they were nosed out 11 to 10 by Brintons. The Outboard Marine girls displayed their consistency by going through the entire season without winning a single game and their sportsmanship by turning up with a smile for every engagement all summer, accepting defeat without resentment and the tough breaks they got without crabbing. They have the satisfaction of knowing that they have improved more during the campaign than any other team in the loop, and that they have developed a number of promising players who will be heard from in future seasons. The Johnson girls got no favors from luck. Toward the latter part of the season they made it close for most of the clubs they met and they might easily have won half a dozen contests that they dropped by narrow margins. Last night's game was one of them. They lost that one for lack of enterprise on the bases. They outhit Brintons by a considerable margin and if they had cashed in on their batting would have come home in front. If they can keep that squad together for next season the Outboard Marine girls will no longer be strangers to the win column.

They Missed One

Under the heading "Something new in baseball" there was a story from Port Colborne in the Globe and Mail yesterday telling how Coach Max Kaminsky of the Port Colborne Victorias in a game against Welland kept right-handed pitcher Comy and Lefty Pete Copie both in the ball game and alternated them against right and left-handed batters respectively. There is nothing particularly new in that bit of strategy. Old Canadian League fans will recall how Manager Frank Shaughnessy of Ottawa used Lefty Rogers, a good southpaw pitcher in left field for his hitting and then switched him into the box if his right-handers happened to get into a jam. The chesty Rogers would trot into the pitching mound from left field, get rid of a troublesome left-handed batter and then jog back to the outfield. But there was something new in that Port Colborne ball game that seems to have been over-looked in the story.

* * * * * *

The report says that Kaminsky's strategy was crossed up in the fifth by player-manager Eddie Runge of Welland, as Grogan, a left-hander went to bat. "Kaminisky signalled Copie to the mound but then Runge sent Latinovitch, a right-hander to bat for Grogan. But the cross-up failed for Copie delivered one pitch to Latinovitch, a ball, and Comy returned to the mound, forcing Latinovitch to fly out to Gallinger at shortstop." That's all very nice but what folk who know their baseball rules would like to know is whether the Welland club and the umpires were asleep on the play. Once Copie took over the pitching chore he could not be taken out until he had finished pitching to one batter. Section 4 of Rule 17 makes that clear. It says in part: "In the event of the pitcher being taken from his position the player substituted for him shall continue to pitch until the batsman then at bat has either been put out or has reached first base, or the side has been retired." Apparently everybody, including the umpires, missed that on in this Port Colborne battle.

The Hockey Outlook

Bill Walshe takes a look forward at the hockey prospects in the following paragraph in his Kingston sports column: "Army sports should boom in Kingston with the new "Link Training Plan" that will mean more soldiers being located here for longer training periods and a few top athletes may be expected among the instruction staffs. Army officials refused to comment on how hockey will be effected by the new training system but it is certain that the combining of basic and advance training for Ordnance and Signals to be conducted here there will be many more young recruits stationed in this area and with new recruits there should be some top hockey talent. With a bank balance to start the season, following the success of the carnival last week, Kingston hockey will be in a better financial condition than in former years when collections had to be taken before the season started to purchase equipment and organize. This year there will be the usual difficult organizing plan. Three years ago when Kingston first stepped into senior B hockey, a group had to be arranged with Peterborough, Belleville, Trenton and Whitby, which ended in Kingston going on to the Ontario championship. Two winters ago there was a battle to get into the O.H.A. senior series and last winter it was even a tougher struggle to get in the Ottawa Senior League. Just where Kingston will play senior hockey next winter is not certain. The O.H.A. senior series with Toronto clubs is the most logical but there is a chance that Kingston may enter the Quebec League or return to the Ottawa senior, if it operates next winter. One thing is certain, Kingston will have a good senior team, perhaps stronger than ever before.

Ken Colling, Belleville sports scribe, has dug up the following personal dope about Gentleman Jack Colborne, who wrestles Leo Numa here on Monday night: "It was not until Jack Clayborne took up boxing that he became known on the sport pages as "Gentleman Jack," but he soon found out one can't do much as a gentleman in the squared circle, especially in a business manner so Clayborne gave up boxing for wrestling south of the border. His father was a member of the famed fighting Zulus in Africa, while his mother is from the Geetze tribe. There wasn't much love between the Zulus and the Geetze so no wonder Clayborne left his native Africa for the more peaceful shores of North America at a tender age. "Gentleman Jack" still carries a ring given to him by his Zulu father. It is a mammoth ring, across the surface being posed a figure with folded arms, which Jack claims was a grand chief of the Zulus. He wears it on his middle finger, but his father wore it on his little digit, just to give you a rough idea of Jack's background."

Peterboro Pair Defeated Lawn Bowling

TORONTO, Sept. 3—Yesterday morning, 350 of bowldom's best started the 38th annual lawn bowling tournament of The Globe and Mail for men on the lawns of Greenwood Park, Kew Beach, Withrow Park, West Toronto and St. Matthews.

The weather was ideal, and the greens, as a result of the previous night's rain, were in splendid shape.

The first round developed many one-sided games. The Waterloo pair, Stuebling and Hilliard, defeated Dickson and Harrington, Granites 27 to 12. The result was never in doubt.

Stitt and Lynn, Wiarton, had it easy against Kent and Richardson, High Park, scoring 19 points to 6.

The answer to Anslee and Salmon's Oakwood, 21 to 15 victory over Ross and Hilson, Agincourt, was two threes, two fours and a five. Graham and Lowner, Norwood Park, scored four times only against Warner and Sproule of Brampton. Score 25 to 5.

At the end of the tenth the score was 10-9 in favor of Thompson and Gordon, Cannington, in their game against McGrow and Cockshoot, Kodak. It ended 22 to 12 in the latter's favor.

In the Robertson-Swan Canada game against Williams and Dr. Wheler, Balmy Beach, both tallied a five, and at the start of the fifteenth the score was 16 all. Canada got one in the fifteenth and the game. Canada scored in nine ends; Balmy Beach in six ends.

Some large ends were responsible for Dr. Brereton's win over Dr. Krupp, 18-14.

Two noteworthy games in the first round resulted when Robertson and Swan, Canada, defeated the three times Globe and Mail trophy winner, Dr. E. G. Wheler. In the second round the Canada team fell to Dixon and Bradburn, Beverley Hills, California.

Some very large and one-sided scores marked the second round.

The third round produced many tight games.

Series Tied

NIAGARA FALLS (CP) — The Falls nine evened the O.B.A. Senior "B" playoff series last night by blanking St. Catharines-Merritton Combines 3-0 to give both teams a pair of wins. The result was due to the four-hit pitching of Harry Wasser. The deciding game will be staged at St. Catharines Saturday.

Numa Ranks Among Top Notchers

When big blond Leo Numa walks into the Brock St. Arena ring on Monday night the fans here will get their first glimpse of the wrestler who as the notorious Red Shadow packed (and panicked) large crowds in nearly every Eastern city during the past six months. The unmasked Shadow will appear here under his right name of Leo Numa of Seattle, Washington, and will wrestle Gentleman Jack Clayborne. The colored Clayborne has proved to be just about the most popular wrestler the fans here have seen. With his great bounding style and magnificent ebony body Gentleman Jack is a first-class athlete and matman and the contest between him and Numa should be great to watch.

When Clayborne first wrestled here a few weeks ago he was on the losing end of a questionable decision to John Katan. Afterwards Katan stated he would never wrestle the big black here again, where, said Katan, the fans are prejudiced against him, Honest John. And apparently big Katan meant every word of it for he has turned down every reasonable offer to come back. And that's alright with the fans here too. And it may even be that way with Mr. Numa, after Monday night's brawl. The sporting fans here have taken a liking to Clayborne from the beginning and in spite of Numa's great reputation, it is likely that the Dark Cloud of wrestling will be a favorite to pull out a close win.

SMART ROOKIES SPARK BROOKLYN TO SIX-GAME WINNING STREAK

Dodgers Team Nearing Second Place

By JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

A few weeks ago when Brooklyn Dodgers were in a state of turmoil, they took a lot of ribbing about being a bad ball club that might, and probably would, finish in the second division of the National League.

It seems only fair, therefore, to call attention to the fact that the Dodgers now are a strong third-place ball club and there is still a chance that the Dodgers will finish second again.

When it became apparent that oldtimers like Newsom, Camilli, Medwick and Allen were not going to bring Brooklyn home in front, Rickey turned the roster inside out and brought in a gang of kids. The youngsters are doing all right.

Yesterday they beat New York Giants 4-3 by scoring two runs in the eighth and another in the ninth and ran their current winning streak to six games. This lifted them within three games of second place.

Olmo Stars.

The star of the Dodgers' triumph was Luis Rodriguez Olmo, the Puerto Rican rookie. He started the eighth inning rally with a single and hit another in the final frame to drive home the winning tally after two were out..

Cincinnati, meanwhile, was set down 3-1 by Chicago Cubs with Hiram Bithorn pitching three-hit ball for his 17th triumph. Stan Hack helped him, driving in two runs.

In the other National League encounter Boston nosed out Philadelphia Phillies 3-2 with Elmer (Butch) Niesman, the clutch hitting star of the Braves, hammering a triple with two on in the 10th to break up a pitching duel between Al Javery and Al Gerneauser.

In the American League Detroit downed St. Louis Browns twice 5-4 and 8-5 and Cleveland Indians stopped Chicago White Sox 2-1.

A single by Pinky Higgins with the bases loaded in the ninth inning provided Paul (Dizzy) Trout with his 17th victory in the first game at Detroit and concentrated early hitting won for the Tigers in the nightcap although Hal Newhouser had to be rescued in the face of a four-run rally by the Browns in the ninth inning.

At Cleveland both Orval Grove and Lefty Al Smith pitched five-hit ball, but the Indians clustered four of their five hits in the sixth inning to win.

Ross Charlton Wins Backstroke

WINNIPEG, Sept. 3.—(CP). —Joan Langdon of Vancouver, holder of six Canadian swimming records, added another last night as she won the 150-yard senior women's medley at the opening of the three-day Dominion championships here.

Doug Nothstein gave Manitoba its first victory by winning the 440-yard free-style senior men's event, and Ross Charlton of Toronto took the 100-yard back-stroke junior men's crown. Nothstein, prominent Winnipeg performer, beat out Doug Lennon of Edmonton and Bob Johnstone of Victoria in 5 minutes 30 3-5 seconds.

Charlton's time was one minute 17 1-5 seconds, more than one second off the Canadian record. Hubert Martin of Montreal finished second in the junior event and Carl Murphy of Toronto, third.

Doris Geldard of Toronto won the first heat with Evelyn Couper of Winnipeg second, and Irene Strong of Vancouver, third. The time was one minute 8 1-5 seconds.

Heads Heat.

Margaret Harrington, also of Toronto, headed the field in the second heat, with Joan Mingie and Margaret Gorman, both of Montreal, taking the next two positions. Miss Harrington's time was one minute 8 5-10 seconds.

TORONTO, Sept. 3—(CP)—When Jake Brunning was kicking pucks around for Ottawa Commandos last winter his head carried about as much hair as a billiard ball. Next winter, believe it or not, an accurately swung stick will be able to take a creditable divot from the Brunning cranium. Jake now is with the army at Cornwall and Jack (Cornwall Standard-Freeholder) Park writes: "We don't know what his secret is but a fine wavy growth has started to sprout." Park thinks the army grub must be responsible and suggests the army should use that angle for recruiting.

The pair are Ken Charlton and Joe Turner, the latter a former Calgary and Queen's university star.

Bisons Defeat Rochester 5-1; Syracuse Loses 1

By The Associated Press

Rufus Gentry, the Buffalo right handed pitcher who was recently bought by Detroit Tigers, chalked up his 20th victory in the International League last night by pitching a six-hit 5 1 victory over Rochester.

In becoming the second International loop twirler to reach the coveted 20-game goal, Gentry issued five passes on balls and fanned two. Three of the six hits yielded were infield scratches.

Syracuse won its seventh game by handing Jersey City its 28th shutout of the season in the first game of a twin bill, 3-0. Tom De La Cruz scattered eight hits in winning his 19th of the season. The winning streak came to an abrupt end in the nightcap, however, as "Crip" Polli tossed a five-hitter for Jersey City for a 1-0 victory. It was his 14th win.

Newark broke its eight-game losing streak, managing to stay in a second place tie with Syracuse, by beating Baltimore, 5-2. Walter Dubiel was credited with the victory although relieved in the ninth.

Canadian Force Lands With Imperial Unit

By FRANK FLAHERTY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, Sept. 3 (CP)—"Where next?" was the question today as the second move of Canadian land forces in as many months into territory of the European enemies was announced overseas.

The small official group which knows in advance of such things as the attack on the toe of Italy by the British 8th Army including Canadian troops, preserved the usual discreet military silence.

But the attack on the Italian mainland was regarded unofficially as just one more step in a long-prepared and long-range campaign which opened when British and American forces landed in French North Africa last November.

The announcement of the landing on the toe of the Italian boot, across the Strait of Messina from subjugated Sicily, reached Ottawa just after 1:15 a.m. E.D.T. Most government offices were closed.

Premier Silent

Prime Minister Mackenzie King, said a spokesman for his office, had been advised of the invasion plans, but there was no immediate statement from him — in contrast with the Sicily landing July 10 which found Mr. King the first Allied government leader to issue official comment.

Defence headquarters also were silent early today.

The Canadian formations which landed in Italy were not named in the first communique, but it was presumably the 1st Division under Maj.-Gen. Guy Simonds, 40, of Kingston, Ont., which fought with the 8th Army in the conquest of Sicily, whence the attack on the mainland was launched.

Back in Britain, awaiting action, is the rest of the Canadian Army. The army commander, Lt.-Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, visited the troops in Sicily only last week, presumably to note how they came through the 38-day campaign there and give them a final word before the opening of new operations.

A message to Mr. King from General Simonds, declaring all ranks of the 1st Division to be "in great heart" and facing the future with full confidence, was made public by the prime minister's office last night.

Whatever the future holds for the main body of the Canadian Army in Britain as well as the troops now fighting, the role of the Canadian Army is what once was called the "agreed offensive policy" of the United Nations becomes clearer.

A little more than a year ago a Canadian land froce—two brigades of the 2nd Division—sailed across the English channel to Dieppe for the first large-scale landing on European soil since the evacuation of the British force at Dunkirk in June, 1940.

The Canadias landed, fought for seven hours and withdrew after heavy losses. It was the largest combined operation launched up to that time.

Showed Defects.

Dieppe proved a force could land and stay ashore on a heavily-defended coast. It showed up some defects in equipment and technique which needed correction, although what they were remains a secret.

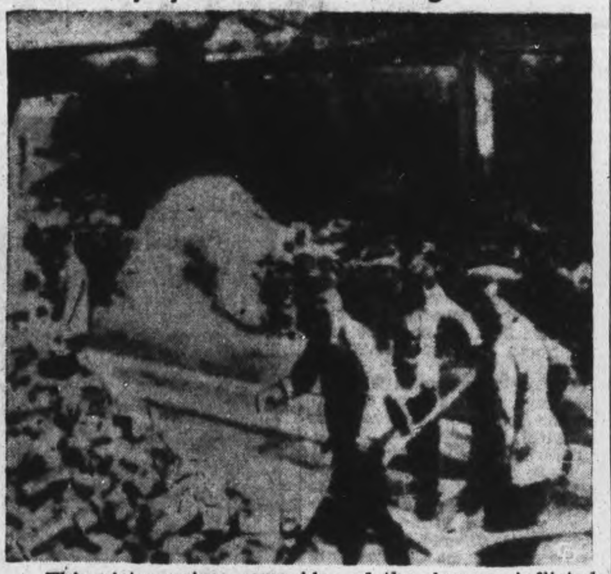
Three months later British and American forces landed in French North Africa. They were not for a hit-and-run raid as at Dieppe, but to stay; not for a test of method, but for the application of a method already tested by Canadians.

North Africa was not such a heavily-defended area as the coast of France, although the French forces there did offer some resistance. The significance of the operation so far as method, not results, was concerned was that it proved the Dieppe-tested combined operations technique could be used with a vast force as it had been with the comparatively small force sent to the French port.

In terms of results it opened the way for the complete destruction of enemy forces in Africa and thus provided a base for the attack on Sicily June 10.

From Sicily it was but a two-mile water journey for the 8th Army across the Strait of Messina to the Italian toe.

Allies Repay London Bombing



This picture gives some idea of the damage inflicted upon Berlin by the most recent of the mass raids by R.A.F. and U.S. Air Force bombers. Nazi soldiers are striving to clear the streets of debris. Multiply this scene by hundreds of square blocks including vital factory areas and you get some idea of the terrific damage inflicted upon the German capital.

unescorted heavy bombers. One failed to return.

While the heavy bombers were striking at the main route by which Axis forces in Italy are supplied from the north, two-engined bombers escorted by long-range fighters made a heavy attack on the railway yards at Cancello, near Naples, scoring new damage on trackage that has often been twisted and torn in recent weeks.

Strong fighter opposition was encountered in these attacks. The Allied air bulletin said 27 enemy fighters were destroyed, 23 of them at Cancello. Ten of the escorting Allied fighters failed to return from that raid. Five others were missing elsewhere.

Sniping away at enemy supply lines and concentrations behind the new invasion battlefront, other medium and light bombers attacked railway installations and enemy positions at many points in Southern Italy.

One formation blew up an ammunition dump.

operations against the toe of Italy were "on a vast scale."

The drive across the Strait of Messina fell into the familiar pattern of the slow-but-sure Allied offensive in the Mediterranean, but it was quickly noted that American and French ground forces and many British divisions were not involved at this stage, leaving them free for other jobs—jobs that might send them ashore anywhere from Southern France to the Balkans.

There is scant feeling here that the Italian Peninsula might fall by default—even if peace were made with Rome. It is believed the Germans are prepared to make determined effort to keep the invaders away from air and land bases in Northern Italy as long as possible.

Have 13 Divisions

The German strength—probably around 13 divisions—is reported largely north of Rome, but about half of the strength of the three Nazi divisions which fought in Sicily escaped to the mainland to join two or three others then stationed south of Naples.

It is believed certain the Germans left plenty of men behind to make extensive demolitions and fight a delaying action of the type which made the last stage of the Sicilian campaign a slow business.

The quality of the Italian resistance is more of a question mark, but many Italian troops certainly are made of sterner stuff than the Sicilian coastal divisions and may fight well, at least for a while.

Although the first landings put British and Canadian troops on the longest path to Rome—and Berlin—the Allies were believed to have plenty of men, ships and planes to strike in at the Peninsula farther north and cut off the southern defences if the going in the south became too slow.

Such a shortcut thrust also would speed the capture of Italy's southernmost good harbor at Naples and speed the progress toward Foggia and Bari on the east coast where lie great airfields about 550 miles from Ploesti—only half as far as the bases from which the American force raided that vital Rumanian oil target last month.

There are no definite indications where the Germans might make a major stand, but it is assumed they would take advantage of the rugged Appennines line running diagnoally across the peninsula from La Spezia to Rimini, probably falling back from there to Po and perhaps ultimately to Alpine defence from the northern tip of the Adriatic to the Swiss border.

At any rate, unless Hitler changes his plan to defend his failing partner it appears likely that Gen. Eisenhower's team will have to beat by far the largest German force it has yet encountered — even if Hitler doesn't reinforce the divisions already pulled into Italy from France and Germany.

Topography facing the Allied forces lends itself naturally to defence, for it is almost uniformly mountainous except for the plain of Sibardi and the plains just south of Salerno and Metaponto.

in the intruder attacks, R.C.A.F. headquarters said, while R.C.A.F. bombers joined R.A.F. bombers in laying mines in enemy waters.

Started At Dawn.

The Allied air fleets started their attack at the crack of dawn, and observers on the British coast reported that formations of bombers—flying high and in perfect formation—swept overhead steadily for 30 minutes.

The bombers were accompanied by swarms of fighters, some of which came streaking back across the Channel as a second wave of heavy bombers drummed their way eastward.

Operating with the largest fighter cover used so far in 1943, British and American bombers struck yesterday at flying fields, a power station and freight yards in a 110-mile long area in France.

R.A.F. Marauders, Boston, Mitchells and Venturas, struck at targets in Pas de Calais; Marauders attacked the Mazingarbe power station and Bostons hit the Serquex freight yards. United States heavy bombers, meanwhile, bombed airfields at Mardyck and Denain.

R.C.A.F. fighters helped cover these smashing raids.

A joint British and United States communique said four enemy aircraft were destroyed while one medium bomber, a light bomber and two Allied fighters failed to return. All Canadian planes got back to their bases safely.

Serquex, Mazingarbe, Denain and Mardyck all are in the Dieppe and Calais-Dunkerque area, just across the English Channel.

In a tree-top attack on Holland, R.A.F. Hurricanes destroyed lock-gates at the southern end of Holland's Handweert Canal, blocking vessels from Antwerp except by the vulnerable open-sea route. Three Hurricanes were missing in this raid, along with one of the escorting Typhoons which attacked and damaged a small coastal vessel and three tugs.

These activites coincided with an official report that British bombers have dropped 215,000,000 pounds of bombs on Germany so far this year — almost three-fold the total for the same period of 1942.

Campaign Coming

TORONTO, Sept. 3.—(CP).— J. Steve Luckett, chairman of the Gifts, Books and Stationery Manufacturers' and Retailers' convention here last night announced plans for a nation-wide campaign by the industry to sell $1,000,000 worth of war savings stamps during November and December. Delegates from all parts of Canada attended.

450 Fires Burn Across City of Berlin

STOCKHOLM, Sept. 3 (AP). — Swiss dispatches said today that 450 fires were still burning in Berlin after Tuesday night's R.A.F.-R.C.A.F. blockbuster raid and that estimates of the dead ran as high as 5,000.

The newspaper Allehanda reported from Berne that some of the fires raging in the German capital were so large no effort was made to extinguish them, firemen merely attempting to keep them from spreading.

Allehanda said fire-fighting equipment was called to Berlin from Frankfurt-am-Oder, Stettin, Kuestrin, Dresden and Leipzig. The main force of the rail was felt in central Berlin, it was said, in the district of Stettiner Bahnhof, Alexander Platz and Hallesches Tor, and damage was also suffered in the southeast and southwest suburbs, such as Steglitz, Lichtenberg and Kottburger Tor.

The attack, described as fully as heavy as the 2,000-ton raid August 23, paralyzed the Berlin tramway, underground and other communication facilities. Roads leading to Potsdam were closed to traffic, dispatches said.

Bombed-out Berliners were said to be streaming into the countryside, and police were reported attempting to check the crush at railway stations.

Sicilian Invasion Carried Tragedy Too

Only six United Nations vessels were lost in the huge undertaking of the Allied invasion of Sicily. This was a surprisingly small number considering number of ships used. Here smoke from a burning vessel hangs over another vessel in the convoy which are moving into Gela, shown in the BACKGROUND. This was one of the few vessels struck by the Axis.

Stalin's 1943 offensive to date has brought back the Red Armies more than half-way along their comeback trail from Stalingrad to the Polish border.

With the capture of Krolevets, 25 miles north of the vital rail junction of Konotop, Soviet spearheads are a bare 150 miles from Kiev. This operation further flanked Bryansk from the south and placed the Nazi south-central armies in a position where they may be forced to fall back on Kiev to avoid disaster.

Sea Cadets Plan To Aid Taggers

Members of the Howe division of the Sea Cadets will assist the Auxiliary to the Navy in tomorrow's tag day which is being held for the purpose of raising funds to supply Christmas ditty bags for the Peterborough boys and girls who are serving in the Navy.

The appeal has the hearty endorsation of His Worship Mayor Hamilton. "Every citizen," he said, 'should be glad to help this worthy cause. Not many of the hundreds of Peterborough boys in the naval services will be able to get home for Christmas and these Christmas gift bags will be a link with home."

The need for funds this year is much more urgent than it was a year ago for Peterborough enlistments in the Navy have been very heavy during the past 12 months.

To see that every citizen of Peterborough who is wearing the blue of the Navy is remembered with a Christmas ditty bag will require a very sizable sum and it is essential that the response to tomorrow's appeal should be general.

88 Men Leave To Help West

Response to the vital needs of Western farmers for manpower in the harvesting of their crops this fall has been most encouraging as indicated by the announcement this morning from local headquarters of National Selective Service that 88 farm workers have already departed to help in the Western grain fields.

In addition, it was stated by W. H. L. Mellis, manager of the local office, a good many more are expected soon to be on their way, and the total list of applicants for this particular work now numbers 225.

This contribution on the part of farm owners and laborers in the district is being made without disrupting the ordinary operations of the farms at this time of year or stripping them of essential workers. Part of the job of Selective Service consists in interviewing applicants, determining their fitness to go and whether their services can be reasonably dispensed with at their place of work during the time they will be away.

Two Heifers Are Sold For $500

A. W. Northey of Lakehurst called yesterday on F. C. Paterson to report his sale of two purebred Shorthorn heifers for $250 each.

The transaction in itself is of interest in its return of $500 to the Harvey township farmer in selling a pair of two year olds to Allan J. Alderson of Hamilton.

The Lakehurst Agricultural Society long ago dispensed with the agricultural exhibition form of activity for the promotion of farming in their township, and for years have confined their efforts to improving livestock through the male line.

Three years ago, as one of their most recent investments over a long period, they bought a purebred Shorthorn bull from Charles Fothergill of Whitby, an animal which Mr. Paterson recommended to the society. One of its first male progeny was a bull calf in the herd of Percy Hunt of the Lakehurst vicinity who sold it to A. P. Donaldson, Shorthorn breeder of Otonabee township. It is understood that Mr. Donaldson intended to keep it as a new herd sire, but he received an attractive offer from a government representative, and decided to sell.

Lakehurst farmers have been raising good Shorthorns for many years and apparently their new blood is helping the quality of their stock, judging from these several sales which have been reported to the Examiner. Possibly there may have been some others, but at any rate these results are regarded as evidence of what an association like the Lakehurst Agricultural Society can accomplish. Another organization of the same kind is composed of Dummer and Douro men.

Old Indian Relic Found In Garden

LINDSAY, Sept. 3 (ENS)—Ald. L. T. Braunton was digging in his Victory garden when he turned up a very old and unusual relic which has been identified by a professor in the Royal Museum Toronto, as a rare Indian relic, known as a bird, or amulet. It is said to be 100 years old, and looks like a stream-lined version of a racing horse, with eyes like a frog and a wing and a tail like a duck. The face is long and slender. It is very finely carved. Museum authorities stated that it wa one of the largest stones of its kind ever brought to their attention. The object weighs twelve and a half pounds.

It is not known just what the stones were ever used for, but they are believed to be left by a group of Indians known as the Woodland people.

Before the coming of the white man these Indians lived in southern Ontario. It is stated that the stones were not made to use as tools.

Good Neighbors Near $700 For War Victims

Never was a name more appropriately chosen for any group than that of "Good Neighbors" which originated through the work of Mrs. P. Kitchen and Mrs. W. Townsley, who live beside each other on Ware street.

Starting in January of 1942, these two ladies gathered around them a group of kindred souls who became enthused over the work they had commenced on behalf of the Peterborough and District British War Victims' Fund, which has since then risen to such proportions as to rank as one of the finer activities being carried on to help the sufferers from air raid attacks over Britain.

When speaking of neighbors, one's thoughts naturally infer that it applies to those living in the same vicinity, if not almost next door to one another, but that conception does not fully meet the requirements as told in the Good Book in the parable of the Good Samaritan, and it is in this broader sense that the work of this group of ladies fits in to, for their efforts are directed towards helping those in distress, who in all likelihood they will never see, for they are situated thousands of miles away.

Held Euchre Parties

By the holding of euchre parties in the various homes of the members of the group, with the addition of a small draw among the group themselves for a prize usually donated for the occasion, this same group is now getting very close to a total of $700 raised for the fund, with the $42.00 recorded in their name in today's list.

This latest addition to their good record comes as a result of parties held in the homes of Mrs. Clifford on Perry street, Mrs. McCabe on Crescent street, Mrs. Kitchen on Ware street, Mrs. Murray on Charlotte street and Mrs. Ralph on Ware street, who by doing this gave a little extra towards this particular donation, for the first essential in holding a party must be that of having a place to hold it in.

This outstanding example of such good work on behalf of the people of Britain has now raised a total of $695.05 for the fund, and better still they are continuing this good work of which more will be heard later on.

Two nice personal donations are included in today's receipts, one coming from "A Friend" and the other from Fred Hills, both of whom have given on quite a number of occasions to the fund, displaying also that same steadfastness so characteristic of many whose help has been so consistently good on behalf of those in need.

The Old Wire Department of the Canadian General Electric Company Ltd. with Mr. Carter as foreman is also listed today, this contribution coming to the fund through a penny box collection, in its own way doing its bit to help things along.

Saturday's Market

At the regular stall for the fund this Saturday, two Girl Guides, Patsy McLachlan and Marylin Hollingsworth will act as sales clerks, and the supply of produce will be under the supervision of Mrs. V. Sweeting, in addition to which they will have tickets for sale on a silver tray and cheese dish donated by Schneider's Jewellery Store to help this week's effort along, while two other separate efforts will also be on the go, with the Get Together Club having tickets for sale on a quilt donated by Mrs. Youdell, and Lois Veenman of 570 Douglas avenue will have tickets to sell for a draw on a model team and wagon made and donated by her father. All of these articles will be on display.

City Wood Pile For Emergency

Purchases of wood by the city council's fuel committee are intended as a provision against a possible emergency in the winter, Alderman Glover, chairman, told the Examiner this morning.

"Some citizens apparently think that we are buying wood for immediate delivery," he said. "That was not the intention of the council. If we could buy all that we think is needed it would be a different matter, but from Mr. Metheral's experience the supply of hardwood in the north country is limited. The committee feels that we should confine our buying to hardwood, to keep in stock until winter when cold weather sets in.

The committee expects that perhaps it will be able to sell only in half cord lots if emergency conditions develop. Our idea is to get as much hardwood on hand as we can to prevent any hardship occurring, and in the meantime we expect that citizens will do their best to get supplies themselves.

Some citizens have telephoned Mr. Metheral's office orders for as much as ten cords. We would like to have it for them, but we can't get it in such quantities as that."

Matthew Elliott Is Laid To Rest

NORWOOD, Sept. 3—After a prolonged illness of several years, there passed away an active member of the community in the person of Matthew Elliott in his 76th year. The late Mr. Elliott was born in Dummer township on Sept. 13, 1867, the second youngest in a family of nine children born to William Elliott and his wife Sarah Smith.

On passing entrance from his local country school the deceased made a 10 mile round trip on foot daily to the original High School at Norwood under the principalship of the late John Davidson. At the age of 16 years the late Mr. Elliott was in charge of his first school. A short teaching period replaced the usual Model School course and permitted him to enter his final training at Toronto Normal School in 1886. On completing his examinations there he followed the teaching profession for the next 17½ years, always taking a very keen interest in the welfare of his pupils; and up to the last little children were certain of a warm welcome and a helping hand from him.

In military life, the late Mr. Elliott was on active service in the Peterborough Rangers 57th Company, but owing to his youth was not accepted for service in the Riel Rebellion, 1885. Thus, realizing the duties and responsibilities of a soldier the deceased enjoyed being able to help out, whenever possible, anyone wearing the King's colors In political life the deceased was a staunch Conservative. For a number of years he was Secretary of the East Peterborough Conservative Association.

At the end of his teaching career the late Mr. Elliott went to his farm in Dummer township where he resided for some forty years serving his community in various capacities chiefly that as a Magistrate for over 25 years.

The late Mr. Elliott was twice married. To his union with Angeline Mackey there was one child Winnifred Katherine who died at the age of 12 years and 7 months. To his second marriage to Ida L. Nelson there was one child, Hazel. Surviving are his wife and daughter Hazel (Mrs. Gus Hill of Toronto) and one sister, Mrs. Walter Bromell of Peterborough.

A large congregation of friends assembled for the funeral service in Christ Church, Norwood. The Rector, Rev. R. E. Lemon, chose his text from 2nd Corinthians, chapter 5, verse 1. Hymns used were "Safe in the Arms of Jesus" and "Abide With Me." Many floral offerings testified to the esteem of friends and neighbors.

Interment was made in Norwood cemetery. At the graveside the R. B. P. No. 311, of which the deceased was an honorary member, took charge. Fellow members of the society sang "My Redeemer" the favorite hymn of the deceased. Bearers were members of the order: H. A. Thistlethwaite, Robert Leeper, Dr. H. G. Carleton, William Gratton, John Parker and David Nixon.

Argentine Will Protect Leaders

BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 3 (AP)—Commenting on the British and United States request that neutral countries refuse refuge to "war criminals," the newspaper La Prensa indicated today that Argentina would adhere to "her traditional attitude" of granting asylum to political leaders.

The newspaper, one of the largest and most influential in Argentina, added that the policy of asylum for political leaders had been accepted by all American Republics except the United States and Haiti. As a precedent for the purported decision of the Argentine government, it cited the protection offered by certain South American Embassies in Madrid during the Spanish civil war.

La Prensa's editorial said Argentina's position was determined by the International agreement on criminal law signed at Montevideo in 1889.

Divorcing the Soviet Government from any affiliation with AMG in Sicily, the magazine said: The Soviet Government does not participate in this organization."

"Amgot has retained the old Fascist government appartus and is not attracting democratic elements to its administration."

Juvenile Crime Increases Toronto Claim

TORONTO, Sept. 3 — Crime occurrences were only slightly higher than in the previous year, but major crime considerably increased, according to the report of Chief Constable D. C. Draper for last year submitted to the Board of Police Commissioners yesterday afternoon.

The Chief revealed that burglary, housebreaking, shopbreaking and armed robbery had increased 50 per cent, while auto thefts and bicycle thefts had increased 57 per cent. There were 428 burglaries and housebreakings during 1942 compared with 279 for the previous 12 months.

Referring to the increase of this kind of crime, he urged that professional gamblers and habitual criminals be made to do useful war work. "These men, and there are many of them in Toronto, are mostly housebreakers and shopbreakers, bookies and bootleggers, or make their money by robbing drunks, by dice or card games, or by some other illegal method," he declared.

Police Powerless to Act.

"While it is generally known these men get their livelihood by illegal acts, the police are powerless to take action unless they are caught committing their illegal acts or unless sufficient evidence is available to warrant police action," he continued. "Some of these men openly tell the police they do not intend to work or to serve in the Army."

It is suggested some study might be given to this aspect of the manpower situation and some effective plan developed that will place this as yet untapped source of manpower to work on some constructive war effort, he said.

The report showed there were three murders and one bank robbery in 1942. Included in the robbery figures were 64 cases of messenger boys robbed, and most of these were committed by boys or youths of about the same age working in groups of two or three. Juvenile crime mounted steadily.

War Conditions Blamed.

"The increase can be attributed in part at least to conditions arising out of the war," the Chief wrote. "One or both parents are often away from home and the children are without supervision. There is a growing tendency of many parents to evade responsibility for the proper direction and control of their children, all of which encourages juvenile delinquency."

The Chief reported a decrease in hit-and-run accidents from 229 to 144 (two fatal). The value of the property stolen was placed at $1,882,596, and of this 68 per cent was recovered. According to the Chief, citizens were taking better care of their registration cards and abiding by the registration regulations. During the year there were 990 persons brought to court for violations of the National Registration Regulations.

Request Is Planned For Soldiers' Hospital

LINDSAY, Sept. 3 (ENS)—Don Osborne, president of the Sir Sam Hughes branch of the Canadian Legion in Lindsay, Mr. James Healey, a representative of the Toronto General Trust Co., and other citizens have been instrumental in calling a meeting at the Legion Hall, Friday night of this week when an effort will be made to formulate plans, causing the government to be interested in establishing a hospital for soldiers in Victoria County.

For some time past the Kawartha Hotel, at Fenelon Falls, has been idle and it is hoped that this hotel will be taken over by the government for soldier purposes. It is ideally located on a bluff, overlooking the Trent Canal locks at Fenelon Falls, which connect Sturgeon and Cameron Lakes. It has some 50 rooms.

Their contents must be entirely confined to personal remarks."

9 Trespassers Are Fined

Nine persons who pleaded guilty to tresspassing on the tracks of the Canadian Pacific Railway were each fined $2 and $1 costs by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in police court this morning.

Only one appeared in person. He was Robert Wood, 17, shipper at Johnson Motors who pleaded guilty. "This boy gave us quite a bit of trouble," C.P.R. Officer David Boyd told the court. "He was abusive and questioned our authority. We had to arrest him and kept him locked for some hours."

Magistrate Langley remarked that the boy had been punished more than the others by being in custody for some time so the fine in this case was the same as that imposed on the rest.

Those who entered written pleas of guilty were Marjorie Marsh, Mildred Birkett, Fred Trotter, Chas. Dwyer, W. J. Thompson, Chas. Rudd, Percy E. Smith and Ray Foster.

Orlando Given 10-Day Term

On his plea of guilty to two charges of creating a disturbance and assaulting Constable John Stevenson, Nicholas Orlando was sentenced by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in police court this morning to ten days in the county jail.

No evidence was heard this morning. Orlando told the court that he had been drinking. "I was in my own house," he said.

"Is it an offence to break up one's own furniture," asked Magistrate Langley.

"The disturbance awakened the whole neighborhood," Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, KK.C., stated.

The crown attorney said that the police had had a "terrific" fight with Orlando. The accused was a boxer and an athlete and the officers had had a lot of difficulty in arresting him. Officer Stevenson was kicked in the stomach, during the fighting, he said.

Tax Payments By War Plants Is Being Sought

TORONTO, Sept. 3—Prime Minister King will be asked to immediately consent to the payment of municipal taxes and business assessments on wartime plants owned or occupied by the Crown, according to a resolution passed here yesterday by the Ontario Municipal Association. A copy of the resolution will be submitted to Premier Drew and his co-operation with the association will be sought.

The resolution stated that the Federal Government, by taking over already operating manufacturing plants and expropriating new land for the manufacture of war materials, is making the problem of exemption from municipal tax more serious when "officers of the Crown have directed that no municipal taxes shall be paid by the Crown on such properties." It will also be pointed out to the Prime Minister that this results in other taxpayers in the municipalities paying a higher tax rate.

Taxation of Utilities

The resolutions committee also asked that legislation be introduced at the next session of the Provincial Government to provide for assessment and taxation of all publicly owned utilities in the same manner as privately owned utilities; that, where land or buildings are taken over by any public utility, these shall continue to be taxed as if privately owned. The resolution pointed out that this taxation question applied particularly to Provincial and local Hydro Power Commissions.

It was resolved to petition Premier Drew to bring in legislation authorizing municipalities to assess corporations for a special business tax on the same principal as municipal corporation income tax. The resolution stated that no action has been taken by the Government to replace, as agreed, the revenue lost by the municipalities from corporation income taxation; that this amounts to approximately $500,000 a year, but there is no provision for the municipalities to be reimbursed for this loss of revenue, and this loss greatly affects municipality tax rates.

The Ontario Municipal Association recommended that the Department of Municipal Affairs can most effectively be administered with a full-time Minister.

The first meeting of Trinity Baby Band, after the vacation period, was held at the home of the president, Mrs. H. L. Corner, Boswell Avenue. There was a small attendance, because of the continued absence on vacation of several members. The meeting opened with prayer and a hymn, and plans for a rummage sale were discussed, after which the evening was spent sewing and knitting on layettes. Mrs. Corner read a chapter from the study book. An interesting airgraph letter from Miss V. Boyd, a missionary in India, was read. The meeting closed with a hymn and benediction.

THE STARS SAY ....

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Saturday, September 4

JUDGING BY the lunar aspects of the principal planets intervening on the affairs of this day, there should be moderate progress, with business proceeding as usual in routine grooves. There are signs of some sort of public friction or aggravation, which it would be unwise to meet with irritable modes of speech or conduct. Remain amiable and calm and all should be well.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may enjoy a fairly active and profitable year with affairs moving along with the customary tempo, although there may be sufficient friction or adventure to make things interesting. There may be temptations to resent such by impulsive or ungracious acts or speech, which would but heighten the antagonism. Be gracious and restrained, and all should thrive.

A child born on this day may be versatile and clever, with certain talents of an exceptional or perhaps inspirational or intuitive quality. Its tendency to sharp or quick retort may cause friction.

Rev. C. C. Boyter Honored At Luncheon

Members of the Ministerial Association gathered together on Thursday afternoon at a luncheon meeting in Hooper's Palm Rooms, to say farewell to Rev. C. C. Boyter and Mrs. Boyter who are leaving for Brantford in the near future. Rev. Boyter has lived in this city for the past six years, during which time he has served as secretary and president of the Ministerial Association.

Two members of the Association, Rev. F. W. Craik and Rev. C. E. Moore, expressed their high regard for Mr. Boyter's splendid co-operation, and his contribution to community service, and also gave expression to the esteem in which Mrs. Boyter was held.

Mr. Boyter replied on behalf of Mrs. Boyter and himself, expressed his regret at severing connections with his congregation at Park Street Baptist church and with the friends he had made throughout the city, and spoke of his happy association with the Hospital Board, of which he was a member.

The following attended the luncheon: Maj. R. M. Bamsey, Rev. C. E. Moore, Rev. E. W. Rowland, Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe, Rev. R. D. Wright, Rev. B. E. Dawson, Rev. Clayton Kidd, Rev. F. W. and Mrs. Craik, Rev. H. J. and Mrs. Mahoney, Dr. E. W and Mrs Young, Rev. and Mrs. C. C. Boyter

Miss O. Preston Honored By Selwyn W.A.

SELWYN, Sept. 3 — (ENS). — Mrs. Edward Preston very graciously opened her home on Wednesday for the meeting of the Women's Association of Selwyn United Church and the War Workers combined. A pretty quilt was quilted by the ladies besides holding the regular W.A. meeting.

Two letters of thanks were read by the secretary, one from Mrs. William Elliott in reply to the letter of condolence sent to her upon the death of her father, and the other from Mrs. Neil Blewett, thanking the ladies for so kindly decorating the church for her wedding.

Rev. H. H. Milton was present and gave the ladies an inspiring talk.

It was decided to distribute envelopes among the church members to be filled with a Thank-offering, as it is impossible to hold the customary fowl supper this year. These envelopes will be handed in at the anniversary service on Sunday, Oct. 3.

The highlight of the afternoon was the presentation to Miss Opal Preston of a dictionary pertaining to the Bible and a handsome pair of gloves. These were presented to Opal on behalf of the W. A. and the War Workers, as she will soon be leaving for the West again to resume her studies at the Bible College. Although taken by complete surprise, she thanked everyone for their thoughtfulness in remembering her.

An invitation same from Mrs. Howard Sanderson to come to her home for the October meeting.

Find Valuable Vitamin C In Rose-hips

Oberon, the king of the fairies, sang of a "bank whereon the wild thyme grows." Nutritionists today are talking of a "bank whereon the wild roses grows" but it is the fruit of the rose, rather than the flower, that is of interest to those who are concerned with the feeding of people during a time when many foods that usually supply vitamins and other food elements are difficult to obtain.

Pickled rose-hips sound like an exotic sort of accompaniment to a meat or fish dish. They are, however, an extremely sensible accompaniment, for unlike most pickles which have practically no real food value, pickled rose hips are a valuable sourc of Vitamin C.

The British Ministry of Food, faced with a shortage of citrus fruits and other vitamin C-rich foods, has given every encouragement to the use of rose hips as food.

Dr. L. B. Pett, Director of Nutrition Services, at Ottawa, reports that tests, made on Canadian grown rose hips, have shown them to be an excellent source of this often-difficult-to-secure vitamin.

"By making use of this natural source of vitamin C, free for the picking, Canadian housewives can do much to supplement their limited supply during the winter months," says Dr. Pett.

Jam, juice or syrup, as well as pickles may be made from rose hips and one of these products should be on the "preserve" shelf of every family who has access to the country where these little red berries are ripening in abundance at this time of the year.

Canning Methods Recommended For Pears, Plums

The pear is a fruit with a long history and with its trees spanning the globe. Centuries of cultivation have resulted in a great many varieties of pears. Among the better-known in Canada are the Bartlett, Anjou, Flemish Beauty, Clapps' Favourite, Keiffer and Winter Nelis.

As for plums there is also a wide range of Canadian varieties, differing in sweetness and including nearly all the colours of the rainbow—blue, purple, red, yellow and green.

For home canning pears and plums the Comsumer Section of the Department of Agriculture recommends these methods.

Canned Pears.

Peel, halve and remove cores from the pears. Prepare a one to two or a one to three syrup (1 cup sugar to 2 or 3 cups water). Pack fruit in hot sterilized sealers. Cover with hot syrup, partially seal and process. If pears are very firm steam fruit for 15 minutes before packing. In canning pears by the oven method simmer the fruit in the syrup for ten minutes Processing time—

Citizens Honor Young Couple

LIFFORD LINE, Sept. 3 (ENS). —On Tuesday evening, August 31, Lifford Community Hall was the meeting place of a large assemblage in honuor of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Mulligan (nee Miss Ina Revoir of Havelock, whose wedding took place a short time ago. Dressed To Go Places

By ALICE ALDEN

CORDUROY is one fabric that is always popular and that appears year after year without benefit of fashion promotions. Paulette Goddard likes corduroy for general wear and especially for travelling suits such as that shown here. The suit and topcoat are of wide-wale deep-pile corduroy in light beige with dark brown velvet binding. The jacket has a high closing and high placed revers. The off-the-face hat is of beige corduroy and gloves are of brown suede.

The Ration Board was quick to take advantage of Canada's improved tea supply by increasing the consumer ration one third. Two 2 oz. tea coupons can now be used every three weeks instead of every four. Good supplies of 'SALADA,' Canada's favourite tea, are available in all grocery stores throughout the land.

Of Interest to Women

The Experts Say . . . .

By The Canadian Press

OTTAWA, Sept. 3 — (CP). — Reminders and suggestions from the experts for the benefit of busy housewives:

◇ ◇ ◇

POTTERY PLENTIFUL — Good news to those who like their coffee hot is that cups may be again made with handles, and that the pottery plates they'll be using in the future may be colored but not decorated — a small discomfort to those who think a heaped dinner plate is not enough....Three orders recently passed by the Prices Board specify the kinds, type and size of pottery which may be made henceforth. This standardization is planned to make as efficient use as possible of Canadian production, to compensate for the loss of pre-war imports from England, Japan and Central Europe.

◇ ◇ ◇

PRESERVES NOW FROZEN — Cross jam, jelly, honey and marmalade off your shopping list for a while at least. Unadorned toast will be the rule until September 2, when these commodities will be rationed to ensure fair distribution of them....However, those who take their meals in restaurants as many war workers do, need not feel they are breaking the law if they find jelly on their toast....Restaurants are permitted to serve such trimmings as long as their stocks on hand last, but no further supplies can be ordered during the suspension period.

◇ ◇ ◇

CHERRIES RIPE — With Canadian cherries on the markets once again, the consumer section of the Agriculture Department offers a tempting recipe for cherry cream pie....The recipe calls for two cups of pitted, sweet cherries; one-half cup water; one-quarter cup sugar; two tablespoons cornstarch, a pinch of salt, two tablespoons of cold water, and additional one-quarter cup of sugar; one-third cup of flour, one-eighth teaspoon salt, one-half cup cold milk, one and one-half cups hot milk, one egg, one tablespoon butter, one teaspoon vanilla ,and baked pie shell ....Cook the cherries with one-half cup of water for 10 minutes. Blend sugar, cornstarch, and salt and mix with cold water. Add a little hot cherry juice to mixture and add to cherries; cook ten minutes longer and cool.....Mix flour, additional sugar and salt; combine with cold milk. Add hot milk and cook in a double boiler, stirring constantly, for ten minutes. Beat egg, combine with a little of the hot mixture, return to double boiler and cook three minutes longer. Remove from heat, add butter and flavoring.... Spread cooled cherries in the bottom of the baked pit shell and cover with cream filling. Cool and serve.

◇ ◇ ◇

EAT FOODS IN SEASON—Those who take the advice of dietitians and eat fresh fruits and vegetables when they are in season will reap a two-fold benefit — not only will they enjoy a more healthful diet, but also they will save canned, dried, and preserved fruits for the time when the fresh foods will not be available.

SOME SMALL HOUSES WE SEE APPEAR UNFIT FOR HUMANS.

Others Look Like Real Homes; Life's Reward Depends on Ourselves.

You must have driven along a street where there are rows of small houses as much alike as peas in a pod. Little plots of ground in front of some are littered with old papers, trash, bits of broken furniture, tin cans and garbage buckets. The houses are dingy, the paint flaking off, with dirty, broken windows and unswept doorsteps. Everywhere there is such squalor and ugliness which make them seem places unfit for human habitation. But next door to one of these forlorn abodes is a house bright and fresh with new paint. Behind its shiny windows hang clean, white curtains. A rose vine has been trained above the doorway, and the little yard is a miniature flower garden. It is a home.

You know one woman who can take a bit of meat and a handful of vegetables, and out of it concoct a ragout over which an epicure would smack his lips. And you know another woman who, with the same ingredients, makes a sloppy stew from which even a hungry dog would turn away in disgust. You know one who on her husband's salary runs a house, keeps her other half and children well fed and clothed, and puts money in the bank every month; while another woman, whose husband earns the same amount of money, is in debt to the butcher, baker and candlestick-maker, half-starves her family, and lets them go about as ragged as scarecrows.

That's life, and if we have the eyes to see and the brains to understand it makes us realize that we are, indeed, as has been said, architects of our fate, that what we get out of life depends on what we put into it. Of course, failures attribute their lack of success to bad luck, and cry out that they never had a chance, but this is not true, except in rare cases. In the main, Fate gives us all about the same raw material for happiness, and what we make of it depends upon ourselves.

You can take work, for instance, which is either a blessing or a curse the way one looks at it. One man feels it is a curse. He moans and groans over every task and fills the world with his lamentations because he cannot loaf in the sunshine and invite his soul. He has no interest in anything he does and is bored to tears with his job. He considers himself a slave, and feels like one.

To another man work is a joy, a never ending delight. It is romance, excitement, thrill, the thing that puts pep into one's life and keeps him on tiptoe. It is an interest that never palls on him. He is always studying new ways to do his job, finding new angles for every transaction, striving always to do it better. He gets a kick out of matching his wits against others. The payoff of his work is not the money he gets, but the sense of achievement. When people talk to him about the slavery of work he laughs because he knows that his labor sets him free.

The greatest blessing that can befall anyone is a happy marriage. Every bridal couple starts out with the material for making one in their hands, yet one marriage out of six ends in divorce, and probably three-fourths of all others are an earthly purgatory endured for the sake of the children, from a sense of duty, or for a meal ticket.

It is the custom to speak of marriage as a gamble, and how one turns out as a matter of pure luck, but there is no chance in it. The happy union is that way because husband and wife have worked together to make it so. They kept their love alive by nourishing it with tenderness, tokens of affection, little attentions and appreciation. They have ministered to each other's comfort and pleasure, and have put honey on their tongues instead of gall. They have been pleasant and easy to live with.

Unhappy marriages are those in which a selfish and tyrannical man and woman have fought for mastery in the home. They are the ones where a husband and wife have never tried to keep attractive to each other, where a husband and wife quarrelled, fought, called names, and said unforgivable and unforgetable things to each other, a domicile where love died early because it was starved to death.

Yet these two couples started out with an equal chance for happiness. One made the most of theirs. The other threw theirs away. And there is nothing else in life more pitiful.

They Must Outlast the War!

To the Citizens of Peterborough:

We (The Peterborough Bus Co.) can go full blast with our transportation facilities until they fall apart for want of service or critical materials,—or we can face the fact that there is a limit on their durability and then move to make the equipment we have outlast the war. It is bedrock sense, and means, that to continue our good service we must shun the former course and adopt the latter — quickly.

The solution falls into two general divisions—riding as much as possible at off peak hours, and arranging your business or work so that over-loading will not occur at certain points.

The objective of the first is (with the co-operation of bus riders) to smooth out the peaks and valleys — insuring the maximum use of busses throughout the day and night.

The objective of the second is to see that an undue burden is not placed on the busses, a burden which will cause stoppages in the service and ultimately cause a service problem that we cannot cope with.

This change will cause some inconvenience and alter the daily routine of many, but necessity dictates the course. Yet who will argue that temporary inconvenience is a greater penalty than ultimate disruption of your bus service.

For years we have had a staff of drivers and shop employees of whom we are proud. Their splendid record for being courteous and faithful in their service to the public deserves commendation. On behalf of these men we ask your complete co-operation in our endeavours to re-build our present fleet of busses. This will be done immediately. To do this it will be necessary that there be short interruptions in service. It will be for only a short time—but in that time all equipment will be placed in first class condition.

After the repairs, Peterborough will have a fleet of buses as nearly new as it is possible to have and will enable Peterborough Bus Lines to continue the fine service to which patrons have been accustomed.

No doubt you are aware that there is no new equipment available and knowing this we want to be sure that you will enjoy good service for years to come.

We know that we will have your complete co-operation and support and although you may be slightly inconvenienced — it is better now than in the colder months.

Any slight changes from time to time in schedule will be published in the Examiner.

Writing Letters Can Be Made Easy

"Oh, Why Can't I Write Well?"

"Woe is me!" you think, "I try so hard, I use up so much paper, and I just know he'll be bored to death with my letter!"

But wait a minute. Are you sure he'll be bored? Your news may not be much, but he'll love reading it if it's told right—and you can easily tell it right.

Particularly rememb : to make your letters cheerful to servicemen. A trick is to use the exact word, the "picture phrase." Not a "very good" speech, but "deeply moving or "inspiring."

As you read you letter over, comb out grammar snarls—easy to find when you know how! "I laid down to sleep," corrected, becomes "I lay down." "Different than" becomes "different from."

Our 32-page booklet has correct forms for common grammar mistakes; suggests topics for friendly letters; helps you find vivid words and phrases for everyday thoughts. Has 24 correct model letters—including business, friendly, social.

For your copy of "Making Letter Writing Easy" send 15 cents in coin or stamps to the Home Service Department of the Examiner. Be sure to write plainly your name, address and name of booklet.

SITTING IN A HOT SEAT

THERE IS no more uncomfortable position than that of opening leader after complex bidding, followed by a final business double from your partner, which fills you with doubt about what suit he wishes opened. This is most especially true when your hand is so worthless that you know you can't strike a single lick for your side except with the first lead. Whatever you do may work out finely or get you in trouble with your partner, who may consider that your choice should have been clear-cut.

West thought and thought and thought. He knew the pair was supposed to be using a convention that a penalty double of a No Trump game called for a lead of the dummy's first suit, when two had been bid there. But he also recalled that his partner had bid spades not once or twice, but three times. So, though South had twice called No Trumps over spades, West could not conceive of the suit as being stopped twice, especially since he himself had four to the 10.

"Can't you realize that, when I have bid the same suit three times before doubling, the situation is unusual and that therefore you should disregard the convention about the dummy's first suit?" That is what West decided his partner would say if he opened a heart. So he led a spade, his fourth best 4.

The A took that, the spade J got the second trick, and then East's diamond A was knocked out. East could now score his two heart tops if he wished, but nothing he could do would stop the game. Incidentally, a heart lead at once, any heart at all, would have enabled East to take the first five tricks.

What is the moral of this? Nothing at all, except don't spoil a good partnership by bawling at your mate if he picks an unfortunate lead in a difficult situation.

Portugal Grooms Army For War Move

LISBON, Sept. 3 (AP).—Premier Antonio de Oliveira Salazar stated today that Portugal's stepped-up military preparations are defensive but "in the unfortunate times in which we are living may have to be used against foreign enemies as much as against internal elements of national disintegration."

Clamping a tight censorship on speculation regarding military preparations, Dr. Salazar cautioned against expecting any change in foreign policy.

(The London Evening Standard interpreted the "mobilization" of Portugal as a possible indication the country is ready to declare war on Japan in protest against Japanese atrocities at Macao and Timor.)

Salazar said in a communique that it might be "necessary to reinforce the colonial garrisons according to the evolution of events concerning them."

"In any case," he continued, "there will be a change of guard of those troops long stationed overseas that will in itself justify certain military activities."

The communique added that new war material being received in Portugal would be used in large-scale military manoeuvres to be held late in September and October.

(A D.N.B. broadcast by the Berlin radio and recorded by the Associated Press said the newly-arrived war material had been supplied Portugal by Great Britain. Such an arrangement would not be unusual in view of the centuries of friendly relations between Britain and Portugal.)

Supply Board Warns Farmers Secure Feed Grains At Once

OTTAWA, Sept. 3 (CP).— The Agricultural Supplies Board, in a statement issued today, served warning that Canada's immense grain stocks "probably will be none too great for safety in view of the anticipated need for animal and poultry feeds on this continent."

In a detailed survey of the feed situation, the board said it is vitally important that eastern Canadian farmers who expect to need grain for feeding purposes should not only place orders early but also be prepared to accept whatever kind of grain they can get—whether it be wheat, oats or barley—when they can get it.

The statement reviewed transportation difficulties and the immense demand for feed-grain stocks. It warned that protein feed ingredients definitely will be short.

Millfeeds Scarce.

Canadian feeders, while having the bulk of flour mills by-products reserved for them, cannot count on getting all the millfeeds they want and should use ground grains in their livestock rations when wheat millfeeds are not available in desired quantities, the board said.

One favorable factor in the feed situation, however, was the abundant supply of grass in eastern Canada, since a good grazing fall would ease the feed situation.

Fodder supplies for the coming season were adequate in most parts of Canada.

"Short grain crops in eastern Canada, particularly in Ontario and many parts of Quebec, coincident with increasing numbers of livestock and poultry, necessitate the movement east of western grains on a scale never before attempted in the history of this country...."

Buy Western Grain.

The board said "serious shortages" are bound to occur in eastern Canada unless advantage is taken of every opportunity to move into position the vast quantities of western grain required. Even last year, when demands were relatively much smaller, it had been found that transportation facilities, under winter conditions and with the duty of moving war materials, could not bring grains east fast enough to keep pace with demand.

The statement said something of a bottleneck still remained in the Head of the Lakes but every effort was being made to speed shipments.

"Under the best conditions, the railways cannot hope to move east from Fort William an average of more than perhaps 100 cars of grain daily, in view of the other imperative transportation requirements," said the board.

At a recent conference plans were made to facilitate further the movement of grain by water from the lakehead to bay ports on the upper lakes, to be forwarded by rail to terminal elevators at strategic points further east or direct to feed dealers or farmers.

"Finally, as a means of by-passing the point at which a bottleneck is most apt to form, arrangements are being made to move grains direct from shipping point in the west to destinations in the east provided they are cleaned down to a certain dockage tolerance before shipment," said the board.

Burma Railway Yards Smashed

NEW DELHI, Sept. 3 —(CP). — United States bombers dumped a "great weight" of explosives on the railway yards at Mandalay yesterday, it was announced today in a headquarters communique which said "excellent results were reported with numerous hits in the target area."

While the four-engine planes concentrated on Mandalay, twin-engined planes attacked Japanese rail installations and communications in other points of central Burma. All planes returned safely.

The medium bombers demolished several buildings at Monywa and scored direct hits on rail yards at Hsipaw. Hits on a cliff near the Hsipaw yards were believed to have caused a landslide upon the tracks.

Rolling stock was destroyed at the Ywataung yards, where all bombs fell in the target area, causing a large explosion. At Sagaing storage buildings were damaged heavily and a huge fire was started.

The communique disclosed that heavy and medium bombers raided enemy installations in central and northern Burma August 29, also without loss.

Finnish Groups Discuss Peace

STOCKHOLM, Sept. 3 (AP). — Finland's eight political parties held separate meetings today to discuss privately the critical foreign policy and agitation for a separate peace with Russia.

A showdown on foreign policy may come tomorrow when criticism will be levelled in parliament against the present policy, but neither diplomatic nor political observers expected any immediate change in Finland's position of being a co-belligerent of Germany.

It will be the first general discussion of foreign policy since November, 1941.

More Recruits Needed For Air Force

By FRANK FLAHERTY,
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

OTTAWA, Sept. 3 (CP). — Developments during the next few months on the battle fronts and elsewhere, may largely determine the pattern for recruiting into the Canadian Armed Forces for the balance of the war.

The fact that the army now is officially stated to have passed the "expansion stage" does not mean that the ground forces will not need more men. The provision of reinforcements for the overseas army of five divisions and the units stationed in vital defensive and offensive positions in Canada and North American outposts will call for a continuous intake of men.

But the size of that intake over a long period, will be influenced by strategic and other considerations which may soon become clearer than they have been so far in this war.

While the army's need for men may be revised downward in the future on the needs of the Air Force now urgent, are expected to continue unabated until the end of the war.

Call-Up Brings Boom.

The R. C. A. F. in common with the army and navy, experienced a boom in recruiting recently following the lowering of the compulsory call-up to 18. The boom in Air Force recruiting now has slackened off somewhat.

So far, however, the intake has not been sufficient to fill up the shortage of aircrew in training schools. The shortage was particularly marked in Ontario.

The navy is the only one of the three services which has not yet had a recruiting problem. Naval officials anticipate they may have to think about one soon. While the navy's demands for men are smaller than the other two services, they will go on increasing until the end of the war.

Last May, Defence Minister Ralston placed the over-all manpower requirements of the three armed services at 177,000 for the 12 months starting April 2—100,000 for the army, 24,000 for the navy and 53,000 for the air force.

With no official figures aivalable, the situation after five of the 12 months have passed appears to be that the army has made satisfactory progress towards getting its 100,000; the navy has kept up to its requirements; but the air force has not obtained enough recruits to keep its training establishments running at capacity.

Blight Strikes Potato Crop

LINDSAY, Sept. 3 (ENS)—Several fields of potatoes in Victoria County are badly touched with potato blight, according to M. H. Winter, Agricultural representative in Victoria County. "As a matter of fact a large number of farmers have not bothered with spraying their potatoes and going after the blight, probably because of lack of help and lack of time," added Mr. Winter.

"It is a little too early to state definitely just how many potatoes will be ruined", said Mr. Winter. The blight is apparently one that hits the late potatoes, rather than the crops planted early. It is hard to say just how many fields will be affected before they are dug up for the winter.

Robberies Not Solved

As yet police have not been able to discover a trace of the robbers who entered the post office at Woodville and destroyed the large safe, or of the two burglars who entered the Brock Creamery at Cannington, stole two safes and carried them away in a stolen car. When the car blew a tire and ditched the works, the thieves pounded open the safes only to find them empty.

Brave American Awarded Highest Honor

By HAROLD V. BOYLE
Associated Press War Correspondent

A U.S. Evacuation Hospital In Sicily, Aug. 30 (Delayed)—(AP)—The room was full of wounded soldiers and they all lay facing an open door —waiting.

In one bed Sgt. Martin Moritz was propped up, his brown hair combed neatly. There was a fresh white bandage on the six-inch stub which was all that was left of the right arm he used to do the chores on the family farm back in Benson, Ill.

Down the corridor echoed the tread of many feet. The first man through the door was the colonel in charge of the hospital. He was followed by Lt.-Gen. George S. Patton, head of the United States 7th Army. The group walked up to the bed where Moritz lay, dry-throated and nervous.

He was waiting for them to give him the highest honor in the power of the American Army to bestow, the Distinguished Service Cross.

Plenty of Nerve

Lt.-Col. Charles Codman read the citation. It told how Moritz, after his arm was shattered by an enemy bullet while he was aiding a wounded soldier, tried to amputate the arm himself so he could continue treating the other man.

It told how, when litter-bearers came to save him, he insisted that the other man be picked up first. It told how he suffered an abdominal wound eight hours later when the Germans shelled the aid station in which he was lying.

"The courage displayed by Moritz both on the battlefield and in the hospital," the citation concluded, "was an inspiration to all who saw it and within keeping of the finest traditions of unselfish valor."

As Codman finished reading he opened a small leather box and held it out to Patton. The general took out the medal and held it briefly in his hand.

"Soldier," he said, "I have pinned medals on none more worthy than you."

NEW LANDING IN ITALY

San Giovanni Captured Opposition Negligible

Large Number Of Prisoners Taken As Invaders Sweep Inland Brushing Aside Feeble Resistance

By NOLAND NORGAARD
Associated Press War Correspondent.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa, Sept. 4. — (AP). — British and Canadian troops have clamped a firm hold on a 10-mile bridgehead between Reggio Calabria and San Giovanni on the Italian toe, seizing both towns, and are plunging ahead, Allied Headquarters announced to-day.

Only weak opposition has been encountered along the coast since the invasion yesterday morning, and many Italians surrendered quickly.

(Italian Headquarters acknowledged evacuation of the south-western edge of the toe opposite Sicily and the further loss of Melito, and a German broadcast declared new invasion forces had plunged ashore on the southern tip between Melito and Cape Spartivento. Later, the German communique declared, however, that Allied attempts to land behind the advanced Axis lines had been defeated.)

REINFORCEMENTS POURING OVER.

New reinforcements of troops and supplies are pouring across the narrow Messina Strait, Allied Headquarters announced, and "the advance is continuing."

The initial invasion spearheads met only "relatively weak opposition," Headquarters said, and Canadian War Correspondent Ross Munro said the Canadian landings were almost bloodless.

Eye-witness accounts said Italian troops were surrendering in numbers, as in Sicily, and even rowed across the Straits in small boats to surrender before the invasion began.

The grand offensive rolled deeper into Italian soil with armadas of Allied planes blasting enemy positions over the toe and hitting at airdromes near Naples, while heavy bombers from the Middle East joined the assault with a punishing blow on railroad yards at Sulmona, 75 miles east of Rome, shooting down 27 enemy fighters.

(There was no Allied confirmation of the Berlin report of new landings between Melito, 15 miles south of Reggio Calabria, ad Cape Spartivento on the south-eastern tip of the toe. The Germans said Italian "protective forces" in that area retreated to mountain positions.

REGGIO CALABRIA AIRFIELD SEIZED.

The airfield south of Reggio Calabria also was seized.

An Allied naval communique reported that the landings on the beaches between Reggio Calabria and Catona some five miles north "met with little or no opposition."

"The first loads were cleared well ahead of the time laid down in the program, and by early afternoon (Friday) the second series of craft were moving across the Strait with reinforcements and supplies. This work continues."

ENEMY RETREATS RAPIDLY.

"The advance is continuing," Allied Headquarters declared. Demolitions attempted by retreating enemy forces has been "largely ineffctive," the communique added.

Simultaneously an air communique announced that Allied airmen supporting the invading forces had blasted Catanzaro in the arch of the Italian boot and also had swept across the Tyrehenian Sea to bomb Southern Sardinia.

Enemy airfields were attacked by Allied bombers last night at Capua and Capo Dichino, Headquarters announced. Capua lies north-east of Naples. All the bombers returned.

In Southern Sardinia enemy radio installations were attacked by fighter-bombers and fighters.

In addition to Catanzaro, medium and light bombers and fighter bombers hit enemy communications at Cosenza, on the west coast of Italy just above the instep of the boot.

WARSHIPS DO VALUABLE WORK.

(The United Nations radio at Algiers said the British battleships Valiant and Warspite took part in the covering operation during the landings and shelled Axis positions. Two cruisers, six destroyers, two monitors, and two gunboats also were engaged, the broadcast said, adding that the Italian fleet

Speeding Canadians Set Records Taking Objectives

By SHOLTO WATT
Representing the Combined Canadian Press (Distributed by The Canadian Press)

AT MESSINA STRAIT, Sept. 3—(Delayed) — Reports coming from the Italian mainland show that objectives on the Canadian sector of the new Allied bridgehead are being taken far ahead of schedule and that the British are "streaking ahead like a scalded cat."

At 10 a.m. I was informed by headquarters that the first Canadian formation had made such progress that it was taking objectives assigned to second formation. The first line of Hill Forts had been taken.

As I drove down from headquarters I saw landing craft returning from Italy and many others putting out, while at one point I counted more than 100 craft afloat in the narrow Messina Strait.

Just One Attack

This vast array of shipping was only attacked once—by an effective salvo—as long as I was watching. Fires were still burning on the mainland which were started by the night's tremendous barrage, but there were few visible signs of fighting on shore.

Indeed, headquarters received a report that there were no Germans on the shore while the Italians were surrendering in droves, just as in Sicily.

I saw prisoners being brought ashore to crowded beaches and nine heavy guns that had been captured.

Besides the prisoners taken on the mainland there has also been a steady trickle for several days of Italians coming over on their own in rowboats at night, including some navy personnel.

Local residents give the impression of being pleased at the invasion. They still are smiling, waving greetings and sometimes throwing gifts of fruit despite the fact that most of them took refuge in the early hours this morning when General Montgomery showed them what he meant by a "Montgomery Barrage" fired over their heads.

EXTRA!

LONDON—A scant 12 hours after third heavy bombardment by R. A. F. and Canadian bombers of Berlin, Allieid bombers roared across the Channel again early this afternoon to continue round - the-clock assaults on the Nazis.

20-Minute Raid Shatters Berlin

By WILLIAM SMITH WHITE,
Associated Press Staff Writer.

LONDON, Sept. 4 —(AP—A great bombardment fleet of R.A.F. and Canadian Lancasters smashed Berlin last night from a clear sky, casting down 1,000 tons of fire bombs and howling steel in 20 minutes of attack officially described by the Air Ministry as "highly concentrated."

From a night of far-reaching operations—other British and Canadian airmen rode the skies above the Rhineland and beat at enemy flying fields in France and sowed mines in enemy waters— the British lost 22 bombers.

All Canadian planes returned safely to their bases, it was announced to-day, a record for a Berlin attack. The previous raid against the Nazi capital cost the Canadian bomber group seven big planes.

D. N. B. German News Agency, reported in a radio broadcast from Berlin that a preliminary count showed 15 four-engined bombers bad been shot down.

The Berlin raid was the third within 11 days but was not on the terrible scale of destructiveness of the two that went immediately before it.

Loss Is Reduced.

But it struck the city already scarred and smoking from attacks that have already thrown upon it more tons of bombs than fell on London in all the long months of Hermann's Goering's attacks, and thus had a cumulative effect farbeyond the weight of explosives let loose.

The loss of British planes announced by the Air Ministry are less than half those of the two previous raids—58 and 47 respectively.

The bulletin reported that the Berlin raiders encountered "thick clouds along the route," but said that over the target the sky was clear."

This time, as in the previous Berlin attacks, squadrons from the Canadian bomber group flew with

Russians Smashing Ahead On 600-Mile Front Closing In On Stalino City

3 Remaining German Strong Points East Of Dnieper River Threatened By Surging Red Armies

LONDON, Sept. 4 (CP).—Russian armies, gaining momentum in their summer offensive, were rocking the Germans back on their heels all along a 600-mile front today to threaten three of the Nazis' most important remaining positions east of the Dnieper River.

A Soviet communique, broadcast from Moscow, announced the Red Army had recaptured 400 villages which have been in German hands since the early days of the Russian campaign in the fall of 1941. Russian troops were reported closing in on Stalino, German headquarters for the Donets area in the south; Konotop, vital junction point of the Bryansk-Kiev railway; and Smolensk, hinge of the north-central area and jumping-off point for the Germans' unsuccessful drive on Moscow.

A fourth offensive aimed at Bryansk apparently had slowed down but had not been stopped, and only in the Kharkov area did the Russians admit that stubborn German resistance in the shape of frequent counter-attacks had halted the Red Army without appreciable gains.

Gain 12 Miles.

The Russian drive reached its height in the Donets area, where the Red Army advanced nine to 12 miles on the approaches to Stalino, 12th largest city in Russia and headquarters for Hitler's southern forces.

One Russian spearhead was closing in rapidly on Stalino from the northeast and was reported in the Soviet midnight communique to have taken the town of Zuevha, only 28 miles from the city.

The drive in the Donets basin swept 150 more villages into the Russians' bag the midnight communique said. Large stocks of war material fell into Red Army hands and more than 4,000 Germans were killed in furious fighting.

The Russian claims were substantiated by the Berlin radio, which announced the Russians had opened a large scale offensive in the Donets basin, and the indications were that the Nazi commentator was preparing the German public for news of further withdrawals in that area.

Advance elements of the Russian army in the central area were said to have penetrated into German-held territory to a point 135 miles from Kiev, capital of the Ukraine, on the Dnieper River.

Moscow announced Russian armies have regained 20,000 square miles of territory since they launched the summer offensive July 12, making a total of 230,000 square miles recaptured from the Germans since they reached their deepest penetration at Stalingrad.

School Order Is Compulsory

TORONTO, Sept. 4 — (CP)—Premier Drew's announcement last night that the third, fourth and fifth forms of Ontario Secondary Schools will remain closed an additional two weeks after September 7, the regular school opening, coincides with an official directive from the Department of Education and is compulsory, it was explained to-day.

Premier Drew said the two weeks would enable scholars to aid in harvesting operations.

All Government offices were closed to-day, as is usual on Saturdays, and no official statement was forthcoming. A spokesman for the Department said however that he understood the order applied to all schools in the Province. With officials absent for the holiday week-end this spokesman declined to speculate on what action the Department would take if there were requests to open the higher forms at the regular date, in cases where students have already ended their summer's work on farms.

It was announced this morning that the Peterborough Board is asking permission to open the higher forms on Tuesday. In seeking permission the Board chairman, Dr. Charles Scott pointed out to Premier Drew that already 250 farmers from this district had asked for permission to go to Western Canada to help with the harvest and the advice of Canning Company officials was to go ahead and open the school as usual.

Japs Abandon Seaplane Base

By WILLIAM HIPPLE
Associated Press War Correspondent

UNITED STATES HEADQUARTERS, the South Pacific, Sept. 4—(AP)—The Japanese have abandoned their once important seaplane base at Rekata Bay on Santa Isabel, 145 miles northwest of Guadalcanal, a South Pacific headquarters spokesman said today.

(The Allied headquarters communique for Thursday, September 2, spoke of heavy United States bomber units striking enemy installations at Rekata Bay without meeting opposition. It was thought likely the enemy had withdrawn without a fight.)

Unofficially, it was thought here the Japanese had evacuated the entire island as well as Rekata Bay, but there was no intimation that United States forces have occupied Santa Isabel as yet.

Danes Won't Stop

STOCKHOLM, Sept. 4 —(AP)—Continued anti-German sabotage has caused the Germans to rescind their recent modification of martial law in Denmark, the Nazi-controlled Danish radio said last night. The Germans had permitted theatres to re-open and had set back the curfew from 9 p.m. to 11 p.m., but hereafter every establishment must be closed by 8 p.m., and all traffic except for the military and physicians will be prohibitied on the streets between 9 p.m. and 5 a.m.

Nazi Government Evacuating Vienna City Landings In Italy Start New Stampede

BERNE, Sept. 4 (AP)—A German frontier dispatch to the Gazette de Lausanne said today the Nazi government had decided to evacuate Vienna.

The entire population is preparing to quit the city for the southern part of the country, the newspaper said. It expressed belief the decision was a result of the Allied landings in Italy and pointed out that should Naples fall to the Allies, Vienna would be a target within closer range than Berlin now is from London.

(Swedish dispatches from Budapest earlier today said the Germans already were evacuating most of the women and children from Vienna, which the Nazis apparently thought was safe from Allied bombings until Allied heavy bombers recently raided Weiner Neustadt, only 30 miles from Vienna.)

Italians Seem Indifferent Hopes For Peace Fading

By FRANK BRUTTO—Associated Press Staff Writer

BERNE, Sept. 3—(Delayed)—(AP).—The initial surprise over, the Allied landing in Calabria apparently passed quickly in Italy today and was followed by almost a spirit of apathy as the Italians realized the hoped-for peace was not on the immediate horizon.

A Swiss telegraphic agency dispatch from Rome said "there is no particular uneasiness in the capital."

The Rome correspondent of the Tribune de Geneve reported the Italians have now realized "nothing less than a miracle" could spare the country the tragic lot of being transformed into a battlefield.

Populace Calm.

A dispatch to the Zurich Die Tat from the Italian frontier said the first reaction in Italy to the invasion was one of "complete calm, almost indifference," adding that in official Italian circles there was still the impression the landing was a diversion while the real invasion would be launched at some other point.

A Milan dispatch to the Berne newspaper Der Bund said the Italian people had reckoned on an imminent attack on th mainland, but nonetheless had hoped that the Badoglio government would succeed in withdrawing the country from the war before the Allies set foot on the peninsula.

The break in the Allied bombing of Northern Italian cities had nourished the belief that negotiations were in progress between Rome and the Allies. To-day's landing, the Milan dispatch added, "ends these illusions, while Italian newspapers themselves admit that the armament and equipment of Italian soldiers was inadequate to meet strong British and American forces."

Down On Fascists.

The Italian press to-night limited itself to a brief official communique on the fighting on the mainland while it devoted columns to a campaign against former Fascist leaders.

The Corriere Della Sera of Milan gave four columns to the exploits of the family of former Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano, whose goods and property were reported to have been sequestered by the Italian government along with that of Roberto Farinocci, former secreary of the Fascist party and other Fascist leaders.

The newspaper Messaggero said many Fascist chiefs already had been jailed in Rome. Others arrested in various parts of the country included Medeo Belloni, former Squadristi chief; Renzo Montagne, who held the post of Lieutenant General of the Fascist militia and Monte Gianpaeli, former chief of the Fascist party in Milan.

Nazis Tighten Laws On Danes

By JOHN H. COLBURN
Associated Press Staff Writer

STOCKHOLM, Sept. 4—(AP). — Gen. Hermann von Hannecken, Nazi military dictator of Denmark, today ordered Danish citizens to surrender all weapons and ammunition by September 7 under pain of the most severe punishment.

The order accompanied a decree issued last night rescinding the recent modification of martial law because of continuous anti-German sabotage and was announced by the Nazi-controlled Danish radio.

The Germans had permitted theatres to re-open and had extended their first curfew order from 9 p.m. to 11 p.m. Hereafter all business and other establishments must be closed at 8 p.m. and all traffic except for the military and physicians will be prohibited on the streets between 9 p.m. and 5 a.m.

Enforcement of the new curfew and weapon decrees will be carried out by the Danish police, the German announcement said.

This was interpreted here as a further sign that the Germans had been forced to yield some enforcement powers to the Danish authorities because they were not prepared to handle the country's administrative functions when they established their military dictatorship last Sunday.

The press bureau also reported that a bomb had exploded in a Copenhagen hotel Thursday night, killing several German officers.

Negotiations by Von Hannecken and Werner Best, German Minister to Denmark, to have Danish political leaders set up a new government to replace that of former Prime Minister Eric Scavenius continued today without success, the press bureau said.

Huns Expect Double-barreled Invasion

Nazi Commentator Admits Anglo-Americans Have The Strength

By DEWITT MacKENZIE,
Associated Press War Analyst.

This column yesterday suggested that we, as long-distance watchers of the conquest of Italy, keep one eye on the unfolding of this drama and the other cocked in the direction of possible invasion points elsewhere—and that seems to be worth repeating to-day.

Just prior to the assault on Italy, Hitler's radio mouthpieces were feverishly predicting that a double-barreled Allied invasion of the Continent was imminent. They thought the attacks might come in the Mediterranean theatre and from across the English Channel into France. As the signs read, it looked as though the Nazis might have got hold of at least a partial truth.

Mostly Correct.

The Nazis have been fairly correct in many of their forecasts of Allied operations. For instance, they called the turn on our invasion of North Africa with considerable accuracy.

Now with half their latest phophesy proved true, Berlin still believes the other half may materialize. Capt. Ludwig Sertorius, military commentator of the German News Agency, says that from statements by Prime Minister Churchill it can be deduced "that the potential of the Anglo-Americans is so great as to allow them to deliver two or three blows against the Continent."

Flotilla Assembled.

The Hitlerites say the Western Allies have assembed a great flotilla of transport and landing craft in the Mediterranean. Spain reports the presence of a large fleet of warships and merchantmen at the great base of Gibraltar. The Nazi controlled Paris radio asserts that another amphibious force is assembling in Britain and that an Anglo-American armada will carry this across the English Channel for invasion of France.

Berlin has pointed to the valley of the Rhone in Southern France as one likely invasion place, and has asserted that there are many well equipped Frenchmen in North Africa, eager to meet the Nazis on French soil once more, and if there is an invasion of Southern France we may expect them to be part of it.

Cruelty Gag

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 4 — (AP)—Mrs. Robbie G. Emerson said her husband talked too little and it cost too much. "I'd accept long distance calls when he was out of town, but instead of talking he would hold the line for 15 or 20 minutes and not say a word. My bills ran as high as $68 a month," she complained. Superior Judge Thurmond Clarke granted her a divorce from Allan R. Emerson, a war worker. The judge agreed this was a form of cruelty.

First Wrens Reach Britain

14 Girls Take Over Clerical Jobs

AN EASTERN CANADIAN PORT, Sept. 4 (CP)—Selection for overseas duty fulfilled ambitions which they never expected to see realised, said 11 members of the Women's Royal Canadian Naval Service before they boarded a troopship here enroute to serve as clerical workers at Royal Canadian Navy headquarters in London.

(Arrival in Britain a group of 14 Canadian Wrens—first draft of W.R.C.N.S. personnel to be sent overseas —was anounced in London yesterday.)

The group was in charge of Subalt. Margaret Mackie of Victoria, who observed, "We sort of feel we are the pioneers," as she herded the girls to their quarters aboard ship. "Our girls will relieve British girls....British girls will relieve British sailors. It means more men available to go to sea in the Royal Navy."

Hailing from nearly every province in Canada, the Wrens paraded up the gangplank, respirators and tin hats slung from their shoulders, and, dripping rain, were greeted by thousands of cheering and whistling sailors, soldiers and airmen.

For most of the draft, it was their first look at an ocean liner, and their first sight of the sea.

Until accommodation for them is ready, the navy girls will be quartered in barracks with the British Wrens. "We are looking forward very much to working and living with British Wrens," said Ellen Cada of Clair Beach, Windsor, Ont.

Amphibious Jeeps Used

Barrage Makes Landing Piece Of Cake

By MAURICE DESJARDINS
Canadian Press War Correspondent

WITH THE CANADIAN TROOPS IN SICILY, Sept. 3.—(Delayed).—(CP Cable)—This morning's successful operation on the western tip of the Italian boot is the second "stand up" invasion for Canadian troops in seven weeks.

A few hours before the landings Maj.-Gen. G. G. Simonds, 42-year-old commander of the Canadians, told correspondents he expected little or no opposition on the beaches. The ease with which the Canadians established the bridgehead confirmed his statement.

A typical 8th Army artillery barrage had a lot to do with making the show a "piece of cake." Coastal populations stayed up all night watching the man-made volcano spewing tons of steel across Messina Straits.

The Canadians expect to meet their main opposition in the hills, out of range of our artillery. To-day our bombers are concentrating on those positions, with the help of naval shelling.

Our engineers found the beaches practically free from mines.

This afternoon I saw huge convoys of amphibious "ducks" heading for the embarkation points. They were acclaimed by cheering Sicilians. The inscription on one indicated the high feeling of optimism among the troops. It read: "Bound for Rome and home, we hope."

Two Extremes To Meet Monday Night

Two extreme contrasts in wrestling styles as well as appearance will be seen here in the Brock Arena on Monday night when Leo Numa the un-masked Red Shadow meets Gentleman Jack Clayborne in the main bout. Numa "the Puma from Montezuma" is a big powerful fellow weighing some two hundred and thirty-five pounds, and with his flaming yellow hair and handsome face is something of a "Perfect Man" in looks, at least. But the big blond who made such a name for himself as the masked Red Shadow is one of the roughest matmen we have seen. Everything goes with Numa and he doesn't mind how he wins so long as he does. In sharp contrast is Clayborne. As the greatest Negro wrestler the game has developed Gentleman Jack looks like a living statue of shining ebony. The Black Bouncer is marvellous looking athlete too and his black and heavily muscled body should make a striking contrast to the fair-haired pink-fleshed Numa.

When Flight-Sergeant Ted Miller of Trenton wrestled here the other night his clever work against Joe Maich made quite a hit. Miller will be back against burly Bunny Dunlop and the Airman's Commando training may stand him in good stead against the powerful Dunlop. Miller teaches Jui Jitsu and Commando tactics at the Trenton R.C.A.F. Station and intends to demonstrate some of the more drastic moves if big Bunny tries any of his illegal stuff.

Few Casualties Munro Reports

By ROSS MUNRO,
Canadian Press War Correspondent.

WITH THE CANADIANS IN ITALY, Sept. 4—(CP Cable) — Canadian troops swept across Messina Strait and landed on the beaches of Southern Italy just before dawn Friday to establish a brideghead with practically no opposition.

Supported by a devastating artillery barrage from masses of guns on the Sicilian coast, as well as a bombardment from warships, the Canadians made the assault heer with even more ease than the landing at Pachino in Sicily.

I have been ashore for more than two hours after landing wtih the assault force. I have talked wtih hundreds of troops so far and have not seen a casualty.

Only a few shots were fired if any during the landing.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS

By The Canadian Press

The baseball scene in Western Ontario was cleared yesterday for the next stage of the season's playdowns of the Ontario Baseball Association when London Army administered a 5-3 defeat to the Nationals at Stratford for their deciding encounter in the senior "A" grade.

The Soldiers now advance to the inter-city tests with Windsor "A" seniors during the coming week while Stratford, in losing the series with the Forest City squad have dropped to "B" category and will take on the Windsor Bees for a similar set of tussles. Catcher Tubby Jones had much to do with London's victory in the Classic City when he drove a triple to the right field fence to drive in three runs in the third inning. This splash was followed in the ninth by two tallies which resulted from first - baseman Biasatti's timely single. Pitcher Tommy White covered the route for London but allowed eight hits and did not strike out a man until he fanned two pinchhitters in a row in the last inning to complete the issue.

London has earned two titles already this season and is hot for the Provincial honors. Army grabbed off the National Sandlot Championship at Toronto and followed with a victory in the Inter County Senior Baseball race.

Five-Year-Old Wins

Dominator, five-year-old gelding owned by Leon Toole of Danbury, Conn., showed plenty of speed in taking both heats of the Willimantic pace in the grand circuit card at Empire City yesterday, his best time in beating Hal Mite being 2:04.

Johnny Adams of Kansas, leading U. S. jockey in races won this season, added to his string by riding four horses to victory at yesterday's twilight meeting at the Fair Ground Track in Detroit, thereby earning a $200 bonus from the Detroit Racing Association.

Leo Dandurand, noted in Montreal hockey and turf circles, and Edward Lyons of St. Louis, Mo., a race-track man, were arrested in St. Louis on charges of assault to kill following an altercation with Dr. L. V. Dowdall, resident of the Middle-West city, which started in a night club. All three suffered injuries.

Byron Nelson and Jug McSpaden turned a best-ball score of 62, 11 under par for the Minneapolis golf course yesterday to take the lead in the $5,000 Golden Valley invitation team golf match which has a field of eight twosomes. After the day's play, the pros nominated Nelson as the outstanding player of 1942.

Lauds Umpire.

An umpire has come into his own at long last. Fans of the Newark Baseball Club yesterday received a formal request from a group of rooters for permission to pay tribute to Umpire Frank Dehaney of the International League who hails from nearby Elizabeth, N.J. He is to receive a gift on Sunday.

The playoff series of the Halifax Senior Baseball League had a surprise finish yesterday when the Nova Scotia Amateur Baseball Association suspended the Army team for using two ineligible players and awarded the title to Navy which had already won three of the best-in-seven contests.

Because she claimed he stayed away from home, Mrs. Ralpha Pearl Baer secured a divorce yesterday at Sacramento yesterday from her husband, Buddy Baer, former heavyweight boxer, and brother of Max, once heavyweight champion.

The combined 67-day meeting of Arlington and Washington Park, on the latter's track at Chicago will wind up with the two concluding major stake events of the U.S. summer season to-day and Monday. To-day's special is the $56,000 Washington Park Futurity and the Labor Day feature is the $50,000 Washington Handicap.

More Probing

TORONTO, Sept. 4 — (CP). — Charles Daley, Ontario Labor Minister, yesterday said invitations will be sent out shortly to employers' and employees' organizations to name representatives to a Provincial government fact-finding committee.

Giants Win First Junior Battle

Called on account of darkness in the sixth frame the Giants of Ashburnham still took the first game of the Catholic Junior Softball Seague finals away from the Tigers from the west side of the Otonabee at Memorial Park last night 12-6. The series is a best three of five affair. Last night's game was referred back to the fifth inning when Mack Guerin behind the plate gave the game the finger.

The fray was close in the first two columns, then the East City crew opened out and drove in eight big runs. This was followed by a trio in the fourth, and along with one in the first counted a total of 12. On the short end of the stick Tigers chalked up one in the second and another in the fourth. In the fifth frame with some good pounding they rallied for four runs leaving two on base. They should come back stronger next game.

O'Heron, B. Sullivan, and Duignan looked good in the field for the winners, while Conroy, Giardino, and Conlin were about the pick in the same department for the losers.

B. Sullivan pitched steady ball for the Giants being struck for eight hits and walking five. Murphy on the opposing mound was slashed for ten safe bingles, while walking seven men.

In the hitting division for the Giants, Ray Fitzgerald averaged a 1000 a pair of singles, a double and a four-bagger for four. B. Sullivan grabbed a pair of doubles in four and P. Heron a pair of singles in the same number.

A single and a double were Murphy's contribution to his team's offensive efforts in three starts. Giardino capped a pair of singles for the same aggregate of starts, while Conroy hammered a homer for two beginnings.

Playing at first for the victors O'Heron pulled off a sensational catch of a pop fly off the playing field.

The second game of the Junior finals will be next Wednesday night at the Quaker diamond.

Score by innings:

Giants	108 300—	12	10	3
Tigers	010 14x—	6	8	3

Fourth Battle Is Arranged

The fourth game of the Senior Catholic Softball League will be run off next Wednesday night at the Armour Hill Flats at 6.30. Cubs will be at home to St. Peter's. A 3 of 5 set up, the standing is Cubs 2 games and St. Peter's one.

If the Saints lose this coming game it is curtains for them, and the J. E. Sullivan trophy will go back to East City after a year's absence. However, on the other hand if St. Peter's arrange to pull the game away from the opposing squad a fifth fray will be in the offing.

Manager Jack Condon is giving pep talks to his understudies and the forthcoming fray should see a change. Joe Garvey is not content to sit on two victories in a row but will have his men out there in top shape to polish off the St. Peter's aggregation next Wednesday.

This coming game will be a honey and it should attract a large crowd. St. Peter's will be battling to keep in the race, the Cubs will be battling to wipe out their antagonists.

New Landing Made In Italy

had not yet been sighted.)

Ross Munro, Canadian Press war correspondent, reported in a delayed dispatch written after he had been ashore in the Reggio Calabria area for two hours that he had not seen a casualty up to that time.

He added that, supported by a "devastating" artillery barrage from masses of guns on the Sicilian coast, "the Canadians made the asault here with even more ease than the landing at Pachino in Sicily."

To-day's Rome communique admitted the fall of Reggio Calabria, San Giovanni and Melito and said the Allies had established several bridgeheads on the extreme southern tip of Calabria with naval support and "overhelming supriority in the air."

Reggio Calabria is the area's largest city with a normal population of 130,000 persons. It is almost all of modern construction, as the old city was razed by an earthquake in 1908. San Giovanni is little larger than a village.

At the same time, Shalto Watt, war correspondent for the Montreal Star, reported that objectives on the Canadian sector of the Allied bridgehead "are being taken far ahead of schedule" and that the British are "streaking ahead like a scalded cat."

BRIDGEHEADS 10 MILES DEEP.

(In London, the Daily Express said this morning that the invading force "had enlarged its bridgeheads to a depth of 10 miles in some places."

("The advance," the Express added, "was continuing in a northerly direction toward the first substantial Axis defences near Palmi, more than 20 miles by road from the landing beaches at Reggio Calabria.")

Southern France May Be Next

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4 (AP).— This capital cocked an ear today for news of round two in the conquest of Italy, with expert opinion generally agreed that additional thrusts onto the hapless peninsula would be made to back up the successful invasion by the British-Canadian 8th Army.

This view was expressly based on the fact that during the first hours of the operation only the single army was involved while dispatches from the war zone made no mention of the roles assigned the British 1st Army or the American 7th, both of which are presumably poised for action, along with the British 9th and 10th armies around the Eastern Mediterranean and the American 5th in North Africa.

Italy has a long and vulnerable coast line, offering many points for assault north of the toe. Heavy attacks on one or more of these points, especially aimed at cutting the north-south rail line that runs through Rome, would speed the conquest and complicate extremely the enemy's development of strategic reserves.

Whether the Allied plans also call for striking out toward Southern France is an open guess that undoubetdly figures importantly in the war of nerves on the Nazis. If an attack on France is to be made, however, it will almost certainly be preceded by a drive on Corsica.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, Sept. 4 — (CP). — Mixed dealings in both pits brought grain futures to lower ground yesterday on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange. Wheat lost ⅝ to 1⅛ cents a bushel, while rye dropped 1 to 1¼ cents, with October finishing at 97⅛ cents, December 96 cents, and May 96½ cents.

Most of the buying in wheat was believed to be in connection with the purchase of 150,000 bushels of wheat by Eire and 350,000 bushels for Greek war relief purposes. The selling was presumed to reflect intermarket spreading with Chicago.

American houses were credited with outright buying in rye and locals with selling.

Cash wheat trade was again on the quiet side, with little important business confirmed. United States buyers made further inquiry for cash barley, but no transactions were confirmed.

7-Ship Convoy Blasted Apart

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, the Southwest Pacific, Sept. 4 (AP).— Blasting apart a seven-ship supply convoy at Wewak, New Guinea, Allied bombers have added 21,000 tons of merchant shipping to the 2,500,000 tons which U. S. Navy Secretary Frank Knox said in Washington the Japanese have lost to planes and submarines since entering the war.

Today's communique from Allied Headquarters also reported damage of 20,500 additional tons in far-ranging operations.

Three freighter transports, each of 7,000 tons, were sent to the bottom of Wewak's harbor Thursday morning by mast-skimming medium bombers.

Potatoes Easy At $2 A Bag

Potatoes were a flat $2 a bag on the market this morning, with a heavy offering of fine quality stock. Tomatoes bulged the outdoor display with prices down to 40 cents the 11-quart basket. It looked like the biggest market of the year, with an abundance of vegetables all the way from broccoli and corn on the cob, through a variety of marrows, and a full line of carrots, beets, onions, cauliflowers. In fact the district growers hauled a tremendous load of the produce into the city today. They say the tomato crop is at its best, and if canned goods are going to be in lighter supply than usual next winter, at least the industrious housewife has a present chance to stock up the shelves with all kinds of tomato pickles.

Butter was 40 cents, chickens 33 to 38 cents, pullet eggs were up to 35 cents, an increase of five cents a dozen in the last three weeks. Probably the pullets are turning out a larger egg as the weeks go by. Top prices for the first grades were 48 and 50 cents a dozen. One woman quoted 40, 43 and 46 cents the dozen, the 46 cents being for the largest of her offering.

Buyers marvelled at the outdoor plenty of vegetables, and if the growers unloaded all that produce this morning it must have been something of a market record.

Bible Has Fascinated Many of World's Great Men

Rev. E. R. JAMES.

The Word of the Lord endureth for ever.—I. Peter 1, 25.

Do you read the Word of God? Has some Word of the Lord gripped and dominated your mind and heart? Then you can understand something of the inward meaning of this ancient statement.

St. Chrysostum, the silver-tongued Greek Preacher, who filled St. Sophia in Constantinople, reminds us that "The Holy Spirit gave the Scripture through the agency of herdsmen, fishermen and other humble persons. Now the laborer, the servant, the uneducated person may certainly derive much profit by reading the Holy Scriptures or having it read aloud."

Another Church Father, Gregory the Great, teacher that "the Scripture is a kind of river, if I may so liken it, which is both shallow and deep, wherein both the lamb may find a footing and the elephant float at large.

Heine, a Jew and famous German writer of the last century, became blind and paralyzed in his closing days. He lay on his deathbed for about three years. His spiritual eyes were opened as the Bible was daily read to him and he received comfort and peace.

Savonorola, the Italian reformer, peacher and martyr, was fascinated by this Book. He could not open the Book without being carried away by the thought of reading the Word of God.

The Bible stands for the great ideals of liberty, truth and righteousness. "What does the Lord require of thee but to do justly and love mercy and to walk humbly with thy God?" Canon Driver, the great Old Testament scholar, called this verse the high water mark of the Old Testament.

Field-Marshal Smuts says: "The Bible is the greatest Book in the world and the greatest contribution to human culture, thought and religion. Let us not forget that this Book is the contribution of the Jews to mankind for the welfare of the world."

Our forefathers read the Bible daily. Perhaps in a spirit of superstitution. This is the great danger of the Bible—Bibliolatry, which means worship of the Bible. At the same time its reading left a great mark upon the character of the British people. As a race they hate hypocrisy and cruelty and love liberty. The Bible never dies; its spirit lives through all the ages. It emphasizes that righteousness exalts a nation. The nation that forgets God and worships other Gods, such as culture and science, that nation sooner or later disappears. This Book stands alone. It is a unique revelation that a nation loving God and obeying His moral laws will live also.

Bishop Lightfoot, a great scholar and interpreter of the New Testament, utters words that should never be forgotten: "If we would learn what St. Paul holds to be the essence of the Gospel we must ask ourselves the meaning of such phrases: "To me to live is Christ." "That I may know the power of His resurrection." "I have all strength in Christ that giveth me power." The Book centres upon the Life and Person of Jesus Christ, that He is the Son of God, "Who commanded the light to shine out of darkness hath shined in our hearts to give the light of the knowledge of the glory of God in the face of Jesus Christ."

"Read the Book praying" is the advice of the great saint of the Roman Catholic Church, Baron Von Hugel.

As we begin the fifth year of the war let us offer this 124th Psalm, which is both ancient and modern, as a thankoffering to God, remembering Dunkirk, the Battle of Britain and Pearl Harbor:

"If the Lord Himself had not been on our side, now may Israel say; if the Lord Himself had not been on our side, when men rose up against us, they had swallowed us up alive when they were so wrathfully displeased at us. Yea, the waters had drowned us, and the stream had gone over our soul. The deep waters of the proud had gone even over our soul. But praised be the Lord Who hath not given us over for a prey unto their teeth. Our soul is escaped as a bird out of the snare of the fowler; the snare is broken and we are delivered. Our help standeth in the Name of the Lord, Who hath made heaven and earth."

WHEN THY WORD GOETH FORTH IT GIVETH LIGHT AND UNDERSTANDING UNTO THE SIMPLE.

Blood Donors Number 153 During the Past Week

At the blood donors clinic during the past week there were 153 donations given with the Canadian General Electric and Genelco employees again in the lead with 60 donations. Thirty-one came from places outside of Peterborough, other industries provided 23, and the general list provided 39 donors.

As the weeks pass more and more donors are getting their second, third, fourth and fifth pins. During the past week the following gave their fifth donation: Stuart G. Hall, H. R. Henwood, Sid Craig, Charles Kingan, T. Dalton Johnston, Bert Jopling, Edward J. Briant and William E. Saunders.

With Monday being a holiday there will be no clinic that day.

It has been found that this week more than the usual number of blood donations have had to be discarded because they have contained fats. It is possible that some of the donors have by accident taken breakfasts that have contained milk, cream, butter or bacon and that others thinking because it does not affect themselves have knowingly taken fats.

The fact of the matter is that if donors do not adhere to the prescribed diet the blood they donate is affected and not the donor. Any fats eaten show up in the local laboratory and the donations are therefore useless to send to Toronto for preparation for overseas.

Monday's donors were:

The Golden Text

Moses and the law.

"Ye shall be holy; for I am holy."—I Peter 1:16.

Israelites Called By God To Become A Holy People

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for Sept. 5, is the Book of Leviticus, the Golden Text being I Peter 1:16, "Ye shall be holy; for I am holy.")

◇ ◇ ◇

THE BOOK OF Leviticus, which is our lesson for today, follows the book of Exodus, in which is told the story of the escape of the Children of Israel from slavery in Egypt. Leviticus deals with the laws laid down by the Lord to Moses for the conduct of the children of Israel in the land of promise.

The people were told to make themselves holy by their daily living and right attitudes toward God and their neighbors. Many of these laws were concerned only with the Jewish people on that day, and have no bearing on our conduct. Many more, however, are just as important for us today as they were then for the Israelites.

One of the laws that does not apply to us is that which has made the Jewish people a unique nation, separate from all others down the ages. It was necessary in those days that they should be kept separate from the heathen nations. If Israel was to teach the nations the way of holiness, it must be taught holiness by the Lord.

It is interesting to note that the events recorded in Genesis cover 370 years; those in Exodus, 140 years; but the events occurring in Leviticus can be included in one month of Time.

Right Relations With God

Much of the book is concerned with the sins of man, even of the priests, and the laws which would lead him back into right relations with God. Disobedience often resulted in death, as in the case of two of Aaron's sons. When the necessary sacrifice has been made in the tabernacle, "the glory of the Lord appeared unto all the people, and a fire came out from before the Lord." These men took their censers and put fire therein and incense thereon, and "offered strange fire before the Lord, which He commanded them not. And there went out fire from the Lord, and devoured them and they died."

Honoring parents is one of the first commandments of the law. Children get their first experience of the love and goodness of God through their parents. They should be treated with love and honor all their days.

They were warned not to worship idols and to keep the Sabbath. During the Sabbath when no work that was not absolutely necessary should be done, the children could be instructed in the symbols, rites and ceremonies which formed part of the service of the Sabbaths.

Ye shall not steal nor lie to one another. Stealing and lying go hand in hand. A person who will steal will usually lie. Dealing falsely with a neighbor means cheating him, robbing him of his just dues, or not paying him what he earns by his labor.

Neither Flatter Nor Bully

"Thou shalt not respect the person of the poor, nor honor the person of the mighty; but in righteousness shalt thou judge thy neighbor." Respect the person, whether he be rich or poor, not letting his riches or poverty influence you. Deal justly with all, neither fawning on and flattering one or bullying the other. Treat both as you would yourself be treated.

One commandment that is especially pertinent in all times and places is the rule about talebearing — gossiping. How many, even very good people, indulge in this sin, and how many innocent ones suffer from it?

Respect the aged. "Thou shalt rise up before the hoary head, and honor the face of the old man, and thou shalt fear thy God." How many people today disregard this commandment, and how much it needs to be brought to their attention.

The most touching of the laws of relations with others is the one of love for the stranger. "And if a stranger sojourn with thee in your land, ye shall do him no wrong. The stranger that sojourneth with you shall be unto you as the homeborn among you, and thou shalt love him as thyself; for ye were sojourners in the land of Egypt."

The sojourner or stranger had adopted the customs of the Jews, become one of them, and as they remembered their loneliness and the slurs cast at them when they were strangers in a strange land, so should they make the stranger feel at home and "love him" as themselves.

Israel Called to Be a Holy People — ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Book of Leviticus

Among the many laws laid down by the Lord for the Jewish people were: when reaping they should leave the corners of the field and gleanings for the poor.

They were ordered, too, not to pick every grape from the vines nor to glean the vineyard, but to leave them for the poor and stranger. "I am the Lord."

They were ordered not to go up and down as a talebearer among the people; not to "hate thy brother in thy heart," and "love thy neighbor as thyself."

If a stranger dwelt among them they were to "love him as thyself; for ye were strangers in the land of Egypt." (GOLDEN TEXT—I Peter 1:16)

Labor's Golden Jubilee

Proclaimed annually in honor of the working men—and women—Labor Day has a special relation these times with the rank and file of the great overalled army, who lunchbox in hand trudge off to factory and shipyard in successive shifts to send ships, planes, guns, tanks and munitions to the fighters of the United Nations on and over the six continents and seven seas.

While the urgency of production may preclude observance of the holiday on Monday in some industries across Canada, Labor Day will be celebrated in the broad sense as the last holiday of the summer season. This aspect of the day has made it through the years one of the most popular holidays of the year.

* * *

With the war women have taken on a new role and today they are found in ever-increasing numbers working along with men in industry. The all-male march of the past on Labor Day would look like a co-ed rally if "Rosie the riveter" and her sisters in war production were to turn out. More women are now working in Canada for wages than ever before, and these vast numbers have meant a big addition to the size of the unions, but nobody knows how big for no attempt has been made to list membership by sex. Just how many of these will stay after the war is not known, but it is a sure bet that there will always be a big place for them in industry.

With the 50th anniversary of Labor Day being celebrated on Monday, our great need is still 100 per cent. war effort in every direction. As Canadians we must not lose sight of this objective, but as the new president, Percy Bengough of the Trades and Labour Congress of Canada has aptly said, we must look ahead to the post-war world.

Millions of lives will have been spent and millions of homes ruined in saving democracy and that democracy must be made to work for the good of all people. Money will be needed after the war for the creative purposes of finding employment and making use of our abundance of materials. Money has not been allowed to hinder our war effort, and money must be available to give a guarantee to all Canadians able and willing to work useful employment with a high standard of wages, that will assure all of a full and complete life from the cradle to the grave. To accomplish this end a real progressive construction period in conformity with the times and needs of the people is of utmost importance.

But, on this 50th anniversary, there is a sad note, for Canadian Labor has lost a most trusted leader in the resignation of Tom Moore, President of the Trades and Labour Congress, through ill-health. Mr. Moore has been neither a radical nor a re-actionary, he has always scorned those influences which, foreign to Canadian genius, sought to graft upon the labour movement of this country the creeds and ideologies of Europe. Almost without interruption since 1918, he has been the Congress' head. He rose from the ranks (he is a carpenter by trade) to the top position of the labour movement and in doing this he did it without making enemies or having his name, honour or his sincerity impugned. Yet at the same time he has given consistent leadership to the organization. In later years labour has felt the impact of two distinct forces. The thoughts of those on one hand believed like Samuel Gompers and the old trade unionists that the labour-movement should remain non-political and those on the other hand who, imbibing something of Marx, have either flitted with the ideas of a "One Big Union" or with hope through political action.

With the rise of John L. Lewis schism has been brought into the labour movement. Today we find Canadian workers in both camps and many of them, as was proven in the recent Ontario election, committed to political action.

The Honey Situation

The rationing of jams, syrups, honey and canned fruits is now in operation. There seems to be a general opinion among those connected with the honey industry that so far as that commodity is concerned the rationing order has come much too late to be fully effective. The Financial Post quotes men in the trade as describing the rationing order as locking the stable door after the horse is gone. The reason for that statement is that it is estimated that 65 per cent. of the white honey supply was already in the hands of the consumers before the order was issued. The balance that is now on hand for general distribution is therefore much below the usual quantity.

Honey men say that the crop this year was small anyway; somewhere between two-thirds and three-quarters of normal. A lot of hives were killed off by the severe winter and others were weakened so that productive capacity was cut down. To make matters worse the spring arrived late. Early grains did not get in at the usual time and the honey-producing season was as a result considerably shortened. Then too the demand was heavier than usual and as a result of all these factors, there is not much white honey to be rationed. The chief hope of the honey lover is that the preliminary reports indicating a good crop of dark or buckwheat honey will be realized. That supply will not make up for the shortage of white honey but it will help. Otherwise many consumers are going to find that while their ration coupons entitle them to a quantity of honey each month, the commodity is simply not forthcoming. And after all you cannot do much sweetening with the coupons themselves.

Day Of Prayer

Sunday has been proclaimed a National Day of Prayer and Reconsecration to the war effort. We are now entering the fifth year of war, and since that Day of Prayer and Reconsecration one year ago God in His good Providence has seen fit to make the path in this year to come seem brighter and the day of victory nearer for the cause, for which the United Nations are fighting. We, as members of the United Nations, have much to be thankful for; a definite threat has been removed from our shores; the armies of the United Nations have been victorious; the submarine menace has been combatted, and the strengths of our armies, our navies and our air forces are ever increasing.

With all this, there is one question which we should ask, have we, during this time of stress, when our nation has passed through its darkest hours given to the Almighty the proper place which we as Christian people should give Him?

Many people will ask themselves, how can they make on this Day of Consecration more effectual their recognition in God. With more than 2,000 years of Christianity past, the need for prayer is just as great as ever, and its power to uplift the souls of men and women has never been disproved. It is not enough to say that our cause is right, and hence God must be on our side. We must continually ask forgiveness of our sins, and seek pardon, if our nation is to come through the strenuous days which are ahead.

Our great leaders, Churchill and Roosevelt, have long recognized the need for help from the Almighty, and it is our duty as a people to also recognize this need.

But before we attend our churches on the morrow, there are several things that we must ask ourselves, for only on being able to answer these, shall we be able to lift our voices to the Most High, that the forces of righteousness may prevail against those of tyranny and wickedness. And from this the tremendous importance of spiritual strengthening, which accrues from such supplications, will receive its most complete justification.

These questions are: Am I living in harmony with the teachings of God's word; do I love God; do I love Him more than money, pleasure and friends—yea more than life itself; have I committed my ways to Him; how do I feel towards this Great Being, to Whom I am coming for aid, and should I come as a sinner seeking repentance? If we thus examine ourselves, our hearts then will be right for our attendance at the House of God.

What A Poet Thinks About

By
SAMUEL MARCHBANKS

CERTAINLY one of the most interesting—though I fear that it will be one of the least-read—books to appear this year is "A Poet's Notebook" by Edith Sitwell. But although it will be read by few, those few will read it again and again, and return to it with new appreciation in every year that passes. The book reveals the raw material of a poet's thought, and to some lovers of poetry this is almost more interesting than poetry itself. A small but discerning public will be deeply grateful to this author for her revelations.

◇ ◇ ◇

WHETHER Edith Sitwell is a poet or not is still a matter of debate. Although she is now in her fifty-sixth year there are still fogies who complain of her modernity, while another group revenge themselves upon her by saying that she is as outmoded as the Twenties during which she gained her reputation. Writing in an Ontario provincial daily in 1943 I shall certainly not venture an opinion on this point, lest Miss Sitwell's lightnings should leap the ocean and blast me. Flattening critics is a Sitwell sport of long standing, and no game is too aged, or stupid, or distant, or obscure to be hunted by that indefatigable family. But Edith Sitwell is undoubtedly one of the very few provocative, sensitive and informed writers about poetry now living, and whatever critics may say of her genius, only a fool would asperse her intelligence.

◇ ◇ ◇

HER Notebook can only be interesting if something is known of her ideas about poetry in general. When she writes verse, it is her expressed intention to evoke sensations in her reader, rather than to describe objects, or incidents, or feelings; obviously the poet who can do this achieves a more direct communication with his reader than if he used conventional means. Miss Sitwell is, in the true sense of the word, a sensuous poet. She seeks also to avoid outworn and traditional imagery and metaphor in her work; no "poetic diction" for her. But it must be explained that she does not use outlandish, or commonplace or "proletarian" language, either; her language is the instrument of a highly cultivated and original mind. She seeks also to write poetry in moderns rhythm, many of these borrowed from the dance, and in this she has had a good deal of success. Many people, of course, miss rhythm of her poems entirely, because they associate rhythm with the time-honoured thumpings of Macaulay's "Lays of Ancient Rome," or Tennyson's "In Memoriam"; thus, when Edith Sitwell writes a poem in even such an obvious rhythm as that of a polka, it leaves them floundering. It must be admitted that Edith Sitwell gives her readers many a gratuitous kick in the face, just to keep them humble, but she is not so fearsome as she pretends.

BUT Miss Sitwell's special hobby, and one which she rides in and out of season, is studying what she calls "the effect that texture has on rhythm and the effect that varying and elaborate patterns of rhymes and of assonances and dissonances have upon rhythm." Clearly this asks for unusual sensitivenes of ear in the reader, and paves the road to preciosity. These effects of assonance and dissonance are to be found in many poets, but one suspects that they are the result of something more than careful study; they come naturally to poets whose command of language is great. T. S. Eliot has lately shown us that Rudyard Kipling puzzled over these matters one-half so much as Edith Sitwell. It is a common charge against this lady that she has plenty of brains but not much red blood; and a bloodless poet is hardly able to escape the charge of being a coterie poet.

IN the Notebook Edith Sitwell gives us a collection of aphorisms and quotations which she has found evocative and satisfying in her approach to her art. She says: "I hope that the meanings of the aphorisms, and their relationship to each other, will not be found obscure. For me they are not, and I trust they will not be for others. One can but give what one believes to be the truth. In the words of Whitman, that basely slandered man who was one of the greatest of all poets, that inspired and great soul who has been seen through the dirty eyes of little, mean and meagre souls—'Whatever satisfies the soul is truth'—These truths satisfy mine." And so there follows a collection of quotations on the nature of the poet, on the nature of great poetry, on the nature and scope of the poet's technique, and on the necessity of poetry. There are notes on morality, simplicity, language, work, and imagery. There are excellent and evocative brief essays by Edith Sitwell on Chaucer, Pope, Byron, and Herrick, a fine study of one aspect of Shakespeare's verse, and finally two poems by Edith Sitwell herself. Though it runs to only 153 pages this is a plenteous book, for it gives material for endless speculation and thought. Macmillans are to be congratulated on bringing out a volume which they cannot expect to be a commercial success, but which will be a fingerpost for many succeeding generations of poets.

No Place For Dictators

As Mussolini has gone, so, too, will go Hitler and all his kind.

There is no place in this modern world for dictators.

"The wave of the future" is still democracy. The Hitlers and Mussolinis and such other gangsters are but a passing phase in the onward march to human freedom—everywhere.

The road ahead is long and hard, and the goal is far away.

But that is mankind's destiny. — Detroit Free Press.

The Real Proof

The Toronto Telegram thinks the blueberry, by reason of its present price, might be hardened and used as a jewel. The Sault Daily Star sees the berry thus coming into its full appreciation. J. P. Bertrand states, however, that the real proof of the berry is in the eating of the pie and the jewels are those housewives who know just how to bake it.—Port Arthur News-Chronicle.

Recruitment of Teachers

The recruitment of teachers is going to be one of the major postwar problems in education, and it will not be enough if the only criterion is to be numbers. Between the wars there was not only a decline in recruitment for the teaching profession, but some decline also in the quality of entrants.—Glasgow Herald.

"PICKLE" SEASON

Assoro and H. and P.E. Regiment

(By KINGSTON WHIG-STANDARD)

FOR many years now in military history, when a regiment distinguished itself in battle, the name of that action was picked out in gold upon the banner of the regiment. These battle honours are more prized by the men who help win them than are individual awards; they are an integral part of regimental pride, which is about as fierce and unyielding a spirit as any felt by fighting men. Someone once said that it was possible—not probable, of course—to name a man a rotten soldier, even to cast some doubt on his ancestry, and still retain one chance in a hundred of escaping with a whole skin — but one word of insult offered his regiment and the insulter was "for it." It is that pride which wins battle honours; it was that spirit which brought to the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment a new honour for their banner.

Assoro, Sicilian town in the path of the 1st Canadian Division, will have its name embroidered upon the flag of the H. and P. E. Regiment. In the action at Assoro, the men of this regiment clawed their way up a 2,500-foot rock face at night to surprise the Germans. Full details are lacking, but mountain climbing has never been considered a safe sport even in daylight. At night, with the additional handicap of military equipment, it has a somewhat suicidal aspect. Nevertheless, the men of Hastings and Prince Edward did it, and had enough left to deliver battle to the Germans at the end of the climb.

The days are gone when men followed an actual, material banner into battle and fought furiously to keep it upright and to win it honour. Yet the spirit born of that tradition lives on in men and regiments, well exemplified by this one action among many in the Sicilian campaign. "Assoro" is not the first name to go upon the regimental standard of the H. and P. E. Regiment, nor will it be the last. The people of the district from which this gallant unit was recruited may well feel deep pride at the latest addition to its battle honours.

Capital Closeups

(By JOHN DAUPHINEE, Canadian Press Staff Writer)

OTTAWA, Sept. 3 —(CP)—Statements by two Canadian government spokesmen this week seem an indication that steps for development of international trade in peacetime formed a major part of the "post-war" phase of the Quebec Conference.

When he spoke on Parliament Hill Aug. 25, President Roosevelt disclosed that problems of the peace to come were among the subjects he discussed with Prime Minister Churchill.

While Canada was not a full partner in the Quebec discussions Prime Minister Mackenzie King was host to the British and American leaders on behalf of the Dominion Government and held many discussions with his guests. Undoubtedly he was kept well posted on the formal conversations between them.

Accordingly it may be that Sept. 1 statements by Finance Minister Ilsley and Brooke Claxton, the prime minister's parliamentary assistant, were inspired by the post-war deliberations at Quebec.

Mr. Ilsley said that after victory Canada must be prepared to do its share in bringing about an international prosperity in developing trade between countries, "possibly even helping other countries develop themselves to the point where they can trade effectively with us and with others." He added:—

"We are pushing ahead now in other with efforts to prepare ourselves for such international action."

Mr. Claxton in a press conference at Washington the same day said one of the points in Canada's foreign policy calls for the promotion of freer trade in the post-war world and the freer interchange of goods.

Figures made public by Trade Minister MacKinnon indicate the importance of such steps to the Dominion. He said the value of Canadian exports reached an all-time high of $303,600,000 in July.

The signficant part of the minister's statement, however, was his comment that the record was "the direct result of the organized production of war needs from coast to coast" — that about three-quarters of the July exports of war materials.

Thus once the war is ended it can be expected that Canada's export business will be shattered. New markets for the foreign sale of peacetime commodities will have to be developed if the nation's scales abroad are to be maintained at anywhere near their wartime level.

And exports o— large scale must be maintained, it is generally conceded, if the Canadian national income is to be kept at a level where post-war prosperity can be assured.

Sixty Hours To Anywhere

FROM MONTREAL GAZETTE

WE have learned in four years of war, among other things, how amazingly the world has shrunk. The lands and the seas are just as great, the hemispheres as widely separated in terms of miles, but distances no longer mean what they did before and what were far countries and strange peoples are now near neighbors, in flying time.

When President Roosevelt was talking to the American nation in his fireside chats before Pearl Harbour, urging preparedness, warning of danger, preaching war responsibility, he emphasized time and again the new narrowness of the oceans, the easy accessibility of the Americas by air, their vulnerability.

Plane Talk, published by Consolidated Vultee Aircraft, gives us some interesting and impressive figures, showing that "no spot on earth is more than 60 hours flying time from your local airport." The Fiji Islander on his atoll in the Pacific is no more than 34 hours flying time from Denver. A Boston businessman can reach the office of a coffee dealer in Sao Paulo, Brazil, in a 23-hour flight. A newspaper publisher in Calcutta, India, is separated from Times Square, New York, by 41 hours flying time and Kansas city is 37 hours distant from Chungking or its neighborhood. In 28 hours a flight can be made from Yakutsk, in Siberia, to the airport at Washington. And so it goes.

Airmen from this side of the world are flying to distant lands on war missions, are learning at first hand of peoples and conditions that were more or less meaningless names in their school books. They will be coming back in due course with a new knowledge, a new international sense. When they come home, says Plane Talk, "from India and China and Britain and Dutch Harbour and Australia and North Africa—they'll think of the world as they know it really is, not as isolated continents or separate hemispheres, but a clustering of nations whose individual welfare, in the peace to come, will depend upon the welfare of them all."

There is a profound significance in this. The world will not be again what it was before. The barriers of international ignorance are being broken down. The road to international understanding is being opened.

A Bible Message

There was a man of the Pharisees, named Nicodemus, a ruler of the Jews: the same came to Jesus by night, and said unto him, Rabbi, we know that thou are a teacher come from God: for no man can do these miracles that thou doest, except God be with him. Jesus answered and said unto him, Verily, verily, I say unto thee, Except a man be born again, he cannot see the kingdom of God. (John 3: 1-3.)

◇ ◇ ◇

And when he was demanded of the Pharisees when the kingdom of God should come, he answered them and said. The kingdom of God cometh not with observation: neither shall they say, Lo here; or, lo there! for, behold, the kingdom of God is within you. (Luke 17: 20-21.)

◇ ◇ ◇

And I heard a great voice out of heaven saying, Behold, the tabernacle of God is with men, and he will dwell with them, and they shall be his people, and God himself shall be with them, and be their God....

And there came unto me one of the seven angels which had the seven vials full of the seven last plagues, and talked with me, saying, Come hither, I will shew thee the bride, the Lamb's wife. And he carried me away in the spirit to a great and high mountain, and shewed me that great city, the holy Jerusalem, descending out of heaven from God, having the glory of God: and her light was like unto a stone most precious, even like a jasper stone, clear as crystal....And the city lieth foursquare, and the length is as large as the breadth. (Rev. 21: 3, 9-11, 16.)

No Guns For Dictator Franco

Francisco Franco, Spain's imitation dictator has come pleading to the United States, one of the "decadent" democracies, for arms and ammunition, has been given an emphatic "No."

To this a hearty "Amen." This is the Francisco Franco who gave his country a blood-bath that it might be turned into a military laboratory for the Fascists of Germany and Italy. This is the Franco who when Hitler was raining death and destruction on undefended lands parroted the language of the Nazi gangsters and sent his Spanish legions to fight by the side of Hitler in Russia.

Guns for Franco! If fewer guns had gone to Franco in those pitiful years before 1939, if the world had realized what those guns meant for the awful pity of the things that have come to us since, humanity might have been spared a lot. What peace will bring us, no one may say. Heaven grant that it will never bring a return to the complacency that makes the past a tragic memory.—Ottawa Journal.

Noble And Noble

It seems there were two Italian dukes who became kings. One was the Duke of Spoleto, who became King of Croatia, and the other was the Duke of Aosta, who became King of Albania. Both, as far as we know, stayed very carefully away from the capitals of their kingdoms—there's been a little trouble with insurgents. Both have now quit. It may go to show that being an Italian noble isn't necessarily the same as being a noble Italian. — Buffalo Courier Express.

Mountbatten's Father

Lord Louis Mountbatten's appointment to this high position is gratifying also because it atones for the unwarranted slurs cast upon his father Prince Louis, who was an admiral in the Royal Navy in 1914, and was literally hounded from the service because his father was of German birth. —St. Thomas Times Journal.

Italy Invasion Fails To Excite Officials

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4. —(AP) — Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt followed closely today the progress of the Allied invasion of Italy's mainland with the aid of official communiques from the new battle zone.

The two were up until one o'clock this morning waiting for a flash notifying them officially that troops have landed in Italy proper, but they retired before it came.

Their war conferences continued Friday, but each scheduled some separate engagements.

Emphasing the attention, Prime Minister and President have given the Danish revolt against Nazi oppressors, Mr. Roosevelt had an engagement with the Danish minister, Henrik De Kauffmamn.

Churchill's engagements were more numerous. The list included Brendan Bracken, British Minister of Information, and Bernard Baruch, adviser to the U. S. office of war mobilization, in the forenoon; Lt.-Gen. Brehon B. Somervell, chief of the United States Army Service Force, at noon, and Admiral Ernest J. King, Commander-in-Chief of the American Fleet.

Plan Pacific War.

In additon, several off-the-record visitors were scheduled to call at the White House.

Allied chiefs have worked out their war destiny so far in advance that the invasion of the Italian mainland scarcely stirred a ripple in official Washington —which at the moment includes Prime Minister Churchill.

That was the only logical conclusion to be drawn from the reactions of highly-placed authorities when the news of the leap across the Sicilian straits was made known early today. No top-ranking official would express any comment.

The presence of Prime Minister Churchill at the White House was double reason for the official silence. The stress at the moment is on plans for the war in the Pacific, with the implication that immediate plans for Europe already have been perfected.

Mr. Roosevelt already had cancelled his usual Friday morning conference. There was good reason to believe that the cancellation had nothing to do with the Italian invasion. Some observers felt that Mr. Churchill and Mr. Roosevelt wanted even that time to complete their momentous talks. In other words, this fresh assault on the Axis was planned from way back.

United States leaders may have been so especially silent because the leap into Italy was primarily a British and Canadian affair, engineered by the fabled 8th Army of Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery. Whether Mr. Churchill would have anything to say about it later was problematical.

If Mr. Churchill has anything to say, it would be a good opportunity for him to remind the Axis that he promised several months ago portentous action "before the leaves of autumn fall."

Sailor Is Shot Loses Both Eyes

HALIFAX, Sept. 4 (CP). Leading Seaman Edward Richard, R.C.N., of South River Bourgeoise, Cape Breton, N.S., injured in a shooting accident in a cafe here Wednesday, has had both his eyes removed in hospital.

Authorities said today the rating, shot through the head, has a good chance for recovery. The bullet entered the right temple and came out above the left eye.

The shooting occurred when Richard entered the lavatory of the Cafe (Bon Ton). Two shots were heard, and Richard staggered from the lavatory calling for help. A .45 calibre revolver was found on the lavatory floor.

Britons Smile Again As War Takes On Rosy Hue

By ROBERT BUNNELLE
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Sept. 4 (AP).— This is Britain's brightest and most buoyant September since Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain returned from Munich in 1938 to tell cheering people he had assured the world of "peace in our time."

For to-day, after four years of blood, toil, tears and sweat, Britons regard the victory as in the bag.

For the first time in four years the people of these isles allow themselves to hint of peace in Europe, of lighted streets and undisturbed skies. Nobody fools himself that the path of peace is not still harsh and bloody. But London's theatres, night clubs and hotels are crowded and the streets are thronged and there is a spirit of gaiety prevalent that has not been seen since 1938 when there was rejoicing over the delay of the war.

It was Sept. 3, 1939, that the then-Prime Minister Chamberlain dolorously broadcast the announcement to an unprepared country that Germany had ignored Britain's warning to forget Danzig and withdraw her troops from Poland, and "consequently this country is at war with Germany."

The war's first anniversary was the blackest day.

The retreat from Dunkerque and the fall of France had robbed the Britons of their only Ally, most of their weapons and their only trained and equipped ground force. Italy was aligned with Germany in expectation, as Prime Minister Churhill put it, of fattening herself "on the cheap."

The Graman air force was pounding London and the British coastal areas in a siege that lasted 90 days and nights without a pause, and there were few in Britian who did not feel that first invasion of these isles since 1066 was a matter of weeks at the most.

The Gallant Band.

Correspondents who hastened to the channel coast to cover the German arrival saw, instead, Britain's small and gallant air force again and again turn back the bombers which Hitler expected to blast a path to London for his troops.

London looked like a blowzy old woman. The streets were littered with debris, ashes and gutted sandbags. Londoners were finding their shelter accommodations uncomfortable and inadequate. The common phrase that September was:

"We'll muddle through somehow."

That was the September that Britain won the war—simply by refusing to be beaten.

Things looked up a little in September, 1941, for Britain had a new and unexpected Ally in Russia. But many military men were betting that the Germans would take Moscow, Leningrad and Sevastopol before Christmas— and Japan was getting more and more troublesome to offset the advantages of increased aid from the United States.

Submarines made shipping precarious and the people were tightening their belts. But the German air attacks upon Britain were growing weaker and fewer, while those of the R. A. F. on Germany were increasing.

Picture Improves.

September, 1942, found the Americans in. It was a month of anticipation.

The Germans in Africa had riven to within 60 miles of Alexandra and although turned back, they still were a definite threat. In Russia, they were advancing as the Japanese were going ahead in the East. Although the entry of the United States was beginning to make itself felt, the Allies still were on the defensive everywhere. The situation in India was uneasy, but on the whole the people of Britain could see that the balance was swinging in their favor.

This September is a wave of prosperity in London. People are buying for post-war use. The improved shipping situation is reflected in the appearance of new articles on the shelves of the stores.

Many people expect London to get another air raid or two in retaliation for the recent Berlin attacks, but the general opinion is that the worst they feared in 1939 is long since over.

Italian Rebels Aid Invasion

MADRID, Sept. 4 (AP)—A fortnight of sabotage by underground forces, aimed at communication lines, supply dumps, repair shops and airfields, helped pave the way for Allied invasion of continental Italy, according to reports reaching here.

To the accuracy of the Allied bombings have been added persistent wrecking behind the lines by Italians willing to risk the firing squad in order to make the invasion of Italy easier and bring an earlier end of the war.

Saboteurs have been active particularly against railroads rolling stock, according to reports reaching Italians here and received through neutrals. As a result locomotives are scarce in Southern Italy, although they have been guarded day and night by German soldiers.

Wreck Trains

Germans found that locomotives left under the guard of Italian soldiers frequently were sabotaged, it was said.

Representatives of the Yugoslav government in Madrid said Gen. Draja Mihailovic and his partisans remain in radio communication with the Allies "and will strike only when their action is co-ordinated with Allied action."

The Berlin radio declared today that the Allied invasion of Italy was expected by the defenders, who are resisting strongly while watching for fresh landings, and that the Axis is prepared for "two or three blows against the continent."

Capt. Ludwig Sertorius, military commentator of the German News Agency, D.N.B., noting that so far only British and Canadian forces were involved in the landings on either side of Reggio Calabria, told the Germans that "it is to be expected that the Americans will not remain idle in Sicily for long" and that other landings were likely, "possibly in an adjacent sector."

The commentator said, however, that from statements by Prime Minister Churchill it can be deduced "that the potential of the Anglo-Americans is so great as to allow them to deliver two or three blows against the continent."

He estimated the Allied strength in Sicily now at 16 divisions, "of which only a small part has yet been put into Italy."

Further search of the vicinity is planned.

Farmers Decide To Name New Committee

TORONTO, Sept. 4 — (CP). — Three hundred and seventy-five delegates to the Ontario farm conference here to-day adopted unanimously a recommendation to form a permanent committee of 21 members to serve in an advisory capacity to the Ontario Department of Agriculture and with full power to investigate farm problems.

The 21-member committee was formed on an amendment by W. G. Nicholson, of Port Elgin, and Graham Edward of Brantford, that the junior farmers' organizations of the province be represented. Original recommendation was for a committee of 18 members representing various farmer-producer groups of the province plus two members appointed by the Minister of Agriculture to serve Northern Ontario districts.

Adoption of the committee report was moved by R. J. Scott of Toronto, who headed the nomination committee meeting last night. H. L. Craise of St. Catharines seconded the amended report.

Ten of the original 18 farmer-producer groups named are to be selected from the Ontario Federation of Agriculture and affiliated commodity groups and associations.

The remaining eight members will be chosen from other farm bodies.

Wide Representation.

The provincial organizations from which the 10 will be chosen are: The Women's Institutes of Ontario, United Farm Women of Ontario, Ontario Cheese Producers, Whole Milk Leagues, Concentrated Milk Producers, Beef Cattle Producers, Hog Producers, Field Crops Associations, Association of Agricultural Societies, Plowmen's Association, Beekeepers' Association, Fruit Growers' Association, and the Vegetable Growers' Association.

No Opposition Met At Salamaua

ALLIED HEADQUARTER, The Southwest Pacific, Sept. 4 (AP).— The Allied campaign for north-eastern New Guinea appears, for the moment at least, to have knocked out the Japanese air force from besieged Salamaua all the 550 miles to the Dutch New Guinea border.

In earlier stages of the Allied drive on Salamaua, Japanese planes raided forward mountain positions, ranged far to strike across the Owen Stanley Mountains at Port Moresby and down the coast from Salamaua in the region of Buna.

Today's Allied communique, reporting the wiping out of Japanese army headquarters, warehouses, fuel and ammunition stores in and around Madang, said the raiding heavy and medium bombers found only one grounded enemy plane among targets for their more than 206 tons of bombs.

The Salamaua airdrome, now within rifle range of Allied jungle fighters, is unserviceable to the enemy. Fifteen miles above it at Lae, site of another Japanese air drome, today's communique reported a 23-ton bombing raid without mention of air opposition.

Roughly 100 miles above Lae and Salamaua there is an airdrome at Alexishafen. There Tuesday's raiders spotted the one plane and destroyed it.

Three hundred and 50 miles above Salamaua, there are at least four airdromes around Wewak. Since August 17, more than 360 enemy planes have been wiped out there in a series of raids.

The communique on the Solomons told of the destruction by dive-bombers and torpedo planes of a five-inch coastal defence gun several artillery positions and a radio station at Vila, Kolombangara.

10,000,000 Soldiers Defend Europe

By CARL CRANNER,
Assocaited Press Staff Writer.

At last the Western Allies are fighting again on the Continent of Europe.

Two years and four months after the gallant British expeditionary force was thrust from Greece, four years ago to the day after Britain's entry into the war, a British army including crack Canadian units, once more is locked in combat with Hitler's legions on the Continent for his own.

The spearhead of the invasion for which the world has waited so long is that battle-tested 8th Army which turned back the Nazi surge at El Alamein, its high water mark, Canadians fight alongside Gen. Montgomery's British veterans.

The announcement of the big push made no mention of the companion army, the American 7th. This raises the possibility that Friday's landing in Southern Italy may be only the first of a series of thrusts at bastions of Hitler's fortress Europe, to come soon in rapid succession.

The British Empire and its Allies have been building this blow for years and they expect it to be the killer.

In preparation for the day when a strong foothold could be established on the Continent, Britain and Allied troops based on the British Isles have made a series of combined-operations attacks, on verying scale, on the Continent. Greatest of these was the August 19, 1942, assault on Dieppe, France, by a force predominatnly Canadian.

This opens a new phase in the world's most brutal, costly and destructive war.

These general background facts stand out. Hitler is caught in a merciless squeeze between the Red Army and the British-Canadian-American combination.

While his lines are bending in the Ukraine before the relentless pounding of Stalin's warriors, he must now make major dispostions to meet the new onslaught from the south and the threat of others from the west.

Whether the invasion of Italy satisfies Stalin's demand for a second front remains to be seen, but the fact is that even before to-day the Nazi High Command had been compelled to withdraw forces from the east. The steady Russian progress certainly is not impeded by this fact.

The scope of the new campaign remains to be revealed but it certain that it development will involve amphibious operations that will dwarf the previous landings in North Africa and Sicily.

What the Allies have begun is an assault on an entire Continent, well deferred by a formidable, centralized military and industrial power.

This Continent, a veritable hedgehog, is inhabited by 300,000,000 persons. The frontiers Hitler must defend total some 11,000 miles. If his satellies remain loyal—of which there is much doubt— he may have 10,000,000 men for its defence.

J.L. Cohen Warns Canada Faces Poverty

TORONTO, Sept. 4 — (CP). — Canada's war - created industrial capacity is "so extensive, new and challenging in its potentialities that the basis has been laid for a new industrial revolution," J. L. Cohen, K.C., said in an address prepared for delivery to a service club (Rotary) here today.

Mr. Cohen is a member of the National War Labor Board.

"Complete transformation of Canada's economy and its relations to an international industrial world is here to stay and will continue and even develop after the war," he said. "It is idle to assume that Canada can support herself . . . if she demobilizes this vast industrial army, or if she attempts to return them to casual activity of former unemployment or under-employment."

"Canada will either play an active part in the United Nations' process of economic collaboration as distinguished from the Axis plan of global slavery—or Canada will fall into the abyss of poverty on the edge of which its people have been tottering for decades," he continued.

He said the chief resources of a nation are its resources of labor and added: "These same human resources are the only guarantee of a nation's effectiveness and its productive future."

German Prisoner Returns to Camp

OTTAWA, Sept. 4 — (CP). — Internment officials said to-day Petty Officer Arnold Schott, 23, missing from a labor camp at Petawawa, Ont., since August 26, returned to the camp voluntarily yesterday.

Information reaching here was that Schott, who had been working in the bush cutting wood, had tried to take a shortcut to return to the camp and had become lost. Yesterday he finally succeeded in locating the "work line" and followed it back to camp.

Efforts to locate Schott in the bush had proved unsuccessful and police in the district had been provided with his description and asked to be on the lookout for him, in case he had attempted to escape.

PETERBORO BOY CAPTURES DOMINION SWIMMING CHAMPIONSHIP

William Lech Wins 100-Yds. Breast Stroke

WINNIPEG, Sept. 4 (CP)—William Lech, 16-year-old high school student of Peterborough, Ont., son of Mr. and Mrs. Cyril Lech, won the junior men's 100 yard breast stroke championship in the Dominion Swimming Championships here Friday evening.

It is the second time in a few years that a Dominion swim title has been won by a Peterborough athlete as Allan Marshall now serving in the R.C.A.F. took the men's senior 100 yard breast stroke. Both boys were trained by Gordon Minty, well known swimming instructor who forecast a week ago that Lech would top all competitors in this event.

Lech beat out Terry Connolly of Vancouver taking the event in one minute, 18½ seconds. Hubert Martin of Montreal was third.

The new champion is in third form at the Peterborough Collegiate Institute.

Three swimmers — John Langdon of Vancouver, Doug Nothstein of Winnipeg and Charlie West of Montreal — splashed to their second victories in the 1945 Dominion championships here last night.

Miss Langdon, who previously set six Canadian marks, added the senior women's 100-yard breast stroke to the 150-yard medley crown she won Thursday night on the opening program of the three day meet.

As on the previous meeting, Miss Langdon defeated Lorraine Fischer, prominent New York performer. Phyllis Allatt of Montreal was third. The winner's time was one minute 18 seconds.

Nothstein, Manitoba's top-ranking swimmer, took the 200-yard senior men's free style event, beating out William Fydell of Toronto and Bob Johnstone of Victoria. His time was 2 minutes 12 9-10 seconds. Earlier he triumphed in the 440-yard free style race.

Charlie West, who won one of the two championships going to Quebec Thursday night, got his second victory in the junior men's 100-yard free style. He finished in front of Carl Murphy of Toronto and Norman Ashton of Montreal in 1 minute flat. West's other victory was in the 150-yard junior men's medley.

The closest race of the second night's program came when Irene Strong of Vancouver finished inches in front of Irene Greer in the junior women's 100 - yard breast stroke. Margaret Watson of Winnipeg was third. Time for the event was 1 minute 24 1-5 seconds.

Senior women's 100 yard breast stroke: 1, Joan Langdon, Vancouver; 2, Lorraine Fischer, of New York; 3. Phyllis Allatt, Montreal. Time, 1:18.

Junior women's 100 yard breast stroke: 1, Irene Strong, Vancouver; 2, Irene Greer, Montreal; 3, Margaret Watson, Winnipeg. Time 1:24 1-5.

Senior men's 200 yard free style: 1, Doug Nothstein, Winnipeg; 2, William Fydell, Toronto; 3, Bob Johnstone, Victoria. Time, 2:19 9-10.

Junior men's 100 yard free style: 1, Charlie West, Montreal; 2, Carl Murphy, Toronto; 3, Norman Ashton, Montreal. Time, 1:00.

Sport Shorts From Britain

By SCOTT YOUNG
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Sept. 4 — (CP). — It was a satisfying moment. The swift young man singled to left, slid into second on a short single to centre, slid into third on a long fly, and slid into home on another. It was the only run of the game, and both the baseball-wise and the baseball-unwise in the crowd of 22,000 bellowed approval. When the clamor died down, everyone looked at programs to see who he was.

The program said: "S. Sgt. H. Gudtavfson, Madison, Wis., 1 Base Milwaukee, American Association, former professional club," which was the obscure way the program had of saying that he was Hugh Gustafson of Winnipeg ,only Canadian in this fast all-professional ball game between the American Air and Ground Forces.

Gustafson's run (second inning) won the game 1-0, a no-hitter for Sgt. Bill Brech, a free agent pitcher from Syracuse, N.J., and his hit was one of the scanty six given up by ground forces pitchers Ralph Ifft, formerly of St. Louis Browns, and Louis Thuman, formerly with Washington senators.

Gus, who started his baseball on the Winnipeg sandlots, turned professional with Winnipeg Maroons in the Class D Northern League, moved up later to Madison in the Class B three-Eye League and eventually to Milwaukee in the Class AA American Association, looked good in the high-class company. The program in addition to misspelling the name and giving the wrong home town, erred also in his position. Although he was first-baseman by trade, he was playing right field, with first-base filled by Cpl. Paul Campbell, who was with Boston Red Sox last season.

The fact that Gus had to slide his way around all the bases is an indication of the kind of game it was—tight all the way through, and refreshing to the baseball faithful who had waited patiently through a dull first game in which the American Army beat the Canadian Army 6-3.

The line-ups, with no particularly outstanding former pros on either club, still made it slightly better than AA ball. The victorious Air Force team had Lieut. Monte Weaver, former Washington ace, as its coach and included Cpl. Ross Grimsley from Kansas City in the American Association and Sgt. Joe Rundus from Brooklyn Dodgers on the pitching staff; Cpl. Stanley Stuka from Boston Braves, catcher; and Sgt. Jack Gaston from Washington and Cpl. Earl Thompson from Holywood (Pacific Coast League) in the outfield. The other players were men with minor-league experience.

The ground forces lineup looked good, too, with Sgt. Pete Pavich from New York Giants, at short, Sgt. Maurice Pacogs from St. Paul Saints at third, and Cpl. Dick Catalano from St. Louis Cards in the outfield, as well as several Texas and Eastern leaguers.

To those of us who haunt Hyde Park every Sunday and some week nights looking at ball games and trying to recapture the "feel" of a game at home, the scene only lacked a few bags of peanuts and cold drinks to be really authentic. Tea and rolls at the fifth inning in Wembley's carpeted, easy-chaired, press-box is no substitute for the hard benches, dust, chicken-wire, and peanut shells of a Canadian press coop.

Sub. Lt. Stan Leate, former sports editor of the Vancouver Province managed to fill one hole for us by cadging a couple of cigars from American Navy men. They were real 5 cent ones, just like we both used to smoke at home.

The first game was good senior league ball, no better, but the crowd, which although taking no pains to conceal its scorn of batters who insisted on swinging at things, instead of stone-walling, as in cricket, enjoyed it immensely. Apart from the slight tactical errors, the gentle English suspected the not-so-gentle Canadians and Americans of making, they seemed to think it was an excellent way to spend an afternoon.

The Canadian lineup included: Sgt. E. Smith from Kingston, Ont., Cpl. A. Armstrong, Toronto; Sgt. B. Sutherst, Hamilton; Cpl. J. Smith, Toronto; Sgt. P. Giovanella, Kirkland Lake, Ont.; S. Sgt. Al Fleming, Halifax; Lieut. C. Blakeman, Toronto; Spr. Don Price, Kirkland Lake, Ont.; PO. J. Lutes, Toronto; Pte. F. Bartell, Toronto; and a lone Westerner, Cpl. J. Robbie of Winnipeg.

Motor City Lions Grab Sinkwich

DETROIT, Sept. 4—(AP)— The toothless Detroit Lions of the National Football League, who hadn't had any recent good news, learned today, along with the rest of the gridiron world, that Frankie Sinkwich of Georgia will be honorably discharged from the Marines a week from tomorrow.

Last April, having first choice in the pro league draft, the Lions put down the name of Sinkwich, a Marine reserve, on the gamble that he might be of postwar value. Now it is wholly possible that he'll make the wartime Lions a top contender for the title.

"If Sinkwich wants to play football we'll be very eager to sign him," declared Coach Gus Dorais.

Presumably Sinkwich should have no great difficulties arriving at salary terms with the Lions. Detroit is known to have paid the top figure to Earl (Dutch) Clark and later the Lions took the contract of Bryon (Whizzer) White, who reportedly drew $15,000 his first year out of college.

What disturbs the Detroit front office at the moment are reports that Sinkwich is many pounds above playing weight. The Lions open against the Chicago Cardinals Sept. 19 and would want Frankie ready by then.

By FRED D. CRAIG

Westclox girls should have a record crowd at Riverside Park tonight at 6 o'clock when they clash with the fast Clark's Dairy team of Ottawa. The Peterborough champions, in arranging this series with the strong Ottawa club when Coulters of Toronto could not make the trip have provided home town fans with a softball treat and they should show their appreciation by a real turnout this evening and again on Monday at 5 o'clock when the two teams meet in a second game. The Ottawa bunch are a senior squad, at present in the playoffs in their own league and they will be formidable opposition for the Peterborough girls. However the latter are playing smart ball and they figure that meeting teams of the calibre of the gang from the capital will put them in shape for the provincial playdowns in their own series. They are not due to play in the Ontario competition for two weeks and this round with Ottawa will fill in the gaps and help to have them ready for the acid test. Tonight's game will not start until 6 o'clock to allow Ottawa good time to reach here. Monday's battle will be an hour earlier at 5 o'clock sharp and both games should attract real crowds. These games and Monday night's wrestling card are the only sporting events on the holiday week-end.

Under the heading "Winner Losses" Ken Colling has the following on the local softball situation in his Belleville sport column. His dope is a bit wrong. It was the fact that the Battery certificates were dated a week late that caused the trouble. This is his comment: "Yesterday we stated the Peterborough Battery would meet Oshawa Colts in the intermediate "A" playdowns of the O.A.S.A. Folks—it ain't so. True enough, the 4th Battery won the softball championship of Peterborough by defeating the General Electric nine in the city finals, but it's the Electrics who'll clash with George Campbell's Motor City Colts, not the Artillery boys. How come? Well, it seems the Battery management forgot to mail their players' certificates into Sec. Frank Feaver before July 15th and through that technicality were declared ineligible. Actually there is no question as to the eligibility of Jim Ellis' Battery boys and this is not the first time players' certficates have been late into the O.A.S.A. headquarters. The Peterborough Artillery lads have played as a unit since the opening of the softball season and it would actually seem as if the neglect was more on the part of the league officials, rather than the team itself."

Real Test For Comet

Frank Tunney's weekly wrestling card on Monday night should be a fitting windup to the Labor Day week-end and the biggest crowd of the season will undoubtedly see the battle between Gentleman Jack Clayborne and Leo Numa, the unmasked Red Shadow. Numa is the toughest opposition that the Colored Comet has been asked to meet here and those who know the mat game predict that in spite of the colored grappler's speed and cleverness the blonde bomber from the Pacific Coast will take him for a ride Monday night. It is not safe to talk like that among local fans, however, for the Comet has been installed as a prime favorite and they will be out in droves expecting to see Gentleman Jack distribute the former Hood all over the scenery. Numa is plenty tough. When he was wrestling as the Red Shadow he defied all kinds of opposition for many months before the world champion Wild Bill Longson finally tossed him for a loss and his identity was revealed. He is big, fast and rough there is not much about modern wrestling that he doesn't know. Clayborne has shown that he is good but it remains to be seen whether he is good enough to deal with the Seattle sensation.

Gordon Headley, Ottawa sports commentator, throws some light upon a world figure in the sport scene of an earlier day in the following interesting article in the Journal: "Jack Johnson, the second Negro heavyweight in the history of the prize ring to hold a world'c championship, paid a brief visit to Ottawa yesterday while en route to Buckingham, where he will be the guest of "Mike" Mahoney, Ottawa's celebrated figure of the fabulous era of the Gold Rush in the Klondike. Johnson and Mahoney are old friends and at one time in their careers almost were rivals in the ring when the late Tex Rickard tried unsuccessfully to have them meet with the gloves on. Mahoney, a young man then and as strong as a bull, wanted to fight Johnson in a rough and tumble match in the manner that men had fought along the trails and in the mining camps of the Klondike when the stampede for gold was on. The match never took place, however, but the incident served to bring these two men closer together, and it was only natural that when Johnson should be passing this way the frist man to make him welcome should be Mahoney. Johnson started fighting at the age of 16, when he took part in a battle royal, and five years later, in 1899, started a professional career that was to take him into many parts of the world and to the very top in heavyweight boxing ranks. It was at a time when such figures as Jim Jeffries, Jess Willard, Canada's Tommy Burns and scores of others, were making a livelihood with their fists. Johnson started his pro career in the same year that Jeffries knocked out Bob Fitzsimmons to win the world's title."

Twenty For Sewell

To most fans the most interesting feature about yesterday's baseball was the fact that the ancient Rip Sewell of the Pittsburg Pirates picked off his 20th win of the season and became the first pitcher in either loop to grab off a score of victories. Sewell with his looper-dooper parachute ball faced the Chicago Cubs and didn't have any particular difficulty in coming home in front, the Pirates winning 5 to 1. Sewell has been one of the surprises of a somewhat drab season. He discovered a new weapon in baseball and has used it so successfully that he has won more games than any other pitcher under the big top. Another ancient performer got into the head-lines too, Pinky Higgins the well-seasoned third-sacker of the Detroit Tigers coming through with a three-run homer to give the Bengals an 8 to 5 win over St. Louis. Hank Borowy of the Yanks who was not doing too well in the early part of the season indicated that there is nothing wrong with him now by bobbing up with a five-hiter to blank the Washington Senators 4 to 0. Wynn was the loser.

Soccer fans in particular and the sporting public in general were delighted at the announcement that the Picton and Mount Hope R.A.F. teams, two of the strongest football aggregations in the country will play here on Saturday Sept. 18 in a benefit game for the British War Victims' Fund. The visit of the two Flier teams here a year ago was one of the biggest sporting events of the season and over $300 was raised for the Fund. While some of the players who were here on that occasion have moved on to other fields of service the gaps have been filled up by new arrivals from overseas and the two outfits are said to be as powerful as ever. The ranks of the two teams are replete with former professional players and they give colorful demonstrations of football at its best. The Peterborough-Whitaker's Cricket Club are sponsoring the game here and tickets may be had from members of that club. A record crowd is expected for last season's game sold soccer to a lot of Peterborough folk who had never interested themselves in the sport before and they will all be back to see the British fliers in action.

Quaker Tennis Tournament Well Under Way

(Contributed).

A number of the matches in the Quaker Tennis Tournament have been completed with the following results:

In the men's doubles George Scott and Gordon Ross combined to make a steady team of playing Walker E. Jones and Jack Patte 6-3, and 6-4 in the final brackets. This year finds the venerable George Scott as spry as ever and in the first set of any match George can still set the pace for many of his younger opponents. When tennis was just becoming a popular pastime in the Peterborough district, George Scott ranked as one of the most proficient net artists between Toronto and Montreal and travelled far afield to prove his prowess. During these years of campaigning George has built up a knowledge of the game which comes only through experience. His extreme angle shots, draws and lobs to pull his opponents out of position are interesting to watch, except from the opponents side of the net. If our figures are correct, in a couple of years we should see George Scott completing fifty years of active years of his favorite sport.

Mrs Dorothy Weese Clysdale defeated Miss Ruth Johnston 7-5, 6-4, to capture the ladies' singles in a hard fought and interesting match. Miss Ruth Johnson is a newcomer to the Quaker Club and brings with her a basically sound game and extreme fleetness of foot and vitality.

However ,even such tributes were not enough to hold back the ambidextrous Mrs. Clysdale who has a peculiar ability of being able to switch a tennis racket from her left hand to her right hand and play it either way as the occasion demands. Mrs. Clysdale's dominating feature is a remarkable abilty to cover court and return all shots played to her.

Study of court tactics has shown Mrs. Clysdale when these returns should be placed and her unlucky opponent usually finds herself away off balance. This theory has certainly proved its worth in the last four years when Mrs. Clysdale has been ladies champion.

The men's single tournament was brought to a close last evening with the defeat of Mr. George Blais by Andy Rutter. The score of 6-3, 6-2 does not do credit to the brand of tennis exhibited by the loser who had Rutter to game point time and again in both sets but was surpassed by the more experienced player in nearly every game. Mr. Blais is a newcomer to this district from Hawksbury and brings with him a powerful driving mae which should develop into championship calibre with experience.

In the finals of the ladies doubles which should be played within the next few days, Miss Ruth Johnson and Miss Agnes Dixon who defeated Miss Patty Jane Pocock and Mrs. B. Wasson 7-9, 7-5, 6-4 in a keenly contested match will meet Miss Mary McPherson and Miss Alicia Langley the team that defeated Miss Ruth McKee and Miss Jean Moore 6-4, 4-6, 6-1 to attain the final bracket. This should be an excellent match to watch and tennis enthusiasts are cordially invited to the Quaker courts any evening to watch the racketeers.

There are still a number of matches in the mixed doubles tournament which are being held up on account of holidays, but they should be well under way again over the coming week-end and in readiness for the finals next week.

Sewell Chalks 20th Win; All-time Record

By TED MEIER,
Associated Press Sport Writer.

New York Yankees and St. Louis Cardinals virtually clinched yesterday the championships in the American and National Leagues as Rip Sewell, of Pittsburgh, became the first major league pitcher to win 20 games.

In polishing off Washington and Cincinnati, their closest contenders, the Yanks and Cards stretched their leads to 11 and 13½ games respectively.

The Cards had to come from behind with a three-run ninth-inning rally to beat the Reds, 5-4. The Yankees had comparatively easy sailing against Washington, winning 4-0 behind Hank Borowy's five-hit pitching.

Southpaw Johnny Vander Meer of the Reds held a 4-2 edge as the Cards came to bat in the ninth. Whitey Kurowski was safe on an error and Ray Sanders doubled. Martin Marion singled home the first run of the inning and Sanders scored the tying tally on Debs Garms' bunt. Harry Walker ended the game by singling Marion home.

Handicapped by the loss of Harond Clift who was sent home with the mumps, Washington was stopped cold by Borowy's twirling and the hitting of Bud Metheny and Bill Johnson. Metheny socked a triple and homer while Johnson drove in three runs with two singles. Borowy did not permit a Washington runner to reach third in winning his 10th game.

Aided by five Chicago errors the veteran Sewell experienced little difficulty in gaining his long-sought after 20th triumph. He scattered eight hits in beating the Cubs, 5-1

Whit Wyatt's pitching and Luis Olmo's hitting extended Brooklyn's winning streak to seven with a 4-1 triumph over the Giants.

Pinky Higgins connected for a three-run ninth-inning homer to give Deroit an 8-5 victory over St. Louis Browns while Philadelphia Athletics beat Boston Red Sox, 5-4, for their second triumph in 26 games.

The Boston Braves, Phillies, White Sox and Indians were idle.

Hamlin Scores 20th Victory Beating Montreal

By The Associated Press.

Toronto has clinched a share of the 1943 International League pennant and one more triumph for the Leafs will give them outright possession of the bunting no matter what the rampaging Syracuse Chiefs do in their remaining games.

The Leafs defeated Montreal 6-4 last night to clinch at least a title tie. The contest was Luke Hamlin's 20th of the year— the first Leaf hurler to reach that mark since Hamlin turned the trick himself 10 years ago while en route to the majors.

Meanwhile, Newark was eliminated from the pennant race by the big bat of Frank Kelleher, who helped the Bears to the flag last season. Playing now for Syracuse, Kelleher struck a homer with one on in the fourth and repeated in the ninth yesterday as the Chiefs downed the Bears, 4-3.

The Jersey City-Baltimore contest was postponed but Rochester tripped Buffalo, 5-4.

Toronto's victory last night gave Manager Burleigh's Grimes' crew a record of 88 victories, 54 defeats. Syracuse now has 76 triumphs, 66 setbacks. Each club still has 12 games left to play and losing streak of that proportion would give the Leafs a final standing of 88-66. If the Chiefs won all their games they would have the same figures.

Newark, by losing to Syracuse, was mathematically eliminated from the race which now becomes a strictly two-horse affair.

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By CHARLES EDWARDS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, Sept. 4.—(CP).—Mix hockey and baseball and it's a headache. You've seen rival hockey coaches juggling forward lies to keep their opponents guessing. Now that well-known hockey player, Max Kaminsky, has applied the juggling system to baseball and made it stick. Max coaches Port Colborne Victorias, currently leading Welland Atlas Steels two games to one in the Ontario Intercounty Senior League final. In the third game of the best-of-seven series, Kaminsky started Smoky Comy, right-handed speedballer, on the mound with southpaw Pete Copie in right field. When a left-handed batter appeared, Copie took the mound and Comy went to the field. They switched places thus for five innings and Port Colborne won the ball game 2-1. Manager Eddie Runge of Welland tried to cross up this interchange in the fifth when Grogan, a left-hander, went to the plate and Kaminsky signalled Copie to the mound. Then Runge sent Latinovich, a righthander, to bat for Grogan. The cross-up failed for Copie delivered only one pitch, a ball, and Comy returned to the mound, forcing the batter to pop out. Comy pitched to 25 batters and Copie to seven. But maybe it wasn't Kaminsky's strategy so much as his bat won he game. He hit a homer with one on.

Ebullient Egan has become patient Pat. Since he hit Montreal with the Army, the former Brooklyn Americans hockey star has become a model of lacrosse and hockey virtue. Bax (Montreal Star) O'Meara says: "If you were to name the Athlete who had become most popular around here in the past year you would have to cast your vote for Pat Egan. Egan is a quiet fellow and not the swashbuckling type all thought him when he played for the aggressive Amerks.' Next thing we know, Pat'll be taking lemon with his tea.

Vancouver has abandoned hope for a Canadian Football League this year....Ah destiny! Doug Scurr of the Chatham News writes thus: "With the new draft ruling of married men from 27 to 30 years and youths from 18½, to be inducted, the National Hockey League will become somewhat of a farm loop for the service leagues." Wonder what Farmer Dutton will say to that!....Duke Richardsoin landed a 25-pound maskinonge in the St. Lawrence river off Kingston, Ont., using a single bass hook, minnow bait, 10-pound test line and a nine-foot spit bamboo rod.

Driver Is Fined $150 and Costs Given 15 Days

LINDSAY, Ont., Sept. 4 —(ENS) — On August 25th Arthur Alton of Victoria road, called at the farm of Dave Wylie, a pensioner aged 80 years picked up Wylie and a young man named James McDonald and drove at Wylie's request to Kirkfield where the aged man, who was not in good health sent young McDonald, aged 18 years into Faed's Drug Store for two bottles of beef iron wine.

Returning to the Wylie bachelor quarters Wylie and Allen consumed one bottle of the medicine and were about to drink the other bottle when McDonald smashed it against a rock. The trio proceeded to drive to Coboconk when Alton lost control of the car, which was ditched and wrecked, with the occupants burried underneath. Alton was knocked unconscious and Wylie suffered bruises on the wrist and on his body and was unable to help himself. The following day the aged man Wylie died, but Dr. C. B. Waite, Peterborough decided that on a post mortem examination death was due to natural causes, a breaking down of the pancreas tissue.

Friday afternoon Alton pleaded guilty to dangerous driving and was fined $150 and costs. He also pleaded guilty to intoxication while in charge of a car and sentenced to 15 days in jail, his car impounded for three months and his license cancelled for the same period.

Crown Attorney J. E. Anderon asked character witnessess if beef, and wine has been used as a beverage in the Victoria road-Kirkfield district, but no one knew of any previous cases.

Magistrate E. A. Gee "there has been altogether too many charges of drunk driving lately in Peterborough, Bowmanville, Cobourg, Port Hope, Campbellford and Lindsay courst and although this young man has served seven days in jail and has no previous convictions or trouble of any kind, and comes of a highly respectable family, an example must be made, as a warning to other motorists. This thing of getting a few drinks and then getting behind a car wheel must stop. Drivers should realize that the effects of the liquor works on them and accidents take place in a few seconds."

British People Offer Prayers

LONDON, Sept. 4 — (CP). — Friday, September 3, the fourth anniversary of Britain's entry into the war, the people of Britain led by the King and Queen observed a national day of prayer.

Their Majesties with their two daughters attended a service in a country church, accompanied by the Duke and Duchess of Gloucester.

Canadian troops observed the day in their military establishments throughout England.

The day coincided with the opening of the attack on the Italian mainland by British and Canadian soldiers of the 8th Army and in a message to one of the largest of the anniversary gatherings Lt.-Gen. Jacob L. Devers, American Commander in the European theatre, said:

"Our prayers to-day are linked with action.... This is the first of the bridgeheads which in the fifth year of war, with God's help, we will establish and breach the fortress of Europe on land, even as it already has been breached from the air.

"Its annihilation is certain. During the fifth year of their suffering the peoples of the occupied lands may hopefully turn their eyes toward deliverance."

Strikers Refused Voting Privilege

TORONTO, Sept. 4 (CP).— Mr. Justice J. G. Gillanders in a judgment handed down in Ontario labor court today ruled that striking employees of the R. McDougall Co., Ltd., at Galt, will not be permitted to vote in the selection of a collective bargaining agency for employees now working in the plant and office.

Decision to conduct a vote was made on the appication of Local 2890, United Steelworkers of America (C.I.O.) and selection of the bargaining agency will be between the local and the R. McDougall Employees' Association, which succeeded a workers' council recently dissolved at the plant.

Mr. Justice Gillanders ruled that employees who struck while a conciliation board report was pending and are still on strike are not eligible to vote. About 130 persons are affected.

Dieppe Soldier Flees From Nazi Prison

WINDSOR, Ont, Sept. 4—(CP). —Prisoner since Dieppe, Pte. Michael Patrick Coyle, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Coyle, Amherstburg, is now listed as "missing" and behind that announcement lies a dramatic story of escape from his German captors.

Word of their son's escape was received this week by Mr. and Mrs. Coyle, in a telegram from the Department of National Defence, which stated they had been notified by the German government that he had escaped from prison, and now must be listed as "missing."

Pte. Coyle joined the Essex Scottish Regiment overseas in February, 1941, and was taken prisoner at Dieppe, August 19, 1942.

Since being imprisoned at Stalag 8B in Germany, he was injured in an accident while working in the woods and was in hospital for a period, according to letters home. He has since recovered, however. The last letter received by his parents was mailed on May 8, and his escape is reported to have taken place on May 16.

Bankers Offer Hold-up Reward

TORONTO, Sept. 4 (CP).—The Canadian Bankers' Association today offered a reward of an unstated amount for information leading to the arrest and conviction of three men who yesterday robbed the Bank of Montreal branch at Royce and Symington Avenues in West Toronto of $12,540.

It was learned also that the Toronto Police Department will offer a reward for the capture of the trio.

Meanwhile police said three men were apprehended last night and are being held for a police line-up. Officers said further arrests were imminent adding that they think there may be some connection between the robbery of a bread company office at Hamilton last Saturday and yesterday's bank hold-up.

Canuck Fliers Lose 13 Heavy Bombers

By JOHN DAUPHINEE, Canadian Press Staff Writer.

OTTAWA, Sept. 4. —(CP)— Participation in concentrated bombing attacks on Berlin, Nuremberg and the Rhine land industrial area was the major work during the past week of Canadian bomber squadrons based on Britain.

Brief descriptions of these raids were contained in yesterday's weekly Air Force communique, along with information that at least seven German planes were destroyed by Canadian flyers.

The R. C. A. F. loss during the week was 13 bombers.

"Squadrons of heavy bombers from the R. C. A. F. group went with other aircraft of bomber command to Southern Germany (last) Friday night," the communique said. "The target was Nuremberg."

"The enemy's flak was comparatively moderate. He relied mainly on night fighters through which our bombers fought their way not only over the target but along the routes to and from it. Many searchlights co-operated with the fighters, a number of which were destroyed.

Heavy Attack.

"The attack was a very heavy one. Crews reported many concentrated fires some of which could be seen for 150 miles on the way back ....

"Lancasters, Halifaxes and Wellingtons of the R.C.A.F. group went to the Rhineland Monday night to bomb the industrial area of Munchen Glabbach Rheydt. Flying through cloud, flak, searchlights and enemy fighters, our aircraft with many others from bomber command delivered a heavy and concentrated attack.

"There were many combats with enemy fighters, at least nine of which were destroyed, two of them by R.C.A.F. Halifaxes. Crews report many good fires and several large explosions...

"Tuesday night heavy bombers from the R.C.A.F. group went to Berlin for the second time in nine days. The enemy's defences were again very strong. Over the target there were searchlights and flak, fighters and flares, the latter apparently dropped to light up the bombers for the fighters.

"But again these defences did not stop our Lancasters and Halifaxes and many other aircraft of bomber command from dropping a great weight of high explosives and incendiaries in a concentrated 45-minute attack."

NewCommander Named For Ship

TORONTO, Sept. 4.—There is a new skipper at the helm of the good ship H.M.C.S. York to-day. Tall, affable Cmdr. J. J. Connolly yesterday took over command of Canada's largest naval basic training centre as Cmdr. E. T. C. Orde, former skipper of the ship, said good-bye to men and officers who had served under him.

Cmdr. Orde has been appointed executive officer of H.M.C.S. Niobe. Bronzed, soft-spoken, Cmdr. Connolly, a native of Charlottetown, P.E.I., moves up to his present post from the position of executive officer of H.M.C.S. York.

The youthful-looking commander has seen continuous service with the navy since he joined the R.C.N. V.R. in 1927. He has had two years on convoy duty in the North Atlantic.

"We saw some action at sea," he said with the traditional reticence of the "silent service."

Though he dismisses it briefly with: "It lacks official confirmation," the destroyer on which he served as executive officer played its part in adding to the woes of German Admiral Doenitz, whose subs have so successfully been blasted out of the Atlantic.

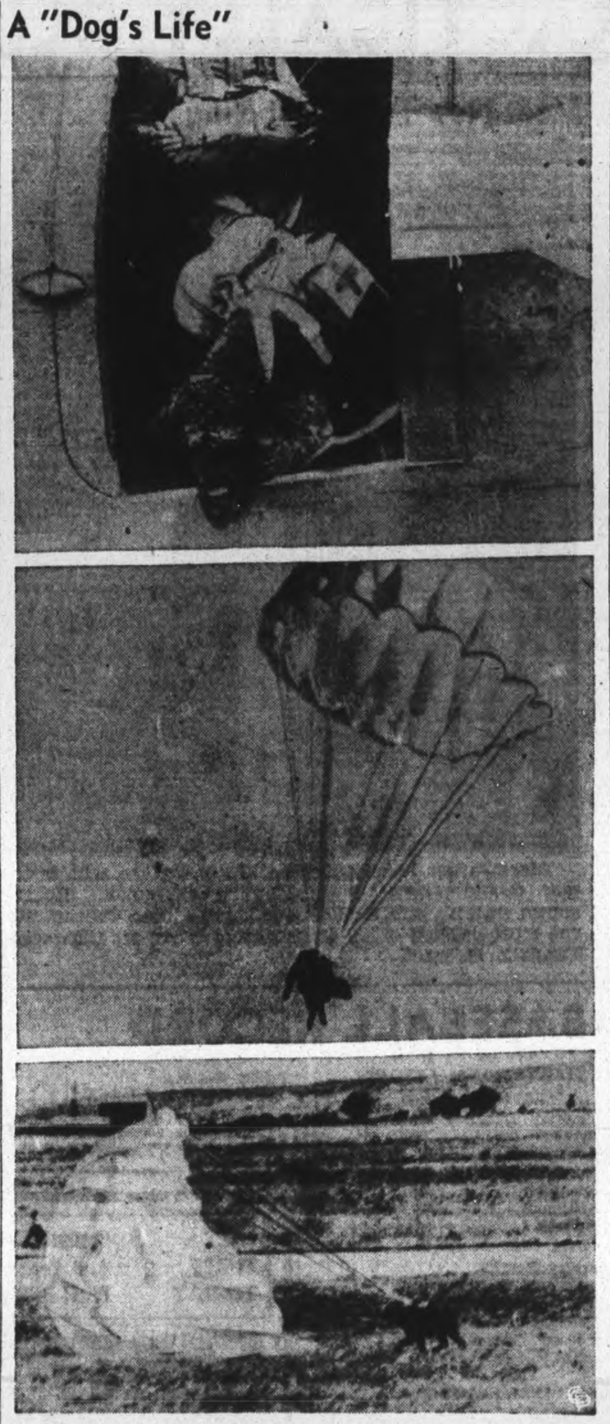
At the outbreak of war Cmdr. Connolly was posted to Halifax, from where he was transferred to a destroyer. He was appointed executive officer of H.M.C.S. York April 1, 1943.

Educated at Charlottetown, Cmdr. Connolly took his naval training at Halifax and aboard Canadian destroyers during the peacetime period Among the ships on which he took his training yere H.M.C.S. Champlain, H.M.C.S. Saguenay and H.M.C.S. Dundee.

Murder Charge

KINGSTON, Sept. 4—(CP).—Walter Haley, 21, of nearby Hichinbrock township, yesterday was charged with murder in connection with finding of a body of an infant in a ground-hog hole in the township last April. Previously he had been sentenced to nine months in Ontario Reformatory when he pleaded guilty to concealing the birth of a newborn baby.

A "Dog's Life"



You have heard of many a dog mascot who took a regular parachute jump from a moving plane. Well, here is an actual dog jump from start to finish. The canine 'chutist is "Chips," an airedale mascot attached to a U.S. Army air base at Alliance, Nebraska. The public demonstration (this is his third) shows him from the time of take-off, TOP, floating in air, CENTRE, to the time he nonchalantly trots away on the ground with his parachute still puffed out by the wind.

Essential Users Get Synthetic Tires

OTTAWA, Sept. 4 (CP).— The Munitions Department announced last night that under tire-rationing regulations passenger car tires made of synthetic rubber imported from the United States will be released for sale immediately, and that manufacture of the synthetic tires has already begun in Canada.

The departmental announcement emphasized that existing tire regulations have not been relaxed, and that the synthetic tires will be available only to essential users eligible to buy new tires.

Rubber Controller Alan H. Williamson said tests so far have shown that synthetic rubber is not as tough as natural rubber for tire manufacture, and that the new synthetic tires therefore must be driven "at low speed and with great care."

Cars equipped with the new tires should not be driven at more than 35 miles an hour, and overloading must be avoided, Mr. Williamson added. Inflation pressures should be checked at least once weekly.

The synthetic tires will bear the following manufacturers' tag:

"This tire bearing our name and serial number is made wholly or in part of synthetic rubber, in accordance with Canadian wartime specifications. For service and safety, this tire must not be driven at speeds in excess of 35 miles per hour, preferably less. For maximum mileage, maintain proper inflation, rotation of tire position, wheel alignment and brake adjustment."

Production of passenger tires was forbidden in Canada five days after the Japanese attack upon Pearl Harbor December 7, 1941, and no such tires were made for civilian use until January, 1943, when limited quantities of reclaim rubber were released for the purpose.

The making of reclaim tires, the announcement said, now will be discontinued. Only limited quantities of synthetic tires will be manufactured, and they will be sold by tire ration permit.

Bomber Pilot Has Luck Blows Out Fire

OTTAWA, Sept. 4 (CP). — For Sgt. Dave McMaster Smith of Winnipeg the mauve-and-white ribbon of the Distinguished Flying Medal is a souvenir of one of the hottest experiences which can fall to the lot of a bomber pilot.

The exploit for which he was cited as displaying "great skill and resources in hazardous circumstances" was described today in a dispatch from an R.C.A.F. public relations officer overseas. His D.F.M. was the first awarded to a member of the "city of Brantford" squadron.

Returning from a raid, Sgt. Smith was surprised by a German night fighter over the Netherlands coast. His bomber was raked with cannon fire at close range.

The wireless operator, Sgt. R. Abbott of Venezuela, was wounded and the bomb aimer, Flt. Sgt. Doug. Nelson of Buffalo, N.Y., was knocked out. All wireless and inter-communication equipment was out of action and the landing wheels were jammed in the "up" position. Then fire started in the fuselage.

Smith put out the blaze by diving 8,000 feet and "blowing" it out. Then Smith got the aircraft home but is not quite sure how he did it.

Industry Needs 900,000 More Women

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4 (AP).— The War Manpower Commission said to-day that approximately 900,000 more women must be recruited by July next year for labor offices in the United States. This would bring the number of feminine workers in civilian and war jobs to the unprecedented high of 18,000,000.

About 17,100,000 women are working to-day as compared with 14,100,000 one year ago, and 10,800,000 in 1940.

Outlining the task of finding hundreds of thousands more, the W.M.C. said "the recruitment job assumes tremendous proportions." Curtailment in non-war industries, it said, will yield no more than 400,000 year-round women workers by July. The most readily available group from which to obtain the balance consists of non-farm housewives between the ages of 20 and 55 without children under 16. This group numbered about 5,600,000 in April of this year.

The problem is complicated, the commission said, by the number of women who enter and then leave the labor market. For that reason it estimated the number which will have to be recruited at 900,000 "net." Lack of domestic help, inadequate child-care facilities, shopping and marketing difficulties all throw tremendous burdens on the housewife who has taken a job. Thus "industry" is having increasing difficulty in retaining its female work force," said the W.M.C.

To remove those obstacles, the commission suggested increased emphasis on programs to aid working wives and mothers, such as the shopping services, child-care facilities, medical care and more attractive eating establishments.

Muffed His Chance

SPOKANE, Wash., Sept. 4 —(AP).—He was sorry he muffed it, Lieut. Philip Nachtigal, Brooklyn, N.Y., told the Spokane Lions' club. A wrestler, he was a winning member of the American Olympic team in 1936. Hitler pinned the Olympic medal on his chest. "If I had just known the war was coming, I would have thrown a half-Nelson on the little runt," the lieutenant moaned.

War Contracts Termination Worries Group

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4 (AP).— Whether United States war contracts should be ended abruptly or tapered off gradually when peace comes has developed into a major controversy among post-war planners.

The issue was brought into the open by Dr. Stanley F. Teele, Deputy Director of the United States War Production Board's Procurement Policy Division, in a speech at Chicago yesterday. Dr. Teele plumped for prompt termination of contracts, "quick cash" from the Government to reimburse contractors and aid their reconversion, and the use of Federal funds to pay dismissal wages to workers.

The W.P.B. officials gave this as a "personal hope," stressing that opinion in Washington had not congealed. Other officials here disclosed that industry itself is divided on the question.

Those industries to which the war has brought unparalleled expansion and to which peace would being a swift and probably lasting deflation, advocate a gradual shutdown on war production to minimize immediate post-war dislocations. Typical of this group are shipbuilders, mining operators, and machine tool makers.

In the other camp are those makers of tanks, ordnance, aircraft parts and the like who would welcome the chance for a quick farewell to war goods and a speedy return to production of automobiles, locomotives, refrigerators and radio sets. Awaiting them will be a backlog of civilian demand good for several years.

MIDNIGHT MINSTRELSY.

Three troubadors in the spacious emptiness of the C. N. One of them had a guitar, and the trio seemed to have a preference for horse opera numbers, one of them a waltz about some cowboy and also some prairie. It is altogether likely there was a girl in it, or lines that bemoan her absence. At any rate the lads were all right, and their string accompanist harmonized well. If they would do their stunt on George street some night in the week they could pick up some change for Fred Mann's fund.

Schools Open On Tuesday, Staff Changes

With the most cordial wishes of his many friends in the city, and also with their confidence in the administration which he is about to begin, Carl S. Browne assumes the position and responsibility of principal of Peterborough's Collegiate Institute and Vocational School at the opening of the new term on Tuesday morning.

Mr. Browne succeeds Dr. H. R. H. Kenner, whose retirement in June terminated his outstanding and unique service of fifty continuous years as a teacher of the Collegiate Institute and as principal in the later years of that long engagement.

The experience of Mr. Browne as vice-principal to Dr. Kenner has been a preparation for the leadership which now devolves to him as head of the dual institution of secondary education which the citizens of Peterborough have long regarded with deep satisfaction and pride in the quality of students it has graduated.

Several changes in the personnel of the Collegiate staff are announced for the new academic year. James D. McNabb, B.A., of Midland, honor graduate of Western University, London, Ontario, specializing in science, has been engaged as teacher of junior mathematics.

Miss Margaret Arnold, B.H. Sc., comes from Copper Cliff to Peterborough as teacher of foods and sewing in the household economics department. Miss Arnold is an honor graduate of the University of Toronto, specializing in household economics.

The Board of Education has also engaged Miss Genevieve Fowler of this city for full time service as librarian. She is a graduate of the library school of the University of Toronto and has already been working during the last month in recataloguing the books and bringing the library into a condition for more effective use by all the students.

Miss Fowler will be in charge of the library every day as a means of assisting the students in their required and supplementary reading. Her appointment is an innovation which the Board of Education has made for the benefit of the students and for the greater efficiency of the school.

The main change in the organization of the Collegiate is a departure which affords to the students entering the ninth grade a choice of following the general course, home economics or industrial arts. The general course is designed for students entering the academic school and preparing for university and Normal School studies.

Students who wish to enter Grade 10 commercial should take the general course in Grade 9. The opportunity of choice at that stage is for the purpose of enabling the students to make clearer decisions of preference than would be otherwise provided. Those who wish to learn more about vocational, commercial and academic education before reaching a final decision, are advised to enter the general course in Grade 9. Then at the end of that first year they should feel more assured of the important decision and step they have to take in continuing their studies.

The home economics course is for girls who decide to enter that department of the school, and industrial arts is for boys going into the vocational department. In industrial arts they get twelve periods a week in shop practice as compared with four periods in general course.

Although there has been generally some expectation that collegiate and high school enrolments at the new term may be fewer than usual because so many of the eligible young folks have been going directly into industry and offices, however, the local outlook for the Tuesday invasion of the Collegiate is for a rather substantial increase, resulting from the expansion of the city's population.

The primary schools of the city graduated 223 boys and girls who passed the entrance examinations as compared with 190 a year ago; and it is expected that more than 300 students will report for admission to Grade 9 as the new term opens.

Public School Changes

An extensive series of changes in the staffs of the Public Schools of the city will be of interest to pupils and their parents.

New appointments include Ross Rutherford of Lindsay to King Edward, Percy Ball of Bridgenorth to King George, and Arnold Olmsteal from Queen Elizabeth School to Queen Mary School

Mrs. J. Telford has been engaged for the fall term of four months in the vacancy caused by leave of absence granted Miss E. C. Deyell of Queen Mary School.

Percy Windrim becomes acting principal of Prince of Wales School.

John Londerville has been appointed acting vice-principal of King Edward School, and Arnold Noftall acting vice-principal of Prince of Wales School.

Other personnel changes are: Mrs. Grace Northey to King George; Miss Iris Borland to Prince of Wales Miss Marjorie Oliver to King George; Miss Frances Bonnycastle from King George to Prince of Wales; Clayton A. Bullock from King George to Central.

Miss Eileen Sellon to King Edward; Mrs. H. Webber from King George to Central.

Miss D. Shannon of Windsor has been appointed teacher of home economics in the Public Schools.

The resignation of Miss Ada Gillespie from the kindergarten department of Queen Alexandra School has been followed by several consequent changes in that branch of three schools,—Miss I. Connelly to Queen Alexandra, Miss Margaret Harris to Queen Mary; and Mrs. Evelyn Rothschill to King George School kindergarten.

Normal Principal.

If they ring the bell, too, at the Normal school, figuratively the call to students will be sounded by the new principal, Edward H. McKone, of London, Ontario, who arrives in the city this evening to take the place which has been for years held with disinction by Dr. J. A. Bannister, now retired. Mr. McKone is a cousin of John A. McKone of the Peterborough Business College. Formerly of the London Normal school he has latterly been Inspector of Public Schools in South Huron.

The Business College stirs again on Tuesday with the returning animation with which all the schools of the city will salute the new academic year. Its enrollment is high. John A. McKone said he could have placed last year twice as many students and graduates as those who registered.

Draw Nets $50 For War Victims

The art of needlework has played a tremendous part in the war effort, most of which will go unsung or without praise due to the almost impossible job of securing full statistics in regard to the loyal work of thousands of the country's patriotic womanhood in this special field of endeavor which has gone quietly on day in and day out ever since hostilities commenced four years ago.

The people of Britain who have suffered through the adversities of war have in some way or other benefitted from this labor of their Canadian sisters, for much of it has either been sent over to be used by those made homeless, or have benefitted in other ways through the result of their work being used here for the purpose of raising money.

On many occasions this handiwork has been used to raise money for a draw on behalf of the Peterborough and District British War Victims' Fund, the latest of which is recorded today in a donation of $50.80, as coming from the proceeds of a draw on a quilt, which was made and donated for that purpose by Mrs. J. J. Stewart of 545 Aylmer street, who in addition to this sponsored the sale of tickets and set out with the definite objective of raising $50.00 on behalf of the sufferers from air raids over Britain.

A Nice Job

How well this succeeded is evidenced by the $50.80 appearing today, which marks the second time Mrs. Stewart has been the means of helping the fund, the former effort producing the sum of $31.55. In this latest effort, mention should be made of a young Finnish boy from Toronto by name of Esko Laakso, Della Rostocky of Aylmer street, and Annie Blackburn of Hunter street, all of whom gave a helping hand in the sale of tickets.

The draw for this was made by Mrs. S. Crowe in the presence of the secretary of the fund, and resulted in ticket No. 710 being drawn, which gave the prize to Mrs. E. G. R. Clarke of Homewood avenue, this marking her first win in an event of this kind. The nice sum raised by this effort must undoubtedly give the donor and sponsor every satisfaction indeed.

Children Sell Flowers

For the second year in a row, the flower garden of Charlton McBride at 16 Manning avenue has been made the means of raising money for the fund, the sales of these being made through his young 8-year-old daughter Mary, who was assisted by Margaret Tink of Hampton, near Bowmanville, and 9-year-old Joyce Beals. Mary has an 18-year-old brother serving in the air force and she was quite pleased at the prospect of being able to send him an account of her own activities to help along the war effort.

Junior Show Next Saturday

On Saturday, September 11, the Horticultural Society is holding its annual show for junior competitors in the Agricultural Rooms on Hunter street, for which entries must be placed by next Friday evening. There are four classes for vegetables, one of which is a special, and ten other classes, two of which are open to children who have no gardens at all, for one is for a collection of six different kinds of leaves from trees, and the other is for wild flowers.

Circulars giving details of the classes, etc., will be available at the various public schools in the city in the early part of next week, and children are urged to enter into the spirit of this contest and make their entries, from which they will learn much of value to themselves in more ways than one.

A collection will be taken for the fund at the show itself, which will open at 1 p.m. and last until 9 p.m. that same evening, so that the show itself will also be utilized for the purpose of doing some good for others. There will be no entrance fee for admission to this event.

THE STARS SAY . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Sunday, September 5

SUNDAY'S HOROSCOPE is a very propitious one for all manner of social, intellectual, affectional and other enjoyments, which are highly stimulated for good cheer and the fulfillment of cherished objectives. However, in business there may be little profit or material satisfaction, and there may be a definite form of disturbance in relation to employers or superiors. Shun all manner of extravagance.

Those whose birthday it is may enjoy a very productive and progressive year by assisting its outstanding talents and abilities through harboring its personal resources of speech, energy, finances and other assets. Extravagance or excess may tend to antagonize elders or superiors to the detriment of excellent prospects.

A child born on this day may be endowed with exceptional talents and mental equipment, but it may be prone to work at cross purposes with elders and superiors.

For Monday, September 6

Monday's astrological forecast is for a definitely exceptional or perplexing state of affairs, which may lead commonplace interests entirely above the workaday or common grooves of experience. While excellent prospects may be shown with efficiency and energy stimulated to cope with whatever may arise, yet there is a swerve toward the imaginative, idealistic or glamorous which might cause distortion of practical issues. Romance or domestic matters lure.

For Tuesday, September 7

A DAY OF romantic events, with all affairs stimulated to high tempo and outstanding achievements, is forecast from an exciting array of planetary forces. Such occurrences materializing under some brilliant stroke of genius, and fortified by far seeing vision or inspirational guidance, may be accompanied by revolutionary moves, with unexpected change, travel, revision of all plans and objectives under this peculiar urge. This is aggravated by certain antagonism from employers or elders but solidly supported by others in power and financial stability. Refrain from impetuosity and strife, and call on glamor or personal charm or grace where it will serve good purpose

Birthday Forecast

Those whose birthday it is are assured of a year of remarkable adventures and experiences, in which great events are on the way to fulfilments and spectacular accomplishments, despite very drastic and revolutionary circumstances, surprising and unpredictable. Inspiration, intuition or "hunches may mark such crises, in which there will be opposition from some quarters and the friendliest of support from other substantial sources. The personal element, with magnetism and glamor effective, may be exercised to put over brilliant coups.

A child born on this day will be excellently endowed with talents and ingenuity for surprising strokes of genius, in business, finance, professions or in social prestige and position. Its impetuous moves may be detrimental.

Societies Start Fall Activities

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 4. — (ENS).— A fine program featured the opening fall meeting of St. John's Evening Auxiliary which met on Thursday with an attendance of thirty-five members. The meeting itself was in charge of Group 2 under the leadership of Mrs. M B. Sayers and Mrs. G. Labrash presided. The devotional period was very capably handled by Miss Stella Keir with the assistance of Mrs. George West, Miss Margaret Dafoe and Mrs. G. N. Maxwell. A feature of the program was an address on Foreign and Home Missions in the Post War World given by Mrs. E. C. Roberts. Others who took part in the program were Miss Carolyn Archer who gave a vocal solo; Miss Marie Lisle, Betty Green and Helen Young, a piano and guitar selection; rMs. A. G. Watson, a vocal sólo; Mrs. Arthur Labrash, a piano slo. At the close refreshments were served by the group in charge of the meeting and Miss Velma Runnells conducted a contest.

St. John's W.M.S.

The keeping of graphic charts showing attendance and givings and comparing these with the corresponding period for the preceding year, will keep these two important matters before members of St. John's W.M.S. This was revealed at the opening fall meeting held Thursday afternoon when the Society heard an address of timely interest on the Nisei. The speaker was Mrs. E. C. Roberts who discussed the problem of the Japanese Canadians from the long range viewpoint, describing the work of the church in the newly created towns populated by second generation Japanese who had been removed from strategic coast centres after the outbreak of war in the Pacific. Mrs. Roberts described the enthusiasm with which the people had rallied to the formation of W.M.S. and Young People's groups, but declared there was a crying need for organizational work of this type among young people. Though various church groups are striving to cope with the situation the biggest problem at present is the shortage of workers who are able to deal with these matters. She foresaw the growth of a dangerous situation among these people unless some more realistic program was worked out.

DOROTHY DIX

GIRL PLANS TO GIVE BABY AWAY TO AN OLDER SISTER. Husband Is in the Army and Their Parents Are Poor; But the Idea Won't Work.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I am a girl war-wife. My husband is in the army and will soon be sent overseas. A baby is coming, and I have to give up my job. Neither his people nor mine are able to take me in. My parents are willing to let me stay with them, but I don't feel I should. They are old, both have all they can do to keep a store running, and I would be a burden. I have a little money in the bank and, with what my husband could send, I will be able to keep going if what I planned works out. That is, when my baby is born I will give it to an older sister who has no children.. If I let her adopt the child I can work, save money, and, when my husband returns, we can begin rearing a family. Would this be wise? We talked it over and tried to think of other ways, but cannot. Can you give me a suggestion?

A VERY WORRIED WIFE.

ANSWER: My only suggestion is —put such a foolish idea out of your head. It won't work. Quit worrying over something you cannot change, and summon all your courage to meet it intelligently. Of course, you hate to be a burden on your parents, but you can lighten it by helping them, in the store and taking the housework off your mother's shoulders. You will be dependent on them for only a little while, because you will soon be able to go back to your old job, and, anyway, it is part of the miracle of mother and father love that standing by their children when they need it and helping them is never a sacrifice whose price they count. They only thank God they were able to do it.

Don't think of giving your baby to a sister when it is born. You won't be able to do it when the time comes. The first time you feel its little hands on your breast he will have tangled them in your heartstrings, and you will never have the hardihood to tear them loose. You will never be able to turn him over to your sister, to bear hearing him call her mother, and seeing him grow up apart from you. And it will be a cruel thing to let a sister set her heart on having this child and then be disappointed because you cannot bring yourself to carry out your part of the bargain.

The war will not last forever. It will not be long before you will be able to go back to work and support yourself and baby. Your husband will come back safe in all probability and you will have a long and happy life together. Just keep this thought in mind, that just as nothing is ever quite as good as we hope, nothing is ever as bad as we fear. Our problems that seem insoluble in the distance straighten out as we grapple with them, so keep a brave heart. Do the best you can every day and don't think about to-morrow.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: It seems that youth is the curse of being young. Every paper or magazine you pick up ridicules youngsters, denounces their ideals, makes fun of their plans, ambitions, and dreams. Why is it so ridiculous for the young to be in love, like life, love the present and the future, and want to marry? My boy friend and I are 20, and in love. We want to marry. And if it were not for the cold splash of water on our spirits against wartime marriages, we would have done so, but we talked it over and decided that mother knows best, so we try to content ourselves with being engaged. But he is writing and asking me to marry him now, not wait, and I yearn to do so very much. Yes, I know he may come back all shot up, but if he did I would marry him regardless. He may not return, but why not give him the little bit of happiness he desires? Then, again, he may come back sound and healthy. After all, it is for me ond others like me that he is fighting. And statistics show that there aren't any more casualties in wartime than in peace. He could break his neck falling down stairs in his own home. What do you think?

IMPATIENT.

ANSWER: I think anybody who is that anxious to marry should do it, war or no war. And, after all, your case does not come under war risks against which so many voices are raised in warning. You and your fiancee are not two adolescent kids so emotionally undeveloped that they do not know their own minds from day to day, and who are incapable of anything but puppy love. When these children get married, just because everybody is doing it, and they feel that they must have a wedding ring, just as they must get the same kind of saddleback shoes or sweaters all the other boys and girls have, they are taking a foolhardy gamble on their futures, because there isn't one chance in a thousand the youngsters won't forget each other and fall in love with some other boy or girl before the war is over.

But youngsters in their twenties are at a marrying age. They know what they want in a husband and wife, and they can have for each other a love which lasts a lifetime, and can survive all the blows of Fate. Where did you get the idea that all the older people are down on youth, that they ridicule and denounce the dreams and ideals of youth, make sport of their plans and ambitions? Nothing could be farther from the truth. Why, the world is run for youth. We older people are its slaves. And it is only because we stand behind, helping, encouraging, and opening the way that you are able to make your dreams come true.

Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Squire Wed 50 Years On Monday

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Herbert Squire, 684 Water street, will celebrate fifty years of married life on Monday when they observe their golden wedding anniversary. Mrs. Squire was born Margaret Jane Elliott in September, 1871, in Norwood, youngest daughter of Isabella Howson and John Elliott. Mr. Squire was born in December, 1870, near Walverhampton, in Staffordshire, England, the youngest son of Mary Lane and Joseph Squire.

The wedding took place on September 6, 1893, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Elliott, and Mrs. Squire's bridesmaid was the groom's sister, Alice Squire, now Mrs. John Elliott of Norwood. She was also attended by a flower-girl, Fledda Howson, now Mrs. Lyle of Ridgetown, Ontario. Both bridal attendants will be present at the reception to be held on Monday.

Mr. Squire came to Canada in 1886 with three of his brothers. A miller by trade, he owned and operated flour and grist mils in many Ontario towns and villages. Among the places he and his wife lived were Lonsboro, Smith's Falls, Queensboro and Mount Bridges. He retired fifteen years ago, shortly after coming to Peterborough, and has lived here ever since.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Squire are members and regular attenders of George Street United Church. They are both very active and take a keen interest in everything that goes on around them. They have three children, a son, Earl of McCreary, Manitoba, and Vera and Mary at home. There are two grandchildren, Alan and Margaret, of McCreary. Alan will be here with his father for the celebration, and Margaret spent last year with her grandparents, and atetnded the Collegiate.

Several members of the original wedding party will attend a dinner at the Empress Hotel on Monday, when the guests will include Mrs. Squire's two sisters, Mrs. Annie Duncan of Islington, and Mrs. Uriah Payne of Warsaw, and her brother, Mr. Thomas Elliott of Norwood; Mr. Squire's brother, Mr. Bert Squire of Norwood, Mr. John Elliott of Norwood, and Mrs. Linden Howson of Norwood, as well as the bridal couple and the bride's attendants. The bridesmaid and flower-girl of 50 years ago will receive with Mrs. Squire at the reception.

"Now I can get my work done!"

"IT'S not like it used to be. I remember when I would spend an hour or more each morning, just chatting on the telephone. I've cut out those long telephone conversations—and a lot of my friends have too.

"We don't feel it's right to take up time on the telephone when we all know how urgently lines are needed to handle the traffic created by the war. I know I'd hate to think that I had delayed an important war message!

"Now we all save our news for our meetings at the Red Cross and use the telephone only for necessary calls."

LAWN BOWLING

By the combined efforts of the members of the Peterborough Lawn Bowling Club and their friends, the neat little sum of sixty-one dollars ($61.00) was realized at a mixed tournament held last evening for the British War Victims Fund. The money will be forwarded in a day or two by the club secretary to the treasurer of the fund.

It was a nice response by our club members and the committee in charge appreciates the co-operation.

The winning rinks were skipped by G. Coleman, Sr., B. Chesler and R. F. Downey.

On Monday, Labor Day, we intend holding a mixed tournament, draw from the board at 1.30 o'clock. The fee is set at 25c.

In the play-offs for group honours in the ladies' section, Mrs. C. Renauds' rink defeated Mrs. J. Arnold's rink and will now meet Mrs. R. Dyer's rink for the Denne trophy.

We are now printing the draw for Tuesday's games, and we have been advised that this contest will be continued on Wednesday evening.

Tuesday's Draw.
E. Wall vs. R. Hutchinson.
R. Burns vs. H. Darling
F Dearborn vs. Dr. Fulford.
B. Chesler vs. G. Gimblett
R. Dyer vs. W. Jeffries.
T. Ryan vs. C. Elliott.
R. Payne vs. G. Coleman.

Lovely Lily Pool Made With a Tub

Container Sunk in Ground

How a lovely lily pool adds to your garden! And it takes no more room—is no more trouble—than the average flower bed. Just sink a container in the earth, put dirt in the bottom and add water.

Your container may be a wooden tub. One that's only two feet in diameter will have room enough for a lovely pygmy lily and several graceful aquatic plants.

You can get pygmies of all kinds these days—hardy and tropical—in white and lovely colors. One plant will give dozens of blooms.

What to plant around the pool, to give it a natural, woodland look?

Forget - me - not, moneywort, marsh-marigold make a charming frame for the stone edge. Clumps of regal fern and marsh iris give height and variety — reflect themselves beautifully in the water.

How to make your pool? Our 32-page booklet gives easy directions for container, natural and cement pools. Tells how to grow water lilies, suggests what to plant around pool, and also has directions for making rock gardens.

For your copy of "Making Lily Pools, send 15 cents in coin or stamps to the Home Service Department of the Peterborough Examiner. Be sure to write your name, address and name of booklet plainly.

First Division In Fine Fettle

OTTAWA, Sept. 4 (CP). — The 1st Canadian Division, which occupied Sicily jointly with British and American forces is "in great heart," Maj.-Gen. G. G. Simonds, its commanding officer said in a message to Prime Minister Mackenzie King.

Text of Gen. Simonds' message, replying to a congratulatory message sent him Aug. 27 by the Prime Minister, follows:

"On behalf of all ranks of 1st Canadian Division I thank you for your inspiring message, and we shall continue in our duty reinforced by your words of encouragement.

Would you please assure your colleagues of the Government of Canada and the Canadian people that their soldiers here are in great heart, that they face the future with full confidence, and that my own responsibilities are lightened by the knowledge that I command troops whose courage, skill and endurance are unsurpassed by any in the world.

We have taken the measure of our enemies and, though there may be bitter fighting ahead with its inevitable losses, we shall not look back until those enemies are finally defeated."

"The Authority on Authorities"

CAN YOU AFFORD IT?

TRYING a finesse, for the sole purpose of seeking an extra trick above your contract, is very fine bridge unless it endangers your contract. Sometimes you cannot afford the luxury of extra tricks, as the hazard involves possible defeat of your entire project. It may be that the setting up of a suit, the protection of an entry, the keeping of some particular defender out of the lead or some other consideration is a much more important factor than the few additional points which winning the finesse may bring. If so, forget the finesse and go for your contract.

	♠A 9 7 ♥A 9 6 ♦10 ♣J 10 9 8 6 5
♠J 10 5 ♥K Q J 7 ♦J 7 4 2 ♣K 4	N W E S	♠K Q 6 4 ♥4 3 2 ♦Q 9 5 ♣7 3 2

(Dealer: East. North-South vulnerable.)

East	South	West	North

Pass	2♦	Pass	2 NT
Pass	3 NT

East opened his heart 4, and North made a very cursory study. He held up his A for one round, letting the J win, and then took the heart K with the A. Seeing that he might get six club tricks if the finesse would work, and the K would then drop on the second round, he tried it at once and lost to the K. West took two more hearts, making four tricks for his side, then led his spade J. All at once North realized he had blocked the club suit, as the spade A got knocked out before the club A was gone from the dummy.

North really fumbled two chances to make his contract. First, it would have been safer to take the club A on the first round and lead the Q, in the hope that the defenders would take that trick and thus unblock the suit. Not having done that, West gave him another chance, which he failed to recognize. When the last heart was led by West, North discarded a spade from the dummy. All that he had to do was toss off the club A, clearing the suit in the closed hand.

If, however, West had not taken the 13th heart, but had returned a spade instead, all that the declarer could have taken would have been the tricks he did get anyway, two diamonds and one each in the other suits. But he got set four tricks anyway, through his own blunders, in spite of the extra chance which West gave him to make his contract.

Lack of Vitamins Ruins Your Looks

Glowing Beauty Depends on Diet

The radiant, outstanding young woman is likely to be the one who knows her daily vitamin requirement and gets it!

She knows, for instance, that for pep, steady nerves and good appetite she needs 1,500 units a day of Vitamin B. So a typical day's meals for her include a slice of whole-wheat bread, an orange, an egg, a pork chop, a potato and a portion of peas.

She doesn't have to peer awkwardly in dimly lighted rooms or blink on suddenly emerging into bright light, for Vitamin A keeps her eye adjustments normal. She easily gets her 5,000 units a day from rich sources like spinach, carrots. Such everyday foods also give C and G.

Follow a simple menu plan and you'll get enough vitamins, too! Our 32-page booklet suggests vitamin-rich menus, gives a minimum "Keep Fit Diet," a vitamin requirement table and a list showing vitamin units in everyday foods. Explains what each vitamin does for you, tells 10 ways to preserve them in cooking.

For your copy of How Beauty Depends on Diet send 15 cents in coins or stamps to the Home Service Department of the Examiner. Be sure to write your name, address and name of booklet plainly.

Nab 2 Suspects In Bank Robbery

HAMILTON, Sept. 4 — (CP).— Machine-gun robbery of a Bank of Montreal branch in Toronto last Wednesday has resulted in the arrest of two Hamilton men—Harry Hedderson, 35, and Donald Hill—who have been charged with armed robbery in connection with a hold-up at the R. B. Hill Ltd., Bakery, here, last Saturday.

Hedderson and Hill were picked up in a sweeping round-up conducted by Toronto police following the hold-up of the Royce and Symington avenue branch bank there Wednesday when three men escaped with more than $12,000. The pair were held on a nominal charge of vagrancy at that time, and after questioning, they were turned over to Hamilton authorities. The two are to appear in Magistrate's court here tomorrow.

An estimated $5,300 in cash and Victory Loan Bonds was taken from the cashier's cage at the Hill Bakery by four men armed with a revolver, clubs and what was thought to be a sawed-off shotgun.

Reservists Fined

KITCHENER, Sept. 4 —(CP). — Four reserve army soldiers were fined $5 and costs in police court to-day for failing to attend regimental parade Sunday, Aug. 29. Magistrate Frederic Watt of Guelph, urged them to attend regularly in future.

"The Authority on Authorities"

"TRUMP COUPS" RARE

"TRUMP COUP" is the name applied generally by veteran cardsmen to any play whereby the declarer shortens his trump holding by ruffing, so that he can finish the hand holding a tenace position in trumps over an opponent, with the leading coming from dummy through the defender. If the cards which he ruffed in the process were not high or established ones, the play is properly called a "Simple Coup," though neophytes frequently describe it improperly as a "Grand Coup." That grandiloquent term is reserved strictly for those cases in which the ruffed card or cards would have been winners if the declarer had not ruffed them.

North: ♠ K 9 2 ♥ K 4 ♦ A K 7 ♣ A Q 9 6 5

West: ♠ 10 8 3 ♥ 8 ♦ 10 6 5 2 ♣ K J 8 7 2

5 ♥	Pass	7 ♥

After winning the spade 10 lead with the A, tricks with the Heart K and A disclosed the trump situation, East holding a sure winner if the lead at the end of the hand came from South. The only hope was a trump coup, getting rid of two of South's trumps. So he scored the diamond Q, led to the diamond K and ruffed the club 5 with the heart 6 to start the coup. To the spade K he went, then ruffed the club 6 with the heart 9, making it a double coup.

Came next the spade Q, diamond J to the A, club A discarding the spade 7, being fortunate to find East obliged to follow suit on all these tricks. Now for the coup de grace. When the club Q was led, East had only the heart J-7, which got trapped by South's Q-10, completing the grand slam.

If the two clubs which South ruffed had been top clubs instead of the 5 and 6, the play would have been exactly the same, but it would have been called a "Grand Coup" instead of a "Simple Coup."

Tomorrow's Problem

North: ♠ 9 7 6 2 ♥ 8 7 4 ♦ A 6 3 2 ♣ K 5

West: ♠ J 10 8 3 ♥ A Q ♦ 10 9 7 4 ♣ 9 6 3

South: ♠ A K Q 4 ♥ 9 5 ♦ K Q 8 ♣ Q J 10 4

(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable.)

After West leads the diamond 4, what should South do in an effort to make 4-Spades on this deal?

Senior Students Given 2 More Weeks

TORONTO, Sept. 4 — Premier Drew yesterday promised full co-operation and support of the Government to a committee of Ontario agriculturists who are to conduct a survey into the farm situation in the Province and report back to the Government.

The committee will have power to conduct a full inquiry, collect evidence and obtain expert information on farm problems. It was chosen be a large gathering of farm organization heads and others at the Ontario Agricultural Conference which had been called by the Government and which ended last night.

Mr. Drew, in announcing third, fourth and fifth form high school students would be given an extra two weeks' holidays in order that they might assist in harvesting crops, appealed to all pupils to volunteer for farm work during the extra two weeks.

Committee members chosen are: Howard Craise, Lincoln County; M. M. Robinson, Halton; W. Montgomery, Prince Edward; Mrs. C. Holmes, Hastings; Harry Scott, Oxford; Roy Lick, Ontario; Stewart Brown, Elgin; W. Brechin, Halton; M. B. Cochran, Lanark; Alex McKinney, Peel; W. A. Dryden, Brooklin; James Henderson, Portsmouth; Charles Boynton, Gormley; W. L. White, Seaforth; N. A. Fletcher, Wentworth; Lloyd Giresbach, Collingwood; Harry Wilson, Charing Cross; Harold Huffman, Blenheim.

The conference, Premier Drew said as it closed, "has laid the foundation for definite and positive action. The committee chosen will be given full powers and an opportunity to organize and plan for the production of food in this Province. I believe this is the beginning of a new deal for agriculture in Ontario.

I hope that over a period of time, we will be able to give this Province legislation and authority to form organizations not only for the welfare of the people of Ontario, but to provide suggestions worthy of consideration throughout Canada.

North to Be Represented

"While Northern Ontario has, as yet, no representation on your committee," he said, "I would like to make it quite clear that there will be representation from the North, where peculiar and entirely different conditions may exist in agriculture.

"The committee you have named will have very wide authority. It will have power to conduct a full inquiry, collect evidence and expert information. And when it returns to the Government, full consideration will be given to everything it has done."

Earlier in the day, the conference had passed a resolution urging schools be kept closed for an additional two weeks.

"Because of special circumstances which exist and because conditions have arisen which could not be foreseen, I have today ordered that third, fourth and fifth forms should remain closed for two weeks," Premier Drew said. "Things like this emphasize the need for the kind of committee you have chosen — what is needed is planning in advance on the farms so every one will know just what is expected.

"The critical need for food overrides everything else and the need must be met as you suggest," he said. "In closing those forms, I must emphasize it was not done with the idea of giving holidays, but with the idea of giving pupils an opportunity to work. This applies not only to those who are now doing farm work, but also to all others who should try to find a chance to do this work which is so vital," he declared.

Fact-finding Body.

Hon. T. L. Kennedy, Minister of Agriculture, said the committee was to be a fact-finding body. He said when money was needed for farm machinery, fertilizers or central storage facilities, the Government would be able to borrow the money and loan it at a low rate of interest. "Every farmer knows the undesirable condition into which agriculture has plunged in recent years. I hope that all will realize the condition faced by the farmer."

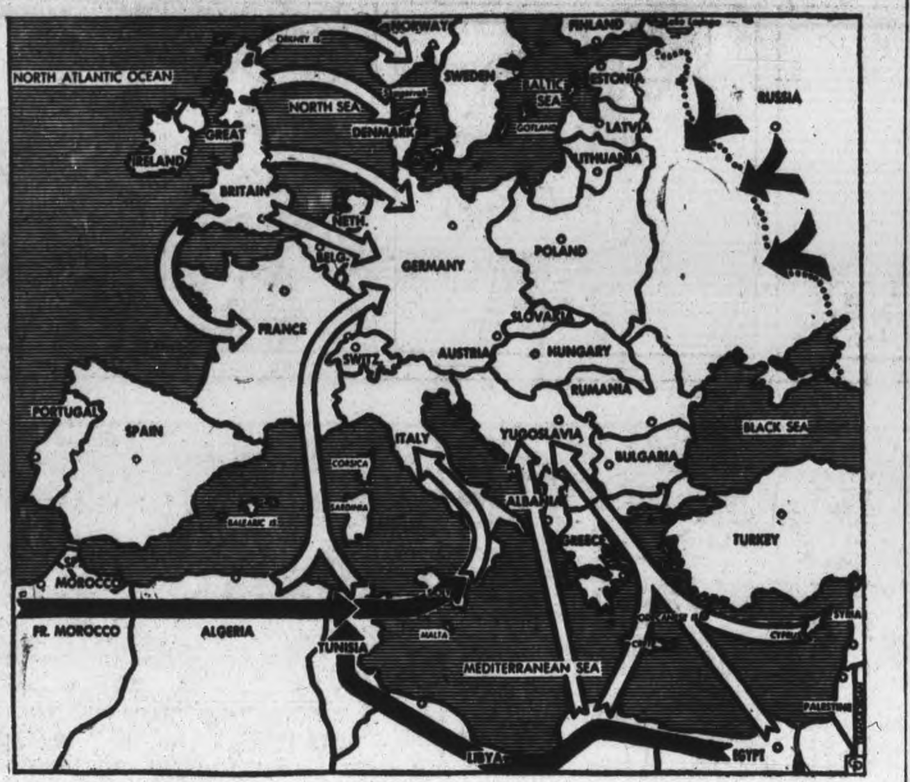
They will arrive at Fort Erie Sunday night.

Hitler's Roofless Fortress Trembles



The Allies have struck across the Straits of Messina at the toe of Italy's boot. Allied communiques emphasize the fact that it is a continuation of their thrust through Sicily and not an official "second front." The whole of Nazi Europe trembles in apprehension as to where this second front will be. Light arrows on the map ABOVE indicate most of the possible invasion points, while the black arrows indicate action up to date. Yugoslavia, in the opinion of military experts, may play an important role in the assault. For this operation a British army of 1,000,000 men is held in readiness in the Near East. This action will further endanger German positions in Russia. Likely stepping stones in this operation will be Cyprus, the Dodecanese Islands and Crete. To the west, veterans of the Sicilian campaign have pushed across to Italy and may continue their push up through Italy to enter Germany via the Brenner Pass. Another possible gateway to Hitler's domain is through France's south coast. In England, combined American, Canadian, British armies are poised for a frontal assault on the Nazi fortress, with France and the Low Countries destined to resound to Allied might smashing towards Berlin. Some experts believe that Norway and Denmark are included in Allied plans.

It was the fourth time that Munro had set foot on enemy soil with invading Canadians.

In the summer of 1941 he accompanied a brigade of the Canadian 1st Division to Spitsbergen. In August, 1942, he was with the troops that dashed ashore for the battle of Dieppe, France. And last July 10 he went further afield to land on the Pachino beaches of Sicily with the 1st Division, reporting the 38-day campaign until its conclusion.

It was also the fourth time that Munro scored a beat on a Canadian operation. At Spitzbergen, he was the only newspaper man present, and at Dieppe and Sicily he scored world beats.

The Sicily beat was 7½ hours ahead of the frist story by any other of the 52 British, American and Canadian correspondents with the invading army.

Toronto Plant To Make New Penicillin

TORONTO, Sept. 4 — Behind a brief, formal statement by President H. J. Cody that scientists of the Banting Institute, University of Toronto, have worked out a process adaptable to large-scale production of penicillin, lie plans for the utilization of this process in a huge laboratory financed by a $2,500,000 appropriation recently approved by the Federal Government, it was learned last night.

Although university officials restricted their remarks on their year-long research to the presidents' statement, it is known that for some time plans have been under consideration for the acquisition of sufficient space for a wide expansion of the methods developed by the Banting researchers in a pilot plant operated for several months. At present, it is understood, Connaught Laboratories and Banting Institute workers have old Knox College, on Spadina Crescent, under consideration as a location which provides sufficient space and proximity to the institute and the university department of pathology and bacteriology.

Huge Convoy Reaches Britain

AN EAST COAST CANADIAN PORT, Sept. 4 (CP). — Ready for the day of attack when it comes, a large group of thousands of reinforcements for Canada's land, sea and air forces sailed from here recently. Their arrival in Britain was announced last night.

These additions for the Empire's "combined operations" forces came from all sections of the Dominion, and represented scores of different units, with army personnel predominating.

With them were representatives of the sister forces, some R.C.A.F. Women's Division personnel and a group of nursing sisters.

Maintaining the international flavor always marked in these eastward Atlantic crossings were representatives of various foreign services. Norwegians, Fighting French, Polish army men and fliers mingled with their comrades in arms of British descent or sought out men from the mother country in the Canadian or the British forces.

SIXTY MILES OF COASTLINE OCCUPIED

Soviet Army Besieges Stalino City

More Than Half Donets Valley Recovered By Reds

LONDON, Sept. 7 (CP)—Russia's great summer offensive, battering the Germans on five key sectors along a 600-mile front, drove to the outskirts of the great steel city of Stalino in the Donets Basin today and raced on toward Kiev, capital of the Ukraine, after storming the stronghold of Konotop, junction of the Bryansk-Kiev trunk railway.

A Moscow communique, recorded here by the Soviet Radio Monitor, said more than 10,000 Germans were killed and nearly 300 towns and villages captured in gains ranging from six to 15 miles during yesterday's advance.

3,000 Nazis Die

Stalino's fall was expected momentarily. Outskirts of the city were won in a smashing attack on a 80-mile front in which 3,000 Nazi soldiers were killed. Moscow broadcasts said the Germans had set fire to the city and indicated the enemy was in headlong flight. Swarms of Soviet warplanes raced on ahead of the motorized ground forces, blasting concentrations of German troop trains at Volnovakha, southwest of Stalino, and demoralizing what Berlin described as a "planned retreat" toward the Dnieper River defence wall, 140 miles to the west.

Moscow also claimed the capture of Slavyansk, Kramatorskaya and other points long the 60-mile Stalino - Slavyanks railway. This operation severed one German escape route in the Stalino sector and threatened to engulf important segments of enemy forces.

Take Much Booty

Scores of enemy tanks and guns, as well as valuable war dumps, fell to the victorious Red Army.

Capture of Makeevka, six miles east of Stalino, itself an important steel and iron centre, apparently cracked the inner Stalino defence lines.

Further north the enveloping

It Didn't Work

UNITED STATES ARMY HEADQUARTERS, South Pacific, Sept. 7—(AP).—In the final drive on Munda Maj.-Gen. Robert S. Beightler refused to rest, so a higher official detailed an aide to Beightler's dugout with orders to see that he stopped worrying and slept. Next morning, the aide, his eyes looking like holes burned in a blanket, reported the top officer: "Sir, Gen. Beightler kept me up all night."

Hotel Tragedy Takes Lives Of 47 Persons

HOUSTON, Tex., Sept. 7—(AP).—The charred ruins of a small midtown hotel swept by fire disgorged the bodies of 47 persons early today.

Searchers were digging through the smoldering building for others still unaccounted for among the 133 war workers and transients known to have registered for a night's lodging.

Eyewitnesses said many men jumped from the windows and a fire escape.

The blaze quickly blocked off one of the two fire escapes to the three-storey brick structure. An inside stairway likewise was made impassable for those caught on the two upper floors.

Flames poured from every opening and crevice in the building, one of the oldest in Houston. Firemen could not lay ladders against it.

Police and firemen said it was probable other bodies would be found in the wreckage.

They said that only three of the 46 had so far been identified.

The fire started shortly after midnight on the second floor of the three-story structure. The hotel occupied the upper two floors.

Police quoted W. L. Chappell, the night clerk, as saying that about 12:15 a.m. he heard someone on the second floor call "fire." Chappell said he found a mattress ablaze in one of the rooms, but that he extinguished the flames with a bucketful of water.

Shortly afterward, Chappell declared, flames were discovered shooting out from a luggage room across the hall.

Police said the fire apparently ate quickly through the framework interior of the old brick building, trapping most of the persons on the second floor.

Great Aerial Offensive Hits Munich

Stuttgart Fired Monday By U.S. Fortresses

LONDON, Sept. 7—(CP)—The R. A. F. and R. C. A. F. last night made a heavy and concentrated attack on Munich, birthplace of Nazidom and important war-industry centre, losing 16 bombers, five of them Canadian.

It was the seventh attack by the R. A. F. on Germany's fourth largest city, home of great industrial works and key southern railway centre. The last big raid was March 9. Mosquito bombers went back March 16.

To-day the Allied aerial offensive against Western Europe went into its sixth straight day when American heavy and medium bombers blasted targets in Belgium and France in daylight.

The Air Ministry announced that preliminary reports of the Munich raid showed the attack "was concentrated and effective though some cloud over the target made full observation of the results difficult."

There were also night intruder raids on airfields in France by the Fighter Command, during which two German bombers were destroyed over their bases. Naval craft bombed German light naval craft near the French channel coast.

Yesterday Allied heavy bombers hammered Stuttgart and British and American medium bombers pounded targets in France.

R. C. A. F. mosquitoes bombed airfields in enemy-occupied territory during the night.

Hardly had the night raiders returned when squadrons of daylight bombers set out across the English Channel to strike new blows at Hitler's European fortress.

4 In a Row.

Last night's attack was the R.A.F.'s fourth successive night assault on Germany, beginning with a heavy raid on Berlin last Friday night. Saturday night British and Canadian bombers pounded objectives in the Ruhr and Rhineland, and Sunday night they attacked the twin industrial cities of Mannheim and Ludwigshafen at the junction of the Rhine and Neckar rivers.

In retaliation for these assaults the German Air Force struck back at Britain last night in comparatively small force, scattering bombs over the Thames estuary and touching off a brief alert in some districts of London about 3.30 a.m. No bombs fell in the capital, however.

Two of the enemy raiders were reported destroyed and two other Nazi planes were shot down over their bases on the continent by R.A.F. fighters on intruder patrols.

The Stuttgart attack was the first on that target by the American heavy bombers. The big ships made the 900-mile round trip in eight hours to turn the southwest German city — which manufactures plane and submarine engines—into a black and smoking ruin.

70 Fighters Bagged.

Swarms of Axis fighters attacked the ships, which were credited officially with shooting down 70 of the enemy planes. Meanwhile American

No Sabotage

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7—(AP).—The United States Federal Bureau of Investigation, after an investigation on the scene, said today "there is no evidence of sabotage" in the wreck of the Pennsylvania railroad's Congressional Limited near Philadelphia.

An official of the F.B.I. said the inquiry established mechanical failures as the cause.

Hitler At Odds With Staff On Italy Stand

By JOHN H. COLBURN,
Associated Press Staff Writer.

STOCKHOLM, Sept. 7—(AP)—The Allied invasion of Italy was reported to-day to have caught Hitler and members of His General Staff at odds over the question of whether the German Army should attempt to make a stand along the Po river or withdraw to positions behind the Alps.

According to a Swedish observer who cannot be identified by name but who had just returned afer a long stay in Germany, Hitler is insisting—against the advice of his generals— that an attempt should be made to halt the Allies at the Po.

The Germans already have erected huge fortifications along the Po, the traveller said, as the result of a deal made between Hitler and Mussolini before the latter's fall from power. This understanding provided for the withdrawal of Axis troops from most of Italy to the Po river with little more than delaying actions against the Allies further south.

The German General Staff, headed by Gen. Franz Halder, was said, however, to have opposed this plan, holding that if the Allies succeeded in breaking the Po defence wall the Germans would face a situation similar to that which faced Nazi forces in North Africa. The evacuation of German troops across the Alps, staff officers were represented as telling Hitler, would be almost as difficult as the attempt to escape across the Mediterranean from Tunisia.

The Swedish traveller reported that members of the High German military clique shared with the German people a desire for peace but that their Prussian tradition prevented them from entertaining any idea of a cessation of hostilities "without honor."

Rather than be humiliated at the peace table, the informant said, they would continue to fight until the inevitable debacle, and then let Hitler and the Nazi party leaders bear the responsibility.

Frank Crumit Dies

NEW YORK, Sept. 7—(AP).—Frank Crumit, 54, radio entertainer, composer, and former vaudeville star, died suddenly of a heart attack in his hotel apartment early today.

His wife, known in the entertainment world as Julia Sanderson, was at his bedside.

Crumit shared his radio programs with his wife, and the two were sometimes called "the ideal couple of the air.

8th Army Drives Far Inland
Canadians Push On To Palmi

By EDWARD KENNEDY—Associated Press War Correspondent

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa, Sept. 7—(AP).—The 8th Army drove steadily ahead on the Calabrian coast road today, extending the invasion arc around Italy's southernmost tip to about 60 miles, and smashed another 10 miles inland in the Santo Stefano sector to Delianuova. On the west coast British and Canadian columns pushed ahead at least as far as Palmi, while on the south their gains extended some distance east of Melito. The capture of Palmi and Delianuova was announced by Allied headquarters today.

With the coastal arc held by Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery's fighters now approximately 60 miles in length, the wedge driven inland from the original beachhead consists of a triangle running about 15 miles east-northeast from Reggio Calabria and then to the coast of Palmi.

(An indication the Allies are speeding farther northward on the coastal road came from the German High Command, whose Tuesday communique said "a British attack north of Palmi was repelled."

Minor Engagements.

(Although Axis broadcasts yesterday reported the German and Italian commands had effected an evacuation of southern Calabria, today's Nazi war bulletin, broadcast by Berlin and recorded by The Associated Press, said: "On the Calabrian peninsula our protective formations engaged in minor engagements with the enemy.")

Front dispatches reported scant opposition was encountered by the British and Canadian troops, but extensive demolitions of roads, bridges and tunnels and the extreme ruggedness of the terrain made progress slow. The Allied communique described the advance as satisfactory.

The Allied command took advantage of the situation to move reinforcements and a huge amount of material across the Strait of Messina to the mainland under the protection of the Royal Navy and British and American air units. There were scarcely any enemy attacks on this supply line.

Rush Huge Stores

(A Berlin broadcast recorded in London by the ministry of informaations in Calabria it is probable anprogress of the British landing operations in Calbria it is probable another landing enterprise still is planned."

(The Allies are rushing huge stores of materials into the Mediterranean theatre, the broadcast said, reporting "new lively movements of Allied shipping in the western Mediterranean." Berlin asserted 72 Allied ships escorted by five destroyers and four patrol vessels left Gibraltar yesterday.)

Allied air units, supporting the ground operations, battered targets in southern Italy yesterday and swept as far north as Naples to pound that important communications centre.

Towns and villages within the area which fell into Allied hands in the drive to Delianuova include Sniopoli, Melicvucca, Solano, Ceramidio, Pellegrina and San Procopio.

Planes Start Fires

CHUNGKING, Sept. 7—(AP).—American fighter planes attacked the important Japanese railway yards near Laokay in French Indo-China Sunday, starting many fires and causing extensive damage, United States headquarters announced today.

Russians Discount Value of Italy Invasion Want Major Thrust to Move 60 Hun Units

MOSCOW, sept. 7—(AP).—The Soviet Army newspaper Red Star to-day discounted the Allied invasion of Italy as a "second front" in Europe, asserting that only about four to six German divisions were stationed there.

Diversion of 60 German divisions from the Russian front has been set in Moscow as the standard of what Russia considers a real "second front."

Red Star said British and United States newspapers had "attempted to increase the significance of the Mediterranean Italian theatre of war, to make it of the utmost importance and represent it almost as the 'second front' in Europe."

Referring to London reports that 20 German divisions had arrived in Italy, the newspaper declared that "all the evidence indicates that there are hardly more than four to six German divisions in Italy, or 10 per cent of the Italians."

It added that the German command always had regarded the Mediterranean theatre as a secondary one.

Canadian Navy At Italy Carried Troops To Beaches

By ROSS MUNRO—Canadian Press War Correspondent

WITH THE CANADIANS INVADING ITALY, Sept. 3—(Delayed)—(CP Cable).—At 1 a.m. we were ordered to prepare to embark. Everyone had had a snooze to steady him for the jaunt across the Messina Strait.

We loaded our kit, said a few goodbyes to close friends and marched down the pebbly beach.

Our path was marked with white tape and the organization of the beach was an eye-opener to me. Even in complete darkness everything went right. We moved to our craft and piled into it. The only sound was the noise of the motors of the landing craft and the voice of the British beachmaster giving instructors in an Oxford accent over the broadcasting system.

Matthew Halton, Canadian Broadcasting Corporation war correspondent, and I were in the same landing craft with a brigadier, and other officers including Lieut. John Morris, Prescott, Ont., about 30 other ranks and two loaded jeeps. From here the landing was directed.

A Perfect Night.

A Royal Canadian Navy flotilla carried this particular group in. These R.C.N. flotillas were manned by Canadian officers and ratings.

It was a perfect night for such an attack. The sea was calm and satiny under starry skies. There was no moon. A slight sea haze reduced coastal visibility.

We sailed out of the straits at 12.30 a.m. It was like any other boat trip.

But at 3:32 a.m. we were jolted into reality in short order as the 8th Army's artillery barrage began. The idea was to hit the whole area where the British and Canadian troops were landing and to hit it hard. If any enemy guns showed their positions by firing, counter - battery experts were on hand to knock them out of action.

We stood on our packs to get a better view of the artillery spectacle. It was so stupendous it almost made you forget you were in

3 Persons Killed When Train Boiler Explodes

CANASTOTA, N. Y., Sept. 7—(AP)—The Eastbound 20th Century Limited, New York Central extra fare Chicago-New York train was wrecked to-day when the locomotive's boiler exploded, killing the three crewmen in the cab.

At least seven others were injured when the flyer left the track at 4:34 a.m. two miles east of Canastota and 20 miles east of Syracuse.

Joseph Endress, Syracuse district claim agent for the railroad, who said the boiler explosion caused the wreck, reported 173 passengers were on the train.

The locomotive, coal car, mail car and nine of the 15 passenger cars were derailed. The first four cars plunged down an embankment. Others were strewn on the tracks, all of which were ripped up and twisted into weird shapes.

Endress said an investigation would be made to determine the cause of the boiler explosion.

E. O. Hirsch, Chicago, a passenger in one of the cars that went down the embankment, said there was no panic and the passengers had no difficulty getting out.

The Century is the fastest train on the Central's New York-Chicago run.

The wreck was the second in New York state in eight days. On August 30 the Lackawanna Limited passenger train of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western collided with a switch engine at Wayland, 50 miles south of Rochester, killing 28 and injuring 150.

Victory Loan Total Highest Yet

100 Millions More Required In October Call

OTTAWA, Sept. 7 (CP)—The Fifth Victory Loan campaign will open Oct. 18 with a minimum cash objective of $1,200,000,000—the largest ever set for any victory loan—it was announced today.

The objective in the Fourth Victory Loan last Spring was $1,100,000,000 and, like all previous loans, it was heavily oversubscribed.

Besides the cash objective of $1,2000,000,000, holders of Dominion of Canada five-per-cent bonds and Dominion of Canada four-per-cent bonds due Oct. 15, 1945, and called for payment next Oct. 15 will be given an opportunity to convert their holdings of these issues into fifth Victory Loan Bonds.

But these conversions will not be applied against National and local cash objectives, since the $1,200,000,000 figure is for "new" money only.

The minimum cash objective will be divided as follows: $25,000,000 from individuals, and $675,000,000 from "Special Names" which comprise business firms and corporations for the most part.

Ilsley Statement

In announcing the new campaign for funds to carry on the war, Finance Minister Ilsley said:—

"While the objective is the largest ever set for any victory loan, I am confident that it is well within the capacity of the Canadian people to achieve this goal.

"The increase in the objective for the Fifth Victory Loan indicates the need to obtain a maximum possible investment from all Canadians.

"Although recent war news has been extremely favorable, I am sure that Canadians know that a severe and costly struggle is ahead. Our fighting forces are at full grips with the enemy and I am confident that Canadians at home will lend their full support by the purchase of Canada's Fifth Victory Loan Bonds."

Tokyo Gloomy As War Develops

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—(AP).—The Tokyo radio told the people of Japan to-day that the "development of the war situation hereafter warrants absolutely no optimism."

One Tokyo domestic broadcast, the United States Office of War Information said, admitted that the Japanese had suffered costly losses in the operations around Lae, New Guinea, and cautioned that the Allies would "continue persistent movements." The commentator insisted, however, the Japanese had struck "annihilating blows" at those Allied forces which had landed near Lae.

A Japanese naval war correspondent who recently returned to Tokyo from the South Pacific broadcast an impressive picture of Allied strength in that war theatre, the O.W.I. added.

"The battles of the South Pacific area mount in fury with each passing moment," he was quoted as saying. "Recent offensive moves by enemy forces in the Rendova, New Georgia and New Guinea areas are a preparatory step with the objective of taking control of strategic bases on our New Guinea island."

U.S. Death Toll Climbs To 350

By The Canadian Press

Swelled by one of the worst disasters in American railroad history and a hotel fire, the Labor Day week-end death toll in the United States today appeared to have approached, if not surpassed, last year's total of 350 fatalities.

Early today 58 were known dead in the wreck of a Pennsylvania Railroad express train at Philadelphia, but city officials there said the total would be much higher, one estimating it at 150.

Three trainmen were dead in the wreck of the New York Central's Twentieth Century Limited at Canastota, N.Y.

The bodies of 46 persons were removed from the ruins of a Houston, Texas, hotel swept by an early-morning fire.

Traffic, drowning and miscellaneous deaths, and the hotel fire, accounted for 286 lives and the complete list of those killed in the Philadelphia wreck may bring the total above the 1942 figure.

New York State was the scene of two other train accidents, both minor.

Four women were injured, none seriously, when four cars on a 10-car

Planes, Navy Destroy 7 Subs

Nazis Send Raiders In Groups For Safety

LONDON, Sept. 7—(CP)—Combined operations by Royal Naval craft and British and American planes operating in the Bay of Biscay area have resulted recently in the destruction of seven German submarines, the Air Ministry and Admiralty announced last night.

The announcement said the latest successes were achieved after reconnaissance disclosed that the Nazi were attempting to reduce submarine losses in the Bay by sending the raiders out from their bases in groups of two or three at a time. Allied air and sea patrols were increased accordingly.

In one instance three submarines were discovered together on the surface by patrol planes. The U-boats answered the air attack with fire from deck guns but was sunk by depth charges. The fate of the other two was uncertain.

A British Halifax and an American Liberator sank another submarine and five more were sunk by the combined attacks of Royal Navy sloops, British coastal command aircraft and American planes.

In several instances German crew members were left in the water as the submarines sank or submerged hurriedly to escape depth charges, and later were picked up as prisoners.

Gen. Geo. C. Marshall May Lead Invasion

Latest Events Indicate Plans To Hit Europe Well Advanced

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst.

This past long week-end has been a notable one for Allied arms around the world.

Since invasion of France across the English channel is one of the paramount issues of the moment, I think we must place among the foremost of the developments an announcement in the Washington Evening star. The Star's foreign affairs writer, Constantine Brown, says he learns on the highest authority that Gen. George C. Marshall, U.S. chief of staff, will be named commander-in-chief of any Allied invasion of the Continent from England.

This means, Brown points out, "that preparations for operating across the English Channel are sufficiently advanced t select a leader." He emphasizes, however, that well-informed circles say this mustn't be taken as meaning the invasion is ready to begin within the next few weeks.

Squeeze Is Coming.

Well, whether the invasion comes soon or late, what we have to keep in mind is this: When it does arrive, and we have an Allied army safely ashore in France, it's going to place an unescapable squeeze on Herr Hitler, for he will be between the Russians on the east and the other United Nations on the west.

Fitting this announcement like a glove is the news of the continued Red advance against the Nazi right wing. Soviet forces are smashing at the gates of the big industrial city and mining centre of Stalino, key position of the Germans in the rich Donets basin.

Farther north the Reds have tightened their grip on the strategic Bryansk-Kiev railway which controls a wide sweep of territory.

Situation.

The situation of the Hitlerites is indeed serious. Unless they are able to stem the Russian onslaught they will be in danger of a debacle as they continue to withdraw their unwieldly line towards the defences of the Dnieper.

Perhaps the autumn rains, now about due, may intervene to give the Germans a chance to pull their badly mauled line together. But then will come the cold weather to freeze the ground, and the Red attacks will be resumed again.

Allied success continued in Italy. British and Canadian forces moved steadily inland from their 40-mile beachhead, overrunning about a dozen villages in yesterday's operations. Progress is slow because of the mountainous nature of the terrain and the demolitions carried out by the Axis, but enemy resistance is light.

Meantime the Rome radio continues to fish for peace.

C.C.F. Prepares For Election

9 Provinces Stand Ready, Jolliffe Says

CALGARY, Sept. 7 (CP)—E. B. Jolliffe, C.C.F. Opposition leader in the Ontario legislature, said in an interview at the conclusion of the three-day C.C.F. conference here early today that the party's national council "feel there will be a Federal election soon." The C.C.F. has planned for such an eventuality in all nine provinces, he added.

Earlier M. J. Coldwell, National leader, asserted the Dominion government "has no intelligent plan for conduct of the war."

About 40 delegates, representing all provinces except Prince Edward Island and New Brunswick, studied organization, policy of the party, and made plans for future provincial and Dominion election campaigns during the conference sessions, which were in camera.

Resolutions were also passed condemning the Dominion government for its failure to implement "a decent labor policy" and "its failure to make public reports on the labor inquiry by the National War Labor Board."

Formation of a long-term Dominion Agriculture policy, which would enable farmers to plan an efficient production and guarantee proper rewards for such production, was urged in an eight-point program.

65 PERSONS KILLED, 123 HURT, IN WRECK OF PASSENGER TRAIN

Fast U.S. Electric Train Splits In Two On Curve

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 7 — (AP).— One of the world's fastest trains, the Pennsylvania Railroad's Congressional Limited, split in two as it raced from Washington to New York last night, killing at least 65 passengers and injuring 123. It was one of the worst railroad disasters in the history of the United States. The electric-powered train, which makes the 226-mile run in 210 minutes, and carried 541 passengers—many of them service men — was heading into a curve at Frankford Junction, in north-east Philadelphia, when the accide occurred at 6.10 p.m. (EDT).

A waste-packed journal box "ran hot," railroad officials said, on the front of the seventh car of the 16-car train, burning the wheel loose from the axle.

Coach Cut In Two.

The coach, hurtled into a steel pole supporting overhead power lines, was cut in two vertically as though by a giant axe. The coach behind jammed accordion-like against it. Six other cars behind them were thrown from the rails, but all the dead and most of the injured were in the seventh and eighth coaches.

Passengers were buried under the debris from which many of the living were not released until hours later. Some were thrown through windows; galley workers in the diner were scalded. One woman lay in the wreckage for six hours, calmly telling rescuers "Take your time, I can stand it."

Robert Calvert, a veteran of the fighting in North Africa, who was walking in the aisle of the third car, said something hit him in the stomach and—

"It seemed a million people were on top of me. I couldn't get my breath. I thought, 'This is it. I will die now.'"

Twelve hours after the crash, the railroad placed the death toll at 54, many of whom still were unidentified. Most of the dead were in the city morgue.

Earlier, Chief Deputy Coroner Matthew Ross had estimated the dead would total 150. Lin Yutang, the Chinese author, was on the train but escaped injury.

Use Armed Soldiers.

Traffic on the mainline was still blocked early to-day, but freight and through passenger trains were re-routed.

All available ambulances went to the scene, and hundreds of air raid wardens were mobilized to help police, firemen, soldiers and sailors in rescue work. Hospitals pleaded for registered nurses and blood donors.

"Please take care of me, my mother would want you to," pleaded a soldier to Mrs. Margaret Akers, a volunteer worker, before he died in her arms. His identification tag torn away by the wreck, the soldier's body was placed with the unidentified dead.

Change Air Command

LONDON, Sept. 7 —(CP) — Maj.-Gen. William C. Kpener, veteran army airman, has assumed command of the United States 8th Fighter Command in Britain, a United States Army Headquarters announcement said, in a personnel shift believed aimed at extensive expansion of the fighter force in a new tactical Air Force designed to blast the way for a cross-channel invasion.

No Bombers Came

All the time we expected enemy bombers to come over with flares and attack but there was not a single raid on the landing craft before daylight.

Our flotilla grounded on the beach and for the first time I didn't lose a good portion of my kit by jumping into the sea. The first soldier I talked to on the beach was an impeccably-dressed British provost corporal who was handling traffic as if he were in Algiers—or Surrey, England.

Troops were pushing into various parts of Reggio Calabria and I followed them about the city, which was empty.

A policeman came along on a bicycle and said "the Germans have gone away." He pointed in four directions, including the sea.

It wasn't until the afternoon that the city started to come back to life. Hundreds of civilians came from the country and stood around, shouting to the troops for cigarets.

The Royal Navy gave the Canadians strong support on the way in. Support craft operated close in near the beach to protect the landing if necessary and before the troops touched the beach naval guns were firing high explosives.

At daylight the 8th Army barrage from the other side of the strait ceased its heavy concentrations. There was not a peep out of the enemy guns on the mountains to the east. It had seemed likely they would knock the beach to pieces during the morning when they could observe the results but the enemy lobbed over only a few shells.

A Jumpy Morning

It was a jumpy, tense morning with uncertainties as to what might happen if the enemy began shelling the ships and beaches and if the enemy air arm got in action. But gradually confidence grew that the landing success was no fluke but the result of sound planning and daring.

Reggia Calabria had been bombarded heavily from both sea and air and was scarred almost as badly as some Sicilian towns. Practically every building in the central and northern sections was hit. What shops were undamaged were looted by citizens on the rampage when civil order broke down prior to the invasion.

The enemy did not make many demolitions before our attack. Most of the roads in the Reggio Calabria area were quite good, with no detours necessary because of blown-up bridges or craters. It surprised many officers that the enemy had not blown up everything he could to hold up the Allied advance. Perhaps he had no time to cope with the speedily-mounted invasion.

Canadian casualties on landing and during today — the first day on the Italian mainland—are almost non-existent. The success of the landing and the exploitation of the initial bridgehead becomes more phenomenal as the hours pass.

Italian prisoners were beginning to flock in early this afternoon. I saw hundreds of them walking happily down the main street of Reggio Calabria with packs of their belongings on their backs.

Paratroops Cut Behind Japanese At Lae

By VERN HAUGLAND
Associated Press Staff Writer

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Sept. 7 (AP)—American paratroops and an Australian artillery unit cut off all possible land supply lines of some 20,000 Japanese troops in the Lae and Salamaua area of New Guinea with the capture of an enemy airfield in the Markham Valley, Allied headquarters announced today. The field was seized Sunday when hundreds of airborne American soldiers and an Australian artillery unit complete with machine-guns, mortars, ammunition, rubber assault boats and radio landed near it.

Closes Trap

The Australian force, flown into an Allied advanced base, marched overland five days to rendezvous near the occupied airfield with the American paratroopers while Gen. Douglas MacArthur looked on from a bomber.

A headquarters statement disclosed the airfield easily can be placed into operation condition. Its capture effectively helped close the trap on the defenders of Lae and Salamaua by sealing off the best inland route of flight, the broad Markham Valley.

This spectacular mission, sprung on the fourth anniversary of Australia's entry into the war, followed by a day the landing of African-seasoned Australians above Lae on Saturday.

The Japanese, believing the main Allied drive was coming from Salamaua, 18 miles southeast of Lae, were so surprised by the Australian landings they were able to inflict only a few casualties with their Air Force.

But the paratroopers' surprise was even greater. Not a plane was lost. Jumping from so low an altitude that the Japanese would have had only a few seconds to fire had they been on hand, the paratroopers quickly disengaged thmselves from the 'chutes and moved along the valley whose river empties into the Huon Gulf at Lae.

Gen. MacArthur, who later said he felt the responsibility of cheering on his men in their first such combat mission with his presence, said on returning to his headquarters:

"We have closed the ring at Lae and Salamaua."

This ring of men begins in the mountain ridges just below the mouth of the Francisco river near the Salamaua Airdrome, moves out of the mountains across the river, follows an irregular line behind Salamaua and Lae and is anchored less than 10 miles east of Lae at a point to which the Australians have pushed since their landings Saturday.

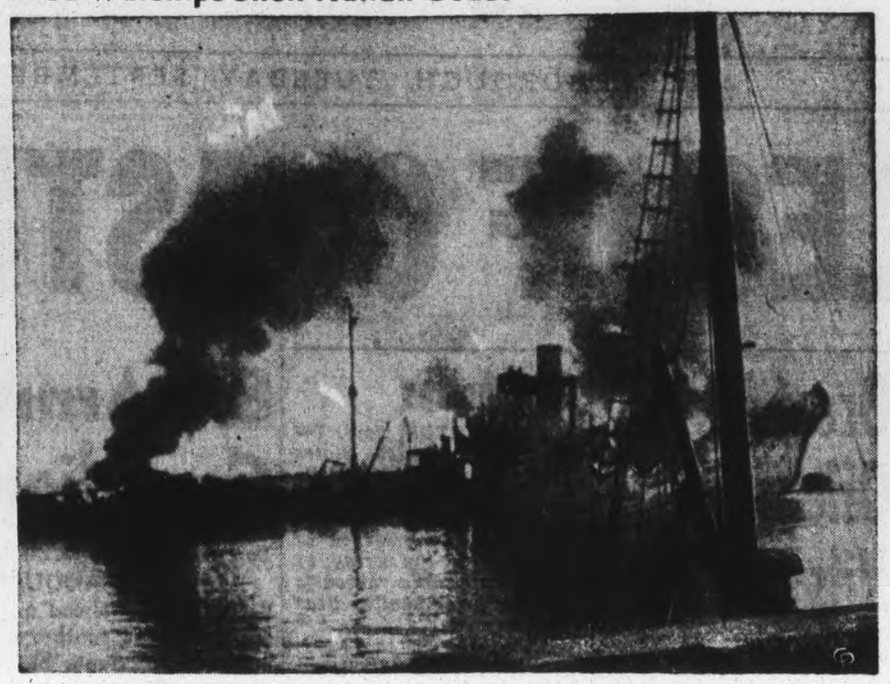
The paratroopers landed on three sides of the Japanese airdrome, guided by three smoke screens which outlined the field.

As soon as the paratroops landed, the Australian ground force started to cross the nearby Markham River by means of a pontoon bridge. Other Aussies floated down the river in assault boats to the site of the field.

Lieut. Monte Kleban, San Antonio, Tex., who jumped with the paratroopers, said the Australian ground force which had scoured swamps for enemy detachments during its five-day march, joined the airborne troops several hours after they had landed.

"We saw one another at the same moment," said Kelban, an assistant public relations officer. "With gleeful shouts the Australians and Americans ran toward one another. These strangers hugged and embraced like long-lost brothers."

Allied Warships Shell Italian Coast



Scene like this one off the shores of Sicily were probably enacted again during the invasion of the Italian mainland. A naval communique announced that Allied cruisers, monitors, destroyers, gunboats and other small craft supported the landing. This picture censored until now, is from News of the Day Newsreel.

Officers Win Group Honors

CORNWALL, Sept. 7— (CP).—Brockville Officers' Training Centre yesterday won team aggregate honors at an inter-services track and field meet at No. 31 Basic Training Centre of the Canadian Army. Sgt. Gerard Cote of Valleyfield, Que., outstanding Canadian marathon runner, captured individual honors by winning the one and three-mile races and placing second in the 880-yard event.

The Brockville team, composed of cadet officers and lieutenants, accumulated 108 points to edge the Cornwall team by eight points.

Cadet Harold Moore of Windsor, Ont., set a new Canadian Army pole vault record by crossing the bar at 11 feet six inches, shattering the previous Army mark of 11 feet 4½ inches.

An United States' Army team from Pine Camp, N.Y., participated in six inter-service events along with members of the R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. and the Canadian Army. More than 3,500 spectators watched the meet, which drew more than 100 entries.

Runner-up for individual honors was Charlie Corrigan, native of Siwft Current, Sask., now stationed at Cornwall.

Truck Workers Out On Strike

WINDSOR, Sept. 7 — (CP). — Workers at Gotfredson Limited walked off the job today, blaming dismissal of a plant United Automobile Workers of America (C.I.O.) committee chairman for their action.

At noon today, plant employees were grouped about the street and sitting on the steps of a nearby hotel discussing the latest turn of events. No estimate of the number affected was made.

J. N. Barth, secretary treasurer of Gotfredson Limited said half the employees were out, but he added the plant would continue to operate.

"All those who want to work may do so," he said. Asked what caused the men to walk off the job, he said, "We fired Aullay Miller this morning."

The company did not operate on Saturday, plans having been made to shut down over the holiday week-end.

Workers who stood about outside the plant did not believe it would continue to operate with most of the men off the job. They said plant No. 5 was completely shut down, and the other plants would find difficulty in operation.

Cleric Suggests New Unity Plan

TORONTO, Sept. 7—Men of goodwill, whether Jewish, Protestant or Roman Catholic must unite for the preservation of moral order in the world, against the opposers of religion and morality, according to Rt. Rev. Fulton J. Sheen, associate professor of philosophy at the Catholic University of America. He was speaking last night at Massey Hall, under the auspices of the Laymen's Committee of the Religious Theatre of the Air.

"Catastrophic world changes in this century have faced all men who believe in religion with an alien force opposed to all religion, and have made atheism an integral part of some governments of the world," he said.

"Unity for religious purposes entailing a melting-pot of the churches is impossible" Msgr. Sheen continued. "There must be a unity of religious men for social purposes."

Five basic principles on which men can unite include on the economic side that the right of property is personal but its use is social he said. "Workers should share in the profits, management and ownership of industry," he asserted.

Other principles should be that the States exists for the person, and should have as its aim the full development of character; that the right of education belongs to the parents rather than the State; and that international solidarity can be established only on the recognition of the fatherhood of God, he declared.

"Finally, freedom should imply law and responsibility, and should not mean merely the right to do as you please," he added. "Freedom is a means not an end. There is too much talk of freedom today, in the same way that sick people are always talking about their health."

Two Italian Towns Fall To Canadians

Advance Is Steady Throughout Southern Italy

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa, Sept. 7.—(AP).—British and Canadian troops have captured the towns of Palmi and Delianuovo and are continuing their steady investment of the Calabrian peninsula with the support of Allied airmen, who battered targets in Southern Italy yesterday and swept as far north as Naples to pound that vital communications centre, Allied Headquarters announced today.

Progress of the Allied ground forces is being slowed by extensive demolitions and difficult country, a communique said, but the advance was described as satisfactory.

Move 6 Miles North.

Palmi, situated on the Calabrian west coast, is approximately six miles north of Bagnara, most northerly point previously reported captured by the forces of General Sir Bernard Montgomery's veteran 8th Army.

Delianuovo is about eight miles inland from Palmi and approximately the same distance north of San Stefano, the fall of which was announced yesterday.

San Stefano is on the western slope of Aspromonte Mountain part of a chain of rugged mountains extending down the centre of the Calabrian Peninsula. The Al-

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Sept. 7 — (CP) — Mrs. Winston Churchill thought her husband's Harvard University speech Monday one "of the best he ever made." In a brief interview, she added "it was most moving under the circumstances by which we are surrounded and amidst the perils in which we find ourselves."

FARMERS!

NOW IS THE TIME TO ORDER

WINTER FEED GRAIN

● Hauling feed grain from the West may be difficult this winter. To assure yourself an adequate supply for livestock carry-over, orders should be placed with your feed and grain dealer promptly.

Government subsidies and freight allowances will help your profit picture on winter feeding and aid your efforts to step up production of cattle, hogs and sheep for British quota requirements.

This Bank is always glad to assist farmers in financing such operations.

Tomatoes Deserve Canning

Alone, or in soups, stews and sauces, tomatoes lead the vegetable parade

There is no canned vegetable the average housewife uses more often than the tomato. To be sure that you have tomatoes later, plan now to can your own. Here in brief is what you do:

1. Select smallish, firm, bright red tomatoes.
2. Cover with boiling water and let stand till skins loosen.
3. Cover with cold water. Peel.
4. Pack closely in hot sterilized jars.
5. Fill jar with tomato juice which has been brought to the boiling point.
6. Add ½ teaspoon salt per pint (and a pinch of sugar, too, if you can spare it).
7. Partially seal jars (rings and tops sterilized).
8. Process 30 minutes in boiling water bath; or 35 minutes for pints, 45 minutes for quarts, in 275° oven.
9. Tighten screw tops and close second spring on spring-top jars.
10. Invert sealers to test for leakage; store in cool, dry, dark place.

To prepare juice for pouring over whole tomatoes as above: cut up tomatoes—use any very large or imperfect ones—and cook slowly until soft; bring to boil and use strained or unstrained.

Here's a simple recipe for a quick tomato sauce using your own canned tomatoes

In 3 tablespoons melted fine-flavoured dripping or butter, fry a little chopped onion; blend in 4 tablespoons flour, 1 teaspoon salt and a little pepper. Stir in 2 cups tomato juice (or strained cooked tomatoes) and cook, stirring, until thickened. Add, to your taste, such things as a dash of Worcestershire Sauce, a pinch of herbs, a trace of garlic or a clove or two.

What kind of clothing will we wear after the war?

AMONG many things that War has proved is this one thing: War has a great effect on the kind of clothing we wear after that War is over.

New materials, new ideas, new methods of production, which are the result of man's wartime ingenuity, find their place in civilian life when the men come marching home. Remember the changes in clothing after the last War? It happened then—and it is going to happen again.

We at Tip Top Tailors are not now thinking of after the war. We are too busy supplying our Armed Forces with uniforms—and as many civilians as we are able to, with their clothing. (Over 80 per cent of our production is devoted to war needs). But of this you may be sure: After Victory is won, the experience and knowledge that we have gained during the war period, will go in full measure into Tip Top Tailors' clothing.

There will be new ideas, new fabrics, new styles and designs, new conceptions of comfort. Whatever form they take—and we have ideas of our own tucked away in our mind—you will hear about them first from Tip Top Tailors.

In the meantime, we are continuing without let-up with the biggest job of our 33 years—the assignment of keeping our Armed Forces comfortably clad in uniforms of quality unexcelled in any army in the world.

In Paducah And Peterborough

Purchase by Prime Minister Churchill in Washington last week of the first $100 bond of the United States Third Victory Loan, whose objective is fifteen billion dollars, is a reminder that the people of Canada face the duty of raising another Victory Loan of their own in October.

The financial pressure of winning the war bears upon all the people of the Allied partnership. The buying of bonds is probably much the same experience and story in Iowa and Texas as in Ontario and Saskatchewan, in Kent and Staffordshire, in Inverness and Argyle, with similarity of enterprise in selling and voluntary subscription, and certainly in the splendid common result of achievement.

One of the effects of buying Victory bonds and retaining them is featured in New York advertising to the same extent as you are bound to notice in corresponding appeals that will be published in Toronto and also in Peterborough. One quotation, for example, stresses the use of accumulated bonds as a vast resource which the people will possess when the war ends as a direct means of sustaining industry and employment during the period of transition to peace.

This is the brief nub of that fact which has already become familiar to Canadians and accepted by them through four years of war: "Money spent now will be gone when victory comes; but every dollar invested in War Bonds will buy more of the things which will be needed after the war. And if the money is there to buy these things, industry will need men to make them, transport them and sell them."

People can build up their backlogs of manufactured articles by refraining from buying them now, and by investing the money in bonds for the present business of Victory, and eventually spending that money for the things they do without until after the war. It is a simple equation anywhere in the Allied countries, but it is up to the people themselves to sustain its truth.

Danish Bacon "Ads"

Goodwill advertisements of Danish bacon in British newspapers should be a warning to the Canadian farmer that export business after the war will quickly return to the basis of competition. The Danes have no bacon to sell now, but in the midst of their war travail they are thinking of their former best customer, the nearby British consumer, who used to pay a premium of eight shillings a hundred pounds for the Danish product.

When the Germans seized Denmark and its pigs, Britain turned to the Canadian farmer with an order for every Wiltshire side we could produce. This year's contract is for 675 million pounds, and that's nice business when it is tossed into your lap.

In appreciation of this tremendous buying, and also in the hope of displacing Danish bacon on John Bull's breakfast table, the Canadian industry emulously enforced standards of quality conforming to British taste and preference. Our trade agents overseas told us we had to turn out a bacon with more lean and less fat meat than we were accustomed to. And that is what we accomplished with satisfaction from the British government purchasers and also to ourselves—until this year.

As the contract quantities increased, our ambitions lost some of their vigor. Western farmers with mountains of protein wheat on their hands went into hog raising, and soon scrambled into the market without much respect for the British ideal of Wiltshire side. Some other farmers said the British folks ought to be glad they were getting increased stocks of Canadian bacon even if we were letting down on the lean-fat ratio. Then, British importers, influenced by a growing doubt of our ability to fill the latest contract, conceded a few points on the detail of overweight. The net results of this backsliding have been intimations of loss of some of the prestige we had gained in the British bacon trade.

We spent three years demonstrating to the British consumer we could produce the Wiltshire side he liked and demanded; we began congratulating ourselves that the Danes would find it difficult to dislodge us from the position we acquired while they were feeding the Germans, at a total loss; and then we look at the clock instead of at those Danish bacon ads for future delivery.

The British consumer has a distaste for fat bacon, and he will not buy it when he can get what he wants. He is not paying us for our opinion about what he should be glad to get. We should not even let him know we have any of the bacon he does not like. Send that heavier hog to him, and he will notice the Danish ads with a keener yearning for the pre-war bacon the Danes produced for him.

A fifth columnist to his industry is the farmer who protests against the regulations that are devised to secure for him after the war a huge business which he did not have. Even in the recent provincial elections there were murmurs from so-called friends of the farmers, in both opposition ranks, against rasping restrictions, an attempt to play upon the weakness of the incompetent and inefficient farmer against the financial interest of his whole industry.

Canada Packers estimate that Canadian farmers would lose something like $27,000,000 a month if the Danish differential premium was restored tomorrow.

But, we can make premium bacon. We have done it, and we were told that it was good. If we have become a bit hurried about the job or careless we probably still have a chance to hold the favor and the goodwill of the British consumer coming out of the war with a keen and relishing appetite. It is an opportunity for the hog-raising farmer in this country which he should reach out for with an eye on the years ahead when the Danes will again be seeking to deliver their goods.

The Farm Program

Regardless of their political affiliations everybody who realizes first the difficulties that have been confronting Canadian farmers and secondly the necessity of improving farm living standards will wish Premier Drew success in the effort he is putting forth to deal effectively with the general farm situation.

It is difficult to see how anything but good can come out of such a conference of representative farmers as has been held in Toronto this week.

It is known of course that Mr. Drew is sold on the British wartime agricultural organization. He studied it closely during a wartime visit to Britain and he came home believing that a similar plan would work successfully in Canada and help solve many of our farm problems.

The idea of local committees, on which the British plan is based, has to some extent already been adopted in Ontario and it will be probably found that the existing organizations will fit into the general scheme. How far we can go in adopting the details of the British plan in this country cannot be predicted. There are many compulsory features that will not find Ontario farmers in a responsive mood, especially if the idea is to continue the policy into the peacetime years that we all hope are coming soon. But there must be much merit in a plan that has made Britain 70 per cent. self-sufficient in food stuffs and we are wise in examining the matter in detail and endeavoring to gear the best features into our agricultural setup.

NOTE AND COMMENT

In wrestling parlance the Allies seem to have a toehold on Italy.

Add list of 1943 similes: As rare as a fighting Italian along the Calabrian coast.

With the announcement of the setting of Thanksgiving Day should come a realization that Canadians have plenty for which to be thankful.

Premier Drew's last minute order forbidding higher secondary school classes to open for two weeks has left a lot of teachers all dressed up and with no place to go.

With the Canadians as part of the 8th Army, there will be a general opinion in this country that the 1st Division has been drafted into the right league.

Those Italians who clamored for war in the days when the Nazis seemed certain of victory have probably decided by this time that they have already had too much of it.

The real effect of the rationing of liquor cannot be ascertained until the number of new permits is taken into account. Thirsty folk find friends who do not drink quite an asset in that respect.

Farming News and Views

By HON. DUNCAN MARSHALL

THERE is a good deal of blight on potatoes in Ontario and growers must spray to save a full crop where blight shows. The blight can be readily recognized from the blackish blotches it forms on the leaves. There is a great danger of the spores falling from the leaves, entering the soil and spoiling the tubers themselves. It is, therefore, a good idea to keep your potatoes well hilled up, so as to have a greater depth of soil for the spores to pass through. The hilling up should be done so as to make a sharp top edge on the row, and rains may then wash the spores down the steep slanting furrow slice into the space between the rows.

This, of course, is merely a protective procedure, but as soon as the blight is seen the tops should be sprayed with a Bordeau mixture. If dusting is preferred a powder for this purpose can be secured. If the potato tops become badly blighted it will reduce the yield greatly as potatoes will grow a good deal yet. It is recommended, if the blight gets badly ahead of you, to mow off the tops and gather them up to be destroyed and so save part of your crop. With the appearance of these potato diseases it is very necessary to clean out and disinfect storage houses and cellars for the keeping of potatoes over winter. A mixture of one pound of blue stone in ten gallons of water is useful to spray on storage places when cleaned out. Farmers should take more than ordinary precautions with the housing of their potatoes this winter as prices for this very necessary food may be much higher before next spring, as planting potatoes was greatly hindered last spring. Potato bugs were at one time our only hazard with this crop but that is far from the case at the present.

Somebody with a sharp lead pencil has figured that previous to the dehydration of food shipped to England from this Continent, we had shipped three milion tons of water in food crossing the Atlantic. Looks like quite a saving of space and freight charges. I am of the opinion, however, that this water is rather superior to what we catch in a rain barrel.

The scarcity of vegetable oils in Argentina has caused the Government of that Republic to prohibit the export of sunflower seed, peanuts, cottonseed, rapeseed and their corresponding oils. This will not have much effect in Canada except that some rapeseed and sunflower seed had been secured in Argentina for planting in the Canadian West. These four crops supply Argentina with all the edible vegetable oils produced in that country.

The wheat and barley acreages in Egypt have been increased very substantially. Wheat has increased to 1,990,000 which is 335,000 acres above the previous high of 1927, and the barley acreage is 435,000 acres above that of 1942. The grain crops of Europe promise a good harvest when it is completed. The shortage of labour in that continent has been severe but the harvest is being gathered, much of it now finished.

REPORTS from many parts of the province tell of light oats—mostly hulls. Light oats should not be used for pig feed as the proportion of fibre in the chop made from them is not good for pigs. Young cattle had better chew such feed and it will be as well to feed them whole and if you have some buckwheat mix it with these oats and greatly improve their usefulness. It is important for pig feeders to get heavy western oats and then grind their feed so as to make powder of the hulls of these.

Major-General, the Hon. A. D. McRae, Senator of Vancouver, B.C., is a livestock farmer who has made a considerable contribution to the farm livestock of Canada in Dual Purpose Shorthorns, Dorset Horn Sheep and Yorkshire pigs. Mr. McRae has been an importer of British livestock to Canada over a period of years, and has been the only Canadian to make importations of pigs since the war began. Because of the demand for Canadian bacon in Britain it is highly important that we have breeding stock from Britain, from time to time, in order that we may keep up, or improve our type and quality of pigs.

There is no other country from which we can import the breed of pigs which we require for this critical bacon market in England. General McRae has not only made importations from England, but he has had a very careful selection made of the animals sent out, and has kept accurate records of the quality pigs he has bred from them on his farm. He has selected his further breeding stock from good sized litters, with the result that he is averaging very nearly ten finished pigs per litter.

Mr. McRae is also developing from this imported stock an early maturing pig and with careful feeding he is marketing his pigs, weighing from 210 to 225 pounds at 5½ months. He has a rule on his farm that no pig is to be over 6 months when butchered. He finds that some pigs make more weight than others on the same feed and it is from such strains he is breeding. He is naturally using the families for breeding which turn out the greatest percentage of selects.

This progressive pig breeder is now negotiating for the shipment from England of a boar and an unrelated bred gilt. This is the kind of improvement in livestock that Canada should greatly appreciate at the present time. The whole pig breeding business in Canada depends upon our place in the British market with our bacon. This is the only important pig product for which we have a large market, the maintenance of which depends upon the quality of our product. We must have new blood to keep it up and every importation of high class bacon pigs from England makes our future in the British bacon market more certain. What are our Governments doing? This will be a serious after-war farming business.

Fruit crops in Kent, England, are usually sold by auction. In a sale of 500 acres of hard fruit sold at the end of July £44,000 was realized, which would average £88 per acre, rather handsome returns. These fruits would be plums, apples and pears. Kent is one of the early fruit districts in England, but it goes down to the English channel and farming has been a hazardous business in this county for some years.

As usual farmers will be getting on the land with a disc or other light cultivation as early as possible, thus planting the weed seed so they may sprout and then be ploughed under later. No better method of cleaning cropped land, for crop next year has yet been discovered. The treatment of land varies to some extent with the nature of the soil, and this is one of the interesting problems a farmer has to figure out from his knowledge and experience with the piece of land he is undertaking to farm. Getting weed seeds sprouted and then destroying the plant is good practice in cleaning land.

"THE LEANING TOWER"

Nazi Battle Fleet Bears Watching

NAVAL ANALYSIS by HAMILTON SPECTATOR

GERMAN alarm over the threat of invasion in the West is perhaps causing the mammoth battleship Tirpitz and the lighter battleship Admiral Scheer and Lutzow to prowl around the Norwegian coast. They have recently been reported at sea.

The Tirpitz is Germany's heaviest warship. It took almost a British fleet unit to sink the Bismarck. The Tirpitz is in the same class.

German naval yards were at work on similar battleships of secret design, including one at the Bloehm and Voss yard at Hamburg and another at Wilhelmshafen. They were supposed to be complete in 1942, but it is probably that R.A.F., R.C.A.F., and U.S.A. bombers have indefinitely postponed the commissioning of the Friedrich der Grosse or the Hindenburg as they were to have been named. Naval shipbuilding yards were switched in any case to the building of submarines when it became Hitlerite strategy to concentrate on the U-boat campaign.

The Tirpitz is a deadly ship, however, armed with eight 15-inch guns mounted in pairs; twelve 5.9-inchers, also twin mounted; sixteen 4.1-inch guns and an unknown number of anti-aircraft weapons. The armour-plate of the Bismarck turned out to be much stronger than published figures of 35,000 tons displacement indicated. The Tirpitz is undoubtedly a battleship of more than 40,000 tons displacement.

The heaviest known of the British battleships, the Lion and Temeraire, are believed to be in the 40,000-ton class. There is no published information about the armament of the newest British battleship, but it is possible that they mount nine 16-inch guns, as compared with the ten 14-inch in the King George V class and eight 15-inch in the Tirpitz.

The Admiral Scheer is, of course, a German pocket battleship. So is the Lutzow, formerly called the Deutschland. Since three relatively light British cruisers sank the Graf von Spee, the German pocket battleships have been regarded as less formidable. Against modern British battleships they could be written off.

The Lutzow received extensive damage two years ago when torpedoed off the Norwegian coast by British aircraft, but presumably has been repaired. There is some doubt about the fitness of other capital ships of the German Navy to put to sea. Even though the Scharnhorst, Gniesenau and heavy cruisers like the Prinz Eugen were still available to form a battle fleet, they could hardly elude the British naval watchdogs to interfere with invasion operations.

There is the possibility of a German fleet in the Mediterranean Sea. The Italian navy has been badly hammered, but Italy's modern warships in German hands could do heavy damage. But most of the German navy's manpower has been trained for submarine service. German naval officers could hardly do much with Italian crews.

About the only effective German fleet unit would have to be built up around the Tirpitz. It has to be constantly watched against an escape into the North Atlantic where desperate havoc could be wrought. More likely the German battleships rae being kept as near as possible to the North Sea arena of operations, where they do serve the purpose of compelling the British navy to maintain constant vigilance.

Sky Facts: September Plants

Written for Ottawa Citizen by Ottawa Centre, Royal Astronomical Society of Canada

NOW that longer periods of darkness are approaching with the coming of fall, it is unfortunate that, for the month of September at any rate, there is little opportunity of observing any of the planets until after midnight. However conditions are improving, and as the fall gives place to the winter, the planets will gradually make their appearances earlier in the night. Let us consider one by one the position of the five brightest planets during the month of September.

To begin with, there will be very little, if any, opportunity of observing Mercury, for throughout September the planet will be too near the sun. True enough, it is in the evening sky early in the month, but quite low in the west, and it will set so shortly after the sun that observation will be extremely difficult. Mercury will gradually move nearer to the sun, reaching conjunction on the 24th; its next appearance will be as a morning star.

Venus, which has been such a prominent object in the evening sky for some months past, is likewise approaching conjunction with the sun. It will pass the sun on the 5th, and by the end of the month will be well above the eastern horizon at sunrise, thus starting its period as a morning star.

At intervals of about two years and two months Mars reaches a point on its orbit where it is directly opposite to the sun, or "in opposition" as the astronomer says. At such times the planet rises at sunset and is then visible all night. Mars is gradually approaching that point and so its position for observing is improving considerably; the planet is also becoming brighter. During September, however, satisfactory observation cannot be made until quite late for Mars does not rise till about 10.45 p.m. It is the first of the planets to appear in the late night sky.

Of the three planets Mars, Jupiter and Saturn, Jupiter is the latest to rise. At the beginning of the month its distance above the eastern horizon at sunrise is a little less than ¼ of the distance from the horizon to the zenith. This distance continues to increase throughout the month and the planet will rise several hours before the sun by the end of September.

Lastly to be considered is Saturn, with its nine encircling moons and its unique rings. It follows Mars in rising and is therefore seen to best advantage only after midnight. By the end of September, Mars and Saturn will be considerably closer than they were at the beginning of the month; both will then be west of the meridian by sunrise.

Too hot to burn! The sun and the other stars are vast exceedingly hot objects. We are apt to think of them as great fires burning furiously and giving off heat and light in the process. This is a false view for strange as the statement may seem, the stars are too hot to burn.

Burning, as we know it, is a chemical action of rapid oxidation, a union of oxygen with other elements or compounds which forms new chemical combinations and gives off energy in the process. At the enormously high temperature of the stars chemical combinations such as result from burning cannot exist, therefore the chemical action of oxidation or burning cannot take place.

It is true to say that our bodies are warm because they are continually burning, but that the fiercely hot stars do not burn — their terrific energy comes from other sources than chemical action.

The Savoia Sunk?

A routine press release from the Army credited two second lieutenants with sinking "a large Italian transport of the 50,000-ton Conte di Savoia class." The U.S. pilots, flying A-36 fighters bombers (converted P-51s) spotted a big ship anchored off a quay at Bagnara Calabra in the southwestern part of Italy. They bombed it, registering two hits and a near miss. Pilots who flew over next day confirmed the sinking.

The size of ships is a tricky thing to judge on the surface, let alone from the air in a 400-mile-an-hour warplane. But if the pilots did indeed, sink a transport of the "Conte di Savoia class," then it must have been either the 49,000-ton Savoia herself or her companion (but not sister) ship, the 51,000-ton Rex. Either would be the biggest merchant vessel sunk by military action during the war.—Time.

A Bible Message

Though I walk in the midst of trouble, thou wilt revive me: thou shalt stretch forth thine hand against the wrath of mine enemies, and thy right hand shall save me. The Lord will perfect that which concerenth me: thy mercy, O Lord, endureth for ever. (Ps. 138: 7, 8.)

◇ ◇ ◇

Behold, a king shall reign in righteousness, and princes shall rule in judgment. And a man shall be as an hiding place from the wind, and a covert from the tempest; as rivers of water in a dry place, as the shadow of a great rock in a weary land. And the eyes of them that see shall not be dim, and the ears of them that hear shall hearken: . . .

And the work of righteousness shall be peace; and the effect of righteousness quietness and assurance for ever. And my people shall dwell in a peaceable habitation, and in sure dwellings, and in quiet resting places. (Isa. 32: 1-3, 17, 18.)

"Give the gent a coconut, Bill! He's rung the bell!"

Seven-year-old Kenneth was usually restless in church, so his mother was pleased one Sunday morning to see him sitting with clasped hands and bowed head throughout a long prayer.

When, later, she expressed appreciation of his attentive manner, the boy's face softened with a pleasant memory.

"That fly," he chuckled, "walked in and out of my hand exactly two hundred and sixty-five times."

Continental Again

President Roosevelt addressing the Canadian Parliament at Ottawa seems to be as natural as the Grand Trunk operating into Chicago or the San Diego and Arizona Eastern running trains over tracks that cross and recross our boundary line with Mexico as if it just wasn't there.

Yet it is less than a generation when the middle of an international bridge was considered the proper place for an interview between heads of North American governments, if any were to be had at all.—Chicago Daily News.

The Naazzies

Much that we admire in the English is symbolized by the way Winston Churchill pronounces the word "Nazi." In contrast to the careful cultured and somewhat respectful "notsy" of the radio announcers, his "naazzy" is a simple snarl of derision, implying that it's impossible for a plain man to get the hang of any such foreign word and, in this instance, certainly not worth the trouble.—The New Yorker.

Canadian Girl Will Return To Mission Field

By CORA NILL.

WHITBY, Sept. 7 (ENS) Wednesday night was missionary night at the School for Leaders in session at the Ontario Ladies' College, in Whitby. Miss Dorothy Pearson of India was the speaker.

Speaking on what she expects to find on going back to India, Miss Pearson said that at present the future of India looks extremely black. India needs a little goodwill to-day. India with its many divisions of religions, of races, castes, politics, with its great masses of illiterate people is a great and serious problem. The problem of teaching the illiterate without money, and if and when taught to read, the problem of directing the readings so necessary if they are not to read first all the propaganda of the enemy, are but two of the many problems.

Miss Pearson paid tribute to Indian womanhood, women and girls who accomplish so much by way of assisting Christian workers in spite of many handicaps and native customs.

Although advised against returning to India, Miss Pearson declared she was going back. When questioned as to what she could accomplish, she said she could love its people, she could soothe a fevered brow, she could teach the illiterate—always there would be ministering for willing hands and hearts.

Dr. Beaton's concluding lecture on Thursday afternoon on Missions in a Warring World, included such thoughts as the necessity for a reiteration of the New Testament conception of the eternal value of every human life; the great eternal purposes in the heart of God transcending any value of any life; that although victory is ultimate, peace can come only when Christian love is supreme and universal, and Jesus has been progressively reincarnated in the lives of men and women, were developed by Dr. Beaton, through his wide experience as a missionary and an author.

The bale will comprise of 5 quilts all of which will be sent to the Indian School in Western Canada that is each year provided for by the branch. At the close Mrs. Donald McKay gave an interesting reading.

The Ladies' Aid meeting was in charge of Mrs. Clayton Wallace who announced an invitation had been extended by Mrs. J. A. Murray to hold the next meeting in the form of a social at her home. On accepting the invitation members named Misses Hazel McKenzie, Dorothy Eagleson, Clara Thain and Thelma Wallace to be a program committee for that meeting. At the close of the business a short program was offered and included a reading by Mrs. George Craighead, piano solo by Mrs. Alvin Pollock, vocal duet by Mrs. William Mathews and Mrs. George Craighead and a piano solo by Miss Dorothy Eagleson.

Bulldozers Rip New Allied Roads

By EDWARD GILLING.
Representing the Combined British Press. (Distributed by the Canadian Press).

WITH THE 8TH ARMY IN SICILY.— (Delayed) —The first light of dawn was breaking over the Italian hills as our assault craft ground to a halt in the shallow water, followed by equipment-filled amphibious "ducks" which came ashore and trumdled up the beach.

Troops from our craft quickly filed across the beach and disappeared into an orange grove.

The first group of Italian soldiers walked onto the beach wtih arms upraised, saying "Italian Sicilians." They surrendered their arms.

The strait now was filled with craft of all types and sizes. On shore, bulldozers were making paths through the vineyards and orange groves, from the beaches.

Military policemen stand at the road junctions, directing vehicles on their various routes.

Hidden in the groves are anti-tank guns covering teh road junctions. Twenty-five pounders cover the hills.

The assault troops with which I landed embarked on the opposite side of our position when a great barrage began.

Great white flashes ran in and out of the hills behind Messina. Little splashes of red twinkled in the hills and on the beaches of the mainland as the shells burst. Fires sprang up in many places and the hills which had been so clearly visible in the starlight earlier disappeared in a haze of dust and smoke.

Closing in on the beaches, we could see very little, owing to the smoke. As the leading boats grounded, we waited anxiously for some moments, expecting the enemy defences to open up far away.

There was a chatter of machine-gun fire from pillboxes, followed by a brief burst from our Brens.

Then all was silent again. Our wait ended when a rocket suddenly rose and burst over the beach. Then we knew that the beachhead was secured.

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By CHARLES EDWARDS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, Sept. 7 (CP) —Apparently the Canadian armed forces have decided upon a mutual policy barring servicemen from opposing civilians in the prize ring. The army, of course, laid down this principle months ago when it refused to permit Pte. Johnny Greco of Montreal to fight Bob Montgomery, the lightweight champion. Now the Air Force has taken a similar stand in refusing LAC. Ken Lindsay of Vancouver permission to fight Angelo Callura of Hamilton, Ont., in Vancouver Sept. 8 for the Canadian featherweight title.

Obviously the objection is not to Lindsay fighting. Nothing was said when Ken met and whipped Pte. Charley Bagnato in Vancouver in a out billed as for the featherweight title of the Canadian armed forces. The idea, therefore, must that the public objects to uniform and civvies mixing with money at stake. This was certainly the case when certain sports writers howled down the Greco-Montgomery fight last June, centring their objections on the allegation Promoter Mike Jacobs was to share in the proceeds

The apparent service policy, however, leaves the way open for a Canadian lightweight bout matching the champion, LAC Dave Castilloux and Greco. A bout between these two Montrealers would be enthusiastically approved by a considerable section of the Canadian fight public.

One man's opinion:

Bill (Niagara Falls Review) Gaynon: "Tommy Gorman's invitation to take a couple of N. H. L. teams to Califormnia before the start of another season proves that the Canadien-Black Hawk jaunt in that direction last spring sold big-time hockey to the movie colony. However, with so many of the good performers out of the league it might not prove wise to return this autumn and the shrewed T. P. may decide against the plan."

Eddie Gillis was one of Cape Breton's greatest all-round athletes. He coached Halifax army baseball team the past two seasons but he'll never play again. An injury suffered in his coal-mining days caught up with Eddie and led to his discharge from the army.... Vancouver won't have a senior football team this Fall but Greg Kabat, who went to the coast to coach the Grizzlies two years ago, has been named coach of the Vancouver College team. Kabat, former All-American at Wisconsin University, was with Winnipeg Bombers from 1933 to 1940.

Hatch Horse Wins Again

STRATFORD, Sept. 7 — The first day of the two-day harness racing here Saturday was not overly attended, but those who did come out certainly saw a grand brand of racing. Chappy Chapman, Toronto trainer and driver almost stole the show as he drove in six dashes and won five of them. His first winner was the two-year-old pacer, Goodwill Bill, owned by Herb E. Hatch, Toronto, who 10 days ago won the two-year-old futurity, came right back again to win in straight heats from practically the same field as he met in the futurity. Bob Grattan, London-owned juvenile, was highly touted and went to the post favorite, but apparently it was his day off, as he never really developed into a serious threat.

SPORTS—DAY BY DAY

By FRED D. CRAIG

Bright spot for the Westclox, with the Ontario playdowns coming up is the effective pitching delivered by Isobel Bullock in two games over the week-end against the Ottawa Clark's Dairy team, a senior outfit from the capital made up of well-seasoned ball players. After Ottawa had clicked for ten runs in the first three innings of Saturday's game the Westclock catcher-pitcher went to the mound and held the invaders to one more run for the balance of the battle, striking out ten and allowing only four hits in the last six innings. She went back at the visitors in Monday's game pitching the whole nine innings and allowed only four hits and a solitary run so that in fifteen innings against a highly-touted squad Isobel Bullock yielded only eight blows and two runs while she struck out no fewer than fifteen of the Ottawa batters. When she wasn't striking them out they were popping up and in the whole fifteen innings only about half a dozen balls were well-hit. The Westclox girls played good ball in the field in Monday's game and did some timely hitting as well with Marg. Selkirk of Aircraft helping out with a couple of timely doubles.

The battle for the Knox Cup and the intermediate girls' championship will be resumed at the Bowl Wednesday night when Generals and Electrics will meet in the second game of their semi-final bracket and the right to meet Brintons in the final series for the title. The Brinton girls by a double victory over the Johnson Motors have qualified for the last round and are waiting for the other finalist to be named. Tomorrow night's game which is billed to start at 6.30 o'clock should be a good battle for the two teams are very evenly matched and on their season's record should make a keen fight of it in this semi-final girls' softball until Westclox start their provincial playdowns for Aircraft have dropped out of the post-season series with the Big Bens. The series would have been good practice for the city champions who are awaiting their big test in the Ontario series. The local title-holders made a real bid for the provincial championship last season and should give a real account of themselves this year with the added experience they have gained since the series with Preston a year ago.

Nice Going

Capture of the junior 100-yards' breast stroke event by sixteen-year-old Bill Lech at the Dominion swim meet at Winnipeg Friday night gave Peterborough its second Dominion swimming championship. Another pupil of Gordon Minty, local swim coach, put this city on the map some years ago when Al Marshall, now overseas with the R.C.A.F. won the Dominion senior men's breast stroke title and established a new record. The success of these two boys not only indicates ability on their own part but reflects the success of the instructional methods of their coach who early recognized their ability and encouraged them to keep on training until a Dominion championship was their reward. In the case of young Lech, Coach Minty picked him out as a comer some time ago and entered him in the Quebec provincial meet earlier in the summer. He finished third on that occasion but only half a yard separated the first three swimmers and the youngster made such a good showing that Coach Minty went out on the end of a limb and predicted that he would take the Dominion title this year. He told this column several weeks ago that his protege had been showing steady improvement in his workouts and on the strength of that his good showing in the Quebec race declared that he should win at Winnipeg. That prediction was completely vindicated on Friday night.

So far as Peterborough is concerned men's softball dropped off the scene Saturday afternoon when Genelecs, named by the O.A.S.A. to represent this city in the O.A.S.A. intermediate A playdowns, were defeated 11 to 1 in Oshawa by Manager Soup Campbell's Colts. Thus the local squad were shellacked by the same score as in the opening game here Tuesday night last and the Motor City squad took the round in two straight and will meet Belleville Reliance in the next bracket. Dean McLaughlin did the pitching for the Colts Saturday and Genelecs found it about as difficult to score against him as it had been to pick up runs at the expense of Preem Whiteley in the first game. Terry Woods was the starting pitcher for the losers with Eakins the Lindsay twirler finishing the game. Thus Ronnie Akers who won most of the games garnered by the Genelecs during the regular league season saw no action in the O.A.S.A. round, another queer quirk of a bizarre windup to the softball season. Developments of the past two weeks have ended the summer's campaign on a sour note. While the final result might have been the same no matter what team represented Peterborough in the Oshawa series it will at least be difficult to convince the majority of fans that the 4th Battery wouldn't have scored more than two runs in the two games against the Colts.

Cooper Nears the Goal

It looks as if the National League which has already one pitcher, Rip Sewell, in the 20-win class will also have the second twirler in the select group for big Mort Cooper won his 19th victory of the season over the holiday with a 1 to 0 shutout of the Cincinnati Reds and the Cardinals' ace is a sure-fire bet to win at least a score before the season ends. Whitey Kurowski fired the shot that gave him his latest win for it was the third-sacker's homer that produced the only run of the game. Incidentally with the Cards and Yanks almost in for their respective title there is a lot of speculation as to whether Cooper can overcome his American League complex when the big series rolls around. So far Cooper while dominating National League hitters has singularly poor luck against the boys from the other loop. In the all-star games of 1942 and 1943 he was ineffective and although he started twice against the Yanks in last year's world series he was beaten the first time and on the second occasion had to be yanked. He's a great pitcher, however, and in spite of his sad record against American League opposition, we look to him to overcome that jinx and be a big factor in the annual classic. And by the way we are calling the Cards to take the series. We hadn't much company when we made a similar call a year ago but this season we have a lot more supporters.

According to Ken Colling, Belleville sports commentator, there is little prospect of baseball in the Quinte centre next season. Noting the revival in interest in the orthodox brand Ken somewhat mournfully comes out with the following: "The only fly in the ointment is the fact that both Peterborough and Oshawa seem to think Belleville is ready for baseball in 1944. As the situation stands there isn't any more chance of baseball coming back here under the present conditions than Hitler has of winning the war. However, if Belleville sports mentors don't want baseball, well no doubt the Trenton Air Station would welcome games with Peterborough, Oshawa and other Central Ontario cities. Peg Hurst seems to think Kingston would be interested in the revival of the old C.O.B.L., but we doubt it very much, if for no other reason than the Limestoners have a flourishing city league of their own. However, it does prove there is a general trend towards the revival of baseball if only in the minds of some. As for Belleville —well maybe we can look on from the outside and read about the game."

Sporting Chili Con Carne: "After all," says Ken Colling in his Belleville sport column "the entire 4th Battery team was made up of Peterborough lads who had resided in that city for years past." 1942 Champions Win 2nd Game By Score of 11-1

OSHAWA, Sept. 7 (Special to the Examiner) — Peterborough "Genelecs" faded out of the O.A.S.A. Intermediate "A" playoff contention in the first round when they bowed to Oshawa Colts 1942 Provincial champions, by a score of 11 to 1, here on Saturday afternoon.

It was the second straight win for the Colts over the Liftlock City representatives and strangely enough, by the same score.

Playing before a large crowd of fans, an attendance which was augmented by the "George Munroe Benefit Fund" draw staged during the afternoon, the Genelecs flashed a fair sort of defensive ball but they failed miserably at the plate.

Colts sprinted around the bases for two runs in the first frame when Dalton doubled, Hall grounded out and Hurst was safe on an error by Playford. Little grounded to force Dalton at the plate, but before this had happened, Hurst had stole second while combining with Dalton. Then when Dalton was tagged out, Little and Hurst pulled off a double steal despite the desperate attempts of the Peterborough team to nip Hurst at the plate. He was safe and Little went to second. Then Dean McLaughlin singled to score Little.

Petes Got 7 Hits

Genelecs only collected a total of seven hits off Dean McLaughlin's tricky pitching. His slow ball had them guessing badly and they couldn't bunch their hits at all. In the third inning, Holmes was safe at first on Oshawa's only error of the game, when Magee dropped Hall's throw. Giardino singled and Moorhead walked to fill the bases. With the bases loaded and none out, Colts came up with a sparkling play when Little speared Tucker's clean single into left field with one hand and threw to the plate to catch Giardino cold, who was trying to score from second. Then Playford flied out to Little who made a great running catch, and Cadd grounded out to end the inning, leaving two runners stranded.

After that Peterborough didn't come close, although they had two runners on the bases in the fourth inning and two more in the ninth, but both times there were already two men out and the next batter failed.

Little, with five catches, two of them in the sensational class, and Dean McLaughlin's ten strike outs formed the bulk of Oshawa's defensive play with Hall getting three pop flies at third base.

Tucker with two hits and two walks in five trips was the only Peterborough batter to have much success at the plate. The other five hits were divided between Giardino, Moorhead, Mowry, Woods and Holmes.

Colts didn't do very much to Woods' tricky pitching after the first innings, in fact Woods held them scoreless for the next three frames. In the fifth Hall walked and Hurst doubled and Hurst scored when Hawkes fumbled Dean McLaughlin's grounder.

Went to Showers

In the sixth inning, Woods went to the showers after a wild streak. He walked Trewin to start the inning and V. McLaughlin sacrificed. Ted McLaughlin walked, Dalton walked and while he was walking, Trewin scored on a wild pitch. T. McLaughlin scored on a wild pitch while Hall was walking and Woods came out, with Eakins taking over. Eakins fanned Hurst but Little bingled in the clutch to score two more runners, making it 8-1.

Colts got their other three runs in the eighth inning when they cut loose on Eakins with a single by Hall, double by Hurst, single by Little and a single by Magee.

Hurst and Little with two hits apiece were best but every other player on the team with the exception of Ted McLaughlin had at least one hit for the Colts.

Brintons Victors Over Watercraft

Brintons had no trouble in winning their first game in the Industrial League semi-finals from Watercraft, beating the boatmen 17 to 7. The losers used three pitchers, Walker, Gordon and McDougall, and two catchers, Hewie and Johnston, but the Brintons piled up the score. The battery for the winners was Phillips and Byers. The umpires were P. Hillier, D. Hillier and D. Drummond.

The second game in the series will be played Wednesday night.

Tomorrow, Wednesday, night Outboard Marines and C.G.E. Drafting will meet in the second game of their bracket. If the winners in the semi-finals are declared Wednesday night the final round will start Thursday.

Brooklyn Wins 10th Straight Beating Braves

By JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sport Writer

Labor Day, traditionally a big day for the major leagues, passed quietly for the fans this year but the players and clubs concerned did their utmost to provide excitement for the 122.561 spectators who turned out at seven parks.

At Chicago Woody Williams, a reserve infielder for Cincinnati Reds, tied the National League record for consecutive hits, 10, by making five in the first game and another on his first time up in the nightcap to go with four he had made at St. Louis Sunday. With this momentum the Reds whipped the Cubs twice 10-1 and 3-1, the latter game going 10 innings. Elmer Riddle gained his 18th victory.

The Cardinals crushed Pittsburgh Pirates twice 3-2 and 6-2 as Alpha Brazle pitched seven-hit ball and Harry Brecheen came up with a four-hitter, walking home.

Crowd of 28,638

At Brooklyn before the largest throng of the day, 28,638, the Dodgers ran their winning streak to 10 games, longest in the five-year managerial tenure of Leo Durocher, by winning the first half of a doubleheader with Boston Braves 7-3.

Then the Braves banged back to win the second game 3-2 on Chet Ross' single in the 10th inning.

Babe Dahlgren, who worked two innings as a catcher in the first game at the Polo Grounds in New York, hit a two-run homer in the 11th inning of the second game to give Philadelphia Phillies a 3-1 decision over the Giants after New York had bagged the opener 6-3.

In the American League New York Yankees were walloped 11-2 in the first game of a doubleheader with Philadelphia Athletics to give the junior circuit leaders their third straight loss, but they rebounded with an 11-4 triumph in the second game.

Dick Siebert, who had batted in five runs at Boston Sunday, drove in four for the A's in the first game against the Yanks, but in the second game Charley Keller hit his 25th homer of the season and the Bombers finished strong with six runs in the ninth inning.

Boston Red Sox swept a doubleheader from Washington Senators 5-1 on the Hughson's four-hit hurling and 4-1 in Bobby Doerr's three-run homer in the sixth.

Cleveland clipped St. Louis Browns twice 3-2 in 10 innings and 2-0 in five frames with weather interfering with both games.

The elements caused postponement of the scheduled doubleheader at Detroit and as the result the Tigers will entertain Chicago White Sox in two games today, the only games on the calendar.

Bullock Stars On Mound For Local Westclox Team

Westclox broke even with the fast Clark's Dairy team in their week-end exhibition games. The Big Bens with half a dozen regulars missing Saturday were beaten 11 to 3 but they came back with a bang Monday evening to take the invaders 10 to 1. At that it was the second game of the day for the Peterborough girls who filled an engagement earlier in the afternoon at the big sports day at Baillieboro, winning 15 to 8 over a Baillieboro team. Marg. Selkirk pitched for the Westclox with Beryl Dobbin doing the catching and Annie Menelli and Ruth Clapp, second base and short stop of the Ottawa team played with the Big Bens.

Isobel Bullock's pitching was too much for the Ottawa squad here yesterday. After finishing Saturday's game and holding Ottawa to one run in the last six innings of that affair the Westclox pitcher went back at the Easterners yesterday and pitched four-hit ball, allowing them only a solitary counter. They managed to bunch two doubles in the sixth inning to get that lone marker but outside of that frame were held well under control. The Westclockers played good ball in the field behind this fine pitching and the result was that the Peterborough girls looked like winners all the way after they had broken out in front in the third inning with a trio of runs. They made the win decisive by coming through with six markers in the final frame.

Nicked for 13 Hits

Barbara Williamson, who beat the Westclockers Saturday, found the task tougher yesterday and they broke through her delivery for thirteen hits while her teammates were guilty of some errors that hurt.

Westclox took the lead in the third. Joyce Withers opened with a single over third and Aggie Anderson was safe on Ruth Clapp's error. Marg. Selkirk's double to right and Marg. Hawthorne's fly to centre sent three runs in.

There was no further scoring until the sixth. With one out in the Ottawa end Annie Menelli doubled over Barbara Rome's head in left, and after Ruth Clapp had flied to left, Dot Fowler also doubled to the same field to send Annie Menelli in with the only Ottawa run of the game.

Westclox made it 4 to 1 in the eighth. With one away Eunice Armstrong singled to centre and Barbara Rome to left. When Annie Menelli erred on Beryl Dobbin's roller Eunice Armstrong scored.

The ninth was a field day for the Westclockers, when the first six batters to face Williamson all hit safely. Aggie Anderson beat out a bunt to start it, Marg. Selkirk doubled to centre, and Isobel Bullock, Marg. Hawthorne, Eunice Armstrong and Barbara Rome all singled in a row. The six hits along with a passed ball and a couple of errors chased half a dozen runs in and made the game a cinch for the Westclockers.

Barbara Rome and Eunice Armstrong led the winners' attack with three hits each in five trips to the plate. Marg. Selkirk had two doubles and Aggie Anderson a pair of singles. Annie Menelli, who had three hits for the Ottawa girls Saturday, came up with a double and single yesterday and was the only visitor to get more than one blow.

Fielding features were Ruth Clapp's running catch of a fly in short left on which the Ottawa shortstop had to go back a long way and Marg. Hawthorne's quick recovery and throw of a hard hit ball knocked down by Isobel Bullock.

Ottawa—Ethel Anderson lf, Annie Menelli 2b, Ruth Clapp ss, Dot Fowler 1b, Sylvia Seguin cf, c, D. Boutillier c, J. Maxwell rf, M. Skeene 3b, Barbara Williamson p, E. Moss, rf ,cf.

Saturday's Game

Aggie Anderson, Beryl Dobbin, Viola McLean, Verna Patterson, Jean Castle and Doris Walker were all missing from the Westclox lineup on Saturday when the Ottawa visitors won handily 11 runs to 3. Marilyn Low and Marg. Selkirk of the Aircraft, Marg. Batley of Brintons and Joyce Withers of Johnson Motors were drafted to allow Manager Pat Hayden a chance to field a team.

Barbara Williamson, the former Barbara Blade, pitched steady ball for Ottawa against her old team mates, holding the Peterborough girls to eight hits and getting the benefit of good support from her colleagues, particularly from Sylvia Seguin who covered a lot of ground in centre field.

The real feature of Saturday's game was the relief pitching of Iobel Bullock for the Westcloxers. Marg. Watson started for the Big Bens and was hit rather freely and was the victim of some costly defensive slips on the part of her teammates. The result was that Ottawa opened up the game by scoring ten runs in the first three innings.

Fanned Ten

Isobel Bullock took over in the fourth and had the invaders under control for the balance of the game. In the six innings she worked the relief hurler struck out no fewer than ten of the Ottawa girls and allowed them only four hits and a solitary run for the rest of the engagement.

The fielding gem was contributed by Marg. Selkirk who dashed in and made a fine running catch of Ruth Clapp's good bid for a hit in the fifth.

Ottawa got three in the first. With one out Annie Menelli singled to left and Ruth Clapp was safe on a fumble by Marilyn Low. When Margaret Watson threw to the plate too late to get Annie Menelli on Dot Fowler's rap to the box, Ottawa registered their first run and two more came in when Sylvia Seguin's roller to short took a bad hop over Marilyn Low's shoulder.

The visitors added four more in the second. E. Moss opened with a single and went to second as Ethel Andison was being tossed out. Annie Menelli singled to left to send the run in. Ruth Clapp singled to right. Dot Fowler's fly to left was dropped by Marg. Selkirk and Annie Menelli and Ruth Clapp scored. Dot Fowler eventually carried the fourth run in on a passed ball.

In the third a pass to E. Moss, singles by Ethel Andison, Annie Menelli, Ruth Clapp and M. Skeene and a couple of errors gave the visitors three more.

Then Isobel Bullock went to the mound and the Ottawa girls scored only one more run for the rest of the game. It came in the eighth when Ruth Clapp beat out a hit and Dot Fowler got a double to centre on a drive which Barbara Rome almost took in sensational style only to fall as the ball struck her hands. Isobel Bullock struck out Slyvia Seguin but Ruth Clapp scored as E. Boutillier was being thrown out by Marilyn Low.

Westclox opened their scoring in the second when Marg. Hawthorne and Eunice Armstrong led off with singles and after Marg. Selkirk popped up, Barbara Rome was safe on a fielder's choice. A fumble by Annie Menelli on Joyce Wither's roller sent .Marg. Hawthorne in with the run.

In the fourth a single by Marg. Selkirk blossomed into a counter, the hitter running home when Catcher Boutillier threw to second to stop a steal.

The Big Bens got their final counter in the ninth when Marg. Batley was safe on an error, went to second on a passed ball, dashed to third after the catch when Marilyn Low flied to centre and scored while Isobel Bullock was being tossed out on a roller to short.

Toronto Hurler Pitches No-hit, No-run

By The Associated Press

For the second time within 24 hours, International League fans revelled in the thrill of a no-hit, no-run game Monday when young Tom Ananicz of Toronto stifled Buffalo batters over a seven-inning stretch.

On Sunday, 22-year-old Walter Dubiel of Newark Bears gave the same treatment to the Syracuse sluggers, also in the seven-inning half of a doubleheader.

The two pitching masterpieces, which lifted the league's total to four for the season, all but blotted out the fact that Toronto had clinched its first league pennant since 1926 during the long Labor Day week-end and that Rochester and Montreal are in the midst of a red hot scrap for the fourth and final berth in the playoffs.

Montreal swept Sunday's doubleheader with Rochester but the Red Wings came right back to take Monday's twin bill, 7-3 and 5-4, and now are only a half game from the first division.

Ananicz had to pitch the near perfect game to win from the Bisons, the final score being 1-0 after the Buffalo nine had battered out an 8-1 count in the first. Dubiel won his game Sunday, 3-0.

Newark Takes Fifth

Newark ran its victory string to five by taking both ends from Jersey City, 5-2 and 4-2 while Tom De la Cruz garnered his 20th victory for Syracuse in the first, 3-2, but Baltimore came back to grab the second, 4-1.

In both the week-end's no-hitters, only four of the opposing players became base runners. Ananicz, a southpaw, walked four of the Bisons, while Dubiel, a right-hander, granted passes to three of the Syracuse batting array and a fourth reaching the initial corner on an error.

In Monday's game Ananicz was complete master and did not allow a Bison to tread on third base. Only two reached second. In addition, it was his single that brought in Charlie Letchas with the game's only run.

Toronto and Newark, the latter for the 13th straight year, have won play-off berths and Syracuse is on the verge of taking a third. Rochester and Montreal, however, are in a struggle for the fourth spot with Baltimore also a possibility. The season ends Sunday.

Toronto Schools Interpret Order Optional

TORONTO, Sept. 7 — Deferment of school opening by two weeks for third, fourth and fifth forms in all Ontario High Schools applies to technical and commercial schools as well as to high schools and collegiates throughout the Province, Major J. P. Cowles, Assistant Deputy Minister of Education for Ontario, said last night.

Pupils in public schools and the first two years of secondary school return to their classrooms today. Deferment of other classes was announced Friday by Premier Drew, in his capacity of Minister of Education, with the aim of releasing pupils to give them opportunity for farm work.

The ruling affects all pupils of the three grades, not merely those engaged in summer farm work.

"Premier Drew did not specify the exact day on which classes in Grades 11 to 13 will resume," Major Cowles said. "I presume it will be either Monday, Sept. 20, or Tuesday, Sept. 21.

Secondary school pupils attending school in York Township, Forest Hill and East York Township today will find all classes available to them, suburban officials said last night, having interpreted the recent request of the Department of Education with regard to students working on farms as optional.

"We have given no instruction that senior secondary forms remain closed," said Harry Durrant, chairman York Township Board of Education. School officials in Forest Hill and East York said they had taken a similar position.

The rocky district around Zafferana where this picture was made permitted only this narrow lane for the guns.

sweep of the Soviet divisions toward Kiev, 115 miles from Konotop, reached and passed the town of Movye Mlyny, 25 miles to the northwest, near the junction of the Desna and Seim rivers. Other Red forces spearheaded toward Bakhmach, 15 miles due west of Konotop, on the heels of the demoralized Germans. Bakhmach is an important rail hub serving central and White Russia.

Between Konotop and Bryansk, the Russians are now in undisputed control of 110 miles of the Bryansk-Kiev railway, the principal communication link between the German armies on the central and southern fronts.

MORE ABOUT—

Two Italian Towns

lies appeared to be consolidating their hold on the stretch of territory lying between the mountains and the coast.

The raid on Naples was carried out by heavy bombers and was directed against both airfields and communications in that area.

Airfields Ripped

Medium bombers with a long range fighter escort struck simultaneously at the airfields at Capua 20 miles north of Naples, and at Grazzanise, a short distance west of Capua. The Capua airfield also was bombed by night.

A number of enemy fighters were encountered by the raiders and 10 were reported destroyed.

Allied fighter bombers and light bombers, meanwhile, attacked targets in southern Italy.

Allied headquarters declared that naval activity was continuing unhampered off the Calabrian coast and reported that a steady stream of reinforcements was flowing onto the Italian mainland under the guns of the combined fleets.

Axis aircraft attacked the Bizerte area last night, but it was a costly operation. Allied Headquarters said seven of them were shot down after dropping a few bombs and causing but slight damage.

Four Allied planes were reported lost in yesterday's raids, which included a night sortie by R.A.F. Wellingtons on enemy communication lines at Battipaglia.

(The Italian communique, broadcast by the Rome radio and recorded by the Associated Press, reported "lively fighting" between the Allied advance guards and Axis rearguards "during a slow and orderly withdrawal of Axis troops from the coastal sectors of Calabria.")

Allied Headquarters said the 8th Army advance columns were encountering relatively weak resistance from enemy forces.

(In a delayed dispatch yesterday William Stewart, Canadian press war correspondent with the 8th Army in Italy, reported that in the march from the beaches up to the hills there was "not a single shot fired at the infantry column," and termed it "an amazing march.")

Villages in the triangular slice of Calabria now held by the 8th Army included Calanna, San Roberto, Fiumara, Santa Lucia, Rosali, Musuala, San Rocco, Laganadi and Santo Alessio. Furthest inland point to fall to the invaders was San Stefano d'-Aspromonte, high in the hills, where Italian civilians greeted the invading army with cheers.

The narrow Strait of Messina separating the British and Canadian invasion army from its bases on Sicily was completely under Allied control as the Axis heavy guns which had shelled shore positions in Sicily and menaced shipping in the strait were withdrawn for use when and if the Axis chooses to make a determined stand.

There were few indications that it was to be in southern Italy, but the 8th Army was proceeding cautiously opposed only by a few tanks and a few German and Italian troops, the latter showing a great disinclination to fight with the result that 3,000 prisoners already were in Allied hands.

(In another delayed dispatch yesterday Ross Munro, Canadian Press war correspondent, said the Canadians had rounded up 2,000 prisoners, while Ralph Allen, war correspondent for the Toronto Globe and Mail, reported that "Italian soldiers surrendering even with greater alacrity than in Sicily say they had orders to lay down their arms."

(He added "the Italian Army appears definitely in a state of mutiny.")

(DNB, German news agency, said in a Berlin broadcast that Axis forces had evacuated all of southern Calabria and declared that "all indications point to a second large-scale landing of British and American troops....to come soon.")

There were indications the Allies suspected that the Axis was planning to make its stand in the vicinity of Naples, 195 miles on a direct line north of Messina, and that the greatest strength of enemy troops and war material was being concentrated in that area.

Neighbors Honor Hastings Couple

HASTINGS, Sept. 7 —(ENS) — About 150 friends and neighbours gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Fisher, on Friday evening, to bid them farewell before leaving for their new home at Seymour, East.

The evening was spent in cards and dancing with music by Mr. Frank Dainard. At midnight lunch was served. Mr. Donald Lewis then read a very appropriate address to Mr. and Mrs. Fisher and daughter, Jean, while Fred Hendy presented them with a beautiful walnut mantle clock and electric table lamp. Mr. and Mrs. Fisher both replied, thanking their neighbours for the lovely gifts. Dancing then continued for a couple of hours.

Red Cross Meet.

The Friendship Circle held their regular monthly Red Cross meeting at the home of Mrs. Harold McConnell on Thursday afternoon. Theer were eight ladies present. The president, Mrs. Herman Johnston was in charge. The ladies pieced a quilt top, and a letter was read, for an order of six more fancy quilts to go to Toronto. This was left to decide at the next meeting. The hostess then served lunch to the guests.

The Red Cross of the Fife's community held their meeting at Mrs. Roy Humphries home. There were seven ladies present. During the afternoon they quilted two quilts, (a large one and a small one) and pieced a top for another quilt. Some of the ladies were busy at their knitting, but none completed and handed in.

The hostess, assisted by Mrs. Gordon Warner and Mrs. John Davidson served a tasty lunch.

Birthday Party.

David Moore, son of Mr. and Mrs. Moore celebrated his seventh birthday. He entertained the following guests: Jackie Breckenridge, Jackie Johnston, Hamilton; Paul Humphries, Frances Lynch, Joan Walsh, Rose Mary Pirie, Lorraine Pirie, Leon Lynch, Albert Lynch, Eddie Lynch, Vincent Conroy, Alex McMillan, Katherine Walsh, Archie West, Mrs. J. Pirie, Mrs. B. Percy.

During the afternoon, the children enjoyed thmselves with different games, and at 4.30 Mrs. William Moore and daughter, Evelyn, served the guests with a dainty luncheon.

Tomato Crop Needs Dry Weather

Warm dry weather is urgently needed in many parts of eastern Canada to ripen the tomato crop and control the spread of potato blight, says the weekly crop report of the Dominion Department of Agriculture. Deliveries of tomatoes to processors to date has been much below expectations due to delay in reaching maturity.

Potato production in the Maritimes is seriously threatened by blight. An extremely wet season was conducive to disease development and also made thorough spraying difficult or almost impossible. Recent weather has been somewhat more favorable but disease has apparently developed to the extent where yields will definitely be reduced and this will more than offset any increase in acreage. Much depends uon weather conditions during the remainder of the season. Blight is also in evidence in Quebec and Ontario and yields will be reduced in practically all areas.

Later "V" types of peaches will move this week in Ontario where shipments are expected to reach the peak. Elbertas are a light crop and very irregular. Early varieties of grapes are in light supply and later varieties are developing well. The Bartlett pear harvest is under way in volume in the Niagara district and just starting in other areas. Considerable quantities are going into storage for processing.

The harvest of late blue varieties of plums will start this week, including some varieties of prunes. The bulk of the plums have been harvested. Cantaloupes continue to move in volume from late fields but the harvest from the early acreage is about completed.

The apple harvest has reached the Wealthies in Quebec, Ontario and B.C. with McIntosh expected within two weeks. The carlot movement of Ontario onions was heavy during the week and harvesting is in full swing. Many crops are lighter than usual and the bulk of the shipments are 1¼ in. minimum.

Bombing That Preceded Invasion

A picture made June 12 this year as U.S. bombs crashed down on Reggio Calabria, on the Italian toe. Bombings of this type, intensified the past few days, softened up southern Italy for the invasion of the European mainland at points near here. British Eighth Army troops swarmed across the narrow Strait of Messina to open the invasion.

Utilities Aids Blood Clinic

Since January of this year the Utilities Commission has been supplying the Blood Donors Clinic with all the distilled water it requires. About 30 gallons per month is used and formerly this had been supplied from a Toronto source.

The Utilities truck picks up the empty jar every Monday and replaces it with a full one.

The jar filled with water weighs 50 lbs., which is too heavy for any of the ladies at the Clinic to handle. But the Utilities not only supply the distilled water but place it in the stand for the ladies.

The Commission maintains at the Filter Plant, a complete laboratory for the testing of the city water, and one of the pieces of apparatus is an electrically operated still for producing the distilled water required in making up the various solutions, and media.

Thus by running the still a little longer each day a worthwhile service is available for the community.

MAIN STREET TOPICS

VICTORY GARDEN

Mrs. David Huggins of 545 Patterson street cultivated a Victory Garden this year for the first time, and made her initial experiment in growing pumpkins. One of them measured 4 feet, 3 inches around.

CATCHIES A MUSKIE.

Ken Long, former senior baseball player for Peterborough, and now serving in the Navy, bagged a 15 pound muskie in Lake Chemong, near Gordon Nicholls' cottages over the week-end. He was accompanied by Dr. Harold J. Long of Peterborough.

A WHOPPER.

J. W. Devall hooked a large-mouth bass at Deer Bay over the week-end that is the largest reported this season. It weighed 7 pounds even. The bass was taken on green frogs and put up a great battle. The catch was made close to Dormer's cottage.

REPRESENTED THE COUNCIL.

At the request of Mayor Hamilton, Alderman J. E. Sullivan represented the city council at the funeral of Archbishop O'Brien in Kingston Saturday. The council also sent a wreath of flowers as a last token of esteem for the deceased prelate who was born in Peterborough and bishop until his appointment to the diocese of Kingston.

FINED FOR CRUELTY.

A fine of $20 and costs was imposed by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., on Clinton Warren, after the latter had pleaded guilty to a charge of cruelty to a dog. The charge was laid by Humane Society Inspector Gerald Dunford. It was said that the accused had shot the dog through the stomach.

WANDERING ON HIGHWAY.

"He was wandering around Highway 7 in the thunderstorm," said Provincial Constable Price Morris in police court this morning after elderly Frank Houlihan had pleaded guilty to a drunk charge. "We brought him in for safe keeping," the officer added. Magistrate Langley imposed a fine of $10 and $2.50 costs.

"THE RAIN WAS NEEDED."

Of the holiday week-end rains, totalling one inch on the level, it may be said, in extenuation of the weather man's ill-timed activity in moisture, they were badly needed, according to the comment of several farmers this morning. Although many a picnicker was thoroughly dampened some time or other from Saturday until early this morning, so were the fields that have to be plowed, and the pastures that give nutriment to cattle. So, in reckoning up the Labor Day account it is likely that good vastly countervails the discomforts and disappointments that profusely sprinkled the last holiday of the summer.

12½ POUND PIKE

A 12½ pound pike was caught this past week-end by E. W. Fisher of 278 Dalhousie street, while fishing at Calabogie in the Ottawa Valley.

TELEPHONES DAMAGED.

Chief damage done by Monday night's heavy thunderstorm seems to have been to the local telephone system. Many telephones were reported out of commission this morning, and repair staffs had a busy day. The rainfall was heavy over the entire district.

THE CUSTOMARY SEQUEL.

Fred Houal, charged with being drunk in a restaurant last night, pleaded not guilty when his case was first called in police court this morning, but later changed his mind and entered a plea of guilty. He was fined the usual $10 and $2.50 costs.

IS REMANDED AGAIN.

"I will have to ask for another remand," said Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., in police court this morning when Willis Stoneburg, 16, was charged with housebreaking with intent. "There is a material witness whom we have been trying to serve," he explained. The youth was remanded for another week.

GETS TEN DAYS.

Thomas Gormon, pleading guilty in police court this morning to a charge of begging, was sentenced by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., to ten days in jail. Gormon said he had been injured and couldn't work, but the fact that he had been in court here before apparently offset the hard luck story.

FACES TWO CHARGES.

Patrick Hobbins faced two charges in police court this morning, one of purchasing liquor while a minor, and the other of assault. He was defended by Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C., and the cases were adjourned until next Tuesday. "The facts are," said Mr. Gordon, "that he and the other man agreed to have a fight and when the other fellow lost out he brings the case into court." "There is quite a disparity between that story and the one told by the complainant," Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., stated.

SHOWS POPULAR.

Midnight shows seem to be attractive to the younger generation of theatre-goers. At 11.30 Sunday night, the line-up of patrons at the Regent stretched down Hunter to George and down George to Knox Jewellry store. At the Capitol at 11.30, the line extended north on George to Charlotte and east on Charlotte to the main entrance of the Empress Hotel. This was half an hour before the sale of tickets started. There was no midnight show at the Centre.

Toronto Prelate To Install Bishop Tonight

Installation of the Right Reverend John Roderick MacDonald, recently consecrated Bishop of the diocese of Peterborough, will take place at St. Peter's Cathedral this evening beginning at 8 o'clock.

Bishop MacDonald comes from the diocese of Antigonish, N. S., down by the sea, where he was consecrated in the episcopal authority and mission on August 24. His approach to the diocese which received him formally this evening was by way of Kingston on Saturday where he attended the funeral of one of his predecessors in the chair at St. Peter's, Archbishop M. J. O'Brien, who was buried there on Saturday morning.

Toronto Archbishop.

Archbishop J. C. McGuigan of Toronto will conduct the ceremony of installation and an address will be given by Bishop Dignan of Sault Ste. Marie. The first pontifical mass will be celebrated by Bishop McDonald at the Cathedral on Wednesday morning.

Mayor Hamilton and the city aldermen are attending the installation. Their September meeting was transferred to Tuesday, avoiding the Labor Day holiday, and they have to meet at 7.30 p.m. to adhere to certain official functions. That done, it is understood that the council will adjourn until Wednesday evening for the general business of this session.

Hooks a Beaver

SAULT STE. MARIE, Sept. 7 — (CP)—Fishermen have caught just about everything, but that didn't stop W. Figures of Sault Ste. Marie being surprised when he tossed in his line and pulled in a beaver. The beaver soon got rid of the small hook, but not before being identified by Mr. Figures and his party.

ON OUTDOOR SCHEME.

Quite a number of junior officers wearing the white epaulets and white on the wedge caps were seen in the city on Saturday night and a military convoy was parked north of Nassau for quite some time also. The men were on outdoor manoeuvres which included the district and were cadets from the Brockville Training Centre qualifying for their course.

WRONG ADDRESS.

Sgt. R. W Parks of the S.D. and G. Highlanders who has been awarded the Canadian Efficiency Medal overseas, was announced in Saturday's paper as living at 221 Park street. This should have read 221 Rink street.

Soldier Killed When Cycle Is Sideswiped

Hurtled into the ditch when the motor-cycle on which he was riding was side-swiped by a passing automobile on Highway 7, 12 miles east of here, shortly before 7 o'clock Monday evening Pte. Frederick Daniel Hinton, 24-year-old Toronto member of the Royal Canadian Ordnance Corps, Barriefield Camp, was killed instantly.

Hinton, who was on furlough, had been spending a week-end at Trent Bridge and was returning to Toronto when the accident happened. His wife and sister-in-law were following him in an automobile and were at the scene a few seconds after the crash.

Mrs. Laura Storms, 99 Aylmer street, the driver of the motor car involved, was charged with reckless driving by Provincial Constable Price Morris and Provincial Traffic Officer L. A. McClure who investigated the accident.

Mrs. Storms, who gave her age as 49 and said that she was a widow, was arraigned before Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in police court this morning and was defended by Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C.

"I am asking for this case to be tried as an indictable offence" said Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C. "There was a man killed."

Mrs. Storms was remanded until September 14 with bail fixed at $2,000.

The accident happened, according to the police report, as Hinton on his motor cycle was passing the Storms car. The two vehicles came together and both shot off the highway into the left hand ditch and Hinton was tossed off his machine, his head striking heavily on a rock. His skull was fractured and death was instantaneous.

Welcome Home

Mrs. Opal Laster Anderson, 37, blonde and pretty, Chicago's first woman to hold a commercial pilot's licence, is welcomed home on leave by her son, Norman, after 14 months of ferrying bombers from factories to operational bases in England.

Office Girls Make 16th Donation

By persevering and steady work, the office girls at Neill's Shoe Store are piling up an outstanding record for themselves in the help they are giving the sufferers from air raids over Britain through the Peterborough and Distict British War Victims Fund.

When they first commenced, they set the goal of making contributions in an amount of $5.00 each time, and this they have steadily adhered to until at this moment they have turned this same amount for sixteen times, which gives them a total credit of $90.00.

Considering that this group comprises only seven girls, one can readily see that their per capita average is very close to the $13.00 mark, a very creditable record indeed, and it is quite evident that they must gain much satisfaction from helping in this manner, the number of times their name has appeared in this column for the fund being ample testimony to such a fact.

Personal Gifts.

These speak a personal interest which no other form of giving can hardly display, and experience has taught that for the most part, when individual catches a vision of what they can do in this direction, they usually hold on to it, for time and again, these same persons come back with help in a similar manner.

There are three personal donations listed in to-day's receipts, all of them coming from supporters of the fund on previous occasions, two of which are from mothers who have a son serving in the active forces overseas, with Mrs. William Shannon making her regular monthly contribution of $3.00, and Mrs. M. H. Yelland adding a nice $10.00 to teh day's list, while William Taylor of Crawford's Grove whose name appeared only a short three weeks ago, is back once more with another $2.10 made from the sale of flowers in his garden.

The fund has now reached the two thirds way mark towards completing the 25th donation of £500, a little less than $750 being now needed to complete that amount, when it will be sent over by cable to do the job for which it was given.

Sports Event of Note.

On Saturday, September 11, another outstanding sports event will take place at Riverside Park from which the fund will receive the entire net proceeds. Sponsored by the Peterborough-Whitaker Cricket Club a team composed entirely of Royal Air Force personnel at the Picton Station will play a similar group from the Mount Hope Royal Air Force station in a game of soccer.

These teams both have outstanding players, a number of them formerly attached to the professional teams in England, and last year two similar teams from the same stations gave one of the finest exhibition of this popular English sport which did much to make it more popular in this city. Be sure to reserve this date, and secure your tickets from members of the Cricket Club, or at other places to be announced in the next day or two.

LAWN BOWLING

And the rains came—and there was lots of it, but it did not stop the biys and girls from coming out on Labor Day afternoon to play in the mixed tournament. True, there was the odd shower and a few drops now and then, but the bowlers kept on plugging away until they played three 8-end games.

Due to the excessive rainfall over the week-end the greens were somewhat heavy, but bowlers will bowl, no matter what.

The winning rinks were skipped by R. J. Cullen, R. Dyer, and R. J. Martin.

Bob Hendry tells us that down at Port Hope yesterday, in their annual tournament for men's rinks, they had 24 entries—eight going down from here. The major prizes went to Oshawa, with H. Freeman's local rink getting high for two wins. Bob says his own rink was just two points short of the money. Notwithstanding the uncertainty of the weather, he says, everybody had a good time.

If the condition of the greens warrants it, we will continue play in the extra series this evening. The draw was in Saturday's Examiner.

Remains Of Archbishop O'Brien Borne From Cathedral

Following the most solemn funeral mass of the Roman Catholic Church Saturday in St. Mary's Cathedral, Kingston, the remains of His Grace Archbishop M. J. O'Brien are seen being borne by priest pall-bearers in a cortege that led to the clergy plot of St. Mary's Cemetery for interment. The large cathedral, draped in mourning black, was crowded for the pontifical high mass. Canada's leading statesmen, church dignitaries, high officers of the Empire's armed forces and laymen of different creeds joined with parishioners in the last farewell to a great cleric and citizen.

John McIntosh To Be Tried For Tea Theft

On a charge of breaking and entering the A. and P. Store in January last and stealing a quantity of tea, John D. McIntosh, Ford avenue, was committed for trial Saturday morning after a preliminary inquiry before Magistrate E. A. Gee in which four Crown witnesses gave evidence.

W. J. Arthur Fair appeared for McIntosh who elected trial by a higher court. Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., prosecuted.

Harry L. Corner, manager of the A. and P. Store told of the break-in on the night in January stating that some 400 packages of various brands of tea, most of it in half-pound lots were stolen.

Identifies Burglar

Constable Percy Sexsmith testified to inspecting the store on the night of the break-in and identified McIntosh as the man who had put his head in the broken window of the store as the officer and store manager were looking around the premises. Four baskets containing tea had been found near the old car barns, the officer said.

Corp. D. Carr swore that on the night of the break-in McIntosh came to his apartment over Henderson's grocery at King and Bethune streets, asking where he could locate Henderson. "He said that he was a tea agent and wanted to sell some tea," the witness said. Later that night when Carr had gone down to the shed to get some coal he saw when he saw McIntosh again the four wire baskets in the shed and next morning witness said he asked him about the tea, McIntosh said he was a tea agent and had had a breakdown.

Bought Tea

John Burfield, Bell avenue, testified that on the day after the break-in he had bought 70 one-half pound packages of tea from McIntosh, paying him at the rate of 50 cents a pound or a total of $17.50. Burfield said that he fixed the time by reason of the fact that the night of the day he had bought the tea from McIntosh he had read in The Examiner of the break-in at the A. and P. Store.

"You were brought into the station a little while ago about this matter?" asked Mr. Fair.

"Yes."

"How long were you kept here?"

"About six hours."

"And so on the strength of what you told them after being held here six hours, McIntosh was arrested?"

"No, I told them when I first came in."

"But it was because of what you said that he was arrested?"

"Yes."

At the close of the crown's case, McIntosh said that he had no statement to make and would call no evidence at this stage.

Magistrate Gee committed the accused for trial, with bail fixed at $1,000.

National Prayerday Observed at Keene

KEENE, Sept. 7 (ENS)—The National Day of Thanksgiving and Prayer was observed at Keene United Church last Sunday when the topic of the sermon was based on the prophecy of Isaiah "So the Lord will cause righteousness and praise to spring before all nations."

Speaking of the present war and his own experience in the last war the Rev. Murray said "It was those same Huns who bombed our hospital area in France during the last war when 500 sick and wounded soldiers were killed in 2½ hours." Germany once more has been caught in the maelstrom of her own wickedness and whatsoever a nation sows that shall it also reap.

On this Day of National Prayer we think of a suffering world and especially those nations in Europe and Asia which have been overrun and slaughtered by the Nazis. The cry and prayers of those murdered people will not go unanswered, a righteous God will see to that. The enemy might well dread what the future holds for them.

A very suitable trio "God speed the right" was sung with good voice and much appreciated.

The Sunday School executive met at the home of Alfred Fletcher when arrangements were made for the Rally Day service to be held on September 26. A special program will be provided.

Board Refused To Open School Permission

Opening of the Peterborough Collegiate for third, fourth and fifth forms was deferred two weeks today when the Department of Education refused the appeal made by Dr. C. M. Scott, chairman of the Board of Education, to open the school.

Pupils in public schools and in the first two years of the Collegiate Institute and Vocational Training school returned to their classrooms. Deferment of the other classes was announced by Premier George Drew in his capacity of Minister of Education, on Friday night, with the aim of releasing pupils to give them opportunity for farm work.

The ruling affected all pupils in all departments, academic, commercial and vocational of the three grades, not merely those who were engaged in farm work during the summer.

The Peterborough Board's chairman in appealing to the Department expressed the view that harvesting was far enough advanced to not require the help and that those who were needed could say out another two weeks under a previous ruling. He also pointed out that 250 men from this district had applied to go West to help prairie farmers harvest field. Also the canning sea-ready 85 had left for the Western harvets fields. Also the canning season was far enough advanced to not require the help of the pupils.

In refusing the petition, the Department held that it would be unfair to other schools in the Province especially in regards to scholarships when the Petrboro school was open two weeks more than the rest.

When school opened at the Collegiate a large number of pupils from the three top grades were on hand but had to be sent home following the Department's ruling.

At St. Peter's High School all forms opened today but Wednesday will be a holiday in honor of the new bishop, however classes are scheduled to commence on hursday morning.

Kingston Mourns For Archbishop

The City of Kingston's tribute to the late Archbishop O'Brien deeply impressed his Peterborough friends who attended the funeral Saturday morning, Rev. J. J. O'Brien told the congregation of the Church of the Sacred Heart Sunday.

It was evident that the former priest who had been the first pastor of the Church of the Sacred Heart had won a broad place in the respect and sympathy of the citizens of Kingston as indicated by the letters of condolence from Mayor Stewart, Bishop Lyons of the Anglican diocese, the session of the Prebyterian Church, pastors of the United and Baptist Churches and the Salvation Army.

The body of Archbishop O'Brien was buried in the clergy's plot of St. Mary's Cemetery in Kingston.

30 Officers To Train Here

The autumn course for Administrative and Training staffs in Military District No. 3 is going to be held in Peterborough this year, it was announced today.

Ordinarily conducted at Kingston, congestion of living space and facilities in that city made it advisable to seek a change, and Peterborough was chosen as a suitable spot for the special training.

About 30 officers and non-commissioned officers serving as assistant instructors will take the course from Sept. 26 to Oct. 8. Classes will be held in the Peterborough Armouries and the men will be stationed at the Training Centre.

They Wouldn't Report

WILMINGTON, Calif., Sept. 7—(AP)—Two men crawled from an overturned automobile following a collision, and said to Eldon Dobbs, driver of the other car: "We'll go and report this to the cops." No policemen arrived. Finally Dobbs himself reported the accident. Officers found the abandoned car was stolen last month, and a satchel containing $132 was in its rear compartment.

Lucien Howland Engineer Is Found Dead

Lucien Howland, a pioneer railroadman, lumberman and motorist, was found dead in his apartment in the Bank of Commerce building Monday afternoon at 5.30. He had been dead about 24 hours when the body was discovered by a friend, Charles Gladwin, and had apparently succumbed to heart failure. He was 78 years old.

Mr. Howland was a civil engineer by profession and connected with many of the railroad and bridge-building projects of earlier days when the country was being opened up. A noted achievement of his was the building of the Irondale, Bancroft and Ottawa Railroad running between Kinmount Junction and Bancroft. This railroad was commonly known as the I.B.O., and was later sold to the Canadian National Railways at the time of the last war. Mr. Howland took it over in an uncompleted stage, finished the construction and operated it successfully for many years.

Later he went West and engaged in the lumber business in California and Oregon for ten years, returning to Peterborough nearly 20 years ago.

Mr. Howland was well known as one of the first in this part of the country to drive motor cars, and he was one of the earliest presidents of the Ontario Motor League in Toronto.

He is survived by two sons, Russell of Toronto and Milton James of Hamilton. Announcement of the funeral arrangements will be made later.

The final of the national men's tennis singles at Forest Hills, N.Y., yesterday had a dramatic turn when Jack Kramer of California wilted from illness and was unable to make it a contest for the final set against Lieut. Joe Hunt of the U.S. Navy, the latter taking three of the four sets to earn the title previously held by Ensign Ted Schroeder. The latter did not defend the championship.

Although weakened by 'flu, Kramer had disposed of Francisco Segura of Ecuador in the semi-finals Sunday and combined with Frank Parker of the U.S. Army Air Force to capture the men's doubles' title from William Talbert of Indianapolis and Dave Freeman of Pomona, Cali. In the holiday card, Talbert and Miss Margaret Osborne of San Francisco captured the mixed doubles in two sets from Segura and Miss Pauline Betz of Los Angeles, the latter having won the women's singles Sunday for the second straight year.

In the women's doubles, Miss Louise Brough of Beverly Hills, runner-up in the singles, and Miss Osborne retained the title by defeating Miss Betz and Miss Doris Hart of Miami in two sets. California enjoyed virtually a clean sweep of the tournament honors.

Wrestler Leo Numa Turns Boxer, Loses Verdict

Leo Numa showed the best right swing of the entire season here last night in the main bout of Frank Tunney's weekly wrestling card at the Brock St. Arena— and it cost him the decision.

The unmasked Red Shadow employed it to knock Gentleman Jack Clayborne out of the ring three times and to floor Referee Bert Maxwell twice and the official finally disqualified the blond bomber from Seattle and awarded the fall to the Colored Comet.

As each of the battlers had a fall to his credit at that stage Numa's hooks to the jaw, although a success artistically, resulted in his losing the bout.

It all came about through a bit of tape—and not red at that.

When Numa came back after the first fall he had one hand taped and the crowd demanded that he should be made to remove it. Referee Maxwell however refused to interfere and the bout went on, Numa eventually taking the second fall. When the battlers returned to the ring for the third round the former Mask still had the offending tape on his hands and the crowd complained that he was using it to rub across the Comet's eyes. Finally Clayborne slapped a full Nelson at the battling Numa and while the colored grappler held the big boy from the coast Referee Maxwell tore the tape from his hand.

Numa Goes Berserk

Then Numa went berserk. He tore across the ring, swinging lefts and rights at his Negro opponent. Maxwell tried to interfere and the former Hood dropped the official with a right to the jaw. Then he belted Clayborne right out of the ring and as the colored flash tried to climb in Numa clipped him on the jaw again and he fell to the floor of the arena. Once more Referee Maxwell tried to stop the infuriated Coast battler but he was again floored with a vigorous swing to the jaw. Numa punched the Comet off the apron of the ring for the third time but the bout ended there for Referee Maxwell raised Clayborne's hand as winner of the fall and the bout.

It was quite a tussle. Numa big and powerful and just a rowdy at heart paid little attention to the rules, giving Clayborne a rough passage and then complaining every time the Colored Comet came back at him with some of his own stuff. Both men took a turn at putting on the pressure with honors about even during the first 20 minutes. Then Numa flattened the Ebony Flash with a series of rabbit punches and it looked to be a case of Bye-Bye Blackbird when suddenly Clayborne shot off the floor with a drop kick that caught the ex-Mask squarely in the face and dropped him. The Comet had no trouble spreading his opponent for the fall.

Numa took the second fall in eight minutes after Clayborne had had the edge. The black grappler delighted the crowd by sailing into Numa with a series of punches to the jaw that had the Coast mat artist down on his knees in a corner and apparently about ready for the kill. However Numa snapped out of that in a hurry and changed the whole complexion of affairs by grabbing Clayborne, hoisting him high in the air, cracking him across his knee and then slamming him to the mat for the fall.

Steele Wins Handily

In the semi-windup Glendale Freddy Steele showed too much oomph for the barrel-shaped Greek grappler George Tofalos and took the bout in 14 minutes. Tofalos started out to be the bad man in this tussle and he handed out a few punches and kicks that aroused the ire of the fans without doing Steele any apparent harm. The Glendale boy was too powerful and fast for the Greek tussler however and finally softened him up with a series of body slams and then used a whip to toss him for the fall.

In the opening bout Sergt. Ted Miller, R.C.A.F., Trenton, gave away too much weight to the powerful Bunny Dunlop and the latter eventually took the argument but the Air Force grappler showed a lot of stuff and the pugnacious Dunlop had to work for the win. He was as rough as ever, never losing a chance to get in a punch or a kick, and punishing Miller with chin locks that looked like strangleholds and occasionally rubbing dirt into his eyes. The fans demanded the disqualification of the roughhouse Toronto strong man for these unorthodox tactics but Referee Maxwell never succeeded in catching him at the foul work. Dunlop finally won the bout when he picked Miller up, slammed him against the corner of the ring, snapped him across his knee and then to the mat. The first time the Air Force wrestler managed to survive this pile-driver stuff but when Dunlop repeated the triple slam a moment later Miller was out cold and the big boy from the Queen City had only to drop on him to get the fall.

The program came close to being altered because one car-load of wrestlers was held up by the storm. In fact Numa and Steele had just started to wrestle as the second bout on the card when the rest of the cast arrived, the bout was stopped and Numa retired to the dressing room to wait for the feature battle while Tofalos went on with Steele.

Bert Maxwell referred and Bert Krugel acted as announcer and timer in the absence on holidays of Fred C. Scates.

He Metz His Match.

Al Del Greco, the Hackensack, N.J., sports scribe, tells this one about the time Sgt. Vic Ghezzi and Dick Metz played golf on New Jersey's famous Pine Valley course. Ghezzi, who had been there before, warned Metz to get a caddie who really knew the course, but Metz insisted he only needed a score card to tell him the yardage.... When they started, Metz looked at his card and whaled away for the pin while Ghezzo kept getting into dificulty hole after hole....Finally Ghezzi hollored: "Give me that card. I'm going to try that system myself."..He grabbed the card and looked....It was for a course in Connecticut that Metz had played the day before.

HAMILTON, Sept. 7 —(Special) —Lawn bowlers from 16 centres in Ontario gathered at the Roselawn and Ontario Hospital greens here Saturday to compete in the finals for the Provincial championships in rinks, doubles and singles. Previous to Saturday's meeting district matches had been held, and the survivors invaded this city for a two-day session and for the major awards. Payne of Peterboro, S. J. Eidt of Walkerton, and Bob Bunton of Toronto Roselawn. Following are the scores:

Group Two.

N. Tilbury, Port Credit, won from W. Rae, Stratford, 21-13, and from J. Craven, Kitchener, 21 to 4, but lost to R. Payne, Peterborough, 9 to 21.

Craven lost to Payne, 17 to 21, to Tilbury, 4 to 21 and won from Rae 21 to 7.

Payne won from Craven, 21 to 17, from Rae 21 to 16 and Tilbury 21 to 19 to win group title.

War Mother Works Part Time To Speed Munitions Program

1. One of the growing number of married women who work part time in Canadian war plants is Mrs. Jack Wright. Her husband is in Labrador. Mrs. Wright finds time to look after her two sons, and work four hours a day. Ralph, 5, and David, 4, are cared for at Government Day Nursery while their mother works.

2. Mrs. Wright punches in at noon, is on the job till four. Cheerful and energetic, she is typical of housewives who have organized their households to have spare time to aid the nations' war program.

3. Soldering fuse boxes for Canada's fighting Navy is readily adaptable to "split shift" workers. After three days' training, Mrs. Wright released trained, full-time woman worker for more highly skilled job.

4. Bedtime stories end the day for the two boys. Mrs. Wright goes to bed at ten, is up at six for an early start on her busy day. Caring for her home, shopping, washing children's clothes leaves little leisure time. But it's worthwhile, Mrs. Wright says, because it will help speed the day of Victory.

Jack Payne Home From Overseas

L/Bdr. Jack Payne of Pontypool, has arrived in Canada after spending many months in Britain, and he brought with him greetings and appreciation from many Peterborough boys. The soldiers asked that he tell the folks back home, that everything is shaping up fine at long last, and they are happiest when letters and parcels arrive. One thing in particular they ask that smokes be kept moving to them.

A few whom he mentioned particularly were R. B. Mowry, Garnet Davis, Everett Dawe, Dolan, Latchford, Merritt and J. H. Smith of Lakehurst.

The shortness of his stay at home made it impossible for him to see the relatives of these boys to pass along their regards.

WHEELCHAIR GARDENER

SENECA, S.C. — (CP). — Clint Stribling does his gardening sitting down. The 70-year-old retired wholesale merchant, suffering from rheumatism, produces more than 40 different vegetables which he cans, sells and gives away, all done while sitting down.

She Never Thinks about RHEUMATIC Pains

The best way to deal with rheumatic pains is to prevent them developing at all. The next best thing is to tackle them when you feel the first twinges. Telling how she has avoided rheumatic pains 76-years-old Mrs. Amsden writes:—
"I take a small dose of Kruschen in hot water every morning. This is a certain method (for me) of avoiding rheumatic pains and constipation. Before I started taking Kruschen I had frequent attacks of lumbago and sciatica. Now I don't think about rheumatic pains at all, can walk miles, and never have headaches. I am close on seventy-six years old, but no one believes it, as I look so healthy. I believe it is due to Kruschen, which has been my friend for thirteen years."—(Mrs.) E. B. Amsden.
Why is it that lumbago, backache, rheumatic pains and indigestion often yield so swiftly to Kruschen Salts? It is because Kruschen is a balanced combination of mineral salts, each with a penetrating action of its own. Stomach, liver, kidneys and digestive tract are all benefited and toned up to a proper condition of efficiency. When your whole system starts working like a perfect machine, you can shed your woes like a worn-out garment.
Kruschen Salts come in two sizes: 25c and 75c at all drug stores.

Huckleberry Party Spends Night In Bush

WARSAW, Sept. 7 — (ENS). — The story is just being told of a group from Dummer who very recently went in search of the last of the very generous crop of huckleberries and became lost in the wilds.

The first stage of their journey took them to the camp of Dennis Hanley on Long Lake, where a boat was secured. When they reached the opposite end of the lake a trek of six miles took them over the rocks and valleys to the chosen place. It is reported that the find was so great that they became so absorbed in filling their containers that dusk was upon them before anyone realized it was so late.

Starting out in the changing light they became confused and lost the trail, so decided to spend the night on the rocks.

In the meantime Mr. Hanley became alarmed when the party did not return and got in touch by telephone with the families at home, who went at once to the scene, armed with shot guns (for noise makers), food and warm clothing and succeeded in finding the lost about three o'clock in the morning, seated round a camp fire and making the best of a bad plight. They arrived home as the first grey streaks of dawn were showing, none the worse for a harrowing experience.

For Wednesday, September 8

THE ASTRAL influences ruling this day must be interpreted as adverse or conflicting. There is a sign of fair expansion in business or finance, with some increase of credit or personal prestige, while at the same time there are omens of trickery, duplicity, or other undercover pitfalls, luring to subtle intrigues or to tactics wanting in prudence, integrity and good faith. Guard against such lurking snares and schemes, and make a stand on fairness and rigid probity, and there will be moderate rewards with definite personal satisfaction and appreciation. Also safeguard domestic and affectional ties against loss or sinister intrigues.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a year in which their own upright and honest purpose, objectives and conduct may determine the status of their progress, success and personal happiness and popularity. There are indications of subtle snares, sinister intrigues and illicit entanglements which may undermine the best of intentions unless strict integrity and honesty of purpose, sustained by sound principle, be brought to bear on questionable circumstances. These may react on the social, domestic or affectional life with great sorrow, loss or regret unless strict regard for truth, honor and straight-forwardness be rightly exercised.

Churchill Talk Forecasts Post-war Aims

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7 (AP) — Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt renew their war discussions today amid multiplying signs they are awaiting some momentous development—perhaps a definite peace bid from Italy.

Indirect peace pleas have been emanating from Radio Rome for some time, and Enrico Galazzi, an official of the Vatican, which might be an agency through which formal overtures would be made, is on the way to Washington.

Mr. Churchill has been on this side of the Atlantic since Aug. 10, and while his current mission appears to have been fulfilled he as yet has exhibited no disposition to return to Britain.

Hence speculation developed that the two United Nations' statesmen virtually are marking time.

Evidence that the Allied leaders had completed their planning task for months ahead was noted in reports that Gen. George C. Marshall, United States Army chief-of-staff, has been chosen to lead the invasion of Europe from the British Isles. On the highest authority, it was learned that Marshall is to be Commander-in-Chief of the United Nations in the European theatre, an illustration that preparations for a possible drive across the Channel are rather well advanced.

Not For Church

High Catholic officials here said they were unaware of the nature of the mission of Galazzi, who was secretary to Pope Pius when the latter was a Cardinal and who presumably has the Pope's confidence. If his business was purely that of the church, Washington's Catholic leaders undoubtedly would know of it.

There was a hint in Mr. Churchill's address at Harvard University yesterday that significant post-war planning already had been done by the Allies. He spoke of the smoothly operating machinery of the Anglo-American chiefs of staff and declared:—

Already Agreed

"For our own safety, as well as for the security of the rest of the world, we are bound to keep it working and in running order after the war, probably for a good many years, not only till we have set up some world arrangement to keep the peace but until we know that it is an arrangement which will really give us that protection we must have from danger and aggression and which already we have had to seek across two vast world wars."

Some observers here noted that his choice of words "we are bound to keep it working" seemed so strong as to indicate he and Mr. Roosevelt already might be in agreement on the point.

European political problems, particularly those in which Russia would be concerned, still may be engaging the attention of Mr. Churchill and Mr. Roosevelt.

The Prime Minister, speaking at a ceremony at which he received an honorary degree from the President's alma mater, reinforced Anglo-American bids for a conference with Russia, and at the same time made it clear Britain was ready to stand close by the side of the United States in the post-war period.

White House officials said today they did not know how long Mr. Churchill would remain on this side of the Atlantic.

While the Prime Minister and the President conferred for an hour or more this morning, Presidential Secretary Stephen Early said: "Their conversations will continue, and member of the United States and British staffs will be coming in from time to time, on no set schedules."

Early said he saw no pressing reason for Mr. Churchill's return to England and that he did not think the Prime Minister's stay had been prolonged longer than originally expected.

DOROTHY DIX

SOME MEAN LITTLE TOTS ACT CUTE TO PARENTS.

It Does Not Pay to Take Abuse—Boy Should Fight for Rights.

DEAR MISS DIX: I have three children, the oldest 10 years. I brought them up to be unselfish, treat others as they themselves would like to be treated, have good manners and be courteous, in short, be good citizens. But I am now wondering if I have given them the right slant on life, for I have loads of friends, neighbors, and relatives who march into our home with some of the meanest little brats who were ever created. They grab my children's toys, pull their hair out by the handsful, scratch and beat them, while the parents look on approvingly and think it cute for their youngsters to get the better of the other little fellows. And my children come running to me sobbing for protection against these savages. Now the question is: Should I teach my children to push, scratch, and shove their way through this world and take what they want, whether it belongs to them or not, no matter who gets hurt? Or should I go on teaching them to take it and grin?

A MOTHER.

ANSWER: I wish I knew how to answer that question ethically and practically but I don't, for the two points of view seem to be irreconcilable. The Bible tells us that the meek shall inherit the earth. Perhaps in some far-off millenium they may, but in this unregenerate age they get pushed about by the bold and aggressive until the meek are not left even a foothold. Nor does the one, who, when smitten on one cheek turns the other for a blow, fare any better. From which we gather that while humility may be good for our souls it doesn't hang any medals on our chests.

Apparently, our virtues have to be done in moderation or else they turn into vices. There is unselfishness, for example. Certainly a conscientious mother should teach her children not to be piggy, grabby, and seize the best of everything for themselves, but to divide their candy and red apples with their little playmates, let them ride their velocipedes, and play with their dolls. So far, so good, because that teaches co-operation and good sportsmanship and how to get along with others, and it is a lesson that can't be learned too early in life.

But when a mother makes her children give up to other youngsters and let them dominate, when she makes them let other children monopolize their playthings and run roughshod over them, she turns her youngsters into doormats who will be trampled over by others as long as they live. A reasonable amount of enlightened selfishness is necessary for getting along in a competitive world.

Then there is fighting. Many mothers consider it their duty to forbid their children to hit back, even when they are struck, and when little Johnny comes home with a black eye and bloody nose they punish him if he punched back at his adversary. Inevitably, this turns the boy into a coward who never has the intestinal fortitude to stand up for his rights, or to tackle any big thing.

Far better would it be for mother to have Johnny given a few boxing lessons and then tell him to go out and knock the block off the bully who has been persecuting him. It has been said that the Battle of Waterloo was won on the cricket fields of Eton. Many a boy's success or failure in life is settled on the school playground. And not many whose mothers taught them to take ill-treatment without protest ever get anywhere.

So I think that if I had a boy would teach him not to provoke a fight, but never shun one when it was forced on him. And I would certainly teach my children that the Golden Rule was off for the duration when visiting brats began hair-pulling. They need somebody to teach them that they can't get away with running over everybody as they do their mothers.

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a girl of 21. I married a boy just before he was drafted, and now we have son. To my dismay, I discovered shortly after our mariage that my husband wed me only to spite another girl who had broken their engagement, and that he cares nothing for me. I also find that I no longer care for him since I have fallen in love with another man. I have been lonesome for over a year and am sure my new love is the real thing. What shall I do?

LONESOME.

ANSWER: If you are sure that your husband married in a fit of jealous pique and cares nothing for you the best thing is to be frank and tell him you have fallen in love with another. He may be as glad to divorce you as you are anxious for it.

But there is the child. Do you think of him when you so casually contemplate ditching his father because you have lost your taste for him? Maybe the child's father would be a better parent to him, would know how to rear and guide him and have a finer influence with the child than a stepfather. Maybe his father would give him a better social position, open more doors of opportunity to him than a stepfather would. Maybe his own parent would give the child that most priceless of all things, a love and understanding no other man could. Maybe this stepfather you are hoping to put over the baby will even be unkind to him.

Have you considered all these things? When a woman brings a child into the world, she has given hostages to fortune, and she has no right to consider just her own wishes in marriage and pick out any man she chooses for a husband. She must think of the child and if the man she proposes marrying is fit to take the helpless little creature's life into his hands.

But what a comment on war marriages your case is. A hasty wedding, the result of war hysteria between a boy and girl who think they must get married because everybody else is doing it. He is going to the front and she is in love with his brass buttons. Then there is a baby whose father has never seen it. The girl's affection is so poor a thing it couldn't stand a year's separation. And now she is in love with another man, and the end of the story will be divorce.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I am very much in love with a young girl who has not led what we call a decent life. From what the girl tells me she has been a victim of environment; taken out of school very early; got into bad company; had parents who did a very poor job of bringing her up, not by advice and kindness, but by using force and brutality. However, she has become a perfect mannerly lady. I, myself, have lived an exceptionally quiet life and belong to a good family with conventional ideas about the conduct of women. While I am in love with this girl I have not made any definite plans about marrying her, because I am not sure that she will make a good wife due to her previous life, I do not want to enter a marriage that will end in trouble. I look forward to having a good home, children, and a lasting marriage. What will be my chances if I marry this girl?

A.J.

◇ ◇ ◇

ANSWER: No good. I would strongly advise against it. That kind of a girl rarely settles down to the routine of domestic life. There is always the hankering in her for adventure and, anyway, you would always be suspicious, always expecting her to jump the bars, even if she didn't. Before marriage a man may think he is broadminded enough to forgive a wife with a past, but after marriage it is this past something that is always between them, and that torments him.

◇ ◇ ◇

DEAR MISS DIX: I am certainly glad to hear that the army has taken a stand against women wearing slacks unless they are doing war work, and has cast its vote for feminine frills. There is no excuse for women making themselves look hideous, absurd, and outlandish, as they do in breeches, and if they could see themselves as others see them women would discard slacks at once. I asked several women why they did it. They said they didn't know. Maybe they put slacks on as an indication that the are going to dominate men and wear the pants. What do you think?

SERGEANT O.

ANSWER: I don't know. I have never been able to even guess why any woman would throw away every feminine charm and attrction, which she does when she puts on slacks. I think skirts are mighty kind to women.

The marriage was solemnized on Saturday, in Perth, at "Glen Tay," the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hosie, sr., of their daughter, Iva Ethel, to Joseph George Stenton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stenton of Peterborough. Rev. Dr. D. Bruce Gordon of New Liskeard, Ontario, officiated, assisted by Rev. J. P. McFarlane of Toronto, uncle of the bride. Miss Margaret Lough of Montreal, cousin of the bride played the wedding music and Mr. Hugh Hosie sang "O Promise Me" before the ceremony and 'O Perfect Love" during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in white embossed satin fashioned with fitted bodice, sweetheart neckline and short train. Her white net veil was caught with a halo of orange blossoms and she carried a bouquet of Talisman roses, bouvardia and maiden-hair fern.

The bride's sister, Mrs. Bruce Gordon of New Liskeard, was ~~r only attendant, wearing a floor-length gown of blue periwinkle blue sheer with a head-dress of matching flowers and a bouquet of pink roses and maiden hair fern. She wore a double strand of pearls, the gift of the groom.

Mr. Gordon Brown of Peterborough, brother-in-law of the groom, was best man, and Master Tommie Hosie, of Cornwall, nephew of the bride, was ring-bearer.

A reception was held after the ceremony, at which the bride's mother received in a gown of midnight blue velvet with a shoulder corsage of red roses. The groom's mother, who also received, wore almond green pussy-willow crepe with a corsage of red roses.

When, later, the bride and groom left on a wedding trip, Mrs. Stenton travelled in a suit of powder blue crepe with black accessories and corsage of Talisman roses. On their return they will live in Peterborough.

Stenton-Hosie Nuptials At Bride's Home In Perth

Few organizations in Canada can boast of a finer job for the men serving overseas than the committee of Canadian Legionnaires who have conducted the cigarette bingos for more than a year now and who have sent 326,130 cigarettes to 1,087 soldiers from Peterborough and the immediate district.

About a year ago, Bob Hotrum decided he would discontinue the Buckshee Fund locally. This fund consisting of donations from the public generally was used to purchase cigarettes by the thousand for soldiers overseas, and while it is known that the cigarettes all reached Britain, there was no way of knowing whether or not any of them ever reached Peterborough men. Because of this the committee decided a more direct method would be more satisfactory, hence the introduction of the cigarette bingos every Friday night.

Each Friday night 20 names are drawn from a box at the Legion Hall. Every person who buys a ticket to play bingo is entitled to put a name in the box, the name of some soldier serving overseas. 300 cigarettes are shipped immediately to the 20 men whose names have been drawn, and the stack of letters which have come back to the Legion Hall are satisfactory proof that smokes are reaching the boys.

Last Friday with the bingo sessions just past their first anniversary, the Legion attracted the largest bingo crowd in the history of the organization.

Members of this committee, all of whom rate orchids for the fine joo they are doing, are as follows: Jim Mitchell, Bob Mitchell, Arthur Moscrop, Jim Welch, Thomas Chapman, George Bishop, Jack Ridyard, Percy Golds, Albert Miller, and Bob Hotrum.

five-club league all summer are anxious to pick an all-star team for competition against some Peterborough team looking for an outside game.... Ken Pritchard of the Sentinel-Star writing on behalf of the Cobourg Lasses says "We can't offer much in the way of a monetary consideration for an out-of-town team....Transportation is the big problem but if the girls make a decent showing against out-of-town teams they might be able to scrape up a couple of cars and play return games."....Stewart J. Chambers who used to play softball and junior hockey in Peterborough is serving overseas as civilian technical advisor on Ford trucks for the Department of National Defence....He is the son of J. S. Chambers, 175 Aylmer street....Believe it or not the Brooklyn Dodgers have won ten straight games....The streak however does not cause any worries in St. Louis where the Cards are rolling right along to their second successive pennant....They took a double-header from Pittsburg yesterday with two young pitchers, Al Brazie and Harry Brecheen working smoothly.

Charm Friends by Telling Fortunes

Exciting Meaning In Every Card

The oracle speaks! That's you, foretelling the three main events of your beau's life for the year—and maybe weaving yourself in!

Three fateful cards hold the secret of his future, if you tell it the gipsy way, "Fortunes by Nines"! Seven of diamonds? Lucky! He'll get money—where he least expects it! Two of spades? Bad luck—a separation, maybe from you; but all's well, for the seven of hearts promises success in love!

You easily learn such tricks and the meanings of the cards, too. Most hearts are happy cards, telling of love; diamonds are the cards of worldly affairs, clubs of business. Spades are gloomy! Prize card to get is the ten of hearts—romance and wealth!

In tea leaves and in the "crystal" you also can find fortune thrills!

Our 32-page booklet explains 85 tea-leaf meanings, has the meaning of every card in the deck, and some thrilling gipsy card - reading methods. Also has a horoscope for each month, fortunes in dice, the "magic crystal."

For your copy of Fortune Telling send 15 cents in coins or stamps to the Home Service Department of the Examiner. Be sure to write your name, address and name of booklet plainly.

80 More Sampans Given A Strafing

NEW DELHI, Sept. 7 (CP). — Three factories in the Prome district of Burma were damaged yesterday by R.A.F. fighters and other aircraft divebombed targets at Kyaukpyu on the Kaladan River to the north, starting fires in three buildings, a British communique said today.

In southwestern Burma, the fighters also shot up a variety of other targets, including more than 80 sampans on the Irrawaddy, a locomotive and several army trucks.

General Escapes

LONDON, Sept. 7 (CP). — The Berlin broadcast recorded by The Associated Press reported today the escape from Riom prison of Gen. De Lattre de Tassigny, who attempted a military revolt in southern France when the Allies invaded North Africa last year.

Gen. De Tassigny, who was sentenced to 10 years by a special military court, was one of the youngest generals in the French army.

"The Authority on Authorities"

EARLY OR NEVER

SOME PLAYS have a chance to work if you employ them at the earliest possible stage, before the defenders have a line on what is the situation. Postponing them can reveal just what you are trying to do, so that you haven't a chance in the world to get away with it. In the beginning you may be able to create an illusion which would be impossible later on.

North: ♠ 9 7 6 2 ♥ 8 7 4 ♦ A 6 3 2 ♣ K 5

West: ♠ J 10 8 3 ♥ A Q ♦ 10 9 7 4 ♣ [illegible]

East: ♠ 5 ♥ K J 10 6 3 2 ♦ J 5 ♣ A 8 7 2

South: ♠ A K Q 4 ♥ 9 5 ♦ K Q 8 ♣ Q J 10 4

(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♠	Pass
4 ♠

Suppose you were sitting in the East and saw nothing but your own hand and the dummy. If your partner led the diamond 4, you played the J and South won with the K, and then South led the club 4 to the K. You would, of course, win it with the A, and then would ponder the question of your return. Wouldn't it look very much to you as if he was getting ready to ruff one or more clubs in the dummy?

You would be torn between the idea of a heart return up to those weak cards in the dummy, and a trump in order to cut down his ruffing ability. As it turns out, if you sent back a trump, he would make his contract, taking three rounds of trumps, discarding two hearts from dummy on clubs, the last of which would be ruffed by your partner. The declarer could then ruff one of his hearts and so would lose only three tricks, one in each suit except diamonds.

But the actual declarer on this deal did not make that effort. After winning the diamond lead, he scored two trumps to disclose the bad break, then led a club to the K and A. There was no sane lead available now to East except a heart, so that declarer was beaten with two tricks in that suit, plus one in spades and one in clubs.

There was nothing certain about the early club lead causing East to try a trump return, but at least South should have made the effort as a possible precaution against a bad trump break.

American Guns Wipe Out Forts

By DANIEL DELUCE
Associated Press War Correspondent Representing the Combined American Press

MESSINA, Sicily, Sept. 7 —(Delayed) — (AP) — American "Long Toms" which were the first guns to shell Bizerte opened fire on enemy targets across Messina Strait to herald the long-waited invasion of Italy.

In the middle of the night, as thousands of British and Canadian fighters were embarking for the toe of Italy, skilled young gunners hurled a brief, crackling concentration of 155-millimetre shells on a burning Axis ammunition dump.

The conflagration threw a fiery red glow into the sky like a volcano and seemingly turned the narrow ribbon of water between Sicily and Italy into molten metal.

The American artillery bombardment preceded by some four hours the massive Allied barrage on enemy beach fortifications.

French Soldiers In Hills Reported Heavily Armed

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Sept. 7 (CP).— As landings in Italy brought Allied forces nearer the soil of France today, French leaders both here and within France quickened their preparations for the assault which one day will come against German forces occupying their country.

Yesterday's vote on the National Liberation Committee for total military or civil mobilization of all French men and women already is being put into effect by the underground committee of resistance inside France, a spokesman for the committee declared.

He said there is rapid liaison between the liberation committee here and the resistant committee in France.

The liberation committee also voted to bring to justice those participating in Marshal Petain's collaborationist government.

The two decisions taken together mean that every Frenchman and Frenchwomen in France or abroad is ordered to serve the cause of liberation to the fullest extent or face trial after liberation.

The president of the resistance committee in France — as yet anonymous except to his close collaborators there and to those closely connected with the liberation committee here—is no myth, a Frenchman here who knows his identity said, but a young man previously unkown in French politics who has emerged as a strong leader and who has the full support of his secret committte of resistance.

Fooled Gestapo

This committee has held regular meetings in cities throughout France including Strasbourg, which Hitler has annexed to Germany. The members have travelled to the meetings under the noses of the Gestapo, and no meeting place ever has been known to the Germans until it was too late to catch the members.

An adherent of Gen. Charles de Gaulle here said the leader in France was a follower of De Gaulle and that he had accepted the Committee of Liberation in Algiers as the governing body of French liberation efforts.

"The resistance committee has an army in France," this Frenchman said. "Thousands and thousands of French have fled to the hills rather than work in Germany. This army has rifles, machine-guns, mortars and even some artillery."

Sabotage has been placed on a highly organized basis, with the main effort directed at preparing a full program as soon as an Allied force lands in France.

Here in North Africa there is another great French army. splendidly equipped with American material and ready for action.

Axis Partner Collapses
Badoglio Signs Truce

Fighting Ceases Under Armistice
Huns Report More Landings
Fate Of Italian Navy Unknown

By EDWARD KENNEDY
Associated Press War Correspondent.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa, Sept. 8 — (AP). — Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower to-day announced the unconditional surrender of Italy in the greatest victory for Allied arms in four years of war.

Gen. Eisenhower announced he had granted a military armistice — approved by Russia as well as Britain and the United States—to the war-sick, tottering junior Axis partner being chewed by invasion.

Hitler's "European fortress" was cracked, the way was opened for new offensives, the course of the war immeasurably shortened.

Surrender of Italian armed forces "unconditionally" was made by the government of Marshal Pietro Badoglio, successor of Benito Mussolini, the Architect of Fascism.

Thus the Casablanca "unconditional surrender" ultimatum received its first application.

Announcing the news, Eisenhower, who led the Allied triumph in Tunisia and Sicily as well, declared:

SURRENDER IS UNCONDITIONAL.

"The Italian government has surrendered its armed forces unconditionally."

"As Allied Commander-in-Chief, I have granted a military armistice, the terms of which have been approved by the governments of the United Kingdom, the United States, and the Union of the Soviet Socialist Republics. Thus I am acting in the interests of the United Nations.

"The Italian government has bound itself to abide by these terms without reservation" and the armistice becomes effective "this instant," Eisenhower said in a broadcast at 12:30 p.m. E.D.T.

The truce actually was reached last Friday at Allied advance Headquarters in Sicily—the very day that British and Canadian troops swept across Messina Strait to invade the Italian toe—but it was agreed, a special announcement said, that the armistice should come into force at a moment most favorable to the Allies, and be simultaneously announced by both sides.

ORDERED TO OPPOSE GERMANS.

Badoglio issued a proclamation saying the armistice had been requested and granted, and called on all Italian armed forces to "cease all acts of hostility against Anglo--American forces wherever they may be met.."

Badoglio instructed the Italians, however, to "oppose attacks from any other quarter"—a warning that German attempts to interfere would be met by arms.

Gen. Eisenhower said the agreement was signed by his representatives and those of Marshal Badoglio.

All hostilities will terminate at once, Gen. Eisenhower added.

The commander-in-chief promised "all Italians who assist in the fight against the Germans will have the support of the United Nations."

Text of Gen. Eisenhower's radio announcement:

"This is Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, commander-in-chief of the Allied force. The Italian Government has surrendered its armed forces unconditionally. As Allied commander-in-chief, I have granted a military armistice the terms of which have been approved by the governments of the United Kingdom, the United States and the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics. This I am acting in the interests of the United Nations.

"The Italian Government has bound itself to abide by these terms without reservation. The armistice was signed by my representative and the representative of Marshal Badoglio, and it becomes effective thiš instant.

FIGHTING STOPS AT ONCE

"Hostilities between the armed forces of the United Nations and those of Italy terminate at once. All Italians who now act to help eject the German aggressors from Italian soil will have the assistance and support of the United Nations."

Reds Capture Stalino In Donets Basin

Germans Lose 420,000 Men Since July 5, 1943

LONDON, Sept. 8—(CP).—The Berlin radio announced today that German troops have evacuated the steel centre of Stalino in the Donets Basin after destroying all war installations. The transocean radio announcement of the retreat from Stalino, 12th largest city in Russia, was recorded by The Associated Press. The city has been menaced by the Soviet advance in South Russia for several days and the Russian midnight communique announced last night that Red Army units were by-passing the city in a pincer movement.

Russian announcements said that the Red Army was advancing all along a 600-mile front, exacting a heavy toll from the retreating Germans. Nazi casualties since the start of the summer offensive July 12 have reached the staggering total of 420,000 killed and 1,080,000 wounded, and 38,600 captured, Moscow declared. At least 30,000 square miles of territory have been retaken.

The capture of Stalino restored the last of the great industrial cities of the Donets Basin to the Red Army, which already has won back two-thirds of the Ukraine's rich grain lands.

The Red Army advance also crossed the rail line to Mariupol, 65 miles southwest of Stalino on the Sea of Azov, making it almost certain that Nazi forces which have been fighting east of that town must withdraw to escape entrapment by the southward turning move.

The Red Army newspaper Red Star reported other units had severed the main railroad from the Donets Basin to Dnieperopetrovks, 115 miles west of Stalino.

Russian dispatches indicated Stalino fell in flanking moves rather than by direct assault.

Stalino, a city of about 500,000 pre-war population, was taken by the German in October, 1941, and the Russians never had been able to wrest it back until now.

At the hub of a railway system serving the Donets Basin, Stalino is an excellent base for a possible thrust southwest to pinch the invaders completely out of their foothold in the Kuban and in the Crimea.

The German war bulletin said the Donets battle was raging with "undiminished violence."

Take Rail Junctions

To the north on the Bryansk sector, the Red advance westward continued at the same pace. The rail junction of Navlya, 30 miles south of Bryansk on the line to Konotop, fell to the Russians, together with 10 smaller towns and villages, the

Premier King Suggests Nation Celebrate Fire Salutes, Ring Church Bells Everywhere

OTTAWA, Sept. 8 —(CP)—Prime Minister Mackenzie King asking Canadians to join in rejoicing, said today the capitulation of Italy means that the Allies have attained the first of three main objectives—the capitulation of the Axis powers, one by one.

At a cheerful press conference, held just before he prepared to broadcast a message on the Italian surrender, the prime minister said rejoicing should be accompanied by the resolve on the part of every Canadian to bend all energy to the defeat, in the quickest possible time, of the remaining Axis powers.

Canada had reason for pride in the fact that Canadians were among those at the spearhead of the attack on Sicily and later were among the first to land on Italian soil, said Mr. King.

When he had read his formal statement, later broadcast, Mr. King added:—

"Gentlemen, I have this to add:—

"I have asked the carillon in the Peace Tower to play in honor of this occasion. Salutes will be fired; church bells may ring all across the country."

The whole Canadian nation should be united in the celebration, and equally united in its determination to proceed with the war with all its vigor, the prime minister said.

Britisher Dons Hun Helmet Italian Hurls Rock At Him

By DANIEL DE LUCE—Associated Press War Correspondent

WITH THE 8TH ARMY IN ITALY, Sept. 6 — (Delayed) — (AP).—Sweaty British and Canadian soldiers with blistered feet and knapsacks decked with clusters of sweet blue-skinned grapes, trudged ahead today in pursuit of the weak-hearted Axis rearguard which continued to fall back.

German and Italian T.N.T. experts who blocked the west coast road at Bagnara for 48 hours during the recent week-end smashed two railway and two highway bridges over rivers to halt the 8th Army's motor transport again.

One regiment crossed a shallow river this afternoon under light mortar and artillery fire, and by nightfall had passed by a deserted town.

Only six casualties were reported all day in this sector as the so-called front was advanced six miles from dawn to dark.

The Italian campaign so far is not war. It is a kind of hare and hounds chase with dispirited Italians and a handful of sullen German technicians trying to break the stride of the British pursuers by demolition of communications.

Prisoners Happy.

Hundreds of Italian soldiers tramped along the eight-mile stretch of road between Palmi and Bagnara today unescorted and waving happily at occasional detachments of the 8th Army going in the other direction toward the front line.

In villages prisoners chatted gaily with civilians, agreeing "guerra finito." (The war is finished.)

A redcapped British military policeman eyed one batch of Italians marching rearward unguarded and remarked: "They don't look one bit sheepish, do they, sir? They look ruddy satisfied with themselves."

The policeman said a British infantry officer was trying on a German helmet that he had picked up in a field in Palmi and a civilian

EXTRA!

LONDON—The Rome radio said to-day that Frascati and other localities in the suburbs of Rome were heavily bombed at noon to-day by Allied planes.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN SICILY— Sir Andrew Browne Cunningham, Allied Naval Commander in the Mediterranean, broadcast to the Italian Fleet and Merchant Marine, telling them:—

"The German armed forces have become the open enemy of the Italian people and intend to seize your ships."

Commanders of Italian ships were told to make Allied ports, or at worst, neutral ports.

Merchant vessels unable to make safe port were told:—

"Do not let your ships fall into their (German) hands. In the last resort scuttle them or sabotage them rather than let them fall into the hands of the Germans to be used against Italy."

Lae Threatened By Paratroopers

By VERN HAUGLAND,
Asociated Press War Correspondent.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Southwest Pacific, Sept. 8— (AP)— Field artillery pieces dropped by parachute with paratroops at Nadzab airport Sunday now are firing at Japanese targets in the Markham valley in the direction of Lae, Allied Headquarters disclosed to-night.

It was also announced that hundreds of Japanese troops were routed near Singaua plantation, 10 miles East of Lae on Monday by Australian infantry which had landed on the New Guinea coast 48 hours earlier.

The troops were advancing westward along the Huon Gulf toward Lae itself and were approaching the Busu river, only five miles from Malahang, one of the threatened city's main airdromes.

The Australians were within range of enemy guns at Lae, but they have not been fired, as yet The silence of these weapons indicated the effectiveness of the heavy aerial pounding of Lae before the Allied invasion Saturday.

Opposition Light.

U. S. paratroops and other units in Markham valley have not yet met serious opposition.

It was said officially that operations on both sides of Lae are proceeding according to plan without real resistance. Since the first few days are all-important in operations of this kind, it was pointed out that the lack of opposition augurs well for the ultimate success of the pincer movement.

Malahang airdrome, across the Busu river from the advancing Australians is three miles from Lae airfield proper which was the town's secondary airdrome.

Aerial Fleets Blanket French Bases

Abbeville Pounded In New Raids On Invasion Points

By GLADWIN HILL
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Sept. 8.—(AP).—American twin-engined aircraft blasted two enemy airfields near Lille in France to-day, rounding out a full week of non-stop assaults by Allied air units based in Britain to support the Mediterranean campaign and pave the way for the invasion of Western Europe.

At the same time U.S. fighters augmented the drive with sweeps over Belgium and Northern France.

The targets of the medium bombers in their seventh consecutive day of operations were the Nazi air bases at Lille-Nord and Lille-Vandeville, both of which had been hit previously in recent days. The announcement said R.A.F., Dominion and Allied Spitfires escorted the bomber fleets.

The Nazi-controlled Paris radio asserted that American bombers had struck in "violent attack" at Amiens and had pounded Abbeville twice more, but there was no announcement from Allied air officials of new raids against these oft-battered objectives.

R.C.A.F. Mosquitoes took part in the night's attacks on France and Belgium, headquarters announced. No Canadian planes are missing.

Although heavy bombers of the R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. took their first layoff in three nights the night forays of Mosquitoes and the daylight bomber attacked carried the non-stop offensive against western Europe into its seven day.

Rail targets at Amiens and Abbeville had been hit twice before by Allied airmen in the past week.

The latest blows came after one of the heaviest days of air assaults.

The score at the end of six days was around 25 Nazi air fields bombed and at least 14 railroad yards attacked a significant campaign to divert aerial and ground reinforcements from the Italian and Russian fronts to soften western Europe for possible Allied invasion.

Mosquito bombers pounded enemy airfields and rail targets in France and Belgium, the Air Ministry announced, to keep the air offensive rolling through another night, and naval planes destroyed a German

Canadians Play Important Part In Italy's Defeat

OTTAWA, Sept. 8. — (CP).— Signing of the Italian armistice was hailed with satisfaction as one of the great milestones of the war in official circles here to-day.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King called a press conference timed almost simultaneously with Gen. Dwight Eisenhower's announcement at Allied Headquarters in North Africa.

It was expected some special events would be arranged to celebrate the capitulation of the first of the three Axis partners.

In the midst of appraisal of the military and political significance of the event it was recalled that the Canadian troops now on Italian soil will have a new role to play.

As units of the British 8th Army they may or may not have further fighting with German forces in Italy; but there will be no more fighting with the Italians who are to lay down their arms.

The Canadian army entered the war against Italy on an active scale with the invasion of Sicily July 10, when the 1st Division landed with the 8th Army and fought its way across the big island.

Then came the landing in Italy, last Friday morning. Reports have indicated virtually no resistance from Italian forces on the mainland.

While the fall of Sicily and the invasion of the mainland were the last of Italy's pre-armistice reverses, the events which really shattered Italian power were the defeat of their armies in North Africa, the loss of their African empire, and the air bombardment of their cities.

British Bore Brunt.

Canadian land forces took little part in the capture of the Italian African empire, a job done by British, South African, Australian, Indian and Free French troops.

But in the air war in Africa and in the bombing of the Italian mainland Canadian airmen, trained in the British Commonwealth Air Training Plan schools in Canada and serving either in R.C.A.F. or R.A.F. squadrons, played a large role.

For more than a year Canadian airmen have been flying over the

NEW YORK, Sept. 8 — (AP). — Marshal Stalin triumphantly announced in a special order of the day to-day that "the Donets Basin is cleared of the Germans."

The announcement, as broadcast by the Moscow radio and recorded by the United States Federal Communications Commission, added: "Our troops captured a number of cities, including the city of Stalino."

The action came, the Soviet Premier continued, "as result of skilled manoeuvres and a determined offensive in the last six days."

War Backfires For Mussolini

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Staff Writer.

A safe, easy war that boomeranged into frightful calamities gnawed like acid into Italian morale, finally toppling that nation as the first Axis victim of the Second Great War.

Preceding it in inglorious finale went Benito Mussolini, the prophet and artisan of modern-day Fascism who sought a 20th century Roman empire.

Italy fell after Allied armies battered in her front door of Sicily and put her cities, including Rome, under devastation from the air.

The Italian rallying cry changed to "Peace!" from the drum-thumping days of "Nice, Corsica and Tunis" and proclamations of the Mediterranean as "mare nostrum"—"our sea."

It was a confident Mussolini who launched his "stab-in-the-back" march on France on June 10, 1940—when France was collapsing, when Britain and the Empire stood alone, when speedy and absolute victory seemed to close to the dictators' grasp. For Mussolini, conqueror of Ethiopia and Albania, it seemed almost like a bloodless coup.

A Miscalculation.

It was criminal miscalculation. In three years and several months the war has boomeranged to strip him of his African empire, to tear Sicily from Italy, to bring British and Canadian forces to the mainland, to bottle up the Mediterranean, to brin the air siege to all Italians and drain the country of manpower and shatter much of her navy.

For Mussolini, leader of the Black Shirts and would-be imitator of the History Repeats In Italy's Fall

By The Canadian Press.

Knocking Italy out of the war parallels the first capitulation among the central powers—that of Bulgaria—in the First Great War.

The first Axis power to collapse, Italy quit almost exactly four years after the current conflict began on September 1, 1939, with the German invasion of Poland. Italy entered the war June 10, 1940.

Bulgaria, crumpling under a brilliant offensive carried out by British, French, Italian, Greek, Serbian, Czechoslovak and Yugoslav forces, signed an armistice of unconditional surrender September 29, 1918. That was four years and two months after the First Great War started July 28, 1914, with the Austria-Hungary declaration of war against Serbia.

The war was all over 43 days after Bulgaria surrendered.

Invasion of Italy Like Hollywood Set

Absence Of Resistance Gives Scene Make-Believe Touch

By ROSS MUNRO,
Canadian Press War Correspondent.

WITH THE CANADIANS IN ITALY, Sept. 8 —(CP Cable) —We thought those first few days on the Pachino Peninsula, where the Canadians first landed in Sicily nearly two months ago, made for a crazy kind of war but it was fairly reasonable compared to this unbelievably easy invasion of the Italian toe.

The Canadians have been in Italy for three days. Personally I have seen about a dozen enemy shells land and watched about five dive-bombing attacks by enemy aircraft with little inclination to get too close to the anti-aircraft fire around the targets. That is all in three days.

(The landings in Italy were made early Friday. Munro's dispatch was written Monday morning.)

No Machine Guns.

I haven't heard a German machine-gun in Italy yet and the whang of 88-millimetr sheels from a lone gun as we neared the shore was the only real chilly incident. There's going to be fighting ahead —probably plenty— but the first few days are like something Hollywood might have dreamed up for a super-colossal film on the Commandos in which none of the "good guys" get shot and the enemy all surrender.

After landing we walked down the centre of the main street of Reggio Calabria. It was like taking a Sunday stroll at home. The infantry were around us but they marched along as if they were occupying Aldershot on summer manoeuvres. The only thing lacking to make it completely screwball was a group of manoeuvre umpires standing on a corner with white identity bands on their arms and saying to some husky soldier. "You are a casualty."

Even the reaction of the Italian civilians was something the Canadians had not expected. Some of us took over a couple of rooms in an apartment block for the first night and we have a caretaker and 15 occupants trying to make us comfortable. When we gave the caretaker a tin of stew he nearly wept with pleasure. He had been eating herbs for weeks.

On the second morning we went looking for a regiment in the hills and missed their battalion headquarters. We drove east in a jeep along a dry river bed.

The country began to look mighty lonely. We turned and drove back, finally finding infantry in the hills near the coast. They told us they were forward Canadian troops.

There have been few reports like this where unarmed observers of campaigns could inadvertently carry out a reconnaissance into unoccupied areas without running into trouble.

I had to return to Sicily for a few hours. Sicily seemed thousands of miles from the war. A dozen times I was asked: "What's the reason for the lack of resistance? What are the Germans doing?" I could only think of one general answer. "We're winning." That doesn't cover it all but it goes a long way towards explaining the queer things in Italy.

Cohen Returns To Board

Accedes To Request Of 3 Labor Groups

OTTAWA, Sept. 8.—(CP).—J. L. Cohen, of Toronto, Labor representative on the National War Labor Board, has acceded to a request from three major labor organizations that he resume his activities as a Board member, he announced to-day.

In a letter to Mr. Justice C. P. McTague, Board chairman, Mr Cohen said he was "prepared to resume my participation in all hearings and activities of the Board.

Mr. Cohen had not appeared at Board hearings since he wrote Mr. McTague Aug. 18 saying he would not sit on controversial cases until the government's labor policy was "clarified." He complained of "severe limitations of unsatisfactory and inadequate legislation and prevailing administrative policy."

Mr. Cohen said his decision had been reached after representatives of the Trades and Labor Congress, Canadian Congress of Labor, and General Conference committee of the Standard Railway Organizations had asked him to resume full participation as Board member.

Sicily Losses Exceed 1,895

First Total Only Up To August 4

OTTAWA, Sept. 8 — (CP). — An official spokesman for the Defence Department said to-day a number of casualty lists will be issued during the next few days reporting casualties in the Sicily campaign, although officially reported casualties already exceed the total of 1,895 announced previously.

Last night the 19th Sicily casualty list was issued by the Defence Headquarters containing 159 names and raising total Sicily casualties so far listed to 1,898.

Departmental sources said last night the 19th list was expected to be the last compiled list of casualties from that campaign. To-day the official spokesman said this information was not correct—that plans have been made for subsequent lists, at least daily for the rest of this week.

The figure of 1,895 casualties announced previously covered casualties up to August 4. There has has been no announcement of casualties from that date until the clean-up of the Sicily operation, but some of the most violent engagements of the fight for the big Italian island occurred after August 4.

76 MILES OF ITALIAN COASTLINE NOW HELD BY BRITISH TROOPS

Eighth Army Registers More Gains

Bovinara Captured Canadians Move In Six Miles

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa, Sept. 8 (CP)—The British-Canadian 8th Army has occupied Bovinara, 10 miles east of Melito on the southern shore of Calabria and has advanced up the western coast of the peninsula to the mouth of the Petrace River, six miles above Palmi, Allied Headquarters announced to-day.

The advance extended the stretch of coastline in the possession of the Allies to approximately 76 miles.

At the mouth of the Petrace, the British and Canadian forces were emerging from the mountainous country through which they have been travelling onto a small plain extending northward some eight miles to the Mesima River.

The Allied bridgehead previously had been bounded by Palmi in the north — capture of which was announced yesterday — and by Melito in the south.

The bridgehead thus had been extended by approximately 16 miles in the last 24 hours and the advance was reported continuing.

Some Resistance

Slight skirmishes with Axis forces were reported.

Such opposition as developed was easily routed, but extensive demolitions by the retreating enemy forces continued to make progress relatively slow.

The building up of Allied reserves of men and material on the Italian mainland, meanwhile, was being vigorously pursued by fleets of boats plying back and forth across the Strait of Messina under the protection of Allied warships and planes.

U. S. heavy bombers pounded Foggia airdrome near the Italian east coast across from Naples, shooting down 11 enemy fighters in a great air battle.

Medium bombers and fighter bombers attacked railways and roads in Northern Calabria, Headquarters announced.

Allied armies now control an area of nearly 100 square miles.

(The Italian communique broadcast by Rome and recorded by the Associated Press said Italian and German rearguards "are retarding in local combats the advance of British troops."

The Headquarters announcement:

"Some weeks ago the Italian government made an approach to the British and American Governments with a view to concluding an armistice. A meeting was arranged and took place in neutral territory. It was at once explained to the representatives of the Italian government that they must surrender unconditionally.

"On this understanding representatives of the Allied Commander-in-Chief were empowered to communicate to them the military conditions which they would have to fulfill.

AGREE TO ALL ALLIED TERMS.

"One clause in these military terms binds the Italian government to comply with the political, economic and financial conditions of the Allies which will be imposed later.

"Further meetings were arranged and too place in Sicily.

"The armistice was signed at Allied advance Headquarters there September 3, but it was agreed with the representatives of the Italian government that the armistice should come into force at a moment most favorable for the Allies, and be simultaneously announced by both sides. That moment now has arrived.

"The possibility of a German move to forestall publication of the armistice by the Italian government was discussed during the negotiations. To meet this eventuality it was agreed that one of the senior Italian military representatives should not return to Rome. He now is in Sicily.

"Further, Marshal Badoglio arranged to send the text of his proclamation to Allied Headquarters."

The anniversary of the opening of the great German air offensive against London, which began the evening of Sept. 7, 1940 and continued without a let-up for 85 nights, passed last night with only a few scattered Nazi raiders over England to remind Britons of the date.

More than 250 German planes raided this city the first night of the great blitz, striking at about 8 p.m. and raining incendiaries and high explosives on the capital until 4:30 a.m. they killed 430 persons and injured 1,600 in addition to causing widespread destruction.

But on the nights prior to this anniversary the roles were reversed, and cities were cowering under the threat of air-borne explosives being hurled down on them in weights the Nazi Air Force never even approached.

Latest city to be hit in the massive R. A. F.- R. C. A. F. night raids was Munich, industrial centre and Nazi shrine.

Then, in daylight attacks yesterday, R. A. F. and American bombers protected by Allied fighters streamed over the Continent to harass the enemy.

R. A. F. Typhoons and Mitchells attacked railway yards at St. Omer and airfields at Poix and Abbeville while American bombers battered an airfield and aircraft factory at Brussels-Avere in Belgium as well as targets at St. Omer and Saint Pol.

Helping protect the bombers at both St. Omer and Saint Pol were R. C. A. F. fighters, which came through the day without losses.

"Broke two of his ribs, that rock did, sir. Very funny," the redcap chuckled.

"Capturing Palmi was just a lark for a Bren gun carrier last evening," he added. "The carrier found an Italian crew manning a machine gun in that concrete pillbox by the Palmi crossroads. The crew couldn't decide what to do but one burst persuaded them to surrender."

This military chase up Italy is not only hard on the feet of the infantry but it is a ceaseless 24-hour-per-day chore for the engineers.

Statesmen Urge Care Drafting Post-War Treaty

By J. F. SANDERSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8 —(CP)—Top statesmen of Britain and the United States appeared agreed today that a peace treaty must be written slowly and with great care after the war and the Anglo-American chiefs-of-staff combination maintained to enforce it and keep the peace.

Mr. Churchill previously had urged that the smoothly clicking machinery of the naval, air and military experts of Britain and the United States be continued after the fighting ends. He suggested it be kept functioning, perhaps for years, until an arrangement is worked out to keep the peace and guarantee protection from danger and aggression.

It became certain late yesterday that President Roosevelt shares this view.

The American attitude, it was learned on the highest authority, is that a transition period must follow the firing of the last shot, that the peace terms must be shaped thereafter and that the combined chiefs-of-staff must be retained to guard the peace, by force if necessary.

A Breathing Spell

The idea is that the world should have time for a breathing spell, time to recover from shell shock, so that, for the sake of humanity, the peace treaty may be written in a firmer, surer, hatredless handwriting.

However, neither the prime minister nor the president has given any clear-cut clues as to what each has in mind for the post-war world or for means of assuring lasting security.

The committee of the combined chiefs-of-staff has its headquarters in Washington and is confined to high-ranking British and American army, naval and air officers. The Canadian government maintains liaison through Maj.-Gen. Maurice Pope, head of the Canadian military mission to Washington. He sits as a full member of the committee during discussions concerning Canadian forces or theatres in which they are fighting.

There were indications here, too, that Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt are making headway toward a meeting with Marshal Stalin of Russia at which problems of military and post-war ed, captured the Nadzab airstrip in the Markham Valley, 20 miles northwest of Lae, Sunday. Today, headquarters disclosed it has been placed in shape and Australian troops were streaming in by air transport to reinforce paratroopers moving on Lae from the rear.

Lae has two airdromes. Salamaua, 18 miles southeast, has one. All three are in danger of seizure as a consequence of an encirclement which has trapped a Japanese army estimated at 20,000 men. All three no longer can be used by the enemy.

Slowly, after many weeks, Australians and Americans are fighting on the very edges of the Salamaua airdrome. In contrast, the envelopment of Lae and its two airdromes is proceeding rapidly.

Australians who went ashore on Saturday under protection of American warships have defeated a Japanese force at a plantation 10 miles northeast of Lae and now are near the mouth of the Busu River, only four miles from their objective.

The Japanese airforce, only weakly opposed the Australian landings from the sea Saturday.

American fighters sped out over the Huon Gulf yesterday to intercept 20 enemy medium bombers and 10 fighters. Two Japanese bombers and five fighters definitely were destroyed. Five other bombers and a fighter were believed shot down, against the loss of one Allied aircraft.

Roman conquerors, it was the last hand in the game of intrigue and power he started with his "march" on Rome in 1922 to become a dictator. Mussolini was ousted July 25, and his Fascist regime began to shred to ruins.

The first few months of war were benign and glorious for Italy. They brought a share in the spoils of beaten France, more of a "place in the sun."

In September, 1940, Italian legions were sent driving into Egypt, 300,000 strong, but they stopped after a 70-mile penetration. The British War Office later disclosed that Mussolini was facing only a handful of British troops, that he had missed a golden chance to seize all of Egypt and Africa. So began the African campaign so ill-fated for Italy.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, Sept. 8 — (CP). — Scattered buying in early hours of trading along with purchases by exporters and firmness at Chicago pushed wheat futures nearly a cent higher yesterday on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange while rye also registered advances.

Locals were credited with some buying in the wheat pit and prices advanced from the opening. Purchases by mills and commission houses were also in evidence during the session. Buying in rye came from both locals and American houses.

Shippers took a small lot of No. 1 Northern in the cash wheat market to fill boat space, while mills purchased round lots of Nos 2 and 4 Northern. Demand continued good for cash coarse grains with an estimated 600,000 bushels of oats taken direct from Western Canada points to the United States.

Marshall Says Invasion Plans Complete

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8.—(AP). —Allied preparations for smashing Germany's European fortress—including an invasion of Northwestern Europe—are virtually complete, Gen. George C. Marshall, United States' Army Chief-of-Staff, disclosed to-day, and plans for decisive triumphs over Japan are well advanced.

"The end is not yet in sight," he said, "but victory is certain."

That the long-heralded "second front was plotted as long ago as the Casablanca conference in January was made clear by his disclosure that "the plans for air and other operations in Northwestern Europe were reviewed and confirmed" at that meeting.

Marshall's conclusion as to the invincibility of Allied arms was set forth in an extraordinary report to United States' War Secretary Henry Stimson in which he reviewed the early months of defeat suffered because of inadequate forces, revealed the swift measures taken to stem Axis aggression, told of historic decisions made, and showed how the enemy had at last been forced on the defensive road to defeat.

"Strategically the enemy in Europe has been reduced to the defensive and the blockade is complete," Marshall declared. "In the Pacific the Japanese are being steadily ejected or rather eliminated from their conquered territory.

Boat Capsizes Rochester Man Is Lost In Lake

COBOURG, Sept. 8 —(ENS) — Cobourg was the scene of the first drowning of the year when a Rochester man drowned after his 19 foot motor boat capsized yesterday in the heavy sea about three-quarters of a mile off the mouth of the Factory Creek in Lake Ontario. His name was Eugene Roach of Webster, N. Y. His companion, Earl Hoffman of 35 Kingston Street, Rochester, swam to shore. Chief W. J. Carey started dragging operations but without success.

Hoffman and Roach left Rochester on Labor Day morning for a trip to Bowmanville where they had friends. On Monday night they were going to return to Rochester but on account of stormy weather postponed it until Tuesday morning.

"We left Bowmanville at about 11.45 this morning," Hoffman told The Examiner last night. "We followed the shore along pretty well to Cobourg on account of the heavy seas, just in case we would have trouble. At about two o'clock when we were about three-quarters of a mile off shore at Cobourg, a terrific wave, just like a tidal wave it seemed to me, caught us on the side and flung our boat over, pitching the two of us out. When I came to the surface I was facing south and Gene was somewhere behind me. I started to swim towards shore and he did likewise. I had been swimming a little while and turned around to see how he was coming along and saw that he had disappeared.

"I hadn't heard any outcry or anything to indicate that he was in trouble. I guess he must have gone down very suddenly. The water was very rough and cold. Maybe that is what got him. It was tough going in to shore and I was pretty tired when I decided to try and reach bottom. I was able to touch it with my toes and was able to stand there a while with my head out of water while I rested. Then I waded into shore and went to a house and phoned for help. I waded out as far as I could but I could not find a trace of Gene," related Hoffman.

Grafton Man Is Given 20 Months

COBOURG, Sept. 8 (ENS)—William Hall of Grafton, who was remanded for sentence when he last appeared before Judge J. C. M. German, appeared for sentence yesterday and was given 20 months definite and 12 indefinite in the reformatory.

There were ten charges of breaking and entering and theft, and one charge of possessing fire arms without a permit. He received 20 months definite and 12 indefinite on the ten charges and six months on the charge of having a fire arm without a permit, all terms to run concurrently.

Hall was arrested last May by Provincial Constable David Adair of Cobourg on charges of breaking into several summer cottages during the winters of 1940, 1941 and 1942.

Grain Yield Is Only Half Crop

COBOURG, Sept. 8 (ENS) — As threshing progresses, it is apparent that Northumberland County grain production is falling below one-half of a normal crop, it was revealed by Ralph C. Banbury, agricultural representative for the County. He urges that seed requirements be cleaned up this fall and arranged for, or it is quite probable that it will not be available next spring.

Early planted grain in all sections has resulted in some passable fields and threshed product, but the late crop is progressively poorer as threshing continues. There is, however, considerable hope for the buckwheat crop, which looks excellent in all sections, and should good weather prevail, it may supply a great deal of the concentrate ration to increase the meal of the mixture. Many groups are ordering western feed and all in the trade are very busy. Delivery in many cases has been slow and, according to one Toronto authority in the trade, it is entirely due to difficulties of labor and transportation at the large lake head elevators. It is probable that pressure of demand will result in better service as the movement becomes more organized. In purchasing, states Mr. Banbury, it should be remembered that the provincial bonus of $1.20 a ton for September is payable on five-ton lots and this makes the grain cost the farmers little over 1¼ cents per pound. The freight is largely looked after, and in the case of wheat, a very considerable bonus is given. Farmers are well advised to purchase wheat to mix with their poor quality oats and barley, that the fibre content of the feed may not be too high and trouble arise with the stock feed.

Red Cross Branch Resumes Work

CAMPBELLFORD, September 8—(ENS) — Local officials of the Red Cross Society were well pleased with what was described as the "splendid amount of work" that came in when the Campbellford and Seymour Branch resumed its fall meetings. It was pointed out there was still a great call for knitted articles "and we are asked to put every bit of pressure possible on our knitters to produce navy and grey turtle neck sweaters, army sweaters and gloves during this season." Newfoundland is reported to be in great need of this type of sweater and every member is being urged to knit at least one turtle neck sweater in medium size.

The Red Cross has been asked for 1000 Christmas bags for service men in Newfoundland Hospitals and these are to be filled with the following articles: pen knives, pencils, paper and envelopes, cribbage boards, checker boards, playing cards, games or puzzles, hard candy or chocolate bars, life savers, gum, Reader's Digest, books, cigarettes, gay Christmas cards, crossword puzzles, hand work suitable for men such as hooked mats, knitting or crocheting. Any one wishing to aid this worthy cause is asked to leave their donation at the library before September 22 as parcels must be on there way before September 5.

Child Sees All

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 8 (AP).—Six-year-old Bob Ferris stood with her parents in a crowd at the Union Station to see her grandfather off on a train. "Oh, mom!" she exclaimed. "Look at that man put his hand in grandpa's pocket!" Bystanders seized the man. Police said he had a long criminal record.

Germans Name Canadians "Red Devils"

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 8 (ENS) —Pte. Bob Morrison, who a few weeks ago was wounded during the battle of Sicily, wrote an interesting letter to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George E. Morrison of this town, recently. Pte. Morrison received a shrapnel wound in his right arm during the battle and is at present in a Canadian Hospital in Africa. Prior to his departure from England for the Mediterranean he had been a batman runner with the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment. The letter to his parents, datelined Somewhere in Africa reads as follows—"A few more lines to say hello and how are you. I'm in another hospital now, and its all Canadian. I've seen practically everything that's to be seen here in North Africa, as I was in two English Hospitals before I finally landed here. I've seen and been in the ancient towns of Carthage, Constantine, Djbourba and Abou Arak. Yesterday I was operated on and the boys had quite a laugh at me when I came out of the ether. They said I was licking the whole German army by myself. They grafted some skin onto my arm to see if it will heal any quicker. The climate here is so hot and oppressive that even mosquito bites turn into desert sores if you scratch them.

Young Barker from home is here too. I go over to his ward and visit with him when I can. He has quite a bit of shrapnel in him but is coming along okay. The good old 1st Canadian Division has sure made a name for itself in Sicily. Our regiment captured a town that was right on top of a cliff with a wall around it. The Bosche never dreamed of us scaling 2,700 feet of almost perpendicular ground, but we did, and brought our mortars with us. They were sure surprised, and scared when they woke up in the morning and found all their pickets dead and the place surrounded by "Red Devils" as they call us.

Prospect Of Traffic Peak

Rationing of passenger accommodation on railways has been remotely suggested as a means of curbing the excessive and increasing volume of business burdening transportation lines on both sides of the border. In spite of appeals to the public to stay at home, except in circumstances of necessity, trains are crowded, especially at week-ends, and the last resources of rolling stock have to be put to abnormal on lines for which they were not intended.

The Labor Day week-end produced a new peak of holiday traffic. The prospect of packed coaches did not deter the hardy folks who feel entitled to a change of scenery and are willing to put up with abnormal discomforts and the buffeting about that has been accentuated by train transport in war time. Their endurance is equal to their desire to get away from the home surroundings even for a few days at the heel of the hunt of summer. It is a natural impulse that takes on a keener drive from the ampler pocketbooks lined by war work and wages. Jamming into coaches apparently comes under the head of a pleasure that is not going to be denied by the exhortations of railways that still keep trains running and tickets to be had for the usual price.

Back To School

Yesterday was back to school for thousands of boys and girls throughout Canada, but unfortunately it was accompanied with the same confusion as has been demonstrated in the past two years. Last year, all secondary schools remained closed for an extra two weeks, and some for four weeks. This year classes in the third, fourth and fifth forms are out for an additional two weeks, while the first two grades have returned. However, there are a few scattered cases in the province where Collegiate Institutes and High Schools have opened all the classes.

Premier Drew, as Minister of Education, no doubt thought his action of Friday last, in extending the holiday was the best possible under the circumstances, but it should have been taken a week or two sooner, rather than wait until the boys and girls had all returned from the farms, or had given their seven-days' notice to their employers of their quitting. We believe postponing school openings is a question for the local Board to decide; they are the ones responsible for the operation of the schools and they pay the teachers.

In Peterborough, we have 225 men asking for permission to go to Western Canada to help with the harvests and at the same time the children are told, "You are needed out on the farms, to take the places of these men who want the trip west". There are more men seeking the western trip today than there will be boys and girls actually at work on the farms during the next two weeks.

Some farmers have still plenty of their harvest left in the field, but Selective Service should be made to work and these farmers could get this help from the men wanting to go to Western Canada. Boys and girls have done a wonderful job of helping the war effort, but from observation we have come to the conclusion that far the greater majority spent their summers in industry and other trades in the city, rather than helping out on the farms.

The Department, in refusing the request of the Peterborough Board to permit the schools to open, fully realizes that the situation here is different, but fears that the boys and girls from P.C.I. might carry off too many scholarships in their examinations next June, as they would have an advantage of two weeks over the other students in the province.

The main point in the situation, as in the past, is being overlooked. The future of our country depends on our young people and yearly the study hours, with all this super-organization in our secondary schools, are growing less and less. With Christmas and Easter holidays, term examinations, final examinations and a few other holidays thrown in the actual teaching period in many of our schools is cut at least six weeks in the school year.

It is important that our children learn principles of service at an early age. But it is also important that they are not overworked physically in the summer vacation period, or that their education is not prematurely cut short. The problem is one that demands more consideration than just the present emergency.

Travel

Canada is a vast domain. Her physical characteristics have had much to do in the development of the people who now inhabit its extensive territories. Our comparative small population has settled in isolated areas and great distances have made more difficult a national understanding. Few Canadians really know their native country well. The Maritimers have fostered, and with some justification, grievances arising out of problems local to themselves. So have the people of British Columbia and of our prairie provinces. These difficulties have led to sectionalism in their federal representation and national viewpoint. The failure of the people of the central provinces to know and understand the situation confronting their fellow-countrymen has often been offered as the originating cause. How often have we heard westerners say "The people in the west often travel east, but few from the east visit the west." If that is the case, still fewer from the central provinces have visited the rural areas, fishing villages and lumbering and mining towns of the maritimes.

Westerners should not be too critical. On question of railway rates irrespective of party they have always ganged together in the Dominion House of Parliament. Some notable western statesmen have arrived at Ottawa as strong champions of the west, only in a short time to undergo a change of heart, having obtained a broader picture and formed a national point of view. The robust westerners used to, as a rule, be quick to repudiate such statesmen. The people of the west after the hardships they suffered following the loss of trade in the world markets, realize now that it is essential for them to share their fortunes and obligations with the nation as a whole. They are rapidly becoming weaned from the idea, that monetary reform can work magic, a thing that they tried in desperation.

In any event travel is a great educating factor. It is not always possible for people, and particularly young people, to travel. Young people are more easily led into radical and narrow views. Time and experience only serve to broaden. How fine it is to know that tens of thousands of our young men and women have travelled to our west coast and been stationed there for months on end. The same is true of the east coast. The war only has made this possible. Likewise they have travelled to the remote regions of the Ontario, Quebec, the Prairie Provinces and the far north. These opportunities have enabled them to see for themselves the industries and way of life and to learn too the views held by the inhabitants of these other parts of Canada. Not only have they been able to do all this, but they have as well trained and lived with comrades from all parts of the Dominion and made many enduring friendships.

All this will do more in a short time towards eradicating sectionalism than organized education could do in a decade or for that matter a generation. A national appeal on a problem confronting the Maritimes or B.C. will have thousands of understanding supporters. Travel promotes toleration and broadens. Such intermingling of the troops can't help but accomplish a great deal in promoting unity of thought and purpose in our country.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Probably the Canadian troops who are now in Kiska are wishing that they might have been sent to a more enjoyable locality to do their shadow-boxing.

"Churchill and President Are Burning Midnight Oil" says a news heading. We hope the boys remembered to get the permission of the oil controller.

Winston Churchill may once have asked for tools to finish the job but he has again proved that he needs no tools in the shape of words when it comes to completing an effective speech.

American factories have hit a new peak in plane production just at a time when the German people had reached the conclusion that the Allies already had too many of them.

Story from London says that huge stores of granite for German Victory Monuments are lying in a number of places in Sweden. The Nazis are probably wondering now why the stone was ever ordered.

Double Talk On Peace

From NEW YORK TIMES

A BERLIN radio commentator calling himself "Bill and addressing himself to his "dear fellow-Americans" appeals to the latter to rise up against the "unholy alliance of Bolshevists and plutocrats" and demand a compromise peace to save Western and world civilization. That is not new. It is part of the German peace propaganda that has accompanied both German rearmament and warmaking as an element of psychological warfare to split the opponent and destroy his fighting spirit. Nor is it new when "Bill" wails about the hard lot of the Germans, or boasts of their power of resistance. But it is new when a Berlin radio voice admits that "German resistance might eventually be broken"; that "the suffering, sacrifices and reverses of recent months have chastened German extremists and made people generally better disposed to accept a practical, workable and just peace that would stick," and that in the interest of such a peace "the Germans would gladly shake off some of the leaders of totalitarianism once they were themselves free from outside menaces."

⋄ ⋄ ⋄

"Bill" may be one of those renegade Americans who were recently indicted for aiding and abetting the enemy and now await punishment as soon as we catch up with them. But one is still inclined to ask, for whom is "Bill" talking? Can it be that he is talking for a chastened Goebbels who now prefers to hide behind "Bill" in the hope of saving his skin? Or is "Bill" a mouthpiece for the German Army, which was recently reported to have sidetracked both Hitler and the Nazi party and to have taken control of everything, including foreign affairs and the press, which would include propaganda?

And who are the totalitarian leaders whom the Germans would gladly shake off now? Are they Hitler, and Himmler, and Goering, and Goebbels, and the many other gangsters who have made Europe run red with blood? And do they include the army generals who disguised their troops in the uniforms of the countries they were about to assault, and who shot hostages by the hundreds?

If the Germans want to get rid of them, why wait? There is no quicker way of removing outside menaces than to remove the domestic menaces. And just what would "bill" substitute for them? "The so-called democratic democracy does not fit the German people," he says. Then what kind of democracy would he give the Germans? Presumably the same kind of "ennobled democracy" that Hitler boasted of having created in Germany—a "democracy" run by a dictator and expressed itself in plebiscites conducted under the eyes of the Gestapo.

Furthermore, just what is that "reasonable, just and generous peace" that "Bill" talks about? "Reasonable, just and generous" for whom? For the Germans who are bleeding Europe white? Or for the despoiled nations whose youth they have killed or enslaved, and whose treasures they have stolen? The peace "Bill" has in mind "would permit the economic reorganization of Europe without great political transformation." In other words, continued German domination through "Grossraumwirtschaft."

⋄ ⋄ ⋄

To raise these questions is to answer them. And the answers disclose how clumsy German propaganda is. But the new turn of that propaganda is still worth taking note of. We take note of the fact that the German, extremists have been "chastened," though we expect no great results from that until the great majority of the Germans who heiled Hitler and his victories are chastened as well.

We also take note that the Germans are beginning to think about throwing their totalitarian leaders overboard. That process of thought, once started, has interesting possibilities.

Finally, we take note that the Germans are beginning to long for a "practical, workable and just peace that will stick"—a peace, in other words, that will give justice to all, that will not wreck world economy, and that can be enforced. But we doubt, from Bill's" own words, that the Germans are ready for it. Until they are, the war must continues, and no German propaganda will be able to change or delay the outcome.

Why She Quit

It is sometimes asserted that the rank and file of labour is not as conscious as union leaders of the value of the strike as a weapon, nor as interested in its application. The theory gains credence in an incident which took place recently on a Montreal street car. Two young and attractive women met.

"Why Hilda, I thought you were working at that aircraft plant. What are you doing downtown?"

"I quit."

"But why?"

"Oh they started one of these strike things and I just said to myself I don't have to put up with that. I can get myself a job in another place anytime."—The Printed Word.

Ears With Whiskers

A Chicago man writes to a newspaper to protest against the barbers' practice of whizzing the electric clippers around the ears to remove the hairs that grow there. He claims that this makes the hair grow in all the longer and more profusely, and says that in course of time a man will have as much hair on his ears as he would have on his chin.

This is a "barber-ous" practice which man has submitted to without protest too long. Nature put those hairs there, and if left to themselves they would never amount to much. It is well known that clipping encourages growth.

However, there's this about it. If the barber can develop a race of men with hairy ears they might serve the useful purpose of being natural ear-muffs in wintry weather. — St. Thomas Times-Journal.

Overseas Voting

The chief point with most of the soldiers has been an utter lack of interest. They do not want to be bothered taking time out to pick and choose between parties who are promising the moon to the folks at home.

What they want to do is win the war and then come home and make sure the fighting men are given due consideration in the world of peace.

It is quite possible the soldiers will want a new election after the war, an election in which they can play a part.—The Soldier.

THE TIMID SOUL

A Dangerous God

(From HALIFAX CHRONICLE)

SOME folk think the strutting provincialism of Ontario is a crime. They gag every time a Torontonian smacks his lips in smug self-satisfaction over the joys of living in Canada's biggest small town. Others rebel at what they choose to call the disloyal separation of the Maritimes. They shy off like a frightened horse at the very word "secession." To such as these the constant feud between "Upper Canada" and the Maritime Provinces is a sinister symptom of impending disaster. For those who worship blindly at the feet of the idol "National Unity," the notion that Vancouver should flaunt its balmy climate in the frozen faces of prairie dwellers is rank heresy.

But national unity is a dangerous god for Canadians to worship. For it is a god so easily misunderstood. And it has feet of clay! Yet blind followers of the national unity cult would have us all speaking with the same voice, drinking the same way, from coast to coast. We would, in short, all have to march together, and if we didn't we'd all very probably march straight to perdition.

Life would be awfully dull if Toronto folk didn't feel a trifle uneasy in Nova Scotia. A trip to Ontario would lack zest if some well-meaning soul in Ontario didn't make our hackles rise by becoming patronizingly aware for the first time in our presence of the fact that a thousand miles of Canada lay east of Montreal. And where would we be if Winnipeggers couldn't chat about Quebec's quaintness, while good Quebeckers shrugged their shoulders in wonder at the width of Portage avenue?

Some people would put us all in one big strait-jacket and label it "Canada." There wouldn't be any Acadian French for them. The invigorating character of Cape Breton would vanish, smothered under the bulky garment of nationalism. Lunenburg and all that it means as part and parcel of our culture would disappear into the drab, monotonous whole. Quality, character, would be traded for quantity.

National unity as a purely political idea may have merit. But to make the term all-embracing in the social, cultural and economic sense would be the worst sort of folly. National unity would then quickly become simply a Canadianized version of National Socialism.

Certain groups in Canada seem to have forgotten this rather simple fact. Inter-provincial bickering is not all bad. Talk of secession is not essentially dangerous. The difference in speech between Halifax and Victoria does not foretell national disaster. Provincialism is not a crime.

England's strength lies in her provincialism. The man from Kent looks with scorn upon the man from Durham or York. Both are equally British, yet both indulge to the full their diverse provincialisms.

That, too, was Germany's strength in a bygone age. From the duchies, kingdoms and principalities that today are Germany came much that is fine in art, and literature and philosophy and science. But when the part was subordinated to the whole the evil of militarism took their place.

Canada can be great. But to force greatness upon her by trying to make her people march to step, to speak the same language, think the same thoughts, eat the same food, will achieve only temporary material greatness. And the price will be high, for in the process we run the risk of losing forever the spiritual and cultural values upon which true greatness whether in the individual or in the nation, finally rests.

At the Centre of Empire

(By SCOTT YOUNG, Canadian Press Staff Writer)

LONDON, Sept. 8 —(CP)—It has become extremely dangerous to stand still for any longer than three seconds any place in Britain. In four seconds you have attracted the attention of passers-by, and in 10 there is the beginning of a magnificent queue forming up behind you.

Most of the people don't know what they are queuing for, and don't care. The small percentage that wants to know solves its problem by wishful thinking.

"This must be a queue for razor blades," one blue-chinned man will think. "Nothing else could attract so many people."

Female shoppers heave-to into the queue with a happy sigh. Home again. They don't care what the queue is for. Some of them will wind up buying train tickets to East Grinstead, and others sitting in the front row of "Arsenic and Old Lace."

There is one man in London who has a bowl-like contraption with a point on the end, like a First Great War German officer helmet. He is able to balance on this point standing on his head, and thus relieves the boredom of queuing.

One time in Liecester Square he was standing around on his head waiting for a queue to form somewhere so he could join it, and three people from Liverpool came along and assumed this was a new type of metropolitan queue specially developed by Londoners. Somewhat laboriously, they stood on their heads, too.

That was about 11.30 one morning. By noon there were 24 people standing on their heads in a row. A ministry of supply official came along and thought the people were protesting in this oblique manner the fact that the average Briton is lucky if his coupons give him one pair of shoes a year, and after a quick call to his office a truck drove up full of reclaimed army boots. The official sold them coupon-free at six shillings a pair to the people in the queue, who took it quite as a matter of course, regained their feet, and set off, presumably to find another queue.

One morning when I was coming down to work a queue was forming up for the pit on "Watch On The Rhine" at the Aldwych, and a girl sitting in the seat in front of me told of a horrible experience she had had the night before. It appears she is an usher in the Odeon Theatre, and last night was a big night. The queue for the cheapest seats formed as usual to the right of the theatre and the queue for the next cheapest to the left, and gradually the two queues extended right around behind the theatre until two soldiers from Eastbourne, both in London leave, were standing back to back at the rear of the theatre.

One wanted a cigaret, and turned and asked the other for a match. Finding it was an old friend, he turned to talk a little, and the girl queuing in front of him thought she must be standing backwards, so she turned around too. This went on all around the theatre until both queues had turned and were facing the other way, meeting at the fire exit (marked "no entrance") at the back of the theatre.

This caused a problem in the box office. When the next four seats were available and the doorman turned to call four people forward, they had their backs to him and regarded him with cold suspicion when he tried to get them to turn around and enter the theatre. They were queuing to go the other way, they told him, and thought it was quite unsporting of him to try to coerce people out of somebody else's queue.

The manager of the theatre was called, and seeing about a thousand people standing with their backs to him, became excited and went frantically along the queues haranguing the people to turn around. He in turn got mixed up with an organgrinder and a rubber-faced man who were entertaining the crowd and collecting pennies here and there, and the people in the queue thought he was the official collector for these two entertainers. People started putting money in his hand, and by the time he got around to the back of the theatre he had collected four pounds 16 shillings and went across Charing Cross Road and bought a pistol and shot himself.

Then (the girl said) the assistant manager solved it all by closing the front doors of the theatre and moving the cash-box and the ticket-roll around to the back, selling tickets there and letting the people into the theatre through the fire exit.

That is just one of the things that can happen in queues. While the Daily Express blasts the government for not stopping queuing, taking the narrow-minded view that it is a waste of time, a colleague from the Daily Mail, Maurice Lane-Norcott, conducted an inquiry into queues one morning and found that:—

"Ninety-seven per cent of the queue-users are aware that they are standing in queues, but only three per cent of them can give a specific reason for so doing.

"Eighty-seven per cent of the three per cent of queue-users who have a specific reason for standing in a queue are standing in the wrong queue, anyway.

"Sixty-nine per cent of the queue-users who stand in queues for confectionery ultimately find themselves sitting in the dark watching 'Gone With The Wind.' Sixty-seven per cent of this 69 per cent patiently see the film to the end. The remainder leave the cinema and form another confectionery queue outside. However, in less than an hour they are back again and have to see 'Gone With the Wind' like the rest."

A Bible Message

By faith Moses when he was come to years, refused to be called the son of Pharoah's daughter; choosing rather to suffer affliction with the people of God, than to enjoy the pleasures of sin for a season; esteeming the reproach of Christ greater riches than the treasures in Egypt: for he had respect unto the recompence of the reward. (Heb. 11: 24-26.)

⋄ ⋄ ⋄

Lay not up for yourselves treasures upon earth, where moth and rust doth corrupt, and where thieves break through and steal: but lay up for yourselves treasures in heaven, where neither moth nor rust doth corrupt, and where thieves do not break through nor steal; for where your treasure is, there will your heart be also....

No man can serve two masters: for either he will hate the one, and love the other; or else he will hold to the one, and despise the other. Ye cannot serve God and mammon. (Matt. 6: 19-21, 24.)

Destroyers and Bases

A chapter of Anglo-American relations on which some light is thrown is the transfer of the destroyers and bases. Most of us probably had not realized the stickiness of the negotiations and how, although both sides were of the same mind on aims, discussions were prolonged for weeks because of the difficulty in bridging the two points of view—the British desire to offer the bases as a gift and to receive the destroyers as a gift, the American desire to link the two in a "Yankee horse trade." In retrospect it is a curious episode for such a critical time.—Manchester Guardian.

Few Veteran Pilots Are Left In Great Britain

Writen for the Canadian Press by Flt. Lt. Basil Dean, R.C.A.F.

FIGHTER COMMAND, SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, Sept. 8— There are still some of few left, some of those hard-fighting combat pilots of battle of Britain's days, but mostly it is a new brood of pilots who fly from air bases hereabouts in Britain's Fighter Command.

Three years ago, when the first few of Canada's aerial aces were fighting their way to fame, the battles were over British soil. Now, with greater numbers of Canadians than never before in Fighter Command, thpsoeigtloign rea an mand, the pilots are going out to seek the enemy over his own territory. This air fighting of to-day is offensive, not defensive as during the Battle of Britain, but it was the fighting then that made the current offensive possible.

Some of the Canadians who fought with honor and glory in those grim days three years ago are still flying. Wing Cmdr. D. B. Russell, D. F. C., of Montreal, who now leads an R. C. A. F. Spitfire wing in Britain was then PO. D. B. Russell and member of Canada's No. 1 Fighter Squadron which arrived in England in June, 1940just in time to get trained for the fierce tests of August and September of that year.

Russell's old commanding officer, Ernie McNab, now is Group Capt. Ernest McNab, D. F. C., of Regina, commander of an R. C. A. F. fighter station.

Served With Bader.

In Sicily, Sqdn. Ldr. Stanley Turner, D. F. C. and bar, of Toronto, led the R. C. A. F.'s City of Windsor Fighter Squadron through the island campaign. In 1940, he was a flight commander in the R. A. F.'s famed "All-Canadian" squadron led by Wing Cmdr. Douglas Bader, D. S. O., D. F. C., which destroyed 63 enemy aircraft during the Battle of Britain and shared three with other squadrons

The squadron was composed mainly of Canadians who had joined the R.A.F. before the war, and fought nobly during the Battle of France and over Dunkirk.

Its achievements during the Battle of Britain, indeed, brought from the air officer commanding of the the group in which it was serving at the time a message which said that its efficiency as a squadron was "equal, if not superior, to any squadron in the R.A.F." The British Chief of Air staff signalled: "You are well on top of the enemy and obviously the fine Canadian traditions of war are safe in your hands."

Bagged 16.

Greatest pilot of the "All-Canadian" squadron — apart from the legless commander, Bader (who was not Canadian)—was PO. W. L. McKnight, D.F.C. and Bar, of Calgary, who was reported missing some months after the Battle of Britain ended. McKnight destroyed 16½ enemy aircraft, and was the first Canadian ace of the war. The "All-Canadian" squadron's first Battle of Britain engagement was August 30, when Bader, now a prisoner of war, led a formation of 14 Hurricanes against a "vast number" of German aircraft, two swarms of 70 to 100 each. Detaching one section to investigate a third formation of aircraft some distance away Bader led the rest of his pilots to the attack. As a result, 12 enemy aircraft were destroyed; not one of the Hurricanes had so much as a scratch.

Similar engagements followed. On September 7, Bader and his Canadians destroyed 10 enemy aircraft without losing a pilot, although seven of the squadron's Hurricanes were damaged. On September 19, when the wing in which the squadron was flying destroyed a total of 18 enemy aircraft, the "All-Canadians" were credited with 11 of these for the loss of one pilot killed.

12 in a Day.

And then, in the greatest day's fighting of all on September 14, the squadron destroyed 12 enemy aircraft. This was the day on which Bader described the fighting as "the finest shamble I've ever been in."

"The sky," he added, "was full of Hurricanes and Spitfires, queueing up and pushing each other out of the way to get at the Dorniers. I was seldom able to hold my sights on a target for long for fear of colliding with the other Spitfires and Hurricanes anxious to get in a burst."

Among the Canadians PO. J. B. Latta D.F.C., Victoria, B.C., had knocked down five enemy planes; Flt. Lt. Turner had five; so had PO. N. K. Stansfield, D.F.C., Vancouver. Altogether, Canadian pilots in the squadron had destroyed 45 of the total of 65 credited to the squadron; Bader had scored 11.

Squadron Claims 31.

Canada's own No. 1 fighter squadron which, although its personnel has completely changed, is still flying in Britain with Fighter Command, had scored a total of 31 victories during the battle under McNab's leadership.

In the squadron's first engagement as a unit, on Aug. 24, it destroyed three Dorniers for the loss of one pilot. By the end of its first week in action it had destroyed eight enemy aircraft for the loss of one pilot killed. The score continued to mount until Sept. 27, when the Canadian squadron destroyed seven enemy aircraft out of about 70 engaged during the day.

McNab, Flt. Lt. G. R. McGregor and Russell were each awarded the D.F.C., having destroyed, between them, 11½ of the squadron's total McNab and McGregor now are both group captains; Russell is a wing commander.

DUTY FREE . . .

It is a common practice to arrange that life insurance proceeds, joint assets and small bequests shall be paid over duty free; in other words, that the succession duties on them shall be paid out of the main body of your estate. If your estate is likely to be pressed for cash, or liquid assets, you may find it desirable to leave your beneficiaries to pay the duty on some or all of these assets. Estate planning today demands a close study of taxation. We invite you to consult our Officers.

TAMBLYN
AGAIN TALKS VITAMINS

The therapeutic value of Vitamins was for many years the subject of very lively debate and there was indeed great skepticism in certain quarters as to their actual usefulness. Scientific Research however, in recent years, has most definitely established the fact of their extreme importance to our National Health. A great many of our prevalent diseases indeed can be traced directly to an insufficiency of Vitamins, caused almost invariably by the lack of "Balanced Diet", which is contributed to by the Nature of our modern foods and their method of preparation—which in many cases destroys a large portion of their Natural Vitamin content. There are of course many Vitamins, each with its definite therapeutic value, and of these Vitamin B, and its various compounds, is today being recognized as the corrective to a great many of these divers ailments, in as much as hurried breakfasts—and sandwich lunches do not supply sufficient Vitamin B intake. Your Tamblyn Drug Store for many years has kept abreast of Scientific Development and has continuously carried, for your selection, the very latest and best in Vitamin Products, and this week again wishes to remind you of their Health Value. Following this through, a most comprehensive group of these items has been included in this list of

Classy Fliers Tie Series At Belleville

BELLEVILLE, Sept. 8. — Bill Bancroft's four-hit pitching was good enough to beat Reliance A.C. 4-3 in the city softball finals when I.T.S. "Fliers" evened the city series at three games each.

The Fliers took the first two contests, but Reliance bounced back to take three in a row before the Airmen again knotted the series.

With the score tied at three-all, Jimmie Kerr lined one to right scoring McIntyre with the winning counter.

Muldoon and Mullins hit triples for the winners, while Kerr collected three one-base smashes. No member of the Reliance squad counted over one base knock during Bancroft's one-hit effort. Ding Luffman twirled for the losers and although he was touched for an even dozen hits, they were well scattered as errors proved costly to the losers.

For the attack on the second U-boat, pressed home despite severe damage to his ship by flak, Sweeny has been awarded the United States Distinguished Flying Cross.

LAWN BOWLING

Lost, strayed or stolen—one score card with all games played up to date, and scores marked on it, with a complete draw for the primary, consolation and hard luck competitions in this extra series. Yes, believe it or not, this card has mysteriously disappeared, and until it is found or replaced the competitions are at a standstill.

It is hard to realize that someone has deliberately destroyed this card of information; it is of no use to anyone, only bowlers. One cannot imagine how it could blow away as it was securely nailed to the notice board. If someone has taken it as a joke why it is being carried a little too far. It took a lot of time and considerable patience to draw up one of these schedules, and in the meantime over 140 bowlers are at a standstill. However, until the committee decided on what to do we publish the draw for the semi-finals in the club singles competition, and the draw for the novice competition to be played this evening.

It will be a mixed tournament on Friday night for rinks.

Tuesday Night's Scores.

When Generals and Electrics meet tonight in the second game of their intermediate girls' league semi-final series they should stage a lively battle for on the season's record there is not much to choose between the two outfits. The winner of this series will meet Brintons in the finals for the Knox Trophy. Brintons won the title last year and are now waiting for their second shot at the trophy. In spite of the fact that they lost Leila Hughes whose pitching was the main factor in their cleancut capture of the intermediate championship last season the Brinton girls have been playing good ball this summer and now find themselves in the final round again. Tonight's game will have a good deal to say about which team they will have to meet in the playoffs; in fact the battle may settle the question. The game is called for 6.30 o'clock and players and officials are urged to be on time for darkness comes early these night. It looks like a keen argument between two teams that have been running along pretty even all season.

Oshawa Colts who eliminated the Peterborough entry in two straight games by the same score of 11 to 1 in each contest will now meet Belleville Reliance in the next round with the first game scheduled for this afternoon and the return in Oshawa Saturday. Included in the Belleville lineup are a number of players well known in Peterborough including Murney Green, the veteran Central Ontario Leaguer who is still a shining light in the softball game. George Campbell has the following on the Belleville squad in his Oshawa sports column; "Belleville Reliance has a team of veterans, with "Murney" Green, who is now past 40, still going strong, along with the Barriage boys, LaBonne, Henn, starry second-baseman and several others. The Belleville team has four capable hurlers, including Johnny Bawden, "Stan" Luffman, Vasil ("Pete the Jerk") and Anderson. According to reports in Belleville, the Reliance team, a gang of veterans, know how to run bases, take advantage of a heavy hitting club and have smart pitching. Vasil and Anderson are unknown to Oshawa softballers but Luffman and Bawden have both faced Oshawa several times, last time when Point Anne lost out to Varcoes in the 3rd game at Peterborough, back in 1938. Colts are expecting stern opposition when they meet Belleville and Oshawa softball fans can look for one of the keenest series of the year."

Nearing The Finals

The Industrial League is rapidly reaching the final stage. One semi-final bracket was cleaned up last night at the Brinton field when Outboard Marines, who finished at the top of the heap came from behind in the final innings to nose out the fourth-place Drafting Room 6 to 5. That gave the Marines the round in two straight games and they are now waiting the result of the battle in the other bracket between Brintons and Watercraft who are meeting tonight. Brintons are one up by virtue of a victory over the Watercraft outfit in the first game of the series and if they win tonight the carpet-makers will go into the finals against the Outboard Marines. In that case the final round will get under way Thursday night. On the other hand if the Watercraft club punches out a win the series will be tied and a third game would be necessary tomorrow night to decide which team will enter the last series. The Industrial League has had a good season and the playoffs so far have been marked by fine ball. Last night's 6 to 5 battle was voted one of the best played in the loop during the whole campaign.

Twenty years ago today, in an era when there was plenty of good baseball in Peterborough, there was an exciting game here in the intermediate O.B.A.A. race that many of the older fans will still remember well. The battlers were Orillia and the Peterborough C.G.E. teams. It was the second game of a playoff series. The C.G.E. had invaded Orillia a few days before, knocked Cloutier, the star Orillia southpaw out of the box and won easily 13 to 1. The return game was looked upon as a pushover but it turned up to be something else again. The Northerners sent Cloutier back to the box and this time he was much more of a mystery to the C.G.E. batters. Orillia surprised the home players and fans by scoring three runs in the first inning and although by the end of the fifth C.G.E. were leading 7 to 3 the persistent visitors came back with three in the sixth and then pushed over the tieing run in the ninth. It was anybody's game at that stage but Bun Frost C.G.E. pitcher won his own game in the tenth by doubling to score Pinch-hitter Webb who had singled and stolen second. The Peterborough club, 20 years ago today, consisted of Jackson 3b, Ranger 3b, McCarney cf, Rose 2b, Ross c, Dugan 1b, McPherson rf, Barrie ss, Hall lf, Frost p, Webb, pinch-hitter.

Should Be A Treat

Tickets are now on sale for the big soccer game between the Picton and Mount Hope R.A.F. teams at Riverside Park a week from Saturday in aid of the British War Victims' Fund. The two Royal Air Force clubs are among the strongest soccer outfits in the Dominion, made up entirely of Old Country players, many of whom have had professional experience. They should provide Peterborough fans with one of the finest exhibitions of the game ever staged here. When the two met at Riverside Park a year ago the Mount Hope outfit had a bad day and they were soundly beaten by the classy Picton side. They hope to reverse matters on this occasion and according to all reports have a considerably stronger team than the one which represented them here last autumn. Picton still have some of the stars of 1942 and new players from across the Atlantic have added strength. With the entire proceeds going to the War Victims' Fund there should be a huge crowd in attendance. The Air Force teams are looking after their own transportation and travelling expenses, as a fine gesture of co-operation while the Peterborough-Whitaker Cricket Club which is sponsoring the game will take care of all local expenses so the total receipts will go to the fund.

Peterborough is to get a championship wrestling bout next Monday night, a wire to this column today from Promoter Frank Tunney states. Tunney had been endeavoring to re-match Killer John Katan who beat Clayborne here several weeks ago on a fall that most local fans thought was questionable, with the Colored Comet but declares that Katan still refuses to wrestle in Peterborough because he charges that the Peterborough crowd is biased. Tunney however, determined to give local followers of the game a real battle here next week announces that he has signed Earl McCready, the Aurora farmer, to meet Gentleman Jack in a British Empire championship elimination, the winner to meet Whipper Billy Watson in a clash for the title. A tussle between the powerful and clever McCready and the fast moving Ebony Flash with a crack at the British Empire title at stake should be about the biggest wrestling attraction of the year. Peterborough fans will be on the spot. Both Clayborne and McCready are prime favorites and local followers of the game will hardly know which to cheer for when the two clash.

Winners Meet Brintons Or Watercraft

Outboard Marines cleaned up one bracket of the Industrial League semi-finals last night when they came from behind by scoring two runs in the eighth and final frame to take C. G. E. Drafting into camp 6 runs to 5 at Brinton Field in one of the best battles of the season in the Industrial loop. The win gives the Outboards the round in two straight games and they will now meet the winner of the Brinton-Watercraft series in the final series.

Until the winners went to bat for the last time it looked as if the Drafting Room had tied up the round They were leading 5 to 4 and as the Outboards had been blanked since the fourth inning that one run appeared good enough to take the decision. However, the Outboards finally got an attack clicking in that final effort and squeezed out two runs, just enough to win the argument. Strangely enough the hitting honors were carried off by the opposing pitchers. Loucks for the Outboards had a double and two singles in four trips to the plate and his pitching rival, Kemp, of Drafting came up with three singles in four offical appearances.

The teams and score by innings:

Drafting: Shaughnessy, lf; Dawes, ss; Shadgett, cf; Edger, 1b; Stewart, 3b; H. Dunford, rf; W. Dunford, 2b; Kemp, p; Tanner, c.

NEW YORK, Sept. 8 —(AP) — Lui Suarez, Mexican sports writer who came all the way to Forest Hills for a few days at the United States Tennis Championships, is trying to persuade some of the girl players to spend a few months in Mexico this winter studying and playing tennis.... "Our men players are pretty good, especially in doubles," says Luis, "but the girls aren't. They need some competition." .... He thinks he has succeeded in interesting Louise Brough, Dot Bundy and Margaret Osborne in the proposition ....Miss Osborne, Pauline Betz and Doris Hart likely will visit Mexico City for the Pan American Tournament next month...

One-minute sports page.

The next time Ace Adams goes to the mound, which may be to-day, he'll break his relief pitching record of 61 appearances and Paul Derringer needs only two more mound victories to make it 200 for his major league career. Then he'll probably be ready to join the only other 200-game winners in the league, Carl Hubbell and Freddie Fitzsimmons —on the bench....A Pittsburgh radio station in dickering with Fritzie Zivic for a 15-minute sports program .... But who could stop Fritzie's talking after only 15 minutes?

Objection overruled.

Golfers at Coeur D'Alene, Idaho, didn't think much of the idea of letting a bunch of boys from seven to 14 years old use the sporty Hayden Lake course for weekly tournaments .... Then came the war and the labor shortage and the weeds threatened to take over the course ....The kids still wanted to play, so two dozen of them spent a good part of the spring and summer on hands and knees pulling weeds so they could play ....and, naturally, there hasn't been a peep from the oldsters since.

Annis Stukus Plans To Play With Beaches

TORONTO, Sept. 8 —(CP) —Annis Stukus stopped a lot of gridiron gossiping to-day. He's definitely going to play for Toronto Balmy Beach this season. The veteran one man gang of Big Four and Ontario Rugby Football Union competition did everything for Toronto Indians last year except carry the water bucket. He was coach and quarterback.

Big Stuke selects Toronto Hurricanes as the team to beat in the six-team O. R. F. U. which opens its 30-game schedule a week from Saturday.

There's Something Fishy About This Trout Story

Fish hatchery at St. Jovite, Quebec.

Fish grader sizes the fingerlings for re-stocking. Trout are three to four inches long.

From height of 50 feet, plane unloads its fish in a stream of water. Trout are not harmed by this drop.

Two Canadian soldiers land a five-pound trout, a fingerling planted last year.

Province of Quebec goes all out in the world's most modern method of re-stocking its streams and lakes with high jumping speckled trout. The trout fingerlings, three to four inches long, are dropped by the thousands from planes flying low over fishing grounds after being hatched at St. Jovite. Canadian soldiers overseas and American sportsmen who frequented Quebec's abundant streams in pre-war days should find the fishing mighty good when the war ends and they try their luck at angling. Prime Minister Winston Churchill found plenty of sport in Quebec trout streams, on his recent visit to that province.

Genelco Ball Team Places Its Case Before Sport Fans

Peterboro, Sept. 3, 1943

To Editor,
Peterborough Examiner.

Dear Sir:

Recently, our City League Softball playoffs reached a rather unsatisfactory conclusion for all concerned. To date, the members of the Genelecs Softball Team feel that only one side of the story has been publicly expressed on your sports page. It would be much appreciated if the same prominence could be given this letter on the same page.

The players of the various teams in the City League are, in many cases close friends, often having worked and played together for years. Much feeling has been aroused on all sides and in particular the softball public, by decisions recently made by the local City League executive and O.A.S.A. governing body.

The Genelecs Softball Club in proceeding the way they have, feel they have won a decision which was rightfully theirs, and in a manner that will put future Softball leagues in Peterborough on a sound basis.

The Peterborough City League is affiliated with the O.A.S.A. and therefore, must play to the rules laid down by that Association.

In early August, Mr. F. Scates as representatives of the City League executive was questioned as to the O.A.S.A. rule requiring players to be signed before July 15th. His reply was that the rule didn't mean a thing as far as Peterborough City League was concerned. This laxity on the part of a City League executive may have led the 4th Field Battery astray re this rule as will be indicated later.

When one of the Genelecs players joined the R.C.A.F., and was on leave to clean up his affairs, the local Softball executive stated that he could not be replaced under the clause of military replacement as he was still available and not actively engaged in the R.C.A.F., and further that any replacement for him would have to come from within the local league and therefore, anyone from Lindsay was out of the question.

However, Mr. F. R. Weaver, secretary of the O.A.S.A. ruled that it was permissible to get a replacement from Lindsay. Mr. Feaver was aware that the player being replaced was still in Peterborough. He also knew that this player's leave of absence paper stated that the R.C.A.F. would not be responsible for any injury received while on leave.

After the first game August 24th, in the city finals, a protest was entered by the 4th Field Battery re the use of a player from Lindsay.

The Genelecs manager at first given permission to attend the meeting to discuss the protest, was given the runaround and was not even informed of the decision reached at the meeting which was held at another time and place, than was originally indicated.

In the meantime, the Genelecs manager continued to use the Lindsay player. By Friday, August 27, the standing in the final games between Genelecs and 4th Field Battery was two wins each. Two games were scheduled for Saturday, August 28th. The 4th Field Battery won the first game.

Apparently, the league executive declared the 4th Field Battery city champions immediately, but didn't trouble to tell the Genelecs Club who made all arrangements to play the second game at 6.15 p.m. The Genelecs manager had never been officially notified by the league executive of any of their decisions during this final series. Gate receipts seemed to be more important.

Following this unfair and discourteous treatment on the part of the local City League executive, a protest was sent to the O.A.S.A. governing body for reassurance that it was permissible to play the military replacement from Lindsay.

Incidentally, the Training Centre Ball Club also felt so incensed at treatment they had received, that they too sent a representative with the Genelecs manager to Hamilton to voice their complaints to the O.A.S.A.

On August 30th, Mr. F. C. Scates was telephoned (later confirmed by letter) to the effect that the Genelecs had won their protest and would represent Peterborough in the O.A.S.A. playdowns.

Even if Genelecs had not protested, it must be pointed out that the 4th Field Battery team would not have been allowed to represent Peterborough in the play-offs. Apparently, the O.A.S.A. had received certificates from this team signed on July 22nd, too late to be eligible according to O.A.S.A. rules.

But despite the O.A.S.A. ruling in favour of the Genelecs Softball Club, the local City League executive have not seen fit to reverse their decision as to city champions and turn over the money badly needed for travelling expenses to Oshawa, rightfully belonging to the team representing Peterborough in the O.A.S.A. playdowns.

It is the hope of the Genelecs club in revealing the above facts, that such conditions will not be tolerated in the future and that softball fans and softball players in Peterborough receive a fair show.

Yours truly,
C. M. KRUG,
Vice-President
Genelecs Softball Club

SIX POTENTIAL 20-GAME WINNERS REMAIN IN THE MAJOR LEAGUES

Four Cornered Fight In Ball Loop

By the Associated Press.

Baltimore battered across five unearned runs in the ninth inning of its game with Syracuse last night and immediately the fight for the final two places in the International League playoffs became four-cornered.

Toronto and Newark already have clinched two of the places, but the Chiefs' loss lifted the Orioles to within a game and a half of fifth-place Montreal, which in turn is only a half-game behind fourth-place Rochester.

Syracuse still is safely in third with a cushion of 3½ contests.

The Chiefs had a three-run edge going into the first half of the ninth, but blew it to lose 7-5. Newark downed Jersey City 2-1, in the first half of a double-header that was curtailed to a single game by the weather and a 4-run seventh-inning uprising gave Toronto a 5-4 verdict over Buffalo. Montreal and Rochester were idle.

The victory was the sixth in a row for Newark and the clubs were deadlocked in a scoreless second fray at the end of two innings when the elements interfered.

Woody Fair, rookie second baseman purchased by Toronto from Utica of the Eastern League on Monday, was the hero of the Leaf victory.

He started the seventh-inning spree with a single after two were out. Three more one-base knocks, a walk and an outfield error followed to produce the four markers.

Here and There in Sport

By The Canadian Press

A 25-year-old Jamaican recruit in the R.C.A.F., LAC. Arthur Wint, won't seek official recognition of the Canadian record for the 440-yard run he established in a Services meet at Brandon on Labor Day. The dusky runner was clocked at 48.4 seconds, compared with the Canadian record of 48.9 held by John Loaring of Windsor, Ont.

Wint was aided by a strong wind down the stretch of the oval track, which wasn't officially measured but has been recognized as a standard 440 for some years.

A faster 440 was run at Montreal in 1937 by A. G. Brown of the Oxford-Cambridge track team, whose time was 48.1.

Wint, a track star in Jamaica for 12 years, enlisted in the R.C.A.F. last October and after elementary training at Davidson, Sask., now is at the Service Flying Training School at Brandon.

Haegg Goes Back.

Gunder Haegg, the Swedish rocket, arrived in London last night after his brilliant tour of the United States where he was undefeated in eight races. Haegg now is on his way back to Stockholm.

Officials of the Western Interprovincial Football League announced a nine-game schedule last night at Winnipeg. Teams are Winnipeg R.C.A.F., Winnipeg United Services and Regina. The schedule opens Sept. 25 and a two-game total-point play-off between the two leaders is scheduled for Nov. 6 and Nov. 13.

The Vancouver Island Senior Hockey League provided one of the Allan Cup finalists, Victoria Army, last season, when Army lost to Ottawa Commandos. It was learned at Victoria last night there will be no service teams in senior hockey in this loop next season. A statement said the decision was because of the difficulty of keeping men on the teams available at all times.

Attendance Good.

Baseball leaders in the United States are well satisfied with major league attendance figures this year, although they are running six to eight per cent behind last year's 9,000,000 paid admissions. President Will Harridge said at New York that the American League is having "what we believe to be a remarkable season through a trying war period." President Ford Frick of the National says his loop''s showing is better than they expected.

The California Athletic Commission at Los Angeles yesterday cancelled the fight between Henry Armstrong and Slugger White, scheduled for September 18. Armstrong, who once held the world feather, light and welter titles simultaneously, after 12 years of fighting says he's through because "I'm tired of fighting."

Cooper Should Repeat 42 Performance

By JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

With the closing of the major league campaign less than four weeks away, the field of potential 20-game winners among the pitchers has narrowed to half a dozen men, two in the American League and four in the National.

This is a big shrinkage from the score or more who were in the running a month ago, but it indicates what a difficult goal 20 victories is for even good pitchers with good clubs and if all six of this year's candidates make the grade it will be two more than last year.

In 1942 the two St. Louis stars, Morton Cooper and rookie Johnny Beazley, won 22 and 21, respectively, in the National League while Cecil (Tex) Hughson of Boston and Ernie Bonham of New York Yankees won 22 and 21 in the American League.

Of this group only Cooper will be a repeater this year. He has won 19 and lost eight in the Cardinals' sweep toward another pennant. Beazley has entered the army and Bonham and Hughson have had a lack-lustre season, each winning 12 games to date.

Sewell Does Well

Truet (Rip) Sewell of Pittsburgh Pirates, preponent of the famed parachute pitch sometimes called the Eephus (nothing) Ball, has won 20 games and lost seven. He is to go after victory No. 21 today against the Cardinals.

Elmer Riddle of Cincinnati Reds has won 18 and lost nine and Hiram Bithorn, the Puerto Rican righthander of Chicago Cubs, has won 17 and lost 10. Both have good prospects of hitting 20 before the season ends.

In the American League Spurgeon (Spud) Chandler of the Yankees is the nearest thing to a sure shot for 20 with a present record of 18 and three and Paul (Dizzy) Trout of Detroit Tigers has won 17 and lost 10.

Trout attained his 17th triumph and fifth shutout yesterday as the Tigers took a doubleheader from Chicago White Sox 5-0 and 6-5.

These games, the only major league action of the day, were postponed from Labor Day and drew a sparse turnout of 5,962 fans.

Cornwall Army Defeats No. 17 Equipment Depot

OTTAWA, Sept. 8. — (CP). — Cornwall Army came through with a 7-3 victory last night to tie their best-of-three Eastern Ontario Amateur Softball Association final series with No. 17 Equipment Depot here of the R.C.A.F.

The first game resulted in a 6-6 tie but the Airmen won the second fixture 13-2 at Cornwall last Thursday. The teams meet in the fourth and deciding contest Thursday night, the locale to be decided at a meeting here to-day.

Last night's game was touch-and-go for a time when the Airmen came from behind with a three-run scoring splurge to tie the count at 3-3 in the sixth inning, but they were held scoreless as Cornwall pushed across four more counters to put the game away.

Cornwall was paced by two defencemen with Cornwall Flyers of the Quebec Senior Hockey League last season, Jim Drummond and George Ritchie. Both boys connected three times in five trips while Despatie clouted a timely double in the eighth with two men on base to drive one home.

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By CHARLES EDWARDS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, Sept. 8 — (CP). — The Canadian Rugby Union decided at its annual meeting to stage this year's East-West final on the last Saturday in November. Well, boys, it seems certain those playoff headaches will be with us again. If they swing the Grey Cup classic before the usual first or second Saturday in December it will be a miracle.

The O.R.F.U., of course, has scheduled for a sudden-death playoff November 20 between its top two teams. The idea was that the O.R.F.U. champions should represent the East in the Dominion final the following Saturday, November 27. The catch is that the Quebec Union is already talking of an entry for the Grey Cup playoffs and there's an outside chance Halifax may also challenge.

Baz O'Meara of the Montreal Star writes: "Something in the line of big-time rugby is shaping up around here again. The Quebec Union is likely to have an entrant in the Grey Cup playdowns. Bobby Hewitson, the C.R.U. secretary, is giving them an affable nod and when Bobby nods that way everything is practically a 'fait accompli.'" O'Meara lists a quantity of recognized Montreal grid talent, including Red Storey, Fred Davies, Glenn Brown, Teddy Edwards.

The Halifax situation is not nearly so definite. However a number of top-flight football stars are located in the Maritimes—enough for a really good football team—and Halifax sportsmen already are unofficially talking of the possibility of a Grey Cup challenge.

Of course, the Grey Cup final would still be possible November 27 by playing the O.R.F.U. final in mid-week, the winner to meet the winner of a Halifax-Montreal playoff November 20 for Eastern title. But that would mean three games in eight days for the O.R.F.U. champions.

Incidentally:

Syl Apps' seven-season record with Toronto Maple Leafs of the N.H.L. was 290 scoring points — 126 goals and 164 assists. His total in penalties in the seven seasons was only 23 minutes.....Contact, official magazine of the Trenton R.C A.F., has a girls' column "Spoits for the Skoits."....Hal Dean, of the Edmonton Bulletin, says Ken McAuley, former Edmonton junior hockey player, may turn up in the New York Rangers nets next winter. McAuley has been discharged from the Navy....Will Pedlar, Vancouver tennis star, has landed in India with the R.C.A.F. ....Hamilton Wildcats have a pair of gridiron speedballs in Joe Krol and Doug Smith, last year with the Kitchener-Waterloo Panthers. The story going the rounds is that Selective Service stopped Krol's plan to join Detroit's professional football team.

Grant 3 Divorces As Assizes Get Underway

The Hon. Mr. Justice J. A. Hope of Toronto, who is presiding at the Autumn Assizes of the Supreme Court of Ontario in Peterborough County, stressed the importance of citizens commiees helping to administer the law in serious cases and also of keeping alive democractic institutions, in his address to the Grand Jury at the opening session of the Court Tuesday afternoon.

Mr. Hope asserted that it is only within the last little while that the citizens committees helping adminrealize the importance of the democractic freedoms and institutions which have been handed down by their forefathers who many times shed blood to make them possible. Other nations in a shorter space of time are trying to achieve what Canada, the old land, the British Empire, sister nations and the United States have reached through a gradual transition from age to age in institutions, he said.

"It is impossible for all individuals to participate in government and from time to time we elect representatives for legislatvie halls to act on our behalf, and citizens control that only by franchise. One section is represented by the cabinet, but another branch with even deeper interests is the law courts. The administration of justice passes through these courts.

"In lesser cases there is administration by officials alone, but when they are more serious, we have wisely developed over the years committees of citizens who come together from different walks of life, to determine how to administer it. We want the law to be administered by people themselves so that they may have a knowledge of how it is done for their protection."

Needs Public Opinion.

The presiding Justice pointed out that as is the case with the govern bodies, not all can participate. He said that it was wise to have people who were not just paid off with a salary or elected representatives coming to give time on behalf of citizens generally. The law is only administered if public opinion supports it, he declared, and emphasized his confidence in that public opinion in the prevailing justice embedded in the human mind. In closing he outlined the duties imposed upon members of the Grand Jury.

Three civil cases were brought bethe Bench dealing with divorce actions and the Hon. Mr. Justice Hope granted three decrees nisi. The first was Leonard Trick plaintiff against his wife Marguerita Louisa Trick. The action was undefended. W. J. Fair represented the plaintiff.

Mrs. Annie Maude Bolton, formerly of 206 Edinburgh street, applied for a divorce from her husband, Robert Bruce Bolton. John Bradshaw acted for the plaintfiff and Mr. Bolton acted on his own counsel. Mrs. Marie Elizabeth Regis was also granted a decree nisi from her husband, Bennedetto Lorenzo Regis. She was represented by T. J. Carley, K. C.

Frederick Ash was named foreman of the Grand Jury and other jurors serving were: Leslie Airth, Coleman E. Blewett, Norman Bolton, Victor Boorman, Bruce A. Curtis, William Davidson, Stephen Gannon, Robert H. McClellan, Herbert Rye, John Steinkrauss, C. H. Moore and W. T. Philp.

Cohen Likely To Return To Labor Board

OTTAWA, Sept. 8.—(CP).— Return of J. L. Cohen, of Toronto, K.C., Labor representative on the National War Labor Board, to full participation in the Board's activities appeared a definite possibility to-day with Mr. Cohen considering a request from three major Labor organizations that he resume his activities as a Board member.

Mr. Cohen has not appeared at Board hearings since he wrote the chairman, Mr. Justice C. P. McTague, Aug. 18 saying he would not sit on any controversial cases until the government policy was "clarified."

Last night, a joint statement was issued by Percy R. Bengough, president of the Trades and Labor Congress; J. R. Ward, chairman of the General Conference committee of the standard railway organizations, and A. R. Mosher, president of the Canadian Congress of Labor, in which they said Mr. Cohen had been asked to resume "full participation" on the Board.

The Board is scheduled to meet at 10.30 a.m. to-day to deal with an application by the United Steel Workers of America (C.I.O.) for wage adjustments at the mills of the Algoma Steel Corporation, at Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., and Dominion Steel and Coal Corporation at Sydney, N.S.

3000 Eastern Farmers Start Trek to West

OTTAWA, Sept. 8 (CP)—Approximately 1,100 Ontario farmers and farm workers have gone West on harvest excursions, and another 1,900 have been assigned to Western harvest work, Labor Department officials said today.

Arthur MacNamara, Director of National Selective Service, announced a plan last month for the temporary transfer of a number of selected farmers and experienced farm workers from Ontario points to Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta.

The Ontario harvesters are being provided with rail transportation, except for a nominal payment toward their return journey. They receive the current rates for farm work in Western Canada.

Khestnobudka, taken by the Red Army forces in their northern Ukraine drive yesterday, is on the railway leading to Gomel in White Russia, and is barely 75 miles from the famed Pripet marshes. If the Russians are able to reach this wasteland area before the autumn heavy rains make further advances impossible, the whole German position would be in peril, and the entire Ukraine would be open to the threat of Russian encirclement. The rains have already started, Moscow dispatches said, but so far they have failed to hinder the Russian offensive

OTTAWA, Sept. 8 (CP)—"Thorough inquiry" will be made into Canadian aluminum contracts and the Shipshaw, Que., power development by the House of Commons War Expenditures Committee, said Hughes Cleaver, Liberal member of Parliament for Halton and committee chairman, yesterday.

Mr. Coldwell said both the prices paid for aluminum and taxation concessions granted to assist development of the Shipshaw power development by Aluminum Co. of Canada should be studied.

Germans Alibi Italian Landing

LONDON, Sept. 8 — (CP). — The Rome radio sought in two German language broadcasts yesterday to explain to the Axis people how Allied forces managed to get a foothold on Italy and pictured Naples as a ruined city, apparently trying to discount in advance the possible loss of the port.

One of the broadcasts, recorded by the Associated Press, said of the Calabrian landings:

"The artillery fire preparation of the enemy landing, coupled with the action of his naval guns and the fiery umbrella spread by his air force, was something the world has never seen before. Our soldiers stuck it out in the face of this hurricane of fire as long as it was humanly possible."

The other said that "after more than 100 air raids, Naples is to-day nothing more than a heap of rubble."

More Beginners Seen At Public Schools

Salients of attendance at the opening of the new term in the city's Public Schools are reported from the kindergarten and primary departments of the Prince of Wales School and Queen Mary School, K. S. Wightman, Inspector, said to-day.

"We have had an unusual number of beginners in the two western schools," Mr. Wightman said. "This increase at the Prince of Wales is partly caused by incoming children from the homes in the Hatton area. Many of those residents are young married couples, and their children who are just coming of school age are beginning with us."

Bishop MacDonald Is Installed As Head Of Diocese At Ceremony In The Cathedral

"My desire then in all we plan or do for the welfare of the church or in co-operation with others for the welfare of society, in all our relations, is that we may be inspired by love for one another."

In these words the Most Reverend John Roderick MacDonald, D. D., amplified the motto which he said he had chosen as the guiding spirit and light for his episcopate which he began with his installation as bishop of the Roman Catholic diocese of Peterborough at St. Peter's Cathedral last night.

"In fraternitatis amore," in love of brotherhood, as enjoined by St. Peter in the twenty-second verse of the first chapter of his epistle, was the motto which he had selected as his hope in his exercise of the episcopal authority which was formally promulgated in the course of the installation rite. The spirit of charity as expressed in the great commandment, to love God and one's neighbour, was in contrast to the selfishness which was the source of the world's present ills.

"God's commandment that thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself applies to all circumstances of life," His Excellency said. "Pope Pius XII in a recent encyclical declared that the precept of love is the foundation upon which the world of tomorrow should be built and should be the guide to those who wish to re-establish this world in the spirit of God."

Pledging the love of brotherhood as the lodestar by which he hoped to carry on his work as the spiritual head of the diocese of Peterborough, Bishop MacDonald in his installation was thereby introduced to the clergy and the laity, and in a larger sense to the city and district of Peterborough as represented by members of other denominations in the large congregation filling the Cathedral to its capacity.

First Address Here

His first address was awaited with special interest as expectedly indicating in a general way the course which he hoped to follow and also in disclosing something of his personality.

Responding to welcoming addresses from the clergy and laity of the diocese, Bishop MacDonald said, "My first word tonight must be one of appreciation for the kindness and friendliness in which you have received me. Our dear Lord will reward you in His own best way. I shall no longer be a stranger to you. Henceforth I shall be among you, working together, God helping, for His glory and the welfare of souls."

After a tribute to the memory of Bishop O'Connor, His Excellency continued, "I had hoped to have the guidance and friendship of Archbishop O'Brien of Kingston. Two weeks ago I received from him a beautiful and encouraging letter. His death to me is a real personal loss, as it is a distinct loss to the church in Ontario and in Canada as a whole.

Encouraged By Messages

It is my pleasant duty to thank Monsignor O'Sullivan for his efficient administration of the diocese during the vacancy of this see. By his devotion to duty, as Vicar Capitular during this past year, and also throughout the years of his priestly life he has well merited a mark of appreciation. I am happy to have appointed him the Vicar General of the diocese of Peterborough."

Bishop MacDonald said he was greatly encouraged by the promises of help conveyed in the greetings from the clergy and the laity, and said he would feel that the burden would be made lighter by their support.

Expressions heard from members of his faith along the recessional path from the Cathedral to his residence, after the ceremony, indicated that Bishop MacDonald was indeed no longer a stranger to them, and that he had immediately won their filial affection, saddened by the recent death of Archbishop M. J. O'Brien of Kingston, only a year after the decease of his successor, Bishop Dennis O'Connor, as head of this diocese.

Four Archbishops and seven Bishops, Monsignori and several score of priests from this and other dioceses, were colorful figures in the procession of reception as Bishop MacDonald formally entered the Cathedral for his installation by Archbishop J. C. McGuigan, D.D., of Toronto. He was received at the main entrance by Monsignor F. J. O'Sullivan, after passing on the outside through a guard of honor composed of members of the Knights of Columbus, Boy Scouts and Sea Cadets.

Mayor Hamilton and the members of the city council who had adjourned their meeting, after an abbreviated session, to attend the ceremony, members of the city hall staff, Dr. Charles M. Scott, chairman of the Board of Education, Rev. Dr. J. D. Smart and Rev. Dr. E. W. Young of Peterborough Ministerial Association, a group of the Sisters of Mount Joseph and visiting relatives of Bishop MacDonald were noticed in the large assembly. And for the occasion the church and grounds were flag decked in the felicitous spirit of welcome.

The visiting Archbishops, who had also recently attended the funeral of Archbishop O'Brien were the Most Reverend James G. McGuigan, D.D., Toronto; Archbishop McNally of Halifax, N.S.; Archbishop Monahan of Regina, Alta.; and Archbishop Alexandre Vachon, Ottawa.

And the attending Bishops were Their Excellencies Bishops J. T. Kidd of London; R. Hubert Dignan, Sault Ste. Marie; Charles L. Nelligan, Pembroke, senior Roman Catholic Chaplain of the Canadian forces; Rosario Brodeur of Alexandria; Joseph F. Ryan, Hamilton; Bishop Murray of Saskatoon and Bishop Carroll of Calgary.

Notable among the priests were Very Reverend E. J. McCorkell, M.A., C.S.B., Toronto, Superior General of the Basilian Order, and Very Reverend James Fuller, C.SS.R., Toronto, Superior General of the Redemptorist Order.

Mandate of Authority

A salient feature of the proceedings was the reading of the official mandate proclaiming the right of Bishop MacDonald to assume authority as head of the diocese of Peterborough. It was received from Rome through the office and agency of the Papal Delegate to Canada and Newfoundland, Most Reverend I. Antoniutti, of Ottawa. It was read in both Latin and English texts by Rev. V. J. Corkery, Chancellor of the diocese.

An address of greeting on behalf of the priests of the diocese of Peterborough was read by Monsignor O'Sullivan who also introduced each priest as he made obeisance to the Bishop's throne.

Four representative members of laity entered the sanctuary as representing the lay members of the constituent parishes. They were Senator J. J. Duffus, V. J. McElderry, K.C., Martin James Leahy of Douro and Guy Miller of Lindsay.

The following address to Bishop MacDonald was read by Mr. McElderry:

May it please your Excellency:

The laity of your Diocese extend to you the warmest and heartiest welcome to your new home and bishopric in the Diocese of Peterborough. It is our earnest hope that you will find happiness and consolation in your new duties and surroundings. You have travelled a long way from your home by the sea, to come to us, and we sincerely desire that you may find in your new environment something to recompense you for the loss of the rugged beauty of your native province and the sturdy and bright characters of your former associates.

Permit us to say that your Excellency's fame has preceeded you, and that you stand very high in our admiration because of the successful interest you have taken in the temporal as well as the spiritual welfare of your people.

Your titular Cathedral is that of "Saint Peter in Chains," and we recognize that you come to us on the same divine mission that Saint Peter set out upon after his miraculous release from prison. You take up the Crosier of this diocese, one year ago laid aside by your learned and saintly predecessor in office, Bishop O' Connor and we point with pride to the fact that you as our Bishop are the latest link in the unbroken chain of Apostolic Succession from Saint Peter to this very day.

May we say, as humble members of the Mystical Body, that we pledge our fealty to you, and desire in some small way, at least by our favourable dispositions, to be of assistance to you in your apostolic labours."

Following Bishop MacDonald's address, the ceremony was concluded with benediction.

His First Mass.

In the celebration of his first Pontifical High Mass this morning, Bishop MacDonald was assisted by Rev. Dr. P. J. Kelly of Cobourg, with Rev. V. J. Gillogly of Ennismore as deacon and Rev. P. P. Butler of Kinmount as sub-deacon. Deacons of honor were Rev. V. J. Corkery and Very Rev. M. J. O'Leary.

All the clergy attending the installation remained over for this morning's celebration. Some of them were hotel guests and many others were billeted in private homes of the city. Those in charge of accommodation were Rev. F. K. Malane, Rev. Joseph Walsh, and Rev. Dr. F. M. Grant.

No Boys Registered At Business College

Not one boy registered for enrolment in the new term at the Peterborough Business College, John A. McKone, principal, informed the Examiner today, and added, "at least not yet."

The initial attendance is partly affected by the deferred opening of the senior forms of the secondary schools.

"No doubt the war is having an effect," Mr. McKone said, "and yet the demand for stenographers is so heavy now and the outlook for the future so attractive that it is an opportune time for boys who are looking ahead."

With Boys In Services

The editor of this column will welcome extracts from letters from boys serving or any other information concerning them.

By JEAN STENTON

There are not many soldiers who have been fortunate enough to have their wives follow them overseas. Such a one is Capt. Gordon Swartzen, former paymaster at the Training Centre when it first opened. His wife, Ruth Swartzen, wanted to be with him, so she trained and is now a transport and ambulance driver with the Canadian Red Cross Corps. The couple lived on Aylmer street for a year before he went overseas. Mrs. Swartzen is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Davis of Mitchell.

One of the most unusual things in naval history took place a week ago aboard H.M.C.S. Chippawa in Winnipeg when this "ship on dry land" nearly foundered, during a heavy rain storm. Lashed by the driving rain the H.M.C.S. Chippawa sprung a leak and water poured into the stoke-hole of the training quarters. Officers and ratings stuck to the ship in spite of the captain's fears that she had been "scuttled."

With the water rising in the stoke-hole, the crew sent out an S.O.S. and Winnipeg's non-amphibious fire depratment hurried to the rescue. The flood was first reported when the heavy rain pouring in gallons from the large "top deck" area of the ship, flooded back into the stoke-hole. The fire department assisted by the sailors, pumped out the stricken ship and made her seaworthy once more.

SGT. MURIEL ROBERTSON

Sgt. Muriel Robertson of the C.W.A.C., daughter of Canon and Mrs. W. P. Robertson, Brock street, has won new laurels in the Women's Army. She has been appointed to tour Canada from coast to coast with the C.W.A.C. Brass and Pipe bands, which visited Peterborough the last week in August.

This job involves announcing the numbers and giving a talk at every concert on the activities of the girls serving in the Army. At the same time she makes a short appeal for recruits. At the present time, Sgt. Robertson is in Montreal and will be touring all the important centres as far east as Halifax. Then the bands will go as far west as Vancouver. The tour ends Nov. 22, and then like the sailors Miss Robertson will be able to say she joined up to see the world.

Italian and German equipment took a heavy beating after meeting Canadian troops in Sicily, according to a report made by Capt. Herbert Long of Port Hope, who described what he saw near Grammichele in Sicily.

"Burnt out Italian trucks were lying like skeletons every mile or so. Some of our troops were driving in a few captured German vehicles. A reconnaissance patrol of a tank unit and Bren carriers were moving up to the town at a fast clip, when they ran smack into the enemy. There was a small force of German tanks on the hill, a third of a mile west of the town, and German infantry of the Hermann Goering Division and Italian infantry in Grammichele itself. This was the first meeting of Canadians and Germans in Sicily.

"We were leading the 8th Army up the road when German tanks, and half-track vehicles with multiple pom-poms mounted, opened up on our carriers. We returned the fire as soon as possible. Tanks on both sides rocketed into action and then our infantry, which had been reinforced, rushed to Grammichele and cleaned out the enemy. Most of the Germans had cleared out and left the Italians behind and we had about 200 prisoners."

PTE. GERALD MACDONALD

Pte. Gerald MacDonald, R.C.O.C., whose wife is living at 206 McDonnel street, has been in Sicily for a number of weeks, with the 1st Division. For a time his job was helping to take supplies up to the front line, but a letter received by his family this week said that he had been moved further back on some other work. Pte. MacDonald found the weather very warm and the soldiers dressing light, with the result that many of them are blacker than the natives. Prior to his enlistment this soldier was employed at the Lock Works.

To many of the English airmen who are in Canada for training, fighting in the air will not be their first taste of battle, as they have served in some capacity out of the forces during the blitz. One of these is Sid Wieten, a navigator-to-be, known to his buddies as "Grandpa," who has been moved from Toronto to Manitoba.

When war was declared Mr. Wieten was in the A.R.P. and he still recalls vividly being called up that day as people waited tensely for the thousands of planes which they were confident Germany would hurl against them. Being in the A.R.P. was no sinecure he found and each week he had to attend lectures as Britain's experts found out more about German methods.

This airman recollects some of the peculiar things he saw bombs do. He said the concussion from the bombs was one of the most dangerous things people had to contend with for you could never be sure how it would react. During one raid he saw a plate glass window blow out and cut a person in two from the force of a bomb. A man with keys in his pocket who passed near a magnetic bomb caused it to go off and the concussion of a bomb in the business section tore the clothes off a man standing in a shop entrance.

One night while his A.R.P. squad was being sent as a relief to a nearby town which had been badly blitzed they noticed a magnetic bomb swinging easily from the top of a lamp post. One of the men stripped off all his clothes, so that there would be no danger of any magnetic ignition and finally brought it safely down. It has been his experience that Anderson shelters have proven very valuable too. Sometimes a bomb would fall so close that the shelter would be buried in debris, but after three or four hours, the occupants would be dug out unhurt.

Mr. Wieten thinks the Devonshire people resemble Canadians very closely, both in the way they talk and their living habits. The thing which amazes him, is the amount of toast Canadians and Devonshire people consume. He described it to this reporter as "one of their quaint customs."

Better Air Service

TORONTO, Sept. 8 —(CP) —Under schedule changes effective Sept. 15, Trans Canada Air Lines will increase its daily flights between Toronto and New York to three and provide a new through service between Toronto and Newfoundland, W. G. Courtney, district traffic manager, announced last night. A third daily flight will be made between Toronto and Winnipeg.

Genelco Group Gives $17 To War Victims

Starting out by enquiring among her fellow workers among the Genelco Ltd. Office staff, whether they were willing to forego one chocolate bar a week to help various charitable funds not included in the Community Fund, Miss M. McCracken assumed a leadership which has been quite successful, for within recent times this has been the means of collecting close to the sum of $100.00, all of which has been used for that purpose, the latest $17.00 of which has found its way into the coffers of the Peterborough and District British War Victims' Fund, where it is acknowledged in today's list of receipts.

This is a very fine example of how the cooperative little of many may come to realize something quite worth while, and reflects quite to the credit of the leadership that Miss McCracken has thus given.

Big Plants Total $5,167

This latest contribution naturally helps to swell the total that has come from the Canadian General Electric Co. Ltd. and the Genelco Ltd. plants, helping the latter towards a more levelling of the score to their credit in the matter of supporting this fund which goes direct to aid the people of Britain who have suffered through air raid attacks over that country, and when one delves into the secret of how each donation came to be raised, it is inevitably found that that some one has assumed the leadership in thinking in terms of less of self and more of others, so let's say "hats off to these sympathetic and thoughtful people" for the good they initiate and lead others to do.

Market Stall Returns

Quite a sizable proportion of this past Saturday's returns are being held over until the completion of this particular effort next Saturday, when the draw will be made for the silver Cheese dish donated by Schneider's Jewellery Store. However with Mrs. V. Sweeting supplying quite a portion of the produce, sales clerks Patsy McLachlan and Mary Hollingsworth, Girl Guides from the 1st Peterborough Company were able to turn in the sum of $2.25, which is listed today.

Did you ever try to guess the number of fives that appear on a five dollar bill, if not, you probably would get quite a jolt if you did make a guess, and then counted the number that actually appear.

A number of hard headed business men, including a banker, were bet $1.00 a time that they could not name the correct number and were given a leeway of 25, and since none came within that mark, the sum of $6.00 is listed today under the heading of "The price of ignorance."

Junior Show This Saturday

The Horticultural Society has done much to foster a love for the beautiful in creation by sponsoring a show each year for the young folk, wherein they have an opportunity to show just how well they have cooperated with nature in producing flowers and vegetables, from which these youngsters learn much that is to their own advantage particularly later on in life. If for no other reason than this, they deserve the support of all, for everything they produce not only enriches themselves but the whole country as well.

Circulars giving particulars of their annual Junior Show to be held next Saturday, September 11, have been distributed in the various public schools, and all who can are urged to enter into the competitive spirit of the show where they may have the chance of winning a prize. The show will open at 1 p.m. and all entries should be in by 9.30 on the previous evening, there being 14 classes in all for various types of garden flowers, wild flowers, tree leaves and vegetables. Boys and girls, ask your teachers about this.

Bad Mixture

LUCKNOW, Ont., Sept. 8 —(CP) —Mixing drinks may be bad policy, but mixing apples and wheat is downright fatal—or so it proved for five cows, inhabitants of St. Helens. The bovine quintet started off with a round or two of wheat, fresh from the field, and then topped that off with a raid on Gordon Rintoul's orchard. They died.

With our enlarged and improved facilities, combined with buying wisdom, we are able to accept limited civilian awning and tarpaulin business. We urge early placing.

DOROTHY DIX

WOMAN CAN ONLY GUESS WHY HER MATE ACTS STRANGE.

This May Be Due to Business Worry; Wife Needs Sense of Humor.

The favorite complaint of husbands is that wives do not understand them. Of course they don't. No woman ever understands any man, least of all the bundle of contradictions to which she is united in the holy bonds of matrimony, and the longer she studies him the greater mystery he is to her. All that the cleverest woman can do is to guess about why her husband acts the way he does, and she generally guesses wrong.

No woman, for instance, ever understands her husband's general attitude towards marriage. Not being a moron; he knew that marriage curtails a man's liberty and commandeers his pocket-book. Why, then, did he go to the trouble and expense of setting up a home unless he expected to stay in it, or take upon himself the support of a wife unless he enjoyed her society so much that he considered it worth the price?

She can't understand why, when before marriage, her husband could spend hours upon hours talking to her without wearying, after the wedding he only grunts when she speaks to him, and is about as entertaining a fireside companion as a stuffed shirt. Nor can she understand when before marriage she had to practically sweep the man out of the house to get rid of him after marriage she has to use a lock and key to keep him in.

No woman understands why, when her husband knows perfectly well that she is pining for a few compliments from him, a little love-making, and an occasional kiss that doesn't feel as if it came out of the icebox, he won't give them to her. He will work himself to death to give her a fine house, a limousine and matched pearls but wild horses couldn't drag out of him the fact that he is still romantically in love with her and thinks she is glamour girl No. 1.

No woman can understand that the reason her husband won't give her an allowance isn't because he is a tightwad who begrudges her the money but because he gets the same sort of kick out of being the source from which all blessings flow to her as we do out of giving candy to a child. Nor can she understand that when he complains to others about her extravagance it is his way of calling attention to what a good provider he is and how lucky she is to have a men who can dress her like Solomon in all his glory.

No. Wives don't understand their husbands. Maybe God never intended them to, or else He would have given them a Divine dispensation that would have enabled them to know how to manage the men; when to shut their eyes and be as blind as a bat, and when to be sister Annie on the house tops, with their gaze riveted on the little cloud on the horizon no bigger than the new blond stenographer; when to be as credulous as a fool; when to let husbands know wives have their numbers and they had better watch their steps; when to jolly and when to lambast; when to forgive and when to hustle to the divorce court.

How else, save through supernatural wisdom, is a wife to know that the big, strong, husky man who perhaps manages hundreds of other men, wants her to treat him like a little boy, pet him, call him baby names, and coddle him, just as his mother used to do when he was three years old? How else is a woman to realize it is no sign that her husband has ceased to love her because now and then he wants to have a little flirtation, just as he used to want to play hooky from school? And how else is she to know that he wants his wife to treat him as his mother used to do when he was naughty, spank him, forgive him, kiss him, and forget it?

Nor how can a mere ordinary woman, wihout any occult powers whatever, sense that a great big grownup man can be just as jealous of a baby as he could be of any handsome heartbreaker, and that if she doesn't want her husband to take to roaming she had better spend more time holding his hand and telling him how wonderful and booful he is, instead of lavishing all her blandishments on a bald-headed infant?

And how can a wife, who is not a mind-reader, know that when her husband comes home and slams the door behind him, kicks the cat and spanks the children, it isn't because he is a grouch or a meanie, it is because he is worried to death over his business, sick with fear over what may happen to those he loves better than life itself?

And how is a woman to know that what she needs more than anything els in dealing with her husband is a sense of humor, and to be able to see just how funny are all his fussy little ways? A laugh hung on a hair trigger has saved more marriages than all the cardinal virtues. No. Wives don't understand their husbands. They never can. And perhaps that is lucky for both parties.

Chapter Plans Fall Activity

The opening meeting of the Major Bennett Chapter I.O.D.E. was held Tuesday evening at the home of Miss Margaret Loudon, Brock street, with the regent, Margaret Preston in the chair. An interesting reading, entitled "Our Badge" was given by Margaret Skitch. Plans for fall activities were discussed and it was decided the chapter would fill 25 ditty bags for the Navy. In response to a request it was decided to donate a sum of money to H.M.C.S. Peterborough for comforts.

A concert by tne Salvation Army Band and Songster Brigade in the Collegiate Auditorium some time this fall will be sponsored by the Chapter, and a rummage sale will be held October 1 with Betty Lyle as convener.

It was reported that in response to a request from headquarters last spring, the Chapter had collected fifty articles and 47 pounds of clothing for the Polish Relief Fund, with Helen Barnes as convener. It was decided to continue to send members to the Blood Donors Clinic, and to give dances for the soldiers at the Y.W.C.A.

THE STARS SAY . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Thursday, September 9

A MOST PROPITIOUS time for forging ahead to cherished goals, will define its programs and well organized plans for promotion, favors, preferment or any form of cooperation desired from employers, superiors, friends or those in authority. This holds for business as well as personal life, where social and family standing may prove a practical asset. However, there is menace from reckless, impetuous or erratic moves or behaviour that might jeopardize the worthiest efforts. Make changes, travel and promote plans with discretion, moderation and acumen, and all may be surprisingly accelerated in business life. But be tactful in private or emotional relations, which are under adverse forecast.

Those whose birthday it is are encouraged to make well organized and constructive plans for progress and fulfillment of high ambitions by proper approach to those in power and prestige, employers, superiors or those who might prove friendly to personal objectives. But use finesse and tact and not an erratic, over-forceful, reckless or impetuous approach, which might prove futile. Similar methods should be used to preserve happiness in the family.

United States Refuses Aid To Argentine

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8 —(AP)— Possibly jealous and fearful over the growing power of Brazil, Argentina has asked for—and been firmly refused—United States lease-lend materials, including the implements of war.

The request came from the Argentine Foreign Minister, Vice-Admiral Segundo Storni Aug. 5, and the flat turndown was released by State Secretary Cordell Hull last night. The exchanges, were made public here and in Buenos Aires.

The Argentine cabinet distributed the messages without comment.

Storni contended Argentina was pro-Ally, though it is the only neutral in the hemisphere. All others have broken off relations with the Axis.

As long as Argentina stays out of the inter-American hemispheric defence setup, it would be folly for the United States to allow this country to have American-produced instruments of war, Hull intimated.

Plain Statement

Said Hull:

1. Only Argentina, of the 21 American republics (13 of whom have declared war) has not broken relations with the Axis, nor has it severed financial and commercial relations, and as a result has authorized financial transactions beneficial to the enemies of the United Nations.

2. Axis agents continue to engage in espionage activities in Argentina which cost United Nations ships and lives. They spread Axis propaganda, and their publications receive supplies of newsprint at favorable prices through the intervention of the Argentine ministry of agriculture.

3. Argentina is the only America republic still maintaining radio-telephone and radiotelegraph communications with Japan, Germany and Italy.

All these, said Secretary Hull, were contrary to inter-American agreements to which Argentina had fully subscribed.

They explained convincingly, he indicated, why Argentina's neutrality had ont been "understood."

Mess Room Chatter

By ALAN RANDAL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WITH THE R. C. A. F. SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, Sept. 8 — (CP). — If they call Pilot Officer Syd Sinclair of Hamilton, Ont., the "bellowing bomb aimer," it's all right with him. And it's all right with his crew too because if it weren't for Syd and his high-powered bellowing, well . . .

Syd and his crew fly in a squadron commanded by Wing-Cmdr. W. A. McKay of Vancouver. They had been to Essen and their plane was hit by flak. One engine caught fire. They couldn't land on the only British air base they were able to reach because of enemy intruders so they headed out to sea and the pilot landed about two miles from shore with his wheels down and the boys took to the water.

The emergency dinghy was damaged in landing and the crew had to rely on their Mae Wests to remain afloat. The English wireless operator couldn't swim so Sgt. George Sharpe of Ottawa and PO. Keith Patterson of Little Current, Ont., remained with him while Sinclair swam for shore to get help.

As he neared the coast he started hollering—so loud those on the shore heard him and sent a rescue launch out to pick up the whole crew.

Flt. Lt. "Jay" Chasanoff, the 'mad adj' of Canadian Bomber Group's Lion Squadron is largely responsible for that name and for their having been adopted by a movie outfit. Now, it is understood the squadron is going to adopt one of the lion cubs presented to Prime Minister Churchill during his African visit and the Canadians have a reservation in with the zoo for a cub named "Mareth" after the famous Mareth Line. It's mostly Chas' work.

The idea came to him one night. Bright and early next morning the former Selkirk, Man., lawyer's voice came over the telephone to headquarters, excited and shrill:

"I gawttanidea . . . you know that lion?"

"What lion? I do not know any lion," says the wing commander on the headquarters end.

"Why," says Chas, "of course, sir, you know that lion, that one they gave Churchill."

"Oh yes," says the wing commander, by name of Roger Irwin formerly of the Toronto Star. "I do not know that lion, but I have heard of it."

"Well," adds Chas, "we wanna adopt that lion."

The adoption ceremony takes place shortly, Roger having fixed it up with 10 Downing street.

Grocers May Hold All Ration Books

OTTAWA, Sept. 8 (CP). — Provision for the holder of a ration book owner to leave his book, card or a sheet from the book with his retailer is contained in a consolidated order covering rationing rules, issued to-day by the Prices Board.

The order provides that the book, card or sheet left with the retailer must include the stub signed by the consumer. Every time a sale is made to the consumer, the retailer must detach enough coupons to cover the quantity delivered.

It was learned this provision applies to cash as well as to charge-account customers. It applies to many housewives who deal steadily with the same retailer, in addition to those who order by telephone from one retailer and do not wish to take in ration books every time they intend to purchase rationed goods.

Only Pepsodent contains IRIUM

Remember ... DON'T WASTE PEPSODENT
Help save for others, and there will be enough for you.

2. Measure out ¾-inch of Pepsodent Paste on brush. It's plenty. Always squeeze and roll tube from the bottom.
3. Buy the large size when you buy Pepsodent Tooth Paste. Save metal ... save yourself time. Get more paste at less cost.

HUBBLE — In loving memory of Mother, Mrs. Nathan Hubble who passed away September 6, 1942.

I cannot say, and I will not say

She has wandered into an unknown land,
And left us dreaming how very fair
It needs must be, since she lingers there.
And we—Oh we, who the wildest yearn
For the old-time step and the glad return—
Think of her faring on, as dear
In the love of there as the love of here;
Think of her still as the same, I say:
She is not dead—she is just away!

Syracuse handed Baltimore five unearned runs in the ninth inning last night, the Orioles winning 7 to 5 after the Chiefs looked to have the game all tucked away.... Westclox have received no definite word as to their provincial playdowns yet, although they may swing into action away from home a week from Saturday with the second game on September 25.... Squadron Leader Bill Jackson of Peterborough is again managing the R.C.A.F. Hurricanes but this city will have no playing member on that squad this season.

To Know How to Type Is Most Important

LEARN TO TYPE

Typewriting, as everyone knows, is the one thing a business girl must be able to do well if she wants to be a success today.

To think it is difficult to learn is ridiculous, because with a little practice the novice can soon become an expert. Practice makes perfect here.

Before starting, the beginner should become familiar with the principal parts of the typewriter and their adjustment — parts common to all makes.

Our 32-page booklet describes the mechanical parts of a typewriter, how to operate the typwriter, and how to learn the keyboard (with very instructive illustrations).

The booklet also explains good usage in typewriting English and how to use the typewriter in writing social, official and business letters. There are other instructions which prove very helpful to the beginner.

Accuracy and neatness are the first rules of a good typist—remember to keep your work spotless.

For your copy of Learn to Type send 15 cents in coins or stamps to the Home Service Department of the Peterborough Examiner. Be sure to write your name, address and name of booklet plainly.

"The Authority on Authorities"

MISSING AN END PLAY

THERE ARE various ways whereby a declarer may mess up his effort to make a lead-throwing end-play. One is by failing to go through the proper preparation to eliminate, from his holdings or those of the defenders, the suits which should be taken out. Another is by playing in such a way as to leave the opponents the two middle cards which come between the upper and lower cards of a tenace he holds in some suit.

North: ♠ J 7 4 ♥ Q 8 2 ♦ 9 8 2 ♣ A Q 6 5

West: ♠ A K Q ♥ 9 4 3 ♦ K Q 7 5 4 ♣ J 7

East: ♠ 10 9 8 5 3 2 ♥ J 10 7 6 ♦ 10 6 ♣ 4

South: ♠ 6 ♥ A K 5 ♦ A J 3 ♣ K 10 9 8 3 2

(Dealer: North. East-West vulnerable.)

North	East	South	West
Pass	Pass	1 ♣	1 ♦
2 ♣	Pass	4 ♣	Pass
5 ♣	Pass	Pass	Dbl

At one duplicate table West opened the spade K, then led the Q, which South ruffed. Making the contract clearly depended on avoiding two diamond losers, so an end-play was indicated. South scored two top clubs, the second one in dummy, eliminated spades by ruffing the J, got the hearts out by taking the A, K and Q, then led the diamond 9. East tried to make it hard by not covering with the 10, but South had nerve enough to play his 3, hoping the 9 would force the K or Q. When it did, West had to pitch into the A-J or else lead a suit which South could ruff in dummy while discarding his spade J. Having only diamonds, it was that suit, but South didn't care.

At another table, play was the same except that East made it easy by covering the diamond 9 with the 10, whereupon the J went on, making the dummy's 8 a vital part of the end-play. At still another table, when East played low on the 9, South put on the J and so was beaten, as then the diamond 7 enabled the 10 to force the A, so that the J lost to the K. At still another table, South neglected to ruff out the spade J, so, when West was put in with the diamond, he could return a spade, which South had to ruff, leaving him another diamond loser. Still another declarer took out all of the dummy's clubs before putting West in with a diamond, and also left West with a spade to return.

Tomorrow's Problem

North: ♠ 7 ♥ K J ♦ 10 9 7 6 3 2 ♣ A 7 6 5

West: ♠ 10 9 6 ♥ A Q ♦ K Q J 5 ♣ K 9 8 2

East: ♠ A K 8 4 3 2 ♥ 10 4 ♦ 8 4 ♣ Q J 3

South: ♠ Q J 5 ♥ 9 8 7 6 5 3 2 ♦ A ♣ 10 4

(Dealer: North. North-South vulnerable.)

After North and South had stuck in bids of their red suits, what is their soundest defense on this deal against 4-Spades by East.

CCF Conference Says Banish Schism

CALGARY, Sept. 8 (CP).— The United Nations "should make every effort to confer with the Soviet Union," the National Council of the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation said in a statement issued at conclusion of its three-day meeting here last night.

Declaring that "a more just and humane social and economic order" can be obtained only by complete unity of purpose both in the field of military and political strategy, the statement of the United Nations in these respects and in particular at the widening schism between the Western Democracies and the Soviet Union."

"We assert that the new world . . . can be built only by co-operative and mutual trust among the Allies, and that we should make every effort to confer with the Soviet Union and arrive at an agreement regarding the military and political issues of the present, as well as prepare for full collaboration with our Russian allies in the building of the post-war world."

The statement, dealing with international issues, added:

"We believe that the people of Canada condemn the policy of the administration set up in the conquered areas of Africa and Italy in compromising with and maintaining in power former friends of Fascist Dictatorships and in failing to call into consultation the Democratic representatives of the people concerned, many of whom are now exiled in the Allied countries.

We moreover strongly regret the tardy and restricted recognition of the French Committee of Liberation afforded by Canada in contrast to the attitude of the Soviet Union and we demand that full recognition be accorded to the French leaders who are regarded as symbols of French liberty by the people."

American Forces Bagged 29 Submarines

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8 (AP).— The United States Navy Department disclosed to-day that of the more than 90 enemy U-boats sunk during May, June and July, 29 were destroyed by American forces.

Twenty-four of the submarines were sent to the bottom by American naval forces, the Navy said, and five were sunk by United States army aircraft.

The Navy's disclosure came shortly after Navy Secretary Frank Knox told newsmen that although the submarine menace may appear to be less serious than a few months ago, the lack of enemy actvity may be because Germany has withdrawn many U-boats to bases for repairs and refitting with additional anti-aircraft weapons before launching new attacks.

Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt reported recently that countries fighting the Axis had sunk more than 90 submarines in May, June and July. The Navy's announcement to-day failed to locate the actions.

Helped in 3 Others.

In addition to the 29 U-boats destroyed by U. S. forces, at least three additional undersea craft, and probably others, were sunk by United Nations, and by other American operations, the Navy said.

The Navy said only "positive sinkings" were included in its compilation, adding that probable and possible sinkings were purposely omitted.

All but one of the 24 submarines sinkings by naval action has been previously announced.

The other, disclosed to-day, was the destruction of a German U-boat in the Atlantic as it prepared to attack a convoy.

The U-boat lost all hands except one sailor who climbed out of the conning tower and was picked up.

Knox earlier discussed the apparent temporary withdrawal of the U-boats from the Atlantic.

Overseas Two Years.

Gnr. N. J. Payne, 5th Medium Battery, has been serving overseas for two years, and is now just 19 years of age. He was formerly employed at the Bonner-Worth. His mother lives at 339 Aylmer street.

Britain Will Scorn Peace Feelers

SOUTHPORT, England, Sept. 8.—(CP Cable). — The Government is determined to resist every blandishment of Germany to compel Britain by "cringing and crawling" to devise a post-war policy which would allow a third war to develop, Labor Minister Ernest Bevin said to-day in an address to the Trades Union Congress.

"It is not a question of revenge, but of protecting the generation yet unborn," he said.

The principle the Government has accepted for demobilization is length of service, he said, and it would not "submit to key men and others pulling wires one way or another. Industry will have to adapt itself to such a plan.'"

Referring to Britain's air power, the Labor Minister said the number employed in fighting, on the ground and in building and equipping aircraft "isn't many short of our Army in the last war."

(The strength of the British Army, not including overseas divisions, at the Armistice in 1918 was approximately 4,000,000.)

It was decided to quilt the top donated by Mrs. Hopwood, in the town hall or rectory. Mrs. Gribble was welcomed as a new member.

Mrs. Foster invited the ladies to meet at her home for the October meeting. Lunch committees were arranged by the secretary. Japanese Censors Allow Only 24 Words

Letters and post cards addressed to prisoners of war and civilian internees in Japan and Japanese-occupied teritories must in future be limited to tweny-four words and must either be typewritten or written clearly in block lettering, according to information received at the Post Office. The restriction as to the number of words applies to the message itself and is exclusive of the address.

It is understood that letters and post cards which do not comply with these requirements may not be delivered by the Japanese authorities, who claim that the restrictions are necessary to simplify censorship, so that the transmission of correspondence may be expedited.

Particular attention is directed by the Post Office to the necessity for correctly and fully addressing all correspondence for prisoners of war and civilian internees in the Far East, in accordance with the directions given in the revised regulations governing communication with prisoners of war in enemy, enemy-occupied or neutral countries.

As stated in these regulations, letters and postcards must deal only with purely personal matters, and care must be taken to see that no information of any kind which might be of use to the enemy is given. No references to military, economic or political matters are allowed.

Nazis Fortifying Streets of Paris

BERNE, Sept. 8 —(AP)— A Paris despatch to the Tribune de Geneve said Tuesday that construction of a chain of fortifications in Paris and its outskirts confirms German intentions to defend the city street by street in the event of Allied invasion.

The despatch said the populace had wondered whether, in the event of invasion, Paris would be declared an open city as in 1940, but that this had been dispelled by workers of the Todt Labor organization building an entire system of defenses within the city and a protective belt of forts in the suburbs.

ITALIANS FIGHT NAZIS

Russians Capture Bakhmach Drive Closer to Dnieper Demoralized Huns Fleeing

Soviet War Machine Grinding Ahead Along Entire 600-Mile Front Troops 110 Miles East Of Kiev City

LONDON, Sept. 9—(CP).—The Russians in a special order of the day tonight announced the capture of the north Ukraine rail centre of Bakhmach, 15 miles west of Konotop and 110 miles east of Kiev.

Bakhmach had been partly by-passed by the swiftly-advancing Russians, who captured several points to the northwest, cutting the railway to Gomel.

Marshal Stalin's order of the day was broadcast by the Moscow radio and recorded here by the Soviet Monitor.

With the great steel centre of Stalino and the rich Donets industrial basin safely in their grasp, two victorious Red armies swept forward today on the heels of the demoralized Germans fleeing toward the Dnieper River, their last main line of defence on Russian territory.

Front line dispatches placed the Russian troops less than 70 miles from the Dnieper at some points, but the Germans were threatened more immediately in the region to the south of Stalino. There their entire southern flank now was exposed to the terrific pressure of the Russian armored offensive, from Mariupol on the Sea of Azov westward to the Isthmus of Perekop and the gateway to the Crimea.

The entire 600-mile front stretching as far north as Smolensk was ablaze as the mighty Russian war machine plunged ahead to rid Russian soil of the invaders before the heavy autumnal rains — already beginning — make mobile warfare impossible.

Red divisions, slashing west of captured Konotop in the north, stormed into Borzna, 100 miles from Kiev, key Nazi strongpoint on the centre of the Dnieper defence wall.

200 Towns Scooped Up

More than 200 towns were scooped up in the Soviet drive from Kharkov north to Smolensk yesterday, the Moscow midnight communique reported.

On the Bryansk front, Red Army troops outflanked German forces holding Nvlya, 30 miles north of Bryansk, and stormed into the town to kill 1,200 of the enemy and capture 25 guns, the bulletin said.

West and southwest of Kharkov another 1,200 Germans fell before the Soviet bayonets and 32 enemy tanks were wrecked.

In the drive for Borzna, which lies northwest of Bakhmach, another 1,000 Nazi soldiers were reported killed before the enemy lines cracked. Stores of military equipment were captured in this salient.

Capture of Stalino and the Donets Basin, triumphantly announced in Moscow by the thunder of a 224-gun salute, returned to Russia her richest industrial region.

300,000 Germans Occupy Northern Italy

By E. C. DANIEL
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Sept. 9 — (AP). — Bottled up in northern Italy and harassed by a vengeful population the German Army's 300,000 occupation troops in Italy stand little chance of successfully resisting Allied forces which were reported from neutral quarters to be landing today all along the shin of the Italian boot.

That is the prevailing military opinion in London where it was almost unanimously forecast that the Allied Mediterranean forces will roll back the Germans to the gates of the fatherland and proceed to the reduction of the southeastern outer bastion of the European fortress in the Balkans.

Amid jubilation over the greatest of Anglo - American military victories there can be no doubt however, that the Germans, with whom Allied forces have made contact in the Naples area, would exert desperate and bloody effort to stall off inevitable defeat foreseen for them here.

"This last phase of the Italian war may provide one of the most difficult tasks which the Allied troops have yet had to face," said the London Evening Standard.

There was serious doubt expressed in London, however, that with German shortages of troops, supplies and transport the German army would be able to undertake any more than a delaying action on the Po River line which is the strongest natural defence barrier across northern Italy where the main Nazi forces are concentrated.

Wages Dispute Appears Stalled

Mr. Cohen yesterday made public a letter sent to Mr. Justice C. P. McTague, board chairman, saying he was prepared to resume full participation as a board member.

Mr. Cohen has not attended board sessions since he wrote Mr. McTague August 18 saying he would not sit on any controversial cases until the Government's labor policy was clarified.

The union's application concerned wage adjustments at the Algoma Steel Corporation at Sault Ste.

BERNE, Sept. 9—(AP).—Allied forces which landed on the Tyrrhenian coastline (presumably in the Naples area), began moving northward with an advance guard of Italian troops, reports from the Italian frontier said.

Milan, Turin and other industrial centres of northern Italy were said to be completely in the hands of Italian military authorities with German soldiers leaving those places.

War Production 55 Millions Weekly Total

By JACK WILLIAMS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, Sept. 9 — (CP). — Canadian war production has reached a peak of $55,000,000 worth of munitions a week as the Dominion enters its fifth year of war, Munitions Minister Howe said in a statement today.

Reviewing the war production program. Mr. Howe made public new figures placing at $3,094,000,000 expenditures in the year ended September 1, 1943, on war production and construction. Exclusive of food, metals, timber and other materials produced for war purposes but not under Munitions Department contracts.

Persons directly or indirectly employed in war work at that date were estimated at 1,100,000 and summaries of the production of specific war materials showed new highs.

"In the four years since September, 1939, the Dominion has undergone an industrial transformation which, under normal circumstances, could not have taken place in less than 25 years," Mr. Howe's statement said.

Steady Climb

"More than $800,000,000 has been spent on hundreds of new plants and thousands of new machines. Since peacetime industries have expanded to two, five and even ten times their former size."

A departmental tabulation showed the steady increase in Canadian war production and employment in the actual war years, September to September, since the opening of hostilities:—

	War production and construction under department contracts.	Employees directly or indirectly in war work.
Sept. 1, 1940	$255,000,000	300,000
Sept. 1, 1941	$871,000,000	550,000
Sept. 1, 1942	$1,957,000,000	940,000
Sept. 1, 1943	$3,094,000,000	1,100,000

"By the end of this year Canada will have launched aproximately 750 ships and delivered more than 10,000 aircraft," Mr. Howe said. "Military vehicle production will have passed the 600,000 mark and armoured fighting output the 35,000 levels.

"The nation will have turned out nearly 100,000 guns, barrels and mountings as well as 1,000,000 small arms.

MADRID—Three German Divisions stationed in the Verona and Trentino areas of Northern Italy were pulled back into Germany through the Brenner Pass yesterday, reports from the Swiss frontier said to-day.

LONDON—Reuters News Agency reported today that the Italian News Agency Stefani, in a Rome broadcast, quoted the newspaper Il Popolo Di Roma as saying Pope Pius XII had a 50-minute telephone conversation with President Roosevelt Sept. 4.

Massive Raid Batters French Coast

Umbrella Of Planes Being Used To Soften Defences

By GLADWIN HILL
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Sept. 9.—(AP).—With Allied forces swarming into the centre of fallen Italy, the greatest formations of British and American bombers ever hurled across the channel by daylight pounded to-day at enemy ports and air fields in Northern France, carrying into the eight consecutive day a terrific aerial offensive which may form the final prelude to invasion from the west.

The unprecedented assault, launched in conjunction with the largest invasion exercises ever seen in the channel climaxed 18 hours of steady pounding of Hitler's Atlantic fortifications during which not a single Allied plane was downed by German air units charged with defending Europe against the long-awaited Allied push.

Enemy naval vessels and coast artillery were among the prime targets of the vast bombardment accompanying the invasion rehearsal which kept the French coastline alight all night with bomb bursts and anti-aircraft fire and rattled windows this morning six miles inland from the English shore.

"It was like the battle of Britain the other way around," said a resident of the Dover-Folkestone road.

The huge combined operations workout started a flurry of rumors that the invasion of France finally was underway, despite an early communique announcing that the manoeuvres were only exercises.

The communique noted that Canadian Spitfires took an "active part" in the daylight offensive, penetrating in the morning 60 miles into France, covering the attack on the

Italian Troops Occupy Brenner Pass

LONDON, Sept. 9 (CP) — The Germans announced tonight that Italian troops "occupied Brenner Pass" on Tuesday—one day before the announcement of Premier Pietro Badoglio's unconditional surrender —and acknowledged that Italian troops have been fighting the Nazis in some parts of Italy.

In a broadcast re-stating and emphasizing the Nazi line that Italy's capitulation was "treacherous," the German International information bureau, a propaganda agency, made these disclosures while claiming that the internal situation in Italy still was generally in German control.

The "most important" lines of communication are in the hands of the Germans or "Italian troops loyal to the Axis," said the Berlin broadcast, recorded by The Associated Press.

This was an indirect claim that Badoglio's orders not to resist the Allies any further were not being obeyed in all cases by the Italians.

Brenner Pass is the narrow, strategic link between Germany and Italy. Allied planes bombed rail installations near the Pass last week a few hours before the landings on the Italian mainland and destroyed a railway bridge.

Some Resistance

Instances of "local resistance" against German demands that Italians lay down their arms were reported by the German News Agency, D.N.B., in a broadcast which declared the resistance had been broken.

The first instance of disarming of Italian troops in the Balkans also was recounted by D.N.B., which

Say Canadians Have Made New Landings

By H. M. PETERS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—(CP). — Dispatches to-day indicated Canadian troops may have made new landings on the mainland of Italy.

A London cable speculated that some Canadian troops may have been part of the Anglo-American force which debarked at Naples today to attack the German garrisons of capitulated Italy.

William Smith White, of the Associated Press staff in London, describing the main attack in and about Naples as being under "mixed and triumphant American and British banners," added, "the flags of Canada in all probability are going forward too in that area."

The United Nations' radio at Tunis announced that "powerful British, American and Canadian armies are landing at various points in the heart of Italy."

No Confirmation.

There was no immediate confirmation of new action by Canadians, and the Allied units involved in landings at Naples, the Gulf of Eufemia in Southern Italy, and reported landings at other places, have not been named, as is customary until operations are firmly established.

Canadian troops from Sicily with other troops of the 8th Army swarmed across the Straits of Messina on to the toe of Italy last Friday. Whether the entire 1st Division which operated in Sicily made this crossing has not been announced. Nor has anything developed yet to show what disposition has been made of Canadian reinforcement troops which landed in North Africa at about the same time Maj.-Gen. Guy Simonds took his 1st Division to Sicily.

Allied Planes Use Italian Airports New Landings At Leghorn And Ostia, 160 Miles North Of Rome

BY EDWARD KENNEDY
Associated Press War Correspondent.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Sept. 9 — (AP). — A powerful British-American force under Lt.-Gen. Mark W. Clark surged ashore in the vicinity of Naples, a third of the way up the Italian boot, at 4 a.m. to-day. A London dispatch hinted there may be some Canadians with this force.

It was immediately engaged by German forces fighting fiercely in the midst of the chaos of Italy's unconditional surrender, but Allied Headquarters announced that operations were going according to plan and that prisoners already had been taken.

(A German broadcast said American formations landed at Amalfi, 21 miles south of Naples and on the north side of the Gulf of Salerno, yesterday. The broadcast asserted that the Americans had not yet come in contact with German forces.)

BOMBERS FLATTEN FRASCATI NEAR ROME.

At the same time it was announced that three waves of four-engined bombers, striking six hours before the armistice with Italy was announced yesterday, had wiped out German military headquarters in Italy with a terrific half-hour bombing of Frascati, 12 miles outside Rome.

Official reports said the town, nearly every building of which was occupied by German officers, was levelled. The town, with a population of about 12,000, is famous for its wine.

The bombers, attacking at seven-minute intervals, demolished Frascati with hundreds of tons of bombs which hurtled down upon villas and offices where German officers lived and worked.

The landing operations this morning (10 p.m., Wednesday, EDT) putting Americans into combat in Italy for the first time, initiated what was likely to prove the grimmest campaign yet fought in the Mediterranean theatre.

SEIZURE OF NAPLES TO COME SOON.

Gen. Sir Harold Alexander who commanded Allied ground forces through the Tunisian and Sicilian campaigns, is in command of the new operations of all troops in Italy, it was announced.

(The make-up of Gen. Clark's force was not announced.)

The opening of the new Italian front in the Naples area promised the seizure of Naples, Italy's second greatest port, and also put the Germans in Southern Italy under pressure from two directions as the Anglo-Canadian 8th Army under Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery continued to drive up the tortuous Italian toe.

The Italian Stefani news agency in a broadcast gave this summary of the situation around Naples and Genoa:

CERMAN PANZERS MOVE AGAINST GENOA.

"Exits from the port and industrial region are blown up by German troops. Three principal arteries leading to and from Genoa also are blocked. There is a rumor that three German armored divisions are moving toward Genoa."

Stefani also broadcast "another rumor that the British Fleet is off the port of Genoa, and it is said that German forces have occupeid the heights of San Giuliano and also the barracks of Sturla....German lorries full of troops are passing at full speed through the streets."

TAKE OVER AIRFIELDS.

Swiss radio reports said Allied planes in hundreds were descending on newly obtained Italian airfields.

Aside from the landings in the Naples area, rumors flew of Allied landing all along the western coast of the Italian peninsula.

Reports reaching Madrid said United Nations troops were at Ostia, Port of Rome, and also at Leghorn, important port and naval base, 160 miles north of Rome.

Illustrating the apparent confusion inside Italy, Madrid reports said battles had taken place between Germans and Italians throughout the Po region, and that Italian army leaders had rushed troops to leading airports in the Milan region to hold the bases against German seizure.

Claim Mussolini Was Kidnapped

NEW YORK, Sept. 9 — (AP).— The Berlin Radio broadcast today its version of Benito Mussolini's downfall — that Mussolini was "dragged by brute force" from the Royal Palace, strapped to a stretcher and spirited away in an ambulance.

His removal on July 25, the broadcast said, was the result of a secretly-planned coup d'etat between King Victor Emmanuel and the present premier, Pietro Badoglio.

"It seems to be certain," the broadcast said, that Il Duce was taken to Ponza Island, in the Gulf of Gaeta about 75 miles southeast of Rome.

The radio gave this version of Mussolini's "abduction":

Il Duce had requested an interview with the King to request full powers to halt sabotage, the "cowardly desertion" of generals and other officers of air force in Sicily, the "unsocial attitude" of superior Italian officers and corruption in the army.

He was taken completely by surprise when, at the close of the interview, the king said:

"I must inform you that your successor . . . has already been designated and in fact entered office. This man is Marshal Badoglio, put yourself at his disposal."

Mussolini answered that he felt strong enough, in order to save the Italian people, to oppose the crown and if necessary even the army.

As he left, he noted that his car and special guard had been removed from the palace entrance and ordered servants to bring it.

Instead, a colonel approached him and said:

"Your Excellency, I have received an order to arrest you. Please enter this car."

Italy's Fall Dispels Hitler's Magic

Moral Effect On Other Satellites May Start Breakdown

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst.

Italy' surrender is a good deal like the Christmas present which we knew we should find in our stocking but which is none the less a matter of much rejoicing.

The capitulation of this first member of the Axis to go under in the Allied flood represents a military triumph, but the moral effect may be even greater. This is particularly true of the Balkans, where dissatisfaction is running through the Axis satellites and the countries are eager to get at Hitler's throat. It will cast a long shadow across the unhappy people of Germany itself.

Italy's collapse has robbed the Nazi Fuehrer of his magic.

Many advantages lie in this triumph, but it seems to me that the vital consideration is that it represents the liquidation of Axis power in the whole Mediterranean theatre. One thing the Allies have had to keep constantly to the fore in their plans—that control of the Mediterranean was essential for final victory. Had Hitler broken through the Russians into the lower Caucasus and Middle East, or had he overrun Egypt, there's no telling to what straits he might have driven the United Nations by this time.

The preliminaries to the conquest of Italy are great pages in the history of a global war which undoubtedly is ushered in a new epoch in the progress of mankind. It is the record of a really united effort, in which all the Allies played their parts to the limits of their ability.

Long List of Victories.

There was the stonewall stand of the magnificient Red Forces at Stalingrad, where Hitler broke his back last winter. Had he won there he likely would have swept down the Caucasus into the Middle East. There was the gallant British defence which stopped Rommel's drive toward the Suez Canal. Then came Libya, Tripoli, Tunisia and Sicily. All these contributed to the present victory.

Just as in those grim days of a year ago, so now the operations of the Big Three—Britain, America and Russia—and the other Allies, have served by coincidence or design to complement one another. The collapse of Italy has set Hitler's Balkan bulwarks to shaking like reeds in a storm, thereby weakening his defences against both the Western Allies and the Russians. Simultaneously Marshal Stalin triumphantly announces the capture of Stalino, and proclaims that "the Donets Basin is cleared of the Germans."

Thus the Nazi Fuehrer's whole vast Eastern front is rocking under the impact, direct or indirect, of the various Allied operations. The efforts of each Ally are bolstering those of the partners. It's important that we keep this firmly in mind, in interests of unity.

Austrian Beaten To Death

Nazis Murder Chancellor's Son

NEW YORK, Sept. 9—(AP)—Kurt von Schuschnigg, son of the former Australian Chancellor, was beaten to death by Nazi storm troopers early last year in a concentration camp near Berlin, according to Austrian Action, Incorporated, unofficial Austrian organization here.

Ferdinand Czernin, chairman of Austrian Action, made public yesterday copies of an affidavit, containing an eyewitness account of the youth's death. Czernin said the affidavit was signed by Ludwig Victor von Tohathy, an Austrian, now a war prisoner held at Ellis Island.

Czernin quoted the statement as saying:

"On February 23, 1942, while at work and carrying a stone of 70 pounds, young Schuschnigg collapsed and was beaten to death on the orders of S. S. Sturmfuehrer 'Eiserne Gustav' (which was the name we knew him by.)

"Chancellor Schuschnigg and I were present, and as we tried to interfere, were knocked senseless."

Swiss Troops Guard Border

Tension Mounts Between Huns And Italians

BERNE, Sept. 9 (AP) — Little Switzerland in the heart of German-held Europe rushed troop reinforcements to her frontiers today to await any eventuality as published press reports here said tension between Germany and Italy was fast approaching a climax.

Swiss newspapers published a Federal Council order reinforcing frontier units.

A German frontier report to the Gazette of Lausanne, meanwhile, said Nazi police were refusing exit visas since last Tuesday to Italian workers in Germany who were besieging the police bureaux in great numbers.

Italian officers and soldiers in Vienna sought refuge in the Italian Consulate, this dispatch added, while from Geneva it was reported that a number of Italian soldiers had crossed into Switzerland and were interned.

A dispatch to the Berne newspaper Der Bund said strong Italian formations were drawn up within a few miles of German troops in the region of the Etsch River in the Trentino district of Northern Italy and near Venice.

AMERICAN TROOPS LAND IN ITALY AT SEVERAL GUARDED POINTS

Pizzo, Naples, Gaeta And Genoa Named As Newest Landing Places Germans Oppose Invaders In Force

By EDWARD KENNEDY
Associated Press War Correspondent.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa, Sept. 9 — (CP). — British and American forces stormed ashore to-day in the Naples area, a third of the way up the Italian boot, and almost immediately engaged in fierce conflict with strong German occupying troops.

Gen. Sir Harold Alexander, Deputy Commander-in-Chief, has taken command of all United Nations forces in Italy.

Lt.-Gen. Mark Clark, Commander of the American 5th Army, is in command of the troops which smashed ashore in the Naples area at 4 a.m. (10 p.m. E.D.T. Wednesday) protected by British and American naval guns.

In the south Gen Sir Bernard Montgomery heads his Anglo-Canadian 8th Army which is penetrating the Italian foot following its initial landings last Friday.

The Headquarters war bulletin also announced new landings in the early hours of Wednesday at Vibo Valentia in the Gulf of Eufemia, some 30 miles north of Palmi where the Anglo-Canadian 8th Army was reported sweeping up along the Calabrian coast.

The landing on the Gulf of Eufemia, first mentioned yesterday in a Berlin broadcast, was completed "after light opposition," the communique said, and was carried out in Royal Naval vessels supported by warships.

Canadian and British troops of the 8th Army "have moved forward considerably," the bulletin announced, adding that the lateral road from Locri, on the east coast, to Gioia, eight miles above Palmi on the west coast, "is now in our hands."

The 8th Army thus has blocked off the entire southern end of the Italian toe.

AMERICAN 5TH ARMY IN ACTION.

In that area, too, the Allied forces had made first contact with German forces after the greater part of a week of virtually no opposition, for the communique said "German prisoners have been taken."

(Mention of Gen. Clark indicated the American 5th Army has gone into action. Last night unconfirmed reports from several sources told of multiple landings by British, Canadian and American troops on the west coast of Italy. However, no definite units were named.

"Heavy bombers of the North-west African Air Forces made a concentrated attack on the German headquarters at Frascati," an air communique said.

Frascati is located some 12 miles south-east of Rome. The entire town, taken over by the Germans some time ago, was reported levelled by bombers.

28 ENEMY PLANES DESTROYED.

In this attack, the communique said there was strong opposition by enemy fighters and 28 were destroyed.

Medium bombers attacked bridges and roads at Rebisacce, Lauria and Sapri yesterday. All are in southernmost Italy.

Night bombers continued their attacks on German communications on the mainland, hitting Benevento, Metaponto, Potenza, Eboli, and Foria.

In the day and night air operations, 33 enemy aircraft were reported destroyed against an Allied loss of six.

The landing in the Naples area, a third of the way up the Italian boot, placed Allied forces only 135 miles short of Rome, from where Marshal Pietro Badoglio in a broadcast last night called upon Italian soldiers and sailors to cease resistance under the unconditional surrender announced yesterday.

The hour was heavy with the prospects of an imminent and bloody clash with some of the best troops Hitler could muster. Some may garrison strategic points to the south.

ADRIATIC SEA 83 MILES AWAY

If so, a quick Allied thrust from Naples across the Italian peninsula to the Adriatic Sea 83 miles away would cut them off.

The 13-word preliminary announcement of the landing near Naples gave no hint of the forces involved.

(In a broadcast from Allied headquarters at 1:19 a.m., however, Merrill Mueller, National Broadcasting correspondent, said flatly that the American 7th Army had landed there,

Zolomy Tells Of His Part In Dairy Fight

The case of attempted murder against Alex Zolomy which started in the Supreme Court Wednesday and continued today went before the jury early this afternoon, after the accused told his story of the fracas for the first time.

Constable Archie Menzies was examined by D. J. McElderry, crown attorney, and gave his version of what happened at Silverwood's Dairy on March 16. He stated that he had been alone on the desk when the call came in and he drove up George street picking up Constables John Morrow and Harold Mesley who were on their beats. The three proceeded to the corner of Hunter and Aylmer streets and Mesley went to investigate a car parked on Hunter street, while Morrow made his way to the back of the dairy.

"I met James Leahy, a Silverwood employee, who unlocked the front door and went in alone. There was no light and I had my revolver in my right hand and flash light in my left. Using the flash I saw two men at the safe, who immediately ran and hid under the counter, and I ordered them to put up their hands and come out and they did, through a swinging door."

"Constable Morrow arrived and I told him to handcuff them together and as he began on John Serkoski a struggle started and I switched my gun to protect Morrow and Zolomy jumped and twisted the gun out of my hand and ordered me to the south door and said to get out."

"Did he say anything else?" Mr. McElderry asked.

"He said something to the effect that he'd let me have it, although I am not sure that those were his exact words."

As Constable Morrow, Serkoski and another employee, George Buller, struggled in the corner, Zolomy ordered Morrow to be quiet, things stopped, and as the fighting continued, the accused glanced at them for a moment and Menzies declared that it was at this time he jumped for the revolver, which was aimed at his stomach and he declared that the accused pulled the trigger and he heard the click. Before he could pull it a second time, Menzies said he had dragged him to the counter and was trying to get the gun.

"When I recovered the gun, the hammer was almost shoved down on the second live shell, although that may have been the result of the struggle."

First Chamber Empty

The policeman explained the absence of a live cartridge in the first chamber of his .32 colt revolver by saying that he always left the first chamber empty as a safety precaution.

"Zolomy continued to struggle so I called to Morrow for assistance and he came and hit him over the head several times with his billy, and he sagged as though unconscious and when we loosened our hold he ran and we chased him out onto the road, where we finally caught him and put on the handcuffs."

When cross-examined by the defence counsel, John Bradshaw, Constable Menzies said that when the men realized they had been discovered they ran fast toward the counter in front of him. He stated that he couldn't see them and that he had the gun pointed in their general direction.

"Were the men close together when they came out and how close to them were you?" Mr. Bradshaw asked the witness.

"The men were very close together and I was between 4 and 5 feet away," Menzies said.

Mr. Bradshaw queried the constable as to how he bridged the distance between himself and Zolomy after the accused had the gun, and he replied that he moved so fast that Zolomy only had the opportunity of pulling the trigger once, and his main interest was getting the gun before someone else was killed.

Constable Morrow told the court how he had become embroiled in a struggle with Serkoski when he attempted to handcuff him and he said he saw Zolomy grab the gun and heard him tell Menzies to "Get out." When questioned by Mr. Bradshaw he said that he had not heard the click of the gun as it was fired.

George Buller, an employee of Silverwood's, said that he had been awakened at his home near the dairy by James Leahy, and he followed Menzies right into the office. He said that the lights went on almost immediately and he left then and went for Morrow. When he returned Zolomy had the gun on Menzies and he went over to help Morrow in the struggle with Sorkoski. The latter aimed a chair at him and in ducking, he allowed him to escape, Mr. Buller related. At no time did he hear a shot, he declared.

James Leahy, at the dairy, discovered the intruders and said that he followed Menzies inside the door and turned on the lights. He denied seeing the constable with a flash light. He said that he had seen Zolomy pointing the gun at Menzies and had heard the click as the trigger was pulled. He also stated that he had heard the marauder tell Menzies to get out.

For the first time since his arrest Alex Zolomy related his story about the entry and struggle at the dairy. He said that the first intimation he and his accomplice had of any interruption was when they saw the officer's shadow at the door and they had their tools about ready to leave and were in the act of stepping over the counter when Menzies crashed in. Then they dropped behind the counter.

Claims Gun Empty.

"Menzies had only taken three or four steps when the lights flashed on and at no time did I see a flashlight. Menzies saw me and pointed his revolver, holding it about 10 or 12 inches away. With the lights on I could see light in the barrel and knew that in four of the chambers there were no cartridges.

"He told me to get up and seemed very pugnacious and I straddled the counter and reached the other side. My hands were not up for I did not fear an empty gun and as a gesture, I reached over and took it, because he was so pugnacious. I nearly threw it away, but when Menzies leaped back about five feet I concluded he had forgotten it was empty and so kept it. I did not threaten him at any time.

"I went otward the south wall of the office and Constable Menzies backed to Leahy and stopped. As Serkoski grappled with Morrow, I turned around and told Morrow to get away and he did. Then I swung back and told Menzies to get out. I held the gun at a slight slant toward the floor.

"There was a crash and my attention was not distracted, but a second crash which sounded like a shot made me turn and the officer grabbed my gun. At no time did I pull the trigger and we were separated by about three feet when he grabbed it."

When cross-examined by the Crown Attorney, Zolomy stated that he was positive from the appearance of the revolver that the four chambers were empty, and that he had some knowledge of firearms because he had studied them at his Hamilton school.

"Why did you bother making an empty threat against Menzies when you were positive the gun was unloaded?" McElderry asked.

"Because I knew he had forgotten about it."

"And you think you knew more about the gun than the man who owned it and what about the chambers that you could not see?" the Crown Attorney continued.

"I still say the gun was not loaded and at no time did I attempt to fire it," Zolomy asserted.

OTTAWA, Sept. 9.— (CP).—Defense headquarters announced last night that the last contingent of Belgians trained in Canada has arrived in England, and the Belgian military training centre at Jiliette, Que., has been closed.

The Joliette training centre replaced the first Belgian training establishment at Cornwall.

The announcement said that the troops, "last of the physically fit Belgians in North America, many of whom escaped from Occupied Europe," carried the Belgian colors with them to England.

President Warns Big Job Ahead

By TOM REEDY
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9 —(AP)— Axis Italy has fallen, Berlin and Tokyo are surely next, but the task ahead is "bigger and tougher" and Americans should fend off any rocking chair philosophy that the war is won.

In this vein, President Roosevelt touched off the Third War Bond drive in the United States for $15,000,000,000 last night.

Anticipating a wave of optimism, the president warned in a radio speech that the "time for celebration" hadn't yet arrived. Moreover, he asserted, he has an idea that the day of final victory will find this country in a mood of "grim determination that this shall not happen again," rather than in a celebrating frame of mind.

The president called the Italian armistice a victory for both the Allies and the Italian people, released after years of "war and suffering and degradation."

The Mediterranean war is far from finished, however, he declared for "We must drive the Germans out of Italy....We must drive them out of France and all other captive countries; and we must strike them on their own soil from all directions."

The Italian denouement consummated plans made at Casablanca last January, said Mr. Roosevelt, and he and Prime Minister Churchill have made "new, well-considered plans for the future."

"But throughout these conferences we have never lost sight of the fact that this war will become bigger and tougher," he said, "rather than easier during the long months to come."

Japanese Lose 1000 War Planes

By VERN HAUGLAND
Associated Press War Correspondent

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Sept. 9.—(AP)—The Japanese air force, staggered by losses approximating 1,000 planes in little over a month in the South and Southwest Pacific, is believed depleting its strength in China and Japan to support worsening ground situations in New Guinea and the Solomons.

Allied Headquarters said to-day "the enemy apparently is drawing heavily from other fronts" in efforts to "rehabilitate his air forces from a succession of recent heavy defeats" such as the destruction of more than 360 planes at Wewak, Guinea.

New air losses were listed in today's communique which also reported Australian veterans of African campaigns brushing aside Japanese patrols five miles northeast of Lae, New Guinea, and strengthening of Allied paratroops positions seized to the northwest. Twenty-one Japanese planes definitely were destroyed and nine others probably as the enemy attempted to raid Darwin, Australia, attack Allied positions on New Guinea and resist a heavy Allied plane raid on Bougainville in the Solomons.

To-day's communique reported a continued absence of heavy resistance by the Japanese at Lae but more than 20 miles below in Bobdubi region south of Salamaua there was sharp fighting. Ground troops nearer to Salamaua maintained their pressure on the enemy at the bottom hinge of a trap being clamped on an estimated 20,000 Japanese in the Salamaua-Lae area.

Monaghan Farmer Trampled By Horse

A former resident of the Peterborough district, Joseph Kerr of Belmont, Man., met his death recently in an accident on his farm. While working in a stable he fell in a stall beside one of his horses, and was trampled on, his body being found a short time afterwards by one of the farm hands.

Born in South Monaghan, the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Kerr of that township, he had spent most of his life in the west and had farmed for several years at Belmont.

He leaves to mourn his loss his wife, the former Carrie Truscott, also a resident of South Monaghan, and three sons and two daughters, Roy and Ernest of Vancouver, Gerald of New Orleans, Florence of Los Angeles and Aleeta, a teacher in Vancouver. His youngest daughter, Ida, who also taught in Vancouver, passed away in 1938. A brother, Robert of Stettler, Alta., and two sisters, Mrs. English of Chilliwack, and Miss Annie E. Kerr, of Vancouver ,also survive. Another sister, Mrs. Margaret Armour, of New Westminster, died only three weeks ago.

Mr. Justice McTague said at today's hearing that cases arranged for this week were on the basis of a quorum—the chairman and Leon Lalande of Montreal. The steelworkers union had agreed to this, he said.

Grants Adjournment.

Mr. Jolliffe said the situation had changed since an exchange of telegrams arranging for the hearing.

Mr. Justice McTague granted an adjournment until the case could be heard by a full board.

"When that will be I have no information at the moment," he added.

"My clients are under the impression that it is possible for this case to be heard by a full board," Mr. Jolliffe said. "We have observed from the press that any obstructions there might have appeared to have been removed."

"I saw that in the press, too," commented the chairman.

Mr. Jolliffe said it was a serious matter both for himself and his clients and he did not feel he could take the responsibility of proceeding without a full board.

Judge Explains.

"If you don't want to proceed before the other members of the board you don't have to," Mr. McTague said.

"There was an exchange of telegrams in which it was agreed because this is an urgent matter it would go on before a quorum. That arrangement was made as with other cases and there is no reason for an exception that I can see."

"There has been a material change since that exchange of telegrams," Mr. Jolliffe said.

"The question of the responsibility for the operation of this board falls on my shoulders," Mr. Justice McTague replied. "I am the person who must make the decisions in that regard. You have the option, as everyone else has, of going on with the board as it is sitting or seeking an adjournment."

Mr. Jolliffe said in other cases that had gone ahead before a quorum, the third member of the board was absent because he did not wish to attend. Those circumstances now had been changed.

In a statement issued later today, Mr. Cohen said he is prepared to attend hearings and take part in any other activities of the board.

He described the difference of opinion as "clearly one between the Trade Union movement in Canada and the Government" and said his views coincided with those of the Trade Unions.

In his statement Mr. Cohen said: "This morning's events do not concern me in any personal sense. At the urgent request of the major Trade Union bodies in Canada I agreed to resume full participation in the board's activities pending immediate consideration by the Government of the reports (of the Board's Inquiry into wage conditions and Labor Relations) and publication of the reports within the next two weeks.

After so agreeing I advised the chairman by letter delivered at 10 o'clock on Wednesday morning that I was available for all hearings and activities of the Board. That is still my position.

"This is not a personal quarrel between myself and my colleagues on the Board. The issue is clearly one between the Trade Union movement in Canada and the Government. My views coincide with those of the Trade Union movement."

Summer Season Brings Distress

Bowel troubles, although happening at any time of the year, are more prevalent during the hot summer and early fall months.

Summer Flu is one of the worst troubles, but diarrhoea, dysentery, colic, cramps and pains in the intestines, or any looseness of the bowels should have immediate attention.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, Sept. 9 — (CP). — Wheat futures eased ⅛ cent a bushel and rye dipped almost 2 cents yesterday on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange following the announcement of the Italian capitulation.

Declines were checked in later dealings, however, and some of the losses regained. At the close of the trading, wheat was ⅛ cent a bushel higher to ⅜ cent lower. Rye was ⅝ to ⅞ cent lower.

Trading in the wheat pit was erratic with flurries of buying and selling reported. Exporters and shippers made purchases estimated at 1,000,000 bushels of No. 1 Northern. The business was believed to be in connection with further sales of Canadian wheat to the United States Commodity Credit Corporation.

said Italian troops in Belgrade turned in their arms without incident.

The German International Information Bureau asserted that "at some places (in Italy) instigated Italian detachments are trying to harass German troops."

As far back as the end of July, the broadcast said, an Italian commanding general gave a "shooting order" against German troops which was not carried out by Italian officers.

Italian newspapers today carried enormous headlines on Italy's quitting the war. Corriere Della Sera of Milan devoted its entire front page to the caption "Armistice. Hostilities Ceased Between Italy, England, United States."

In an editorial the paper said the day brought "profound sadness even if the first moment of the end of the war, which was not popular, gave a feeling of liberation."

The newspaper said the news of the armistice, received at Milan when thousands were beginning their nightly flight from the city for fear of bombings, at first was not believed. There were no big demonstrations, the paper added, but there were vast gatherings of people who were "moved but not joyful."

With the launching of the 200th Canadian 10,000-ton cargo ship last month, Canadian shipyards had to their credit the building within two years of a fleet of freighters equal to 10 per cent of the total merchant tonnage of Great Britain at the beginning of the war. More than 600 ships have been sent down Canadian ways since the outbreak of war—merchant vessels, frigates, corvettes, minesweepers and patrol vessels.

Under the aircraft production program more than 9,000 planes have been delivered.

From the Canadian automotive industry is flowing more than 100 types of vehicles. The war production passed the 500,000 mark this summer. The vehicles from their plants now are in action in every theatre of war.

Italians Fight

Events in Italy were moving at a dizzy speed since the kingdom's capitulation was announced yesterday, as the Allies rushed men and guns to the peninsula in a race against German forces.

British and American warships added to the assaults by bombardments of the Germans along the coasts.

Hitler apparently had reached a decision, as announced by the Berlin radio, to throw the German army into a full-scale defence of Italy. Thousands of German troops, including some of the best, had been pouring into Italy in recent weeks in anticipation of an Italian surrender.

Hard-pressed as was the Reich on the Russian front, Hitler apparently was straining every resource to prevent a break-through on the south.

As a consequence the Allied forces in the Mediterranean under Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower were presented with a gargantuan task that may speed up a decision of the whole European war.

Pushing ahead, the 8th Army captured Ardore, Cittanova, Oppido, Radicena, Santo Marino, and Varapodio in the advance that took it up to the Gioia-Locri line.

Italian Garrisons In Balkans Ordered To Give Up

CAIRO, Sept. 9 —(AP) — Gen. Sir Maitland Wilson, Allied Commander-in-Chief in the Middle East, called upon Italian garrisons in the Balkans last night to "cease all hostile acts" and surrender their equipment to the Allies but warned Greek and Yugoslav patriots against a premature uprising against German occupation forces.

In a special broadcast Gen. Wilson said Italian troops in the Balkans are "now obeying my, not German orders."

"Their ships must be handed over to the United Nations, their aircraft must be flown to Allied airfields," he warned. "They must not hand over their arms or equipment or defended points to the Germans"

He directed units of the Italian navy and merchant fleets in the Eastern Mediterranean to proceed to Cairo and Haifa in Palestine. Italian aircraft were to be received at Allied fields at various points along the Mediterranean.

Gen. Wilson warned the guerilla bands which have been hammering relentlessly at Axis Forces in Greece and Yugoslavia that "the day of liberation is not yet at hand "and that they should await our singal for a general uprising."

Patriots Get Orders.

He paid tribute to the work of the patriot groups, but warned them against acts which might play into the Germans' hands.

"The fight still goes on against these Germans, the real enemy, who are seeking to postpone the liberation of your country," he said. "To all of your country," he said. "To say:—

"1 Don't preveтn the Italians from returning home.

"2. The Germans will seek to cause bloodshed between you and the Italians in order to strengthen thier position. Don't be misled by this and play the German game.

"To those of you who are fighting the Axis in the open I say: Do your best to obtain peacefully Italian arms and equipment which will enable you to carry on your glorious struggle against the remaining enemy with greater success."

Synthetic Tires Released To Car Owners

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 9 (AP) — The arting rubber czar of the United States, Bradley Dewey, saying that the spectre of collapse from the shortage of rubber has been banished by the advance of the Government's synthetic rubber program, disclosed to-day high-grade synthetic rubber tires are being released for essential civilian use that are "better than all but the top grade first-line tire of a few years ago made from crude rubber."

"You need not fear that the synthetic passenger car tires will not be adequate," Dewey told the American Chemical Society's 106th meeting in his first report since he took the helm vacated by the resignation of William Jeffers.

Asserting that all plants in the Government's projected 850,00-ton synthetic program should be completed this year, Dewey said production already has been geared up to the point where the total tonnage this month, "barring catastrophes," will be close to the accumulative output of the first six months of the year — and approximately the same as the crude rubber consumed in September, 1942.

Flow Is Increasing.

He said 5,000,000 synthetic tires will have been released to essential civilian drivers by the end of this year, and that 30,000,000 synthetics "must be made and issued" next year.

"There are still problems," he said, "but now that we know that we can make rubber, the spectre of collapse from a shortage is gone, and if the other components (including tire cords) are provided in sufficient volume there will be sufficient tires to meet essential needs and keep essential driving and the military on wheels. But lower costs and better quality can and must be realized."

Regarding heavy-duty tires, which he said still require between 10 and 30 per cent of crude rubber, Dewey said steady improvements are being made.

Up to a few weeks ago, he said, it was impossible to make them so that they would not show tread cracking after less than 8,000 miles. But now, he added, test tires are lasting for more than 15,000 miles "under conditions where the first failures with crude rubber occur before failure of the best synthetics."

Section of Canada's First Auto 'Tyre' Is Returned To Its Manufacturer

PORT NELSON, Sept. 9—Over 45 years ago Col. John Moodie, then residing in Hamilton, brought to Canada its first automobile—a Winton—which in addition had the honor of being only the second car commercially purchased on this continent.

This car was little more than a mechanized buggy; yet it was capable of doing up to 30 miles per hour and transporting Colonel and Mrs. Moodie from Hamilton to Toronto in less than three hours. Fuel for it was not a major item since gasoline in those days cost only 7c a gallon.

This early automobile history was vividly recalled when Mr. George W. Sawin, as Canadian President of the B. F. Goodrich Rubber Company, received from Col. Moodie a specially engraved shield on which was mounted a section of one of the four B. F. Goodrich tyres with which Col. Moodie's Winton was originally equipped.

In commenting on this mistoric event Mr. Sawin quoted a quaint reference on this subject from the Encyclopaedia Britannica— "The first tyres in America on commercial motor vehicles were made by the B. F. Goodrich Rubber Company in 1896 for Winton cars." "Our Company," said Mr. Sawin, "is proud of the many 'firsts in rubber' for which it has been responsible.

COBOURG, Sept. 9 — (ENS) — School children of the public and separate schools did not stampede the book stores for their school books when school opened this week, as the school boards put into effect for the first time here a plan whereby the school supplied all the text books and supplies.

Parents will be charged only 15 cents a month for ten months for each child in Grades One and Three and 20 cents a month for the same period for Grades Four to Eight. This covers all costs for school supplies. It is expected that parents will find a distinct saving under the new plan.

The attendance was 708 at the public school, which is about the same as last year. Two new teachers started this term, Miss Joan Richardson of Cobourg and W. R. Lennox of Hallville. The attendance at the separate school was 150, the same as last year.

Italy Surrenders

The first of the three main objectives of United Nations has been achieved, with the Italian surrender, the junior partner of the Axis Powers. General Eisenh[illegible], in announcing the greatest victory [illegible]d arms in the four years of war, said that the surrender was made u[illegible]onally, just as demanded at the Casablanca Conference.

Hitler's "European fortress" has been cracked. The way is now opened to new offenses, and the course of the war has been greatly shortened.

It indeed was a bad day for Italy when she overthrew democracy for Mussolini and his intrigue. Mussolini preceded Italy, in her inglorious finale, and it is a far different day for him and Italy now, than when on June 10, 1940, he launched his "stab-in-the-back" on France, collapsing under the pressure of German invasion.

It has proven to be a criminal miscalculation which three years and three months later has boomeranged to strip Italy of her African Empire; to tear Sicily from her; to bring British and Canadian forces to her mainland; to bottle up the Mediterranean, and to drain the country of manpower and shatter much of her navy.

The Italian Government has agreed to surrender its armed forces unconditionally, and General Eisenhower has granted a military armistice, the terms of which have not been announced but were approved by the governments of the United Kingdom, the United States and the Union of the Soviet Social Republics.

The mention of Russia should act as a warning to Germany and Axis propagandists, that Russia is playing a bigger part in the counsels of the United Nations than has been admitted, and instead of the three great nations drifting apart, they are being bound closer and closer together. Eisenhower did not act as the representative of United States and United Kingdom but as the representative of the United Nations.

New Education Setup

Home Secretary Herbert Morrison has denounced private education of the pattern which heretofore has dominated British affairs and has advocated a post-war educational system based on common primary school education for all. Mr. Morrison's speech is causing not a little commotion and it may effect Britain's whole school system.

Mr. Morrison personally things it is no solution of the secondary school problem to send a few more poor boys to rich men's schools, such as Eton and Harrow. But he thinks it the right policy to send many more rich men's boys to poor men's schools, and make these schools good enough for some of plutocrats and policemen alike.

The Home Secretary is the son of a London policeman and "hardboiled", too, in the sense that he has worked his way up to be the administrative chief of London and now one of Prime Minister Churchill's right-hand men in the War Cabinet.

Such a declaration before the war from a Cabinet Minister would have been sufficient to cause a crisis in the Government. But today quite the opposite seems to be taking place for although Mr. Morrison's declaration is being keenly debated, he is finding large support from all sections of the nation. Does it mean that the day of the "Old School Tie" is past?

They Measured Up

Today as we rejoice over the collapse of one of the triumvirates of tyranny and oppression might be an excellent time to reflect upon the fact that in that gallant Canadian division which played such a prominent role in the conquering of Sicily and the invasion of Italy were many soldiers with Italian names.

They are boys whose fathers or grandfathers were born in Italy and came to Canada years ago and settled here, liking the country and the Canadian way of life.

The new generation, boys who were born here and have grown up thorough Canadians, Canadian in their habits, their viewpoint and their allegiance, unhesitatingly answered the call when war came.

Their roots went back to Italy but the only country that meant anything to them was Canada and when their homeland needed men their answer was prompt.

Here in Peterborough we have seen many boys from families with Italian names, sometimes three and four from the same family, put on the uniform of the armed services. Today they are serving in the army, in the navy and in the Royal Canadian Air Force.

The great bulk of the Canadians of Italian descent met the acid test successfully in the country's hour of emergency. They have been loyal, patriotic citizens and at this moment when the country from which they originated has lain down its arms we might do well to remember how these newer Canadians measured up.

A Nova Scotian Arrives

Perhaps reciprocally favourable impressions were cast in Bishop MacDonald's introduction to Peterborough and its people who are to be his fellow-citizens and neighbors in his new diocesan home so far from the sea. The maritime provinces have sent since Confederation many of their best sons into the interior, equipped with ability and culture that have become a sterling recommendation for those who follow in their westerly footsteps, and likewise for their "ain folk" whom they leave behind in the land that was once Acadia until its pioneering and home-loving Scots affixed to it the name Nova Scotia.

That was the quality of personal credential Bishop MacDonald brought to the community of Peterborough from his kinsfolk in Antigonish and its countryside, but all that was demanded of him coming as a stranger was proof of his episcopal authority. His passport of Canadian citizenship had preceded him in the good opinions easterners have long ago established hereabouts, preparing for him a cordiality of welcome that was also in the spirit of friendliness with which Peterborough gathers into its increasing family those who return it.

Although Bishop MacDonald approached his diocese through its mourning at Kingston for the departed Archbishop O'Brien, his installation at St. Peter's was a solemnly happy occasion, bright with promise of a future well begun.

In his aspiration to direct his work in the spirit of Christian fellowship, which he perceives as reaching down from the spiritual order into the activities of daily life, Bishop MacDonald proclaimed an ideal which Christian people as a whole recognize with a yearning that gathers strength and conviction in the disappointments of self-seeking, self-sufficiency and their envies and vanities. In the practical order he knows the good fruits of Christian fellowship in his experience as one of the promoters of co-operative enterprise in the maritimes.

Another significant note in his inaugural address, was the lightly expressed hope that his work here would not be confined solely to the welfare of his diocese, but that he would be afforded opportunity to participate in efforts for the welfare of society as a whole, in the spirit of Christian fraternity. That sounded like an offer of his service to the city of his appointment in any common cause which he can help. No wonder Bishop MacDonald made a fine impression upon the people of his own church and also upon those of other churches who assembled with them to extend to him figuratively the hand of Christian fellowship and the warmth of goodwill in welcome.

NOTE AND COMMENT

When Mussolini went Italy lost her heel, then the 8th Army took her toe and now the whole country has gone.

The fact that Italy actually signed the armistice five days before it was announced was one of the best kept secrets of the war.

General George C. Marshall says that the war has entered its final phase. For Italy, of course, it has gone ever farther than that.

Mr. Churchill has the art of making a speech that pleases even his own wife. A lot of husbands would like to have the recipe.

With the world full of grief and destruction the corporation of Dublin, Ireland, can find time to worry because there is still a statue of Queen Victoria on the Parliament lawn.

Premier Jones of Prince Edward Island is out with a nine-point election platform. To keep up with the Jones the opposition will undoubtedly issue a ten-point manifesto.

Germany's Doom In Bombing

From WINNIPEG FREE PRESS

THE Allied air forces' bombardment of Germany for the last six months is a mere foretaste, a sample, of what is to come.

The war that has been unleashed from the air ha petrified a people credulous enough to believe that they were the only nation who could wage the cruel form of war designed in this war by the Germans to wipe out whole nations.

They have seen cities wiped out, when they were gulled into belief that nothing on ground or in the air could pass through or over their fortifications on the European coastline. They have been sent trudging the highways, refugees in their own country, when they were prone to believe that only other peoples would ever be driven to flee from bombs along roads in whose ditches they lay down to die.

It is not the might of the new weapon attacking Germany that must now strike the horror of remorse in the breasts of the German people. They might abide the future if they could feel assured in their own minds that the worst is befalling them.

The hope, the unfeigned glee with which they anticipated wiping out other nations, and the vicious envy with which they longed for the bitter destruction of the British peoples, left no room for a remorse that might wish to be shown if the tables should be turned and the Germans themselves be the devastated. Self pity is now the whining note in which all Germany has, since the end of June, been talking more about the air front in Germany than about any other front in all the war.

THE air war in Germany has barely started. What has happened is merely a prelude to what is to come. The Germans asked for war—total war, as they waged it so long as they roughed it—like the bullies they are at heart—over weaker or unprepared nations. They will get total war in the air. They have not got it yet.

Terrible as has been the visitation of destruction to war's productive effort, and horrible as has to be the taking of life and devastation of habitations, these are curtain raisers. One or two cities, and perhaps three or four smaller centres, have been obliterated, while tens of cities have been badly damaged. Trial attempts which, between a Saturday and a Thursday in the last week of July, shed a hail of 7,000 tons of bombs dropped on Hamburg in the night alone, incurred a loss of 58 bombers for the Royal Air Force, but the percentage was negligible when some 2,200 aircraft had engaged in the bombing.

The Hamburg that was the second city in all Germany is probably unusable any longer, and Berlin, the capital itself, is no longer fit or safe to stay in. The Ruhr is an industrial shambles, and few areas within Germany are longer free from the destruction the Allies are at last able to wage on the war machine that Goering used to boast would leave no house standing in any city in Great Britain.

This is as it has been planned by the Bomber Commands of both the British and United States air forces. So long ago as early last year, the graph of the bombing of Germany was plotted, and from the conception of this part of the whole war policy designed to wreck and defeat and humble the military might of Germany, the arc of destruction has risen with a steadiness that at last looms as doom in the mind of every German.

THERE is no longer escape, there is no longer room to disbelieve the commanders of the Bomber Forces. What they promised, or said they could and would do from the air, they are doing. No individual commander not holding supreme army command in this war has laid down his policy and striven to have it adhered to, as has Air Chief Marshal Sir Arthur Harris.

If he were not fortunate enough to win the approval of Mr. Churchill, he might never have overcome the division of opinion within the Air Ministry itself that threatened to diminish his vast bombing campaign into a more or less abortive co-operative support of ground forces. The ferocity of the opposition to a concerted bombing campaign is unbelievable today. It was waged in quarters military as well as in civilian influential circles.

Textual proof can be given of the clamour raised two years ago against even building big and heavy bomber aircraft. Indeed, in parliament, in clubs where opinion crystallizes, in sections of the Services, positive animosity arose against any intention to divert the war effort in any way from orthodox naval and army undertkaings, into a colossal and constant battering from the air of the agencies of war within Germany itself.

ONE of the superb good fortunes of the whole war is that the bombing campaigns were allowed to proceed. It may be extravagant to say they have not yet begun. It is true, however, to expect that what has happened in them is but a particle of what is to happen. Both commanders of both Allied Commands have carried through everything they said they would carry through if given the tools and the time. They have not finished. The stupendous bombing might of the Allied air forces is not said by them to unleash itself until about next month.

What will then be attempted—what immensity of massed air might will then be assembled—it is pretentious to suggest. But the world can be assured that as the nights become longer and darker, the avalanche of destruction will fall more and more heavily on German towns, industry, and people. The Germans are about the only nation who have come thoroughly to believe that the Allied air forces can shed avalanches of destruction in the pattern for which their leaders told them the German Luftwaffe held the only patent. Doom looms in the skies over Germany.

Honour For Rommel

Field Marshal Erwin Rommel has been named Hitler's representative at the funeral of King Boris of Bulgaria. Perhaps Hitler felt that under the present circumstances he could not spare any military leader for a long time, and he knows that Rommel has the knack of getting back quickly. Rommel proved it in Africa.—Buffalo Courier-Express.

Cut Down Supply

The new liquor ration is 40 ounces per month, which is just one and one-third ounces per day for the imbiber. And that disproves the old saying that temperance cannot be enforced by law. —St. Catharines Standard.

Strange Reasoning

(By R. J. DEACHMAN)

A CHAP named Kenny writes a bright column in the Yorkton Enterprise—puts, in the corner, his good looking face, smiles at those who read.

In a recent issue he commented on a joint debate between Hon. Gordon Taggart, Saskatchewan's Provincial Minister of Agriculture, and J. L. Phelps, C.C.F. member for Saltcoats.

Said Mr. Phelps, in his defence of socialism: "The government actually conducts a socialist business. For example there is the business of the liquor stores. That is state ownership and returns handsome profits. So much so in fact that a man can secure more pay for wrapping a bottle of fire water, in a government liquor store, than the Saskatchewan school teach can ever hope to get by way of remuneration."

Says Mr. Kenny: "This lick seemed to count." It shouldn't—save as a mark against the Socialist who used it. The liquor business is a monopoly. It is a state created monopoly and having created its own monopoly the state charges the people anything it likes and no matter how extravagant the handling, it can provide a profit. Is that the situation, to which, Mr. Phelps looks forward with pride, hope and pleasure? Is this the fruit of socialism, the thing to expect when the boys come home? Will they like it—high wages for a sheltered class of workers, higher prices for those who buy?

Wage rates, according to Mr. Phelps, are higher in government liquor stores than for school teachers in Saskatchewan. Education, at least so far as the common schools are concerned, is a socialized institution. The sale of liquor is also socialized. Why is it that one of these institutions pays high wages—while the other pays low wages. Socialism doesn't give a square deal for all.

The reason is clear. The schools are close to the people. The people count the cost. The people do not know the cost of the liquor stores, it does not appear in the municipal tax rate. The railway men are now asking for a big increase in pay. Would they get it, if the cost appeared in the annual tax statements? Organized labour lately demanded a 6 hour day, a 30 hour week. This is equal to a 40 per cent increase in wage rates. Would the farmers vote for it if they knew what was happening? When wage rates are determined by a Socialist government, the farmer will be poor—he will pay. Labour too will be poor for with high wage rates, there will be fewer employed. Mr. Phelps may have forgotten these things.

Can we call our present school system a success? We have violent agitations for higher wages, higher pay for farmers, higher everything! If our common schools were a success people would understand. The goal they seek can be brought about only by an increase in the national income. Once in a discussion club I asked a young man just what he expected to get out of life. He wanted everything the modern socialist promises. Then a Greek in Airforce uniform stood up and said: "You ask for many extra things. The average man cannot get more out of life than the average man puts in. How much extra do you expect to put in?" The question remained unanswered—perhaps Mr. Phelps could give the answer.

Whitehall Notebook

(By SCOTT YOUNG, Canadian Press Staff Writer)

LONDON, Sept. 9 — (CP) — The question of whether the left-wing parties should amalgamate in Britain for the political battles which will come in the immediate post-war years has risen again, with a declaration by Sir Richard Acland that his Common Wealth party will be at peace with the Labour party only as long as Labour fights a strong fight "against the whole conception of a capitalist community."

But "if the Labour party continues an official policy of compromising with capitalism then we will pursue our own course," he said. "Common Wealth will adopt candidates in the next 12 months in constituencies where the Labour party is not working and those in which clearly the Labour party could not win." He said no amount of Labour opposition in some constituencies could induce his party "to put up wrecking candidates in constituencies which are clearly Labour seats."

His indirect promise that Common Wealth would fight on the same side as Labour, if the circumstances are right, is something along the line of the "coalition of the left" policy advocated by Aneurin Bevan, Welsh Labour M.P. But his other statements leave the field fairly clear, with Common Wealth committed to no set policy, just arranging its forces and its fights as circumstances dictate.

Sir Stafford Cripps, the minister for aircraft production, astonished even many of his supporters in Britain by speaking fluent German in a foreign broadcast one night. He is one of the many linquists in Commons. Col. L. C. M. S. Amery, secretary of state for India, has made foreign broadcasts in German, French, Greek, Turkish and some Slavonic tongues.

Anti-socialism dept.: Col. Arthur Evans (Cons. Cardiff South), speaking as chairman of the Welsh Parliamentary Conservative party: "Not a few people in the country appear to be anxious to plan a regimentation of our lives from the cradle to the grave in a socialist-minded state, and it is a menace that Conservative party will have to face up to when the time comes."

A committee headed by Lord Hankey has been set up by the ministry of labour to compile a list of servicemen and women who will need help to get back to the careers they left to enter war service. Professional men and women who were about to embark on their practices, and students who cut short their training to enlist, will be given chances to make up this lost time.

Likes England

(Letter from Sussex)

We've had a lovely winter after three especially cold ones. Our spring, summer and autumn I'm sure couldn't be surpassed anywhere, so I think we'll stay in good old England. Our garden is not very tidy, but it is a glory. At the front door we've got three deepest yellow roses out today, spirea and other roses perfuming the air about. Vegetables are thriving. We have new young peas, broad beans, onions, lettuce, carrots and beetroot. What more luxuries do we want?

A Bible Message

And a certain ruler asked him, saying, Good Master, what shall I do to inherit eternal life? And Jesus said unto him, Why callest thou me good? none is good, save one, that is, God. Thou knowest the commandments, Do not commit adultery, Do not kill, Do not steal, Do not bear false witness, Honour thy father and thy mother.

And he said, All these things have I kept from my youth up.

Now when Jesus heard these things he said unto him, Yet lackest thou one thing: sell all that thou hast, and distribute unto the poor, and thou shalt have treasure in heaven: and come, follow me. And when he had heard this, he was very sorrowful: for he was very rich.

And when Jesus saw that he was very sorrowful, he said, How hardly shall they that have riches enter into the kingdom of God! For it is easier for a camel to go through a needle's eye, than for a rich man to enter into the kingdom of God....

Then Peter said, Lo, we have left all, and followed thee. And he said unto them, Verily I say unto you, There is no man that hath left house, or parents, or brethren, or wife, or children, for the kingdom of God's sake, who shall not receive manifold more in this present time, and in the world to come life everlasting. (Luke 18: 18-25, 28-30.)

Letter To The Editor

POLITICAL QUACKERY.

Editor, Examiner.

Sir,—The cause of the party-first quackery of politicians, arraigned by W. Roy Dies in Globe and Mail September 2nd, is the assumption that the form and function of government was left for the wisdom of man to determine, which from time to time reflected the varying opinion of the dominant faction. Consequently the laws of society are a mass of contradictions, with the emphasis on winning elections and achieving power, not on securing equitable administration. As a possible source of popular ignorance of political problems, two gems of wisdom taught in our universities as axiomatic truths are suggestive, namely, that taxes should be levied according to ability to pay; and, there is no right having priority over a communal right. The first is in violation of the sound business principle of paying for value received; the second is an untenable fiction because society, as such, has no inherent natural rights whatsoever, but only such rights as have given up to it by individuals in order that society might function and better preserve the rights of all.

We live in a universe governed by natural laws, human society as much so as all else in it. There is therefore a science of government, and the fundamental principles of that science are the natural rights of human beings. The conveniences of civilization were achieved by observing the natural laws relative to material things. In human society their perfect analogy is represented by the natural rights of human beings upon which alone may just government be established.

Bomber Names

An American Flying Fortress named Lord Cesspool caused some heartache in Britain lately. All the same, Sgt. Bert Briller, in the Mitchell Field Beacon agrees with John Steinbeck that "some of the best writing of the war has been on the noses of bombers." He cites Murder, Inc., and Sub-Conscious. He thinks our fliers can out-name the Nazi warbirds, as well as outfly, outfight and outsmart them. His suggestion for a name for a German bomber is the Spirit of Slavery.—New York Times.

Weary Soldiers Rescued By Canadians

WITH THE CANADIANS IN ITALY, Sept. 6 (Delayed) (CP).—A group of British Commandos who landed on the Italian coast a week before the invasion of Calabria to carry out reconnaissance have been rescued by Canadian troops from their hiding place in the hills.

The Commandos landed August 27 in small groups on the toe of Italy with wireless equipment by which they were to report to their base in Sicily. They had various tasks to perform and various areas to search for the presence of enemy forces. Some had orders to penetrate far inland, travelling mountain trails on foot.

They had skirmishes with Italian troops in the hills. When their work was done they concealed themselves while Italian soldiers searched for them. A few were wounded and taken prisoner.

Canadian troops patrolling along a coastal road picked up some of the Commandos. A Canadian officer from the Headquarters Staff located a group while reconnoitring a road in the south when they mistook him for an enemy and fired on him.

A haggard group of five stepped out on the coast road in front of our jeep Sunday. We were returning from an unsuccessful trip searching for our forward troops when a tall, unshaven figure carrying a tommy gun stepped out from behind a house by the roadside and motioned us to halt.

Four others came out behind him. Their khaki drill overalls were tattered and their boots white with dust. A nine days' growth of beard made them look even more unkempt.

They asked for food and water, wanted to know who we were, when the invasion started, and how it was going.

Their own ration supplies by that time had been exhausted. They had lived on figs, grapes and bread given them by Italian civilians in the hills where they hid.

They lay for three days in a grove only a few yards from the coast road near Palizzi, east of Melitto, virtually holding their breaths as Italian transport and troops filed past. On one occasion a party of fruit pickers entered the grove and an inquisitive dog discovered them and barked. The pickers told the dog to be quiet and moved on.

Nazi Soldiers Kill Italians

ALGIERS, Sept. 9.—(AP)— The story of a bloody battle between German and Italian troops three days before the Allied invasion of Italy was revealed to-day by an R.A.F. officer.

The officer, who visited the hilly region behind Reggio Calabria, where the fighting took place, said an Italian told him 200 Germans and 100 Italians were killed or wounded.

The Italian was quoted as saying the fighting started when Italian troops refused to oppose the Allies. The fight, he reported, "lasted only a few hours, but it was heavy in casualties . . . and neither side showed any mercy.

Residents of Reggio reported that some Italian civilians had killed a number of Germans and then fled to the hills.

SUPERIOR TO NAZIS

Signalling equipment of the British army—much of it from the United States and Canada — is lighter and less complicated than that the Germans use. The Nazis, in fact, are still using equipment made before the war, some of it as long ago as 1936.

City Council Requests Valuation Of Two North Monaghan Schools

Following a progress report on the discussions of the proposed annexation of a part of North Monaghan, Alderman Gordon, moved, seconded by Alderman Cotton, at Wednesday night's meeting of the City Council, that City Engineer Parsons be authorized to engage the services of a qualified expert to make a valuation of May's and Confederation Schools and their equipment.

Another resolution by Alderman Gordon, which was also adopted, directed City Treasurer Shaver and Edward Humpage, city auditor, to investigate the liabilities of the township, particularly for schools, and ascertain what proportion on the basis of assessment, should be borne by the area proposed for annexation, and what proportion should be left with the township. The special committee's report commented that there are no fixed assessments in that area.

The following information was given the Council in Alderman Gordon's report of the first inter-municipal committee meeting:

The assessment of the proposed area to be annexed is $314,000, which does not include the assessment of Wartime Houses or the Staff House, but does include the lands upon which they are constructed.

There are two schools in the proposed area, the total assessment of the whole school area being $790,000. Taxes from Separate School supporters are already going to the City Separate School Board.

Debenture debt particulars for the area are set out on the attached sheet, and it should be mentioned that all local improvements are charged 100 per cent on a frontage basis.

The financial records of the township appear to be kept in an orderly and satisfactory manner.

Certain sewer constructions appear badly needed, and the City Engineer has reported a sewer 1,324 feet and costing $12,851.10 must be built to a depth of 13 feet to carry sewage into the city system from New Romaine Street to Frank Street to Monaghan Road.

On the recommendation of the City Engineer, both the city and township representatives agreed to amend the western boundary of the proposed area. The new boundary would be along the westerly side of Dobbin Avenue to Highway 28. This would remove any portion of the Stewart farm from being annexed and assessment difficulties, particularly for local improvements, due to boundary roads. It is recommended that the City Engineer prepare a new plan showing the alterated boundaries.

Construction of the required new sewer was discussed and it was stated that the city, in proportioning the financial indebtedness of the area, should be given credit for the cost of this sewer.

PUT Sparkle IN BREAKFAST WITH QUAKER PUFFED WHEAT

Some Answers to Wartime Cake Problems

Who said "NO CAKE?" You can make wartime cakes that are just about as fine cakes as you ever baked—in spite of some difficulties over ingredients like shortening or sugar or eggs. It's all a matter of the right recipes, carefully followed, with good ingredients.

The Question of Butter

You have your choice of three ways of reducing the amount of butter you use in cake-baking—or of eliminating butter entirely, if you wish.

1. Wherever the recipe calls for butter, use half butter and half some other kind of shortening.

2. Use some other shortening entirely in place of the butter called for in the recipe. This can be done with all Swans Down Cake Flour recipes.

3. Make some of the many wonderful Swans Down Cakes which call for no shortening of any kind! Here's one you can try.

Champion Sponge Cake

1¼ cups sifted Swans Down Cake Flour
1¼ teaspoons Calumet Baking Powder
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
4 egg yolks — 4 egg whites
¼ teaspoon salt — 1 teaspoon vanilla
1¼ cups sugar — ⅔ cup boiling water

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt, and sift together three times. Add lemon rind to egg yolks and beat until thick and light. Add ½ cup sugar gradually, beating constantly. Beat egg whites until light and foamy throughout; add remaining ¾ cup of sugar very gradually and continue beating until stiff enough to hold up in definite, satiny peaks. Add vanilla. Add boiling water to egg yolks, stirring well; then add flour all at once and beat with spoon until smooth. Fold quickly into egg whites. Turn into ungreased 9-inch tube pan and bake in slow oven (325°F.) 1 hour, or until done. Invert pan 1 hour, or until cold.

What About the Sweetener?

The three usual sweeteners for cakes—sugar, corn syrup or honey—are all a bit of a problem these days. But there are Swans Down recipes that call for very little sugar—others that use part sugar and part syrup or honey—others that use all syrup or honey. Here's one fine example—a light, tempting layer cake, using only 4 tablespoonfuls of shortening and only one egg.

One-Egg Cake

2 cups Swans Down Cake Flour
2 teaspoons Calumet Baking Powder
4 tablespoons butter or other shortening
1 egg, unbeaten — ¼ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla — ¾ cup milk
1 cup sugar*

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt and sift together three times. Cream shortening, add sugar gradually and cream together well. Add egg and beat very thoroughly. Add flour, alternately with milk, a small amount at a time, beating after each addition until smooth. Add vanilla. Bake in two greased 8-inch layer pans in moderate oven (375°F.) 25 minutes.

*If substituting corn syrup or honey, use 1 cup and decrease milk to ½ cup. Or use ½ cup of syrup and ½ cup of sugar; decrease milk to ½ cup and 1 tablespoon.

There are several wartime ways you can serve this cake. Spread jam between the layers. Or ice with your favorite icing if you have the sugar to spare. Or there's a sugarless recipe on the Baker's Chocolate wrapper for a luscious chocolate frosting.

For Better Cakes

Made from soft wheat grown in one particular part of Canada, Swans Down is a special cake flour that makes better baking easy. The choicest part of the wheat is selected, milled by Swans Down "Controlled Milling", then sifted again and again through silk, until 27 times as fine as ordinary flour.

Eggs a Bit Scarce?

Many women think that it takes a lot of eggs to make a light, tender cake. But not if you use Swans Down Cake Flour. One of the special features of Swans Down is that it responds so wonderfully in quite simple recipes. You can make splendid Swans Down Cakes with only one or two eggs—even with no eggs. Try this eggless chocolate cake. Its lightness and tenderness will amaze you. But, of course, no ordinary flour could give such results.

Eggless Chocolate Cake

2 squares Baker's Unsweetened Chocolate
1¾ cups sifted Swans Down Cake Flour
1 cup milk — ¾ teaspoon soda
¾ teaspoon salt — 1 cup sugar
⅓ cup shortening — 1 teaspoon vanilla

Combine chocolate and milk in top of double boiler and cook over rapidly boiling water 5 minutes, stirring occasionally. Blend with rotary egg beater; cool. Sift flour once, measure, add soda, salt and sugar and sift together three times. Cream shortening, add flour mixture, vanilla, and chocolate mixture, and stir until all flour is dampened. Then beat vigorously 1 minute. Bake in two greased and lightly floured 8-inch pans in moderate oven (375°F.) 20 minutes.

Generals Meet Brintons In Girls' Final

Generals won their semi-final round from Electrics last night by nosing out the porcelain girls 8 to 7 in an abbreviated game. The win gives the Generals entry into the final round for the Girls' Softball League Intermediate series, and they meet Brintons tomorrow night in the first game of the finals.

Electrics had to start with eight players last night and the game was half over before the ninth arrived. In the meanwhile Phyllis Sullivan had to look after shortstop and second base for the losers.

The Electrics scored two in the first on a single by Vi Martin, a pass to M. Killingbeck, an error and Phyllis Sullivan's single but Generals tied it up in their half on a pass to Pat Wilson, a single by Marg. Barrie and a series of wild throws.

A double by Fay Kelly, a walk to Pat Wilson, Marg. Barrie's single, a triple by Audrey Scott and a couple of errors gave the winners four in the second, and they came back with a pair in the fourth on a fumble and singles by Marg. Barrie, Ruth Thomas and M. McCarroll.

Electrics cut loose with a batting rally in the fourth that saw them score four runs and close the gap consideraby. Francis Tushingham singled to be forced by Vi Martin, but M. Killingbeck walked, Ruth Oakley singled, Phyllis Sullivan doubled and Elsie MacKenzie singled, the net result being four runs.

In the fifth singles by F. Tushingham and M. Killingbeck drove in another counter to make the score 8 to 7 and then the game was called for darkness.

Running catches by Vi Martin in left and Jean Edgar in centre for Electrics and a one-handed grab by Marg. Barrie, centrefielder for the Generals were the fielding features.

The Teams:—

NEW YORK, Sept. 9. —(AP) — Bob Margarita, Brown's star halfback last season, is manager and first-string catcher on one of the baseball teams at Lowery Field, Colorado, where he is prepping for aerial gunnery school .... In a recent game, Bob was surprised to see that one of the batsmen stepping up to the plate was his former teammate, Bob Priestly .... They shook hands, greeted each other warmly, then resumed play .... On the first pitch, Priestly smashed a triple and it's reported there was a distinct chill when Bob and Bob passed each other again.

Giants Make It Two In Row

Giants of East City in the Catholic Junior Softball league made it two in a row last night at the Quaker Field when they overpowered the Tigers for an 11-10 victory. This was the second game of a three in five final setto. The initial game saw Tigers take it on the chin for a 12-6 loss.

B. Sullivan doing hurling duties for the victors was cut for ten safe hits, walking five. On the opposing hill, Murphy was notched for thirteen safeties, walking three.

At bat for the Giants, B. Sullivan got out in front with a single and a homer for three. G. Sullivan, his brother, was right behind with a single and triple for three; while Fitzgerald slammed out a pair of deuces for five.

Tigers: Murphy, p; Conlin, rf; out in the lead at the batting station with a pair of singles apiece for four sallies.

Lineups:

Tigers: Murphy, p; Conlon rf; Wade, Daly, Lynch, A. Giardino, J. Russel, J. Hickey Sheehy.

Giants: S. O'Heron 1b, G. Sullivan ss; B. Sullivan p; N. Plumpton, cf; O'Rourke, rf; Dingnan, 2b; M. O'Heron, 3b; Fitzgerald, c; B. Guerin, lf; M. Donoghue, rf.

Umpires. At the plate, M. Guerin. On the bases, D. Ryan.

Third game in the Junior playoffs is to-night at 6.30 at Memorial Park. A win for the Giants means the championship whereas a win for the Tigers means staying in the race a little longer. These youngsters have been playing a good brand of ball and deserve good support.

Final Tussle Scheduled For Saturday

After winning the first game of the finals 8-2 and then losing the next two, 23-7 and 15-11, St. Peter's came back last night to squeeze out a victory over the Cubs of East City at the Memorial Hill field 6-5.

Both teams went three innings scoreless and each counted one in the fourth, St. Peter's being the visiting team. No runs were chalked up in the fifth, while the Cubs smashed two homers in the last half of the sixth by Garvey and C. O'Donoghue. This was too much for the Saints' aggregation since loss of the fray meant the championship of the league for the Cubs, so the upper bracket of the seventh and final column saw them pound their way to a leading position by copping five runs. This made the count 6-3.

The lower portion of the final inning saw the Cubs trying hard for their third victory. They managed to get two precious runs and had the tying marker on third when O'Donoghue was thrown out at first with two out.

Murphy Pitches.

St. Peter's had Murphy on the mound, who held the powerful hitting East City squad in check. He permitted only six hits, striking out five. This was slightly marred by giving out five tickets gratis to the base area.

Heffernan, who pitched sensational ball at Douro on Monday, allowed ten hits, fanned three and walked only two.

In the offensive division for the victors Gordon gets the chips with two for two. Perdue got a double and four-bagger in three appearances. Condon followed with two singles for four and Prete snatched a double, driving in two runs in the seventh for the same number of sorties.

Hayes led his team mates at bat with a single and double for four. Garvey and C. O'Donoghue nicked Murphy for a circuiter apiece in the sixth in three trips each. O'Toole slammed out a triple in four beginnings.

A spectacular play was pulled off by R. Garvey when he chased a thrown ball and rolled horizontally to tag the bag a third on a force play. Line-ups:

St. Peter's—Conroy ss, Prete cf, Tompkins 3b, Murphy p, Perdue c, Condon 1b, Russell 2b, Kerr rf, Gordon lf, Reynolds lf.

Cubs—O'Toole c, Hayes 3b, B. O'Donoghue rf, Garvey ss, C. ODonoghue cf, lf, Heffernan p, Kennedy lf, rf, Driscoll 1b, Fitzgerald 2b, McCormick cf.

Score by innings:		R.	H.	E.
St. Peter's	0001005—6	10	0
Cubs	0001022—5	6	3

Umpires — At the plate, Nagel Phelan; on the bases, Max Board and Harry Fraser.

Play Saturday.

The fifth and final game of the Senior Catholic Softball League will come into play on Saturday evening at the Armour Hill Flats at 5.45. Cubs and St. Peter's go at it again to wind up the league for a very successful season under circumstances that were difficult.

SPORTS—DAY BY DAY

The stage is cleared for the final round for the intermediate girls' softball championship and the Knox Trophy. Generals qualified for the playoffs last night when they nosed out the Electrics 8 to 7 in a game that had to be called for darkness in the fifth. The Electrics who defaulted the first game because of failure of players to show up had only eight to start last night's fixture and the Generals could have claimed the verdict by default. However they sportingly agreed to let the Electrics start with eight players and the ninth eventually arrived. The porcelain girls made it close but the early lead set up by the Generals was too big to be overcome. Now it's the Generals and Brintons in the final series for the championship and the first game will be staged Friday evening at 6.30 o'clock. It should be quite an argument. Brintons who won the Knox Trophy last season hope to repeat their performance on this occasion while Generals have been playing good ball and they are confident that they can come through the final round triumphantly. So far as the pitching choices go it looks like Doris Walker for the Brinton team and Pat Wilson for Generals.

The popular Earl McCready versus the people's favorite Gentleman Jack Clayborne in a British Empire championship elimination bout and the right to meet Whipper Billy Watson for the title; that is the swell dish that Promoter Frank Tunney has prepared for next Monday's wrestling card at the Brock Street Arena and it has all the earmarks of being the premier attraction of the entire season. Usually we have the spectacle of a hero and a villain in action; this time two heroes are lined up and the result should be one of the most thrilling contests in years, with the crowd about evenly divided in sentiment, instead of being solidly for one battler, as has been the case. With a crack at the Empire title awaiting the winner there will be every incentive for both grapplers to battle all the way. McCready of course is eligible to compete for the championship because he was born in Canada and the Colored Comet qualifies because he is a native of South Africa. Both men are fast, clean, powerful and clever and they should provide one of the best bouts ever staged under the Tunney banners. The contest is a natural any way you look at it and this column will be surprised if the attendance does not set a new attendance mark. It is a big league attraction.

As Oshawa Saw It

George "Soup" Campbell gives his impression of Saturday's Oshawa Colts-Genelecs game as follows in the Oshawa sports column: "Oshawa Colts advanced to the Eastern Ontario zone finals in the O.A.S.A. Intermediate "A" playoff grind, when they disposed of the Liftlock City entry on Saturday afternoon here by a score of 11 to 1, the same score by which Colts won the first game in Peterborough. It's been so long since a Peterborough softball entry ever elimnated one of the Oshawa representatives that it's getting to be the accepted thing. Back in 1939 Peterborough defeated the Oshawa entry and before that it was back in 1936 or '37 when the GM All-Stars were beaten by Peterborough in the 3rd game at Port Hope. However, the Colts or those players which comprise the Colts, had their usual success as far as the Liftlock City team was concerned this year. "Genelec," a fine bunch of sportsmen and gentlemen, were a little short in softball ability. The Peterborough boys played fairly smart ball in the field but at the plate they showed lack of experience against good pitching. "Preem" Whiteley held them to only 3 hits in Peterborough and Dean McLaughlin chalked up more strikeouts and allowed only 7 hits here on Saturday. In both games, the only Oshawa error in the game gave Peterborough their only run. "Genelecs" tried hard, and until Woods weakened in the 5th, the score was only 2-1 and it was a close game. Once the Colts started clicking, there was nothing to it and Eakins, who took over after Woods hit a 4-walk wild streak, couldn't halt the Colts."

* * * * * *

"The Peterborough General Electric team may have been short on batting power and rated as only an average softball team but they conducted themselves in sporting fashion, tried hard all the way but did no squabbling—which is more than can be said for some Peterborough softball teams we have met," continues the Campbell article. "A fine sporting gesture by the "Genelecs" was to donate the sum of $10 to "The Geo. Munroe Benefit Fund." The "Genelecs" consented in the first place to play their second game in Oshawa on Saturday afternoon rather than on Thursday, as orginally scheduled and they turned over the "meal expenses" which they had been guaranteed by the Oshawa committee and gave it back as their contribution to the benefit fund. To Mgr. Ted Jackson and the "Genelecs" players, the committee expresses sincere thanks. While we are handing out the bouquets, we might also add that the umpiring of the two officials, "Pat" Calladine of Peterborough and Reg. Fair of Oshawa, was of very high order in this series too."

Military Replacement

There is one thought that arises out of the long letter from the Genelecs ball club that appeared in Wednesday's issue and that is that if clubs can count upon the O.A.S.A. being as loose in its ruling on military replacements generally as Secretary Feaver was in the local case there will probably be a lot of skulduggery afloat next season. Frankly this column does not believe that there was the slightest justification for granting a military replacement for a player who not only had not played a single innings with the Genelecs all season but who was still in Peterborough and available for use—if they had wanted to play him. The explanation that, because he was on the Air Force reserve and the R.C.A.F. would not be responsible for any financial loss sustained if he happened to be injured, he could not play ball, won't fool anybody who knows that same restriction applies to very member of the three armed services who engages in athletics. It does not stop thousands of them all over the country from playing baseball, hockey, rugby and other sports and it did not need to have stopped the Genelec player who was replaced from playing softball.

* * * * * *

The simple truth, of course, is that the "player" in question was never a player at all; he hadn't figured in the Genelec batting order all season. However he had signed a certificate and technically a replacement might have been in order had he left Peterborough to report for training. But he was still here and available and under those circumstances it is difficult to see how the City League executive was wrong in refusing to grant a replacement for him or how the O.A.S.A. secretary was right in allowing one. Certainly the military replacement regulations were never intended to cover up that kind of thing. The action of Secretary Feaver should be reviewed at the next annual meeting. Otherwise he has left the door wide open for flagrant abuse of a rule that is all right in principle but certainly should not be twisted to permit replacements for players who have not only never played but are still available.

Brintons Meet Outboards In League Final

After Watercraft had tied the score with a run in the first half of the final inning, Brintons came back with a counter with one out in their end of the frame to take the second game of the Industrial League semi-final series 6 to 5.

The victory sent Brintons into the finals against Outboard Marines, winners of the other bracket and the first game of the final round will be staged at the Brinton Field beginning at 6:15 o'clock.

Last night's battle was a thriller all the way. Brintons took the lead by scoring two in the last of the first but Watercraft evened it up with a pair in the first of the third only to have Brintons in their half push over a run to go in front 3 to 2. Watercraft went ahead with two in the first of the sixth when Phillips relieved Rose after Watercraft had filled the bases with no one out. Two counters were scored before Phillips could get the side out and Watercraft were in front 4 to 3. Once again Brintons roared back in their half with a pair of counters to make it 5 to 4.

The losers managed to put together a single marker in the seventh to sew up the game at 5 to 5 but Brintons had enough punch left to drive in the winner with one out in the last half of the inning.

Kingdon, Jones and Goodwin had two hits each for Brintons while H. Boyd and Walker each kicked in with three singles for Watercraft.

The teams and score by innings:

Watercraft: Paul, cf; H. Boyd, 2b; Walker, 3b; Johnston, c; McDougall, p; Hewie, 1b; Thompson, ss; W. Miller, lf; K. Boyd, rf.

LAWN BOWLING

The games committee held a snap meeting last evening, and after about two hours' discussion decided to carry on the extra series competition in spite of the loss of the original schedule card and draw.

The committee is well aware of the mess this series is in, due to the unfortunate incident, and they are asking the bowlers to co-operate by turning out and playing their games.

To-night's draw will be in the consolation event.

The novice series got under way on Wednesday night, but we left before the games were over, so we don't know who's who.

Remember the mixed tournament on Friday evening at 7.30 o'clock.

Sport Shorts From Britain

By ALLAN NICKLESON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Sept. 9 — (CP). — Elaborate precautions against gate-crashers at a British and Empire heavyweight title bout in London this month include special markings for tickets and identification of the holders at the gates.

The first tickets ever issued for a British boxing bout—135 years ago—were just as selective. At the time secrecy was imperative because the sport was illegal.

The fights were between Tom Cribb and Bob Gregson for the heavyweight title and 1,000 guineas, and between Tom Belcher and Bill Copley for the middleweight crown and 400 guineas.

Each ticket of the 400 sold at three guineas each, carried the patron's name and address, followed by this inscription:

"Admit bearer to the inner ring on Tuesday, Oct. 27, 1808, within 50 miles of London. This day is called the Feast of St. Crispin."

To evade the police, an arena could be erected only during darkness and the night before the contests Bill Gibbons, an expert constructor of these make-shift rings, was given the job. He demurred until a special bodyguard of 60 men was mustered to protect him from the police and rowdies. For his risk he insisted that every ticket holder admitted to the inner ring pay him an additional 12 shillings.

The story is that Lord Byron, the poet, was among the ticket holders but had nothing to substantiate his identity when called upon. Four paid toughs hustled him from the enclosure. Byron retaliated and was giving a good account of himself when Gibbons recognized him and intervened.

When the battle for the vacant heavyweight titles comes off at the Queensbury Club on September 22. the principals, Freddie Mills and Jack London, will face each other in a 14-foot ring—the smallest allowed in professional boxing.

Since London will weigh in at somewhere around 217 pounds, Mills 182, and the referee 170, the more than 550 pounds in the tiny enclosure won't leave much room for strategic withdrawals on the part of either opponent.

The 29-year-old London, seeking to increase his speed before meeting the young and fast Mills, has engaged special sparring partners and George Ure, clever trainer of the Blackpool Football Club. Ure improved London's timing and speed for his last bout with Al Robinson which he won by a knockout. The triumph gave London the chance of a title bout.

CHARLEY WORKMAN'S SINGLE ROBS WHIT WYATT OF NO-HITTER

Dodgers Trim Boston; Pirates Lose

By JUDSON BAILEY,
Associated Press Sport Writer.

The Major Leagues are approaching the end of their second successive season without a no-hit pitching performance, perhaps proving that as much luck as skill enters into such classics.

At least it must appear that way to Whitlow Wyatt of Brooklyn Dodgers, who never has hurled a no-hitter but who yesterday barely missed this boat for the fourth time in his major league career.

He stopped his favorite Fall guys, Boston Braves, 3-0 for his seventh straight success and 11th of the season, but a clean single to rightfield in the first inning by Charley Workman kept Wyatt from entering the hall of pitching fame.

The last no-hitter in the big leagues was pitched by Lon Warneke of St. Louis Cardinals against Cincinnati Reds August 30, 1941.

Sewell Beaten.

Besides the contest at Brooklyn, only two other games were on the program yesterday, both in the National League.

St. Louis Cardinals handed Rip Sewell, Pittsburgh's 20-game winner, his eighth defeat 5-1 with Stan Musial hitting two homers. Rookie George Munger held the Pirates to seven hits.

A homer by Babe Dahlgren, his fifth of the year, provided the winning margin for Philadelphia Phillies 3-2 over New York Giants. Big Bill Lee, gaining his first victory since joining the Phillies, was tagged for home runs by Ernie Lombardi and Rookie Shortstop John Kerr to account for New York's runs. Ace Adams made his 62nd relief appearance for the Giants for a record.

TORONTO, Sept. 9 —(CP) — Amalgamation of the National and American Hockey Leagues and their operation under the name of Wartime Hockey League is suggested by Joe (Windsor Star Burns). Joe writes that hockey is in danger of being "set back a quarter of a century.. If the N. H. L. continues to try to foist its wartime brand of the pastime on faithful customers pretending it is major league in calibre as well as in name." Suggesting the league lay its cards on the table and voluntarily revise its makeup and status for the duration as the wartime league, Joe adds: "that's what they'v ebeen doing in English league and Scottish League Football which is vastly more experienced and much better handled in such contingencies."

Burns suggests Baltimore and Atlantic City be included in the league and Washington and Hershey dropped. He would have readjusted price scales and pooling and redistribution of players with a view to better balanced teams. Joe would also set a standard wage for all players.

Golf Buggy:

Clay Puett and Jock Irvine, two prominent Vancouver sportsmen, have designed a caddie car to carry their golf clubs during the caddie shortage. The car weights 10 pounds has rubber wheels which do not mar greens and may be packed into a locker. It has one disadvantage in comparison to the human caddie. The new car can't find lost balls. Puett, incidentally, is the fellow who designed the renowned Puett starting gate for race tracks.

Round and about:

Ed (Toronto Star) Fitkin quotes Toronto ball players to the effect Tom Ananicz called that seven-inning no-hitter he pitched against Buffalo Monday .... Manager Art Ross of Boston Bruins has agreed to sponsor Regina Abbotts Junior hockey club again this season.... Maid of Broxa was probably the most claimed racehorse at Vancouver's Hasting Park this season. Alf (Vancouver Sun) Cottrell quips: "Home is just anywhere she hangs her halter." .... Montrealers expect Goalie Bert Gardiner will return from Chicago to Canadiens this hockey season ...... Ottawa Combines have useful backfielders in Ace Powell, Thain Simon, Frank Seymour, Arnie McWatters, Buddy Hellyer and Frank Dunlap.

NEW YORK (AP) — Promoter Mike Jacobs yesterday signed Fritzie Zivic of Pittsburg and Vinnie Vines of New York for a 10-round welterweight fight in Madison Square Garden Friday night to replace the postponed Bob Montgomery-Beau Jack lightweight title feature.

Ponton Sure Beaches Have the Stuff

By HAL WALKER

Darkness was fast encircling the practice ground, but, undismayed by the lack of visibility, Annis Stukus stood back and boomed placement kicks across the crossbar while Coach Alex Ponton, a few assorted fans and some of the neighbors' children did the heckling.

Big Stuke was splitting his 'target for tonight' with uncanny accuracy and, after a few minutes, Ponton walked over and said to us: "That's what we've needed for a long time, some one that can get us those three points now and then. The big guy's going to be a real help to our club."

Stuke Says He Thinks

Most of the other Beach players had departed for the showers, but Stuke stayed on the field with Sammy Sward and Hardy Awrey. Sward held the ball and Awrey retrieved the apple as the big Lithuanian kept hitting the jackpot.

"All right, pick it up men, that's all," Ponton commanded, and Stuke came walking over with that swagger he adopts for such moments.

"I'm in great shape for an old man," he boasted. 'Old man?' questioned a bystander. "Why, Bobby Reid's just hanging up his shoes after 17 years of senior football, he probaly could still go out and lick you all in a dash up the field!"

"Ah, baloney!" scoffed Stukus. "Anyway, Bob just used to stand in one spot. But me, I have to think back where I play." Then he stolled away into the dark, chuckling to himself.

Seriously though the loyal stockholders of the Beach club have placed Stukus in an elevated spot in their interim report. They realize with him quarterbacking, passing and splitting the crossbar with place placements, they've finally got the pivot man they've been looking for.

Bobby Porter Retires

Currently the big guy is having a whale of a time soldiering with a back ailment. He moaned about its serious potentialities and then whipped himself into a tough scrimmage session. Amiable Annis will take over the quarterback spot vacated by Bobby Porter.

Porter announced his retirement from football last night. Bob is an officer in the Naval Cadets, shortly expects his number will be up in the draft. If he plays at all it will be with the men of H.M.C. S. York.

Coach Ponton's enthusiasm for his 1943 charges is tempered considerably. 'We'll have a good club if we get these guys out at the same time. Right now, work and softball playoffs are cutting heavily into practice attendance. One thing is sure though, Beaches won't be operating on a beef rationing basis this autumn. No more "pony" backfields made up of 150 pound gridders. Ponton has nine backfielders averaging 190 pounds and on the wingline he has 10 players averaging 205 pounds.

Husky Backfield, Wingline

Sure fire starters in the backfield include Stukus, Sammy Sward, Ed Jakubowski, Stew Scott, the former Argo rookie, Lou Odette from Assumption College, Bill Zock and Hughie Tunicliffe. There are other huskies around looking for a chance to fit into the scheme of things, among them Red Garrett, the kid who turned pro with Leafs and then was traded to Rangers in the Babe Pratt deal.

Ponton's wingline will be big and experienced. Len Staughton, Dave Ferris, Joe Miller, Suzie Turner, Johnny Widman, Pete Jacobs, Jack Millen are among those hunting for a place. Scotty Stevenson, who formerly played end wing for Argonauts, Pete Titantic and a kid named Jack Murdock, the latter a former Globe and Mail all-star high school player, have looked awfully good in tackling practice. Leo Deadey will be out next week after softball playoffs are over.

Ponton's summation of his club is this: "We won't be the best in the world but we'll be far from the worst. I think we can make it tough for the rest of 'em."

Beaches have new quarters this year, have moved their liniment and uniforms from the basement of the old building near Broadview Y and now occupy more spacious rooms in the building which once housed Broadview Y tennis players.

Everybody Works

They're working on a co-operative basis. The club executives put the playing field in shape, mowed the grass, filled in gaping sandpits where the neighborhood kids had been playing commando, erected a goalpost and generally put things in shipshape.

Their enthusiasm even goes beyond that. When we walked into the dressing-room last night Stukus was lying on the rubbing-table while a gent taped his ailing back. Closer inspection of the man with the thinning hair who was doing the taping revealed it to be Coach Ponton.

Even this unsuspecting traveller was recruited. I had to cut the length of tape for Ponton.

All this is made necessary because Trainer Archie Campbell is still all strapped up after a siege in the hospital and unable to get around much yet. But "Archie's Listenin'" will be on the job soon, he says, to help his favorites.

When Beaches carry their co-operative system as far as the clubhouse and recruit a coach and the press as assistants there's no telling what they'll do when they get on the field against the opposition.

Well, at least, we've warned the opposition.

Hits 'em Hard

Willard Marshall, one of the rookie stars of the New York Giants in 1942, and now a member of the U.S. Marine Corps, was a prominent factor in bringing the Marine Headquarters' baseball team its first D.C. departmental league title since 1926. Marshall batted .381. He's from Richmond, Va.

STRANGE GOLF COURSE.

MIDWAY ISLAND — (CP). — Tin cans for holes and a red ball are two of the requisites that go to make up the strangest golf course of all.

Pre-war airline workers, with nothing to do between planes, made themselves a golf course of pure sand. The sand had to be smoothed over by hand before a player could putt.

Grow Milkweed For Rubber Two-year Job

TORONTO, Sept. 9. — When farmers start cultivating weeds with as much care as they formerly used in rooting the pesky things out of the ground, that's news. Down Peterborough way there are 60 farmers engaged in growing milkweed on 600 acres, as part of a long-range plan to utilize the resin of the weed for use in the manufacture of synthetic rubber.

While experiments are still in the initial stages, it has been discovered that this resin, or sap, increases the strength and durability of synthetic rubber. The Dominion Government working with the Ontario authorities, arranged for the growing of milkweed on a cultivated basis.

There will be no milkweed crop this year, but in 1944 the farmers will harvest the weed on a paying basis. The seed was placed in the ground this spring and the farmers who contracted to grow milkweed were assured of $50 an acre. The seed was gathered in Carleton County last fall by school children and 1,100 pounds of seed were gathered in this way. About 700 pounds of seed came from Michigan.

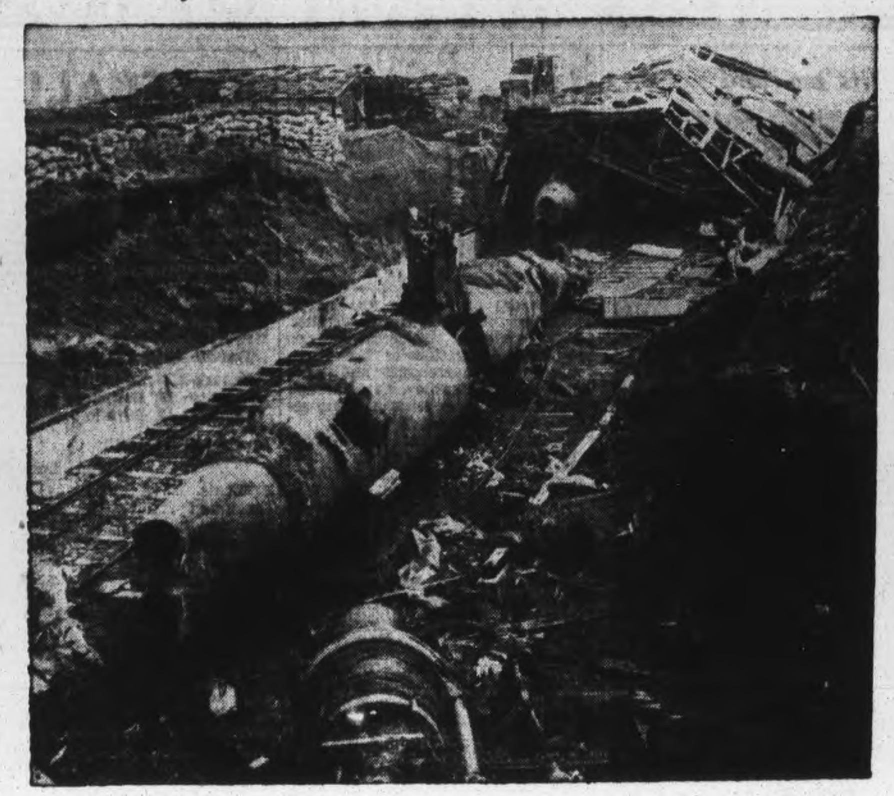
"This is the first time milkweed has been grown on the basis of cultivation," said A. H. Martin, assistant director of the agricultural representatives branch at Queen's Park. "Milkweed grows wild all over Ontario and it is a deep-rooted weed with creeping rootstock. It is a genuine weed and has no livestock food value."

A pilot plant will be built in Ottawa this winter to process 50 tons of milkweed leaves which school pupils have been asked to gather. The children will be paid three cents a pound. The concentration of resin is more pronounced in the leaves than in the stalk, it has been found. If the laboratory experiments at Ottawa are successful, the crop from the 600 acres in the Peterborough district will be sent to Ottawa for treatment.

Agricultural authorities hope to devise some implement to harvest the milkweed crop. The 600 acres is just the beginning if everything works out well, and thousands of acres of Ontario lands will be utilized for the specific purpose of growing the weed.

Milkweed is a hardy perennial and farmers used to be busy keeping it out of fields of grain. Sheep were used to eat the weed. Now the farmers are reversing themselves. No sheep will be allowed within sniffing distance of a stand of milkweed, and every care will be exercised to obtain a bountiful crop.

Miniature Jap Submarine Abandoned On Kiska



This is a view of the Japanese submarine base on Kiska Island, taken by a Canadian army photographer after Canadian and American units had re-occupied the island discovered that Nippon's soldiers had fled. The undersea craft left in a damaged condition on runways and in the sheds are the two-man or three-man type which the Japs first used in their attack on Pearl Harbor. They were damaged either by Allied bombing or shelling or by enemy demolitions before he withdrew.

70,000 Prisoners Await Release

LONDON, Sept. 9—(CP). — There are at least 70,000 British and Canadian prisoners of war and an estimated 1,200 Americans for whom the Italian capitulation means freedom.

"It can be assumed that the unconditional surrender accepted by Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower took into account the immediate release of all prisoners of war, and that they will reach Allied hands as soon as conditions allow," the War Office said.

High British officers among the prisoners include Air Marshal Owen T. Boyd and Maj.-Gen. Carton de Wiart.

Also prisoners are Larry Allen and Godfrey H. P. Anderson, Associated Press war correspondents.

Fire Destroys Season's Crop

HAVELOCK, Sept. 9 —(ENS) — Raging flames completely destroyed the barn and other sheds, on Wednesday evening, on the farm occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Fred Thebeault on the Belmont-Cordova road. The cause of the fire is unknown and had gained considerable headway before being discovered.

Neighbours and friends quickly responded and a bucket brigade held the flames in check from reaching the house. All the season's crop of hay and part of the grain crop was destroyed, also 5 pigs were burned. The building and contents were partly covered by insurance.

Red Cross Represented

TORONTO, Sept. 9 (CP)—Eight Canadian Hospital Welfare Workers of the Canadian Red Cross are with Canadian forces in the Mediterranean theatre of war, Maj.-Gen. C. B Price, Canadian Red Cross Commissioner in Britain, told The Canadian Press in an interview yesterday.

PLEASURE DRIVING . . . 1905

WHEN YOU WENT MOTORING IN 1905, you carried a full kit of tools. You needed them. No one knew what would go wrong next.

Down through the years manufacturers competed with each other to give you a better car. Each strove to outdo the other to give you a smoother, more powerful engine, stronger brakes, a more luxurious body. And each year you got a better car for your money.

Under our free way of life business competes with business to give you new and better products, more efficient service. This is true of the company that builds your car, of The Royal Bank of Canada, of the little store on the corner.

What is PRIVATE ENTERPRISE?

It is the natural desire to make your own way, as far as your ability will take you; an instinct that has brought to this continent the highest standard of life enjoyed by any people on earth. It is the spirit of democracy on the march.

Many Questions Arise From Armistice

By The Canadian Press

These questions arose from the Italian surrender yesterday:

1. What becomes of the Italian fleet, which is built around seven battleships and is split between Pola on the Adriatic and Spezia on the Italian west coast?

2. Will the Germans retire from the Po Valley in the north, where they have been reported to have as many as 15 or 20 divisions?

3. What happens to the 25 to 30 Italian divisions in the Balkans and France? And the 250,000 Italian workmen estimated to be in Germany?

4. What effect will the Italian surrender have on the wavering morale of Hitler's Balkan satellites of Hungary, Rumania, Bulgaria and Croatia?

5. Does the surrender include the French island of Corsica, barely 30 miles from Southern France, and occupied by the Italians?

6. Will the scattered German units still in Southern and Central Italy be allowed to return to Germany?

Leaflets Tell Italians To Oppose Nazis

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa, Sept. 9 (AP).— The Italian people are being informed by radio and leaflets of the surrender of their government to the Allies.

The leaflets telling the news of the armistice also carried the following instructions to the Italian people:

"Italians! Backed by the might of the Allies, Italy now has the opportunity of taking vengeance on the German oppressor and of aiding in the explsion of the eternal enemy from Italian soil.

"Italians! Here are your battle orders for this phase of the war for the liberation of Europe:

"1. In all territories occupied by the Allied armies give them all your assistance and obey precisely the orders of the commander in the field.

"2. In all areas where the German armies operate do nothing whatsoever to assist the Germans. Show your natural unity and your will to resist them by disciplined, unanimous refusal to become the accomplices of the German pirate.

"Workers! The war in Italy is your battle of transport. He who wins the battle of transport wins the war.

"In this battle the Italian people and in particular the Italian transport workers, railway workers, dock workers, and road workers can and will play a decisive role.

"Railway workers! See that no single train carrying German material is permitted to pass.

"Dock workers! See that no single ship carrying German troops or materials is permitted to move in the area where you work.

"Italians! Make a supreme heroic effort now. In the next crucial week by your disciplined resistance against the Germans you can paralyze their communication lines and so help to win the Italian war of liberation."

U.S. Airforce Using Parachute Bombs

LONDON, Sept. 9 (CP). — The United States 8th Air Force is using parachute bombs in attacks on German air fields, it was disclosed today.

The purpose is two-fold: To allow low-flying raiders time to escape and to land the explosives squarely, with greater effect. The parachute bomb is a steel cylinder with TNT core which breaks upon landing into about 1,500 pieces. These scattered at velocities up to 4,000 feet a second. Airmen said that at 200 feet the fragments would pierce the hull of a tank.

Alaska Road Costs 115 Millions

By J. F. SANDERSON

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—(CP.)—The cost of the Alaska Highway was set at $115,000,000 to-day in a report by Gen. George Marshall, United States Army Chief-of-Staff.

He revealed that 10,000 American troops were used in the construction of the 1,480-mile pioneer road, built between March and October in 1942.

"Improvements currently under way," the report continued, "provide for a 26-foot roadbed width, with surfacing placed to a width of from 20 to 22 feet. Local materials, including gravel and crushed stone, will be utilized in this surfacing.

"It is estimated that the cost of constructing the pioneer road, together with improving it to present proposed standards, will be $115,000,000, which figure includes the replacement of a considerable number of temporary structures destroyed during the recent spring thraw.

"Current improvements are scheduled for completion Dec. 31, 1943, and are going ahead largely by contract labor."

The Alaska Highway was built under an agreement between Canada and the United States. Although built entirely with American funds, it will become Canadian property after the war, with the stipulation that no discrimination be made against traffic originating in the United States.

Officials said there are no Italian prisoners of war in Canada. Of the persons interned, some 200 are captured merchant seamen; the others are Italian-Canadians interned for various reasons.

First in America... to build tires for Automobiles

"The first tyres in America on commercial motor-vehicles were made by the B. F. Goodrich Company in 1896 for Winton cars", says the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

In the 47 years since those first tires were made, B. F. Goodrich has completed a long list of achievements in the development of tires and rubber goods. Year after year B. F. Goodrich research and engineering have blazed new trails. The many improvements they have developed have done much to give today's tires their present amazing durability, blow-out protection and non-skid safety.

One of the more recent B. F. Goodrich developments was "duramin", that amazing combination of chemicals discovered by B. F. Goodrich research scientists. Duramin helps keep rubber young and alive, makes it tougher, more resistant to heat, sunlight and oxygen.

B. F. Goodrich research still goes on. New developments will be ready when increased supplies of rubber are again available for making tires. And no matter what kind of rubber is available—guayule, natural, reclaimed, or any other—as since 1870, B. F. Goodrich will make the finest tires that can be made from it.

SAFETY FIRSTS... that make your tires last longer

Drive below 40 M.P.H...
Check tire inflation weekly...
Have your tires inspected regularly.

These are firsts in safety for your present tires... which very likely must last you for the duration. There is still no prospect of sufficient rubber for ordinary civilian needs. So don't take chances with your present tires.

Drew Cabinet Extends Grain Subsidy

TORONTO, Sept. 9.—The Drew Cabinet yesterday approved an extension of one month for the paying of grain subsidies because of delay in the filling of deliveries of grain ordered by Ontario farmers from the West.

In making this announcement at Queen's Park yesterday, Agriculture Minister T. L. Kennedy said Ontario had just harvested one of the poorest spring grain crops in years, and estimated it to be about 40 per cent. of normal. In terms of bushels, the 1943 yield is 41,094,000 bushels behind the 1942 crop.

The $1.80 subsidy, which normally would have terminated at the end of August, has now been extended to Sept. 30. The $1.20 rate will apply during October instead of terminating Sept. 30. Ninety cents a ton will be paid during November and the 60-cent rate will maintain during December.

"Our grain crops are exceedingly poor," said Col. Kennedy. "Orders for Western feed grain have been pouring in so rapidly that deliveries are now falling weeks behind orders. Orders placed early in August cannot be delivered now until sometime in September, and to avoid penalizing farmers who placed their orders expecting to get the $1.80 Ontario subsidy, the rates offered for August hove been extended. The subsidy rate is based on the date of delivery of Western grain to the farmers.

"Every possible encouragement of the movement of feed supplies from the West to Ontario during the remaining summer and fall months must be given if we are to avoid a feed grain shortage next winter," said the Agriculture Minister.

In Old Ontario three counties will have a surplus of grain suitable for seed, nine counties will have sufficient for their own needs, and 29 will have to buy a portion of their grain.

cruys, Belgian Minister to Canada, told his departing countrymen:

"You are about to join your predecessors of Joliette, those who are called in our army 'the Canadians.' You will give them news of the country which was to them like a second motherland, and which will always remain in the Belgian hearts as a sister nation."

Defense Minister Ralston also paid tribute to the Belgians.

"I feel sure," he said, "that the members of the Canadian forces who were associated with your countrymen have, on their part, been cheered and heartened by the spitfire patriotism of those men who, far from their homeland, have devoted themselves to preparation for carrying on the fight against the marauders of their valiant country."

The men were trained at the Cornwall and Joliette centres under a compulsory military training plan established by the Belgian Government in London.

Directs Paratroopers From Plane

Americans Hit Italy

and said two airfields outside Naples probably already were in Allied hands.

(In a broadcast last night, the United Nations radio at Tunis announced Allied landings "at various points in the heart of Italy."

(At the same time, Italian dispatches to two Stockholm newspapers, the Dagens Nyheter and Svenska Dagbladet, reported new bridgeheads had been forged in an area embracing more than 500 miles of the west coast. Pizzo, Naples, Gaeta, Civitavecchia and Genoa were mentioned as points where Allied forces had hit.

(Svenska Dagzladet said further that the Allies had landed on Sardinia, last major Axis bastion in the western Mediterranean.)

No opposition was expected from the Italian forces. In addition to directing them to cease resistance, Marshal Badoglio ordered that they "oppose attacks from any other quarters"—to fight Germans if they attack.

EXPECT GERMANS TO RESIST TO LAST

But it is known that a great German army is in Italy, apparently with every intention of fighting to the last, particularly to keep the Allied invading forces out of northern Italy and away from air bases from which the Reich proper could be plastered with bombs from end to end by day and by night.

For the British and Canadians the forthcoming battles loomed at the first major test against German forces on the European mainland since the days of Dieppe, a year ago in August, and for Americans the first since the first Great War a quarter of a century ago.

Naples, in peacetime a city of almost 1,000,000 population, has been battered often and hard by the Allied air arm, and warships stole in some weeks ago to bombard enemy shipping and military installations in the harbor.

New Jap Plane Beaten In China Skies

U. S. AIR HEADQUARTERS IN CHINA, Sept. 9 (AP). — The Japanese are relying to a large extent on an improved type of fighter plane in an unsuccessful attempt to check the ever-growing activities of the 14th United States Army Air Force in China, Maj.-Gen. Claire L. Chennault said in an interview to-day on his 53rd birthday.

Chennault also disclosed he has been reinforced with fast, high-climbing lightning fighters.

Reviewing the situation since Aug. 1, Chennault said the Japanese "started using for the first time considerable forces of new Zeros from Hanwok, Canton and Hong Kong to attack our airdromes."

"I concluded," he said, "that they believed the new Zero so superior they did not need to send bombers. Although they employed new tactics, the results show that their loss during August was 125 planes definitely destroyed, 38 probably destroyed and two damaged—all in air combat."

During the month his force made 512 sorties against the Japanese, bombing and strafing enemy shipping, supply depots, communication and airdromes in an arc through occupied China from Ichang on the Upper Yangtse through Hankow to the coast at Hong Kong and Canton, and into Indo-China from Hanoi to near the Yunnan border.

Soldier Killed Trained Here

TORONTO, Sept. 9 (CP) Sturdee Jarvis, 29, former head of the radio department of a Toronto advertising agency (Vickers and Benson, Ltd.) has been killed in Sicily, it was learned here today.

One time an employee of the radio station (CJIC) at Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., where his wife now lives, he joined the army in Toronto in April, 1942.

He trained at Peterborough, Ont., and at Camp Borden, Ont., going overseas late last year. He was a member of the tank corps.

Details surrounding his death were not known.

Other Canadian fighters during the day provided escort for attackers hitting the Lille airfields and the Abbeville marshalling yards as well as making sweeps over the Rouen-St. Omer-Poix area.

The German flying field at Mardyck, near Dunkirk, took its third pounding in a week yesterday, this time from R.A.F. Typhoons. It was attacked last Thursday by American heavy bombers and again on Sunday by R.A.F. Typhoons.

Yesterday's choice of targets indicated that the Allied air forces were embarked on a systematic program to stamp out Nazi fighter nests one by one. Lille-Vendeville was attacked Aug. 31 and since that time the Allies have rained destruction on about 30 other fields. Yesterday's return to Lille-Vendeville indicated they had run through the list and were starting out at the top of the batting order again.

Toll Reaches 50 In Texas Fire

HOUSTON, Tex., Sept. 9 (AP)—Two more deaths in hospitals today raised to 50 the toll of flames which trapped screaming, frantic men in the old, three-storey Gulf Hotel in downtown Houston yesterday.

Six have died in hospitals and 44 never got out of the building, turned quickly into an inferno by the swiftly spreading fire. They died fighting to reach the only fire escape not blocked by flames.

A dozen others remain in hospitals, some in serious condition.

City and state officials and the National Board of Underwriters began an investigation of the cause of the fire, and said it evidently started in a linen closet and baggage storeroom.

Twenty-one of the dead have not been identified. Most of the 133 guests were transients.

Digestion — The Great Process of Life

Acute indigestion may arise from over-eating or the use of food which is difficult to digest.

But chronic indigestion, which stays with you, causing sleepless nights, headaches, bodily pains and depressed spirits, is usually the result of torpid liver and constipation. The process of digestion is held up and the body is poisoned by accumulated waste matter.

The use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills helps to arouse the torpid liver to action, the bile flows freely to the intestines, stimulating these organs and soon everything is going fine. What a pleasure it is to enjoy your meals and feel that there will be no discomfort afterwards.

Bowling Tourney Attracts Record Entry

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 9. — (ENS).—The Campbellford Bowling Club staged one of the most successful mixed doubles bowling tournaments they have had this year on Wednesday. Entries were over-subscribed, and in fact the tournament committee for the first time had to turn entrants away as they literally poured in from Peterborough, Belleville, Brighton, Stirling and Havelock. There were 32 entries in the tournament and some 20 had to be turned away. The great interest shown in the tournament was attributed to the undeniable poularity of mixed doubles.

Winners were as follows: 1st for three wins, Mr. and Mrs. A. Wannacott, Belleville wtih a score of 42 and aggregate of 50; 2nd for three-win, Mr. and Mrs. P. Council Passes Bylaw To Aid Hospital

Bylaws passed by the council Wednesday night authorized the borrowing of $5,000 at 3½ per cent for the maintenance of Nicholls Hospital, the debentures probably to be bought by the City Trust Commission; closing of barber shops at 8 o'clock Saturday nights, and a similar change in the closing hour for the stores selling men's and boys' furnishings which join the increasing company of the 6 P.Mers; inclusion in municipal polling subdivision 27 that part of the Jackson Park housing area which came into the city at the beginning of this year; also third readings of two constructive bylaws which have been approved by the Municipal Board, one for a sewer on Park Hill Road and the other a sidewalk on James street.

Two readings were given to the bylaw empowering the city to buy an emergency supply of wood for the citizens.

Alderman Glover told the council Mr. Metheral has already bought more than 900 cords, and delivery should begin in a few days. The limit of liability is set at $50.000. Third reading was deferred in quest of clearer understanding of certain of the details. If any deficit is incurred it shall be charged to the city treasury. However, the policy of the council is to sell at cost. Alderman Bradburn pointed out that the cost might exceed the 'ceiling.'

Bulk Of Harvest Been Completed

Horses in Oxford county brought from $65 to $135 at a recent farm sale, as reported in the weekly review of the Provincial Department of Agriculture. Perth county mentions the lightest grain crop in twenty-five years, with the likelihood that it will lead to reduction of the number of hogs to be kept for feeding in that area next winter.

Victoria remarks that Erban oats have proved their superiority in rust resistant quality. In Dufferin the general estimate of the grain crop is decidedly low, but adds, "It is surprising the number who report a few fields of very good grain."

The consensus of the reports reflects the end of harvest work. At least the bulk of it is completed, the common phrase being "pretty well cleaned up." Sowing of fall wheat has begun in Halton, and farmers are already taking the first steps toward the garnering of the products of 1944.

Banker Finds City Changed

After an absence of forty-five years Norman Fraser of Los Angeles, a retired banker, has returned on a visit to this part of the country and expresses his amazement at the development of Peterborough since he last saw it.

Mr. Fraser and his wife, the former Jennie McElwain of Buckhorn, Lakefield and Peterborough, are visiting Mrs. Fraser's sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Cooney of 112 McDonnel Street.

Not only in the business and residential sections, but in the suburban manufacturing districts as well, Mr. Fraser sees great changes, but different as the city now looks the changes have done nothing to alter his opinion that Peterborough is a very beautiful city. Exploring the lakes as fishermen will, he remarks that the Kawarthas would be worth millions to Los Angeles County.

In Toronto, his home town, Mr. Fraser found the downtown sections much the same, but was surprised at the considerable development in the outlying manufacturing and residential areas.

DENVER, Sept. 9—(AP).—A girl took a picture of her postman laden with mail and sent it to her boy friend in the service. The soldier wrote a message to the postman on the outside of his next letter: "I have the picture of you pinned up on the wall of my tent."

Russian Jews Urge All To Beat Fascism

TORONTO, Sept. 9.—Two Russian Jews who have seen the death and destruction wrought by the Nazi war machine in their native land, last night told 12,000 men and women in Maple Leaf Gardens that the Jews on this continent must be steadfast in their opposition to fascism in all its forms.

Prof. Solomon Michoels, famous legitimate stage star and one of the Soviet Union's leading anti-Fascists, and Lt.-Col. Itzik Feffer, soldier-poet, delivered impassioned addresses in Yiddish to an audience composed largely of people of their own faith. Another figure who looms high in the world of letters, Sholem Asch, the author, also spoke. And the voice of another great Jew was heard in the Gardens, that of Albert Einstein. Unable to attend the rally, Einstein spoke by telephone to Toronto and a recording was made of his brief message.

The dramatic surrender of Italy and the capture by the Red Army of Stalino created an atmosphere of optimism in the audience that even the grim recital of Nazi horror warfare failed to extinguish. All speakers hailed the twin event as indicative of the coming collapse of Nazi Germany, but they warned that the end was not yet in sight.

The addresses were in Yiddish and the plan to have them translated into English was dropped after Mr. Asch's speech because of lateness of the hour. A. B. Bennett, president of the Ontario Region, Canadian Jewish Congress, was chairman of the meeting. On the platform were prominent members in the Jewish community, as well as representatives of the civic government.

Wears Order of Lenin.

Prof. Michoels, who wears the coveted Order of Lenin for his services to the fatherland, was given an ovation when he rose and hobbled on crutches to the front of the platform. An accident in Chicago caused a leg injury which forced him to take to crutches. His colleague Lt.-Col. Feffer, commented humorously on the fact that Prof. Michoels had been in the front line of warfare without suffering injury, and then found himself temporarily crippled in America.

Both speakers told of the contribution of Russia's Jewry to the war on Fascism. Four million Jews had been wiped out by "the disciplined beasts of Hitler," Prof. Michoels said. He recounted some of the things he had seen, the awful shedding of blood; the practice of the Nazis in making sick Jews well so that they could be tortured. He declared that Jews must keep alive their hatred of nazism, of the Germans whose chief object was to exterminate all Jewry.

Small in stature, with an underslung jaw that gave his features a pugnacious cast, Prof. Michoels roused his listeners to enthusiasm as he told of the new life that had been opened up for Russian Jewry under the Soviet, and how Russian Jewry was shedding its blood to defeat the forces of reaction. The speaker related how the Germans set about the systematic extermination of all Jews who came within their grasp. World Jewry must never forget the acts of nazism, and in remembering, they must act with unity and accord in the fight against evil, he said.

Fine Military Record.

Feffer, the poet who joined Russia's Army as a private at the outset of war, is also built on small lines. But his military record and the powerful influence he exerted through his writings, brought him honors during two years of actual warfare.

J. A. Tuomkin, Charge D'Affaire of the U.S.S.R. Legation at Ottawa, spoke in English. He welcomed the opportunity of being on the same platform with two notable representatives of the Jewish faith from the Soviet Union. They represented not only Russian Jewry, but all the Russian people, he said. Mr. Tuomkin predicted that the fall of Italy and the recapture of Stalino would hasten the time when the Allies and the recapture of Stalio criminal—Nazi Germany.

Sholem Asch gave credit to Russia for the downfall of Italy, asserting that the epic of Stalingrad was the first great step in the collapse of Mussolini. The victory over Italy would not have been possible, but for Russian sacrifice, he said. The eclipse of Italy would lead to removal of the barrier separating the Allies from Germany, Mr. Asch said.

Wants To Live To See War Come To An End

His principal ambition an earnest desire to live to see the war come to an end. Oscar Scott of 81 Crescent street celebrates on Friday his 91th birthday.

Mr. Scott, who keeps up with current events by reading the papers and listening to the news over the radio regularly, is optimistic. He thinks there is a fair chance the war may be over before the end of the year.

Born in Minden, he lived for nearly half a century in Orono, spent several years in the States, and came to Peterborough last year, where he now lives with his daughter, Mrs. W. K. Sloane. Mr. Scott also has two sons, Wilber and Cecil, who are living in West Gilford.

Starting as a carpenter and cabinet-maker, Mr. Scott worked with the Bowmanville Organ Company before becoming an undertaker in Orono. Nowadays he kepts his skilled hands in practice by making and repairing things around the house, and has fashioned some handsome lawn chairs which decorate the grounds in front of his home. For a workbench he uses a bench his own father made, and this Mr. Scott surmises must be easily a hundred years old.

He attributes his long life to the fact that he never smoked or drank. Though neither of his parents lived to a remarkable age, a step-mother of Mr. Scott's was the grand old lady of Port Hope, attaining an age of 101 before she died.

Webb Is Guilty Awaits Sentence

Leo Webb who was arraigned on a charge of attempted rape on Wednesday in the Supreme Court was found guilty as [illegible] Justice Hope postponed sentence until the end of court.

The prisoner was accused of having followed a married woman, Mrs. Muriel Quinne, and her cousin, a 16-year-old girl through Central School grounds and across the footbridge over the Otonabee River at London street on the evening of April 10, as they returned home after shopping.

As the two women stepped off the east end of the bridge Webb jumped out and seized the younger girl. Mrs. Quinne testified that she was no match for the assailant and ran for the nearest house and called the police. She returned with C. L. Murphy, 107 Hazlett street and J. W. Anderson, Wolfe street, who held Webb until police arrived. Dr. Herbert Young testified that he found the girl in a highly nervous condition after her experience. Mr. Anderson stated that the young woman was hysterical and in a semi-conscious condition when he took her home. Constables Archie Menzies and Gordon Trennum also testified as to her nervous state.

V. J. McElderry, K.C., crown attorney, outlined the case for the jurors and carried on the case for the crown. W. C. Grant defended the accused who had no witnesses.

In commenting on the jury's decision, Mr. Justice Hope stated that it was the only reasonable verdict which could be given based on the evidence.

The petit jury was made up of Charles McMillan, Lee Barnes, Russell Wildman, Floyd Pullybank, Arthur Armstrong, Ray Bacon, Douglas Simpson, Barry Seabrook, Charles Clee, Fred Whatley, William C. Ackerman and Walter N. Baptie.

Personal Gifts Inspired By Bette Davis

Just how much one good deed will influence many others is very much reflected in today's account of the Peterborough and District British War Victims Fund activities, giving ample demonstration of that unknown factor which often accompanies or is to be found in every act which has as its object something for the benefit of mankind.

This far reaching effect started in this particular instance at Hollywood, California, where Bette Davis, well known star of movie film fame, had written a cheque in response to an appeal by Bob Everett on behalf of the local and district fund to aid the victims of air raids over Britain, which has already prior to this, inspired furthur help for the fund, to be followed in this day's report by no less than nineteen others who also inspired in like manner to extend a helping hand for the objects the fund seeks to serve.

The help on this occasion might really be divided into three different portions, one of which includes six of the film star's fellow American citizens who were holidaying in this city and include B. F. McCafferty and R. R. Hodgson of New Bethlehem, Pa., J. P. Gardiner of 429 4th Avenue, Pittsburgh, Pa., Tom T. Andrews of Dempsey and Andrews, New Bethlehem, Pa., Paul A. Kern of 31 Oakland Avenue, Detroit, Mich. and M. Rosenblatt of Akron, Ohio.

Another group is composed of those of the same christian name, coming into the circle of Bette Davis Club members on that account, and these include L/Cpl. Betty Turner, and the Misses Betty Hughes, Betty Kent and Betty Daly, and Miss Elizabeth McCarthy, for the shorter name is more often than not used in preferance to the longer one of Elizabeth.

The final group for the most part comprises members of the Stamp Out Hitler Clubs who have been giving good help to both the fund and the general war effort [illegible] stamps, and [illegible] Spiro Zakos and includes Bill Osborne, W. Coones, A. E. Thompson, I. Winberth, H. Ginsberg, M. Fox and E. Shoemaker.

While the amount of Bette Davis cheque has been desposited to the credit of the fund, the cheque itself has been retained, and it is quite on the cards that this may be offered as the prize for a draw. It will be of interest for all to know that Bette Davis is most active in helping many and varied war efforts along, holding the quite responsible position of President of the Hollywood Canteen which no less than 46 different societies sponsorship.

Sports Event Tickets

Tickets at 25 cents each have now been distributed throughout the city for the attractive sports event to take place at 2 p.m. on Saturday, September 11 between R.A.F. teams from the Picton and Mount Hope air stations. These soccer teams are both largely made up of some of England's finest players, and all who attended last year when this same feature was held in the interests of the fund, will undoubtedly be attracted to this event through the splendid football played at that time. Tickets may also be procured from members of the Peterborough Whitaker Cricket who are sponsoring this event, as well as at the Examiner office.

Minister Saves Motorist From Drowning

LINDSAY, Ont., Sept. 9.—William Ritchie of Minden, appearing in police court here today on charges of dangerous driving and intoxication, was remanded for trial in the Haliburton court. C. G. Frost, counsel for the accused, objected to a statement made by Crown Attorney J. E. Anderson that he was waiting the result of test being made of a blood sample taken from Ritchie following a car accident. "The test is being made without the consent of the accused," Mr. Frost stated, "and cannot be submitted as evidence.

According to police Ritchie had a miraculous escape from death when his car was completely submerged in the Gull River. It is alleged that his wife was awaiting on the river road for the return of her husband, and when she saw his car passing turned a flashlight on it. In a few seconds she heard a crash, and summoning Rev. MacLaren, ran to the river bank. Only the top of the vehicle was above water, and Rev. MacLaren immediately went into the water, and after opeuing the car door pulled out Ritchie. Investigation revealed that after leaving the road the car had broken through a guy wire, smashed through a heavy post and turned turtle into the deep river.

Dangerous Driving Cases.

Pleading guilty to leaving the scene of an accident and to dangerous driving James McNeil of [illegible] tence and fined $26. Police charged McNeil, following an accident on Lindsay street, in which a car after colliding with another vehicle driven by Miss Edith Irwin of Ann Arbour, hit a telephone post and continued on. Following two weeks of investigation, Constable P. Mark on examining the McNeil car, found pieces off the telephone post caught under the running board.

When a charge of dangerous driving against James McDuffy of Toronto was reduced to reckless driving the accused pleaded guilty and was fined $10. McDuffy was charged by Constable W. Hendron when he failed to report that his car had met with an accident on the Haliburton highway.

Guards Spot Car In Collision

When A. E. Couch and Fred Markwick, two of the guards on duty at the C. G. E.-Genelco plant heard a crash on Albert Street, Wednesday night, they ran to the fence just in time to see an automobile that had apparently collided with a parked car on the north side of Albert street, pulling away without stopping.

The guards were able to obtain the license number of the machine that was moving away and as a result police who investigated the case shortly afterward reported that R. Dooley, 393 High Street was the driver.

The parked car was owned by Arthur Foottit of Millbrook. It suffered a dent in the door of the trunk and had left the arm of the rear bumper broken.

Dooley's machine hd the right front tire torn and the fenders crushed.

Foxes Numerous

BELLEVILLE, Sept. 9 (CP) — Even foxes in the Oak Lake district are feeling meat rationing and farmers in the area report unusually numerous foxes and correspondingly depleted chicken pens this season. Mrs. Fern Sunde Replies To City's Letter

"She's a very modest young lady," was the comment of Mayor Hamilton when City Clerk Outram finished reading last night the following grateful letter from Mrs. Fern Sunde, acknowledging the city's congratulations in receiving Norwegian royal honors, sharing them with her husband, for their work in war-time merchant marine:

"Would you please convey to the council of the city of Peterborough my gratification of their kindness. My husband and I appreciate very much the council's words of congratulation.

Your letter is really too good to me, I am afraid. So far we have been very lucky and it is only through the will of God that our little ship has been able to establish something of a record. Naturally we on board are very proud of our little "ferry," as it has lovingly been called, and we were all so thrilled and proud when it was chosen to be honored by a visit from King Haakon and Crown Prince Olav.

Again, thank you very much. I shall always remember and appreciate your kindness."

Council Plans To Meet Twice Monthly

"I don't know any other city in the province that does not hold more than one meeting of its Council a month," said Alderman Gordon on Wednesday night introducing a resolution to adopt the bi-monthly meeting plan. Alderman Cotton seconded the motion, which carried unanimously.

"Even Belleville holds a weekly meeting," Alderman Gordon said. "Kitchener is another that follows the weekly meeting plan. The mu[illegible] has increased here to the point that needs more time and study."

"There is too much work for one meeting," was the comment of Alderman Cotton. "As the Examiner said the other night we are still in the horse and buggy stage with the one meeting a month. It would be better for the Council and the citizens if we would take more time to study the business that comes before the Council."

Alderman Bradburn said the change would overcome the difficulty which he had mentioned earlier in the meeting. He had pointed out that communications from the ratepayers and from others, received during the first week or ten days after a Council meeting, had to remain on file until the committees met toward the end of the month. They then passed into the hands of the Council, and in some instances a delay of two months might occur before action was taken. The lapse was entirely too long, and should be prevented.

Mayor Hamilton approved the Gordon proposal, but he also remarked that important correspondence was considered as promptly as possible. It is referred to him daily by City Clerk Outram.

At the air base His Excellency saw a striking example of International co-operation between the United States and Canada in the defence of the Pacific coast. He inspected and lunched at a Canadian-manned air base on Alaskan soil.

The arrangements for the Vice-Regal flight from Prince Rupert were made and directed by Group Capt. R. H. Foss of Montreal. Sqdn. Ldr. R. Dolson of London, Ont., was pilot.

Many Problems Facing New Committee

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9 (AP).—Political problems, particularly those of the Balkan powder-keg where restless Hungarians and Bulgarians already have been reported chafing against their war-forged bonds with Germany, are likely to be the main job of the Allied Mediterranean commission now being formed.

The commission's purpose, as explained in one official quarter today, is to deal with "problems arising from the consequences of military operations in Europe."

Another top official said its primary assignment is to get the Mediterranean out of the war.

It was not clear, however, whether this meant simply knocking Italy out as a prelude to even greater Allied blows in western Europe, or whether it signified new assaults in the Mediterranean in which Russia could be of assistance.

While Britain, the United States and Russia probably have agreed on basic principles, it appears that details have not yet been worked out.

The possibilities are that the commission may be:

1. A kind of super-A.M.G. composed of military authorities to deal with the administration of conquered and liberated areas.

2. A civilian body aimed at re-establishing local government and handling relief and rehabilitation problems.

3. A civilian group to determine political policies and avoid difficulties encountered in North Africa on that score—or a combination of these.

Play Ball

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9 — (AP)—Searching around for a code word every American soldier would understand during the African invasion, United States Army Chief of Staff George C. Marshall hit on: "Play ball!" he disclosed in his biennial report today that this expression was chosen to inform the men by radio they were to fire away with all they had.

Guerillas Anxious

LONDON, Sept. 9 (CP).—Albanian guerilla forces anticipate an Allied invasion of the Balkans within a month and the Germans are moving men and equipment from Yugoslavia into Albania to meet a possible thrust across the Strait of Otranto from the Italian heel, Istanbul press dispatches reported today.

Leaders of the Albanian guerilla bands met recently near Tirana to decide how best they could aid an invading Allied force, these reports said.

Munro Scoops World Again

TORONTO, Sept. 9 (CP). —The list of Ross Munro's war "beats" now includes the newly-won honor of getting to the world the first news story written on the Italian mainland by an Allied Correspondent since Italy entered the war in 1940.

The Canadian Press correspondent landed on the Toe of Italy with Anglo-Canadian forces early Friday morning, Sept. 3. His first story, dated Sept. 3, reached New York at 2.47 a.m., E.D.T., Saturday and was distributed to Canadian and United States newspapers. It was also the first story from Italy to reach England.

Seven hours later a story by Edward Gilling, a British correspondent with the invasion forces, reached New York and was distributed generally.

Other Canadian, British and American correspondents got stories through on Sunday.

Munro was the only correspondent to accompany the Canadian unit that raided Spitsbergen in August, 1941. His story of the Dieppe raid last year won world-wide acclaim and when the British-Canadian-American force landed on Sicily the CP correspondent's story reached the world 7½ hours ahead of all competition.

Japs Squeezing Macao Colony

CHUNGKING, Sept. 9 (AP). — A dispatch to Chungking newspapers from Macao, Portuguese colony on the coast of south China near Hong Kong, reported to-day the Japanese have demanded the installation of Japanese "advisers" in Macao under the pain of military occupation.

The governor of Macao is said to have refused the Japanese demand, reminding them of Portugal's neutrality status.

Thereupon, the dispatch reported, the Japanese allegedly sent additional troops into the districts bordering Macao, in order to "increase the pressure on the Portuguese authorities."

Ray Harvester Wins Trotting

STRATFORD, September 9— Ray Harvester in the trotting division and Lorne Lee in the pacing division won the 15th three-year-old contest here Wednesday. Lorne Lee paid $30 to $2 when he copped the first heat of the first division in 2:12¼. Here and There in Sport

By The Canadian Press

More than a dozen games of the crucial calibre are scheduled for the coming week-end in the play-downs of the Ontario Baseball Association, according to the draw announced by Secretary William J. Snyder at Hamilton, many important contenders figuring in clashes in nine different series.

In the senior "A" group, Trenton R.C.A.F. is scheduled to play the second fixture of the Eastern semi-finals with Toronto R.C.A.F. at Toronto while Welland seniors will play a return game with Hamilton Co-ops at Hamilton on Saturday. London Army has already copped two out of three encounters with Windsor. In the senior "B" class, Toronto will go to St. Catharines. In intermediate "A" Tecumseh plays at Ingersoll on Saturday and the return game will be played Sunday in the home-and-home hook-up while Brampton will entertain either Crowland or Hagersville Saturday. Maidstone goes to Guelph in intermediate "B." Windsor junior 'A' team will play the third game at Galt and St. Catharines will take on the Dresden junior "B" team, all tilts being scheduled for Saturday.

The lower classifications will see Waterloo at Niagara Falls in the juvenile; Kitchener at Hamilton for a third game at Toronto at St. Catharines in the midget, and Hamilton at Kitchener and Toronto at Welland in the bantam grade.

Veterans Enlist

With Max Bentley, Red Hamill and Wingie Johnson in the armed forces and goalie Bert Gardiner unavailable, the Chicago Black Hawks of the N.H.L. will report for training October 12 but President Bill Tobin said last night he did not know where because the two former conditioning centres had been taken over by the U. S. Army.

The baseballers of Trenton Air Station administered a 3-1 defeat against the visiting Toronto R.C.A.F. team last night to secure a start in the Eastern Ontario senior semi-finals of the O.B.A. The veteran Art Upper pitched for the winners.

London Army, sandlot champions of the year, advanced another step toward Senior O.B.A. honors yesterday at the Forest City by taking down a 10-7 decision from Windsor Local 200, after trimming the opposition in Windsor 2-0 last Sunday. Tommy White, ex-pro, was accorded the pitching victory.

Something approaching a record crowd for track and field sports in Canada was the attendance yesteraay of more than 8,000 at the fourth annual field day of the R.C.A.F. Technical Training School at St. Thomas. Officers, airmen and airwomen took part.

Prior to yesterday's National League game at Brooklyn, Infielder Joe Burns of the Boston Braves was suspended by Manager Case Stengel for absenting himself from the club squad without permission. Burns declared he had been going to his Philadelphia home on personal business.

Bowling Record.

F. C. Wilson of the London, Ont., Thistles has created an outstanding Provincial lawn bowling record, having won Ontario singles, doubles or rink title on seven of eight occasion, reaching the rink semifinals in 1941 for the exception. In 1929 he skipped the rink which captured the Dominion Gold Cup and repeated in 1931.

Playing on its home diamond, the Welland team received a setback last night in the Senior O. B. A. playdowns when Hamilton Co-Ops administered a 5-3 trimming to the Niagara League champs. Bill Buntrock hurled for the locals until the ninth when he was replaced by Sal Maglie.

Royals Defeat Buffalo 13-3

By The Associated Press.

Montreal Royals regained fourth place in the International League—the last play-off berth—by clubbing out a 13-3 victory over Buffalo last night. The Royals thus climbed from fifth place, half a game ahead of Rochester Red Wings who were beaten by Toronto, 4-1.

Bob Chipman chalked his sixth in a row and 15th of the season in pitching the Royals to victory. He had a comparatively easy time as his teammates, led by Bob Oritz, pounded out 20 hits.

Luke Hamlin won his 21st game in beating Rochester. He yielded only six hits and fanned five.

Baltimore likewise had its hopes for a play-off spot dampened as Syracuse rapped out a 15-4 victory. Ed. Klieman, of the Orioles, tried for his 24th victory, but suffered his 11th defeat instead.

Newark shutout Jersey City, 2-0, behind Jim Davis' seven-hit pitching. It was 29th shutout of the year for the Little Giants.

Canadians Star In Sport Meet

SOMEWHERE IN SCOTLAND, Sept. 9.—(CP).— A fast-stepping private who broke the tape in three events featured a sports meet of the Canadian Forestry Corps held in a Scottish park and including such competitions as sawing and chopping logs.

The triple winner was G. Crawford of Erinview, Man. He raced to victory in the 880-yard run, and the one and three-mile grinds. Only other victor in more than one event was L. E. Alford, of Chesterville, Ont., long-leaping private who won the running broad jump and the hop, step and jump, and laced third in running high. Sgt. G. V. Wright of Windsor, Ont., took the standing brood jump.

A husky private from Iroquois Falls, Ont., J. H. Olavsen, accounted for the 16-pound shot put event by heaving the ball 34 feet, nine inches.

A conquering Soviet Army is making smashing gains along numerous points on a 600-mile-long front. In the drive toward Smolensk, pivot of the German front, Stalin's troops captured more than 100 towns. A gain of 12½ miles west of Kursk resulted in the retaking of 160 towns. Further south, Russian units moving through the Donets Basin mining regions took Stalino and have cleared the Donets of Germans.

Boxer Wonders How He Stands

MONTREAL, Sept. 9.—(CP). — Johnny Touisgnant, also known as Johnny Price, Montreal welterweight, was only booked to fight his east-end rival Jean Paul Green once last night, but he had to whip the hard-hitting welterweight twice before tucking away the victory.

Referee Gordon Sauve, chagrined at Green's refusal to obey his "break" instructions, awarded the decision to Tousignant at the end of the fourth round much to the displeasure of the more than 1,000 fight fans.

The fans immediately demanded the fight continue, and a few of them entered the ring and made gestures at LAC. Dave Castilloux, triple Canadian titleholder, who was seconding Green.

Finally the Montreal Boxing Commission took a hand in the affair by recruiting another referee from the audience when Sauve refused to alter his decision. The fight continued until the eighth round when Green was forced to retire because of an injured arm.

To-day Tousignant is a little bewildered about the whole thing. He doesn't know whether his records should read . . "won by disqalification," or "by technical k.o. in the eighth."

Await New Word On 1st Division

OTTAWA, Sept. 9 —(CP) —Official comment was anticipated here to-day from Prime Minister Mackenzie King and the Defence Ministers on the part Canadian troops, fresh from the Sicily triumph, are playing in the latest Allied landings on the Italian mainland.

The official Algiers announcement of the landings, made in the vicinity of the Port of Naples, came early this morning— shortly after most of official Ottawa had turned in for the night— and there was no immediate authoritative comment.

The new landings were thought unofficially here to be the reason for the cancellation late yesterday of orders which had gone out from Ottawa a few hours earlier for celebration to mark the Italian capitulation. Army, navy and air force units were instructed not to take part in the ceremonies.

The Italian surrender opened up a wide range of possibilities, the most interesting of which —for Canadians— concerns the future operations of the Canadian army.

May Return.

The principal question is whether the 1st Division will continue with the British 8th Army as an occupying force in Italy, engage in fighting against the Germans in Italy, march from Italian bases into new Axis territory or return to the Canadian army under Lt. Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton for other offensive operations against the Germans.

As the Italian armistice was signed just about the time British and Canadian troops moved from Sicily to the mainland of Italy, it was taken for granted that a lack of opposition from the Italians was foreseen and that the whole of the Canadian 1st Division did not take part in that operation.

While it is settled Government policy that Canadian forces are to fight in larger or small formations wherever they can accomplish most, the existence of a Canadian army organization in Britain, ready to fight as an army, keeps alive the possibility of all Canadian troops fighting together.

The 1st Division now is battle-tested after conflict with both Italian and German forces in Sicily. Should it return to the Canadian command for other operations it could lend strength, stability and experience to the other four divisions and the headquarters establishments of the Canadian Army.

Toscanini Delighted

NEW YORK, Sept. 9 —(AP) — Arturo Toscanini, famed alien orchestra conductor and anti-fascist, yesterday compared his thoughts on Italy's surrender to "waves in a stormy sea." The man who was assaulted by Mussolini' Black Shirted Fascists in Italy, he refused to direct the Facist anthem, said he is "overwhelmed with joy" at the news.

Nov. 1 Deadline for Parcel Mailing

OTTAWA, Sept. 9 (CP) — Faced with the task of moving more Christmas mail to more Canadians in more corners of the world than ever before, the Postoffice Department announced today the deadline for parcel mailings will be Nov. 1.

Parcels mailed by that date—unless there is a mad rush at the last moment— will be delivered to Canadians in Sicily, Italy, Ceylon, North Africa, the United Kingdom, the Aleutians, the West Indies or wherever else Canadians may be.

The mailing deadline is set 10 days earlier than in 1942.

Officials said Christmas mailings overseas last year amounted to 8,500,000 pounds, compared with 5,500,000 pounds in the previous year. This year, with more Canadian servicemen and women overseas, they anticipate a total mail load of about 10,000,000 pounds.

"We are suggesting that Canadians planning to get Christmas mail to their friends overseas get started as soon as possible," one official said.

"It is far better that a parcel be mailed in September or October with the assurance that it will be delivered in time—barring accidents beyond any control—than that the men overseas should be disappointed at Christmas by not receiving the expected gifts from home."

Officials said the Canadian Postal Corps had followed Canadian forces into Sicily and wherever else they went. Within two or three days of the Sicilian landings in July, mail was moving to and from men in the front lines.

"At Christmas time our postal corps men will be with the Canadians wherever they are located," a spokesman said.

"This means that Christmas mail will move right up to the front line and be made available to men there without delay."

Britain Not Excited

LONDON, Sept. 9 — (AP) — Britain received the news of the fall of Italy calmly last night, with the man-in-the-street taking it as a signal for the early cleanup of the continent. There were no big demonstrations in London — just generally broader smiles. Newspaper hailed the news as the breakup of the Axis.

Canadians Appeal Charge Of Murder

LONDON, Sept. 9—(CP Cable)—The Daily Mail today said the Canadian Government has asked that an appeal be made to the House of Lords against the death sentence on Pte. Charles Eugene Gauthier, 25, Canadian soldier convicted of the murder of Mrs. Annette Pepper last March.

The paper described the Canadian appeal as "an extraordinary development" and said Gauthier's execution scheduled for September 10 had been postponed as a result.

Gauthier was convicted of killing the woman with a Bren gun because he was jealous of her friendship with another soldier.

WI Members Learn of First Aid

MILLBROOK, Sept. 9 — (ENS). —Representative members of the Women's Institute met on Tuesday morning to take a course of instruction on accident prevention and first-aid in common emergencies in the home, the leader being Miss Helen B. Gardiner of the W. I. Branch, Department of Agriculture, Toronto.

Miss Gardiner was overseas in the last war, is a member of the Victorian Order of Nurses, took her original training at St. Luke's Hospital, New York, has served as school nurse for a number of years and last fall covered a refresher course at the University of Toronto under Dr. Couch. Her lectures covered the subject fully, and she gave demonstrations and practical work, in which she had the students take part. After pointing out that 85 per cent of the accidents take place in and around the homes the speaker specialized on falls and burns, sugesting as causes scalds from saucepans with the handle protruding from the stove or the table, or from tubs of hot water left on the floor; children playing with matches; passing hot liquids over people's heads; electric fixtures with trailing wires; going upstairs with hot water in one hand and carrying a child on the other arm; curtains; using coal oil to light fires; cleaning fluids for clothing; and sparks from fireplaces or stoves.

Watch Treatment.

"Any burn four inches or more in area should be regarded as serious; no grease or oil should be applied; nor should blisters be punctured, nor the clothing ripped off. Some form of tannic acid, either in powder form or from strong boiled tea, applied as a wet dressing, and put on cold not hot, is the remedy."

Talking of a first-aid kit, Miss Gardiner suggested simply a shoe box, a bottle of tannic acid, iodine, baking soda, vinegar, triangular bandage (half of a 40-inch square), baby triangle bandages for fingers or toes (half of a 6 or 8 inch square), clinical thermometer being among the contents listed. She suggested that W.I. members bring their first-aid boxes to a specified meeting and compare contents, and tell of occasions when certain articles were of particular use.

The proportions for using baking soda to counteract acid in a burn were given as one level teaspoon to a cup of water, or vinegar or lemon juice in the same measure to counteract a burn from lye or other alkaline substance. Plain boiled water may be used if nothing else is available, the main idea being to keep the dressing wet. For the clean dressings for the first-aid box made of old muslin or linen pieces, running a hot iron over them will sterilize, and then fold inside plain brown paper, also run over with the hot iron, and mark "clean dressings," she said.

"If you wish to sterilize in the oven, put in with a medium-sized potato, and when that is baked, the work is complete. Wax paper over a wet dressing will keep it damp, or absorbent cotton with muslin folded over it; wring always from the back, so the face of the bandage which touches the injured part has the sterilization intact. And always protect from the spray from nose or throat."

Art of Bandaging.

Practical work bandaging various parts of the body for breaks; getting "floor conscious" as a safe place to leave a patient, properly protected, until the doctor arrives; treating shock by keeping the patient prone and warm, with covering over and under, and giving spirits of ammonia, or allowing it to be inhaled, as a stimulant, strong tea or coffee being also recommended were among the concluding items in the morning's program.

In the afternoon, bruises, sprains and broken bones and their treatment, with the proper application of splints, were subjects of practical study; bleeding and the use of a tourniquet for its stoppage, or in the case of nose bleeding, pressure below the nostrils; artificial respiration, and antidotes for poisons, also being taken up as fully as the time would allow.

Miss Gardiner emphasized that when some sharp object, such as a tack or a pin, had been swallowed, the patient should swallow 5 or 6 bits of absorbent cotton soaked in water; both are indigestible; bits of thread or cotton ravelled out, if absorbent is not at hand, will do as well. The speaker illustrated the saving of laundry by taking a piece of cotton large enough to fold inside of it eight or nine thicknesses of newspaper and use this under a patient's thighs. The edges on the under side fold over just deep enough to hold the paper in place. For hiccoughs which may be serious, interference with the respiration was stressed— holding a bag over the nose, holding the breath and sipping water, tying corks at the wrists; sometimes giving an enema being listed.

Mis Gradiner was the guest of Mrs. J. W. Hilton, district secretary-treasurer, while in the village, and she proceeded to Mount Pleasant the following day.

Public Kitchens In Use In Berlin

STOCKHOLM, Sept. 9 (AP). — The recent Allied bombings of Berlin have not only transformed wide areas of the German capital into rubble, but paralyzed its public services and much of its amusement facilities, according to travellers arriving here.

A newly received issue of the Berlin newspaper Lokalanzeiger stated that most of the capital has no gas to cook with and that emergency field kitchens have been set up extensively.

Some 7,000 persons are being fed by means of public kitchen in one southwest Berlin suburb alone, the paper said.

One traveller said "when those big R. A. F. bombs hit a building there was absolutely nothing left.."

DOROTHY DIX

WOMAN LEAVES HER MATE FOR OTHER MARRIED MAN

He Promised to Divorce His Wife But Has Changed His Mind.

◆ ◆ ◆

DEAR MISS DIX: About two and a half years ago I met a married man with whom I fell desperately in love, and I left my husband and went to live with him, thinking that I would get a divorce, he would likewise and we would be married. But he never really said he loved me, or promised to marry me. However, fool that I am, I thought I saw the love light in his eyes and that marriage with my little tin god was just around the corner. Well, we drifted along that way and now the change has come. He is tired. He tells me that he never had any intention of marrying me that men don't have to marry women who don't demand a wedding ring. He says you can't trust any woman, accuses me of lying, and twists around what I say so that he makes the truth sound otherwise. He wants to get rid of me, but I can't let him go. He is my life. I would be dead without him. He is everything I have in the world. Do you suppose he will ever marry me? I just can't give him up. I am miserable, sick, and so nervous I can't think straight. What shall I do?

MISERABLE.

ANSWER: For everything we get in this world we must pay the price. That is the immutable law no one an change or break. You choose illicit love when you broke your marriage vows and indulged in a liaison with another woman's husband and threw your good name away. You have had your chance. Now you have to settle your score with the piper, and it is a bitter and a big one that will leave you bankrupt in heart, in hope, in the respect of all who know you, in everything that makes life worth living.

And your fate is the common fate of practically every woman who is guided by her emotions instead of principles. It is inevitably the end of under-the-rose romances and every woman has seen it happen so often to some other foolish woman you wonder that even the most stupid of her sex is not warned by the fate of poor, bedraggled castoff mistresses whom they have seen sink lower and lower into the mire of the gutter.

But they are not. Each woman thinks "this can't happen to me." She says to herself the man I love loves me. He will be faithful. He will marry me, and I will have a respectable place in society. And so she follows her desire. There are a few rapturous weeks of blazing passion. Perhaps the love nest may even endure for a year or so. And then the man begins to yawn with boredom, wake up from his dream, and look about for some fresher, younger, newer face. And it is all over for the woman.

There is nothing she can do about it. There is no way she can hold the man. There is no magic by which she can make herself alluring to him again. There is no possible chance of her ever making him marry, because if he had ever intended to wed her he would have done it in the first place. He wouldn't have degraded her, blackened her name by making her his mistress.

My earnest advice to you is, cease befooling yourself with the idea that this man, who has never even pretended to love you or promised to marry you, will ever make you his wife. Wake up from your dream and try to redeem the life that you have made such a mess of so far. Go away from where people know you and what you have been. Learn some skill at which you can be self-supporting and independent, and you may yet find happiness. Don't waste the balance of your life weeping over this callous, selfish man and eating your heart out in longing for something that you can never have.

◆ ◆ ◆

DEAR MISS DIX: In spite of many magazine articles and radio talks on the subject, I want to say that the chances for employment for women in their late fifties and early sixties are nil. If the need for women workers is as great as is supposed why doesn't industry take down the bars to age and let ability and the desire for work have a chance? The older women are more faithful to duty than girls. They don't have a day-after complex as younger women have. Nor would their absenteeism be as much. And they should be preferred risks in defense work. Do not get the idea that I am knocking young girls. They are the salt of the earth. But if there is really need for additional help, why not give the older women a chance?

—FIFTY-SIX

ANSWER: I certainly agree with all you say. Older women have much to give to their jobs by reason of their age and experience and knowledge of people that no young girl can, and personally, I always prefer to deal with them. When I go shopping I always pick out an oldish clerk to wait on me, for she will be interested in what I want to buy, instead of a young girl who is telling her fellow cutie what a perfectly swell dance she went to last night with her boy friend.

The trouble with the middle-aged woman heretofore has been that she had only a domestic background and has not been trained for any other kind of work but now, when there are schools for teaching every imaginable skill, this difficulty has been overcome, and any able-bodied, intelligent woman should be able to fit herself for a job which should be useful to the Government and profitable to herself.

And, incidentally, why should not the shoemaker stick to her last, as the old proverb advises us, and the women who have been housewives and reared families capitalize on what they know of cooking and taking care of babies? There is a crying need for that service all over the country. Cooks are worth their weight in gold, and young women who are capable of doing specialized war jobs are kept from doing so by having to stay at home and take care of children, because they can find no trustworthy, motherly woman who will demean herself by going into another woman's kitchen or nursery. It is false pride instead of lack of work that keeps many a person who is fiftyish out of a good-paying job.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: What can girls in high school do who want to help in war work?

—ALICE.

◆ ◆ ◆

ANSWER: Go to the Red Cross or any church and they will find plenty of jobs for you.

Summer Into Autumn

By ALICE ALDEN

HERE IS a portrait of a charming girl charmingly dressed for late Summer or early Fall. Nancy Coleman bridges the gap with an early Autumn frock and a late Summer hat. The frock is of black rayon crepe with the new high neckline and easy dolman sleeves and is trimmed with black lace and lush velvet roses. The parasol hat is of layers of black maline, but the frock will look just as well with a velvet or felt hat.

Ladylike Duffel Bags

By PRUNELLA WOOD

IF YOU have to smash your own baggage on what journeys you have to take in wartime, it's good sense to get the lightest weight luggage available and cut down your load from scratch.

Fabric luggage fills the bill, as its lack of heft does not connote lack of durability. In the three new style duffel bags pictured above, the designer, Virginia Blake, can pack enough gear to wardrobe two people for two weeks, she states. Colors are swank for the canvas rolls.

Libby's 75th ANNIVERSARY

RAIN-BARREL IN REVERSE
Shower-bath for city streets, à la 1868, was essential to "laying the dust" when paved streets were the exception.

PROGRESS in the past 75 years has been accelerated to a swift pace such as the world has never known before.

From the founding of the world's oldest cannery by Nicolas Appert at Paris, France, in 1812, until Libby's came upon the scene in 1868—to become the processer of the largest variety of canned foods in the world—development was laborious, slow and limited to a few select items only. During Libby's 75 years (31 years manufacturing in Canada) canning has grown to encompass a multitude of foods and provide over 10% of the nation's nourishment.

The surpassing quality and exquisite flavour of Libby's products now extend to over 100 fine foods—fruits and fruit juices, soups and vegetables, pickles and condiments, milk and infant preparations—and the Libby's Label is your assurance of dependable, uniform goodness in every one.

Today Libby's enables you, at little cost, to enrich your table with a wide variety of nourishing, tasty foods—some of which were quite unknown 75 years ago and all of which consistently provide the finest possible quality.

Beauty in Stone Marten

I. J. Fox

By PRUNELLA WOOD

STONE marten is a fur becoming to old and young. Despite its fluffiness (which makes for warmth, incidentally) it is a good variety fur, too, and one that goes out by day or night equally well.

Here we have a coat which would be welcomed by the lady of the house or by her deb daughter. Pelts are worked vertically except for the turned back, open cuffs, and the small lapelled collar which is designed not to interfere with hat backs.

This Weeks Wartime Recipe

Contributed By Mary Moore Readers

A QUICK CAKE.

I've been saying saccharin was no good in baked goods but I doubted myself—so to prove I was wrong I have baked nine cakes this week and finally evolved this one which by the way the family and some drop-in guests for tea gobbled it up, must be pretty good:

EMEM'S SUGAR-SAVER CAKE.

One cup milk, 1 egg, beaten, ¼ cup melted shortning 7½ grain saccharin tablets dissolved in 1 tablespoon hot (but not boiling) water, 2 cups sifted cake flour, 1 tablespoon baking powder, 3 tablespoons cocoa, 3 tablespoons sugar, ½ teaspoon salt.

Beat the egg and add the milk. Dissolve the saccharin tablets in the hot water and add them.

Sift the flour, measure it, then add all the dry ingredients and sift all together. Then add the melted shortening to the egg and milk mixture and sift all the dry ingredients over the wet mix. Stir quickly to blend well— that's all—don't beat. Pour immediately into 2 buttered and floured layer cake tins and immediately put into hot oven of 425 deg. Fahr. and bake 20 minutes.

Put together with

Corn Syrup Frosting.

Bring to boiling point ½ cup (4 oz.) corn syrup and immediately pour over 1 stiffly beaten egg white, beating until it will hold its shape. Spread between and over cake when cake is cool.

W.A. Meets In Bridgenorth

BRIDGENORTH, Sept. 9—(ENS)—The monthly meeting of the W. A. was held at the home of Mrs. Clayton Telford. There were sixteen ladies present. The meeting opened with the hymn "Rescue the Perishing," prayer was said by Mrs. Pettersone. The Scripture was read by Mrs. W. Telford and the lesson thought by Mrs. Chatten. The lesson on temperance was taken by Mrs. Pettersone. Mrs. Chatten then gave a recitation. "The Drunkard's Child."

The ladies are planning to have a pot-luck supper to raise funds for Christmas boxes for the boys overseas to be held in the basement of the church on September 14. The meeting closed with the hymn "I love to tell the Story" and benediction, after which the hostess served a lunch and a social half-hour was enjoyed.

The Tailored Fashion

Hockanum Wools

Smooth weaves are 1943 news in fashionable wools. Such fabrics lend themselves to other than man-tailored designs, but, as above, can be highly successful when severe.

By PRUNELLA WOOD

The girl in this photograph is as slick and pretty as tailoring can make her. Nothing severe in effect . . . just perfection of line and finish.

Color, too, is involved in this fashion success. The suede finished wool for the high-throated, cutaway suit is gold; the duvetyn wool topcoat is grape purple.

QUESTION—I cooked okra, buttered and seasoned it and was so disappointed as we grew it for the first time—it was so slimy we could not eat it yet it looked so nice. Please tell me at once before it gets too old—two pods were too tough to use already. How do you prepare ogra? Thanking you,

MRS. J. CLARK.

❖ ❖ ❖

ANSWER—Okra is at its best when one inch or under in diameter.

Stewed Okra

Wash okra and cut off stem ends. If the pods are very small leave them whole; if not cut into 1-inch pieces. Drop prepared okra into boiling salted water and cook until tender. Drain and season it with salt and pepper and pour over it melted butter—about 1 teaspoon to each cup of okra.

Okra is always more or less slimy —this is one of the characteristics of the vegetable.

Sauteed Okra

Wash 1 quart okra and dry and cut off stem ends and slice the okra crosswise in thin slices. Melt 2 tablespoons butter and add the okra to it and cover and cook gently for 10 minutes stirring frequently. Remove cover and continue cooking until the okra is tender and golden brown.

Okra is very commonly served with tomatoes.

Tomatoes and Okra

Two tablespoons butter or bacon drippings, ½ cup finely chopped onion, 1 quart sliced okra, 2½ cups canned tomatoes, 1½ teaspoons salt, ½ teaspoon paprika, ¼ teaspoon curry powder, 2 teaspoons brown sugar. Melt the butter and add the onion and fry until light brown then add the okra and fry for 5 minutes. Add the tomatoes, salt, paprika, curry and sugar and simmer these ingredients covered until the okra is tender. Green peppers is a nice addition. This list of ingredients may be baked together and sprinkled with cheese, and milk may be added—this would be called Tomatoes and Okra au Gratin.

In the South okra is a "must" in Gumbos, which are one of the most common types of soup.

Beef Gumbo

Two tablespoons butter, a beef soup bone, 3 quarts water, cup each chopped celery, parsley, onion, okra 2½ cups tomatoes fresh or canned, 2 teaspoons salt, ¼ teaspoon paprika, 1 tablespoon sugar, 2½ tablespoons quick-cooking tapioca. Melt the butter and saute the soup bone in it until all the surfaces that contact the pan are brown. Cover with the water and simmer 2 hours, then add all the vegetables and salt and paprika and sugar and boil until meat falls from the bone and vegetables are nearly tender. Ten minutes before serving add the quick-cooking tapioca. Chopped fresh parsley may be sprinkled on top of the gumbo when serving.

We hope these recipes please you and that the treatments I have given you for okra will overcome excessive sliminess — a certain amount of it you must get used to.

QUESTION:—Some months past you published recipes using bread flour, for cookies and cakes to be sent overseas. At the time I did not think I would be needing these recipes, and did not save them. Could you please send me any, or publish some in the paper, that will be suitable for overseas boxes?

Also, I have several good honey recipes for cakes and was wondering if I could bake the cakes in pound coffee tins, and if so how long I should bake them. In using a loaf tin, the recipe states cake should be baked two hours. As I am afraid of food poisoning wanted to make sure cake would be alright if baked in baking powder tins, or coffee tins.

Also please tell me how to pack cookies and cake, so they will retain their freshness and not crumble. The last cookies I sent overseas reached their destination in very fine crumbs.

HELEN POLLOCK.

❖ ❖ ❖

ANSWER — A good recipe for cookies for overseas is:

Honey Cakes

(These are German Christmas cookies and keep exceptionally well.)

One half pound mixed peel, 1 cup chopped blanched amonds, 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind, 3 tablespoons cinnamon (less of this if you are not fond of spices), 1 teaspoon cloves, 3 1-3 cups icing sugar, 6 eggs, 1 pint honey, 1 tablespoon soda, 2 tablespoons hot water, ¼ cup orange juice, 5 cups bread flour.

Mix together peel, almonds, lemon rind, spices and sugar. Beat until light the eggs. Bring to boiling point the honey, then cool it to lukewarm. Dissolve the soda in the 2 tablespoons water and mix it and the beaten eggs with the cooled honey. Add the orange juice. Mix this with the fruit and nut mixture and sift the flour into it, stirring well. Permit the dough to stand for 12 hours or more. Drop from spoon well apart, on greased baking sheet and bake cakes in moderate oven of 350 deg. Fahr. When cool they may be frosted but this is not necessary. Wrap each cookie in waxed paper when packing to send overseas.

Molasses Bars.

(These keep well and are not so crisp they will crumble when shipped, but of course each cookie should be wrapped separately for overseas shipment).

One-half cup sugar, ¼ cup butter, 1 egg, ½ cup molasses, 2 cups bread flour, ¼ teaspoon each soda and salt, 1½ teaspoons baking powder, ½ cup milk, 1 cup broken nuts, 1 cup chopped dates and raisins. Beat the butter and sugar together until creamy then add the beaten egg. Sift the flour and measure and resift with the soda, salt and baking powder. Add the flour mixture alternately to the butter mixture alternately the milk, 1-3 of each at a time, beating the bater after each addition until smooth. Stir in nuts and fruits. Spread on greased sheet cake pan of about 9 by 13 inches and bake at 375 deg. Fahr. When still warm cut into bars or squares.

Bran Date Bread De Luxe.

This is delicious either in baking powder tins (2-3 full) or in heavy waxed paper.

Two cups dates, 2 cups boiling water, 2 eggs, ¾ cup brown sugar, 2 cups whole wheat flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon soda, 2 cups bran, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1 cup or less of chopped nuts.

Pour the boiling water over the dates and let stand. Beat the eggs and add the sugar to them. When creamy sift in 1 cup whole wheat flour mixed with the baking baking powder and soda. Add half the date mixture to this. When mixed sift in remaining cup whole wheat flour mixed wtih bran. Add the remaining date mixture, vanilla and nuts. Mix well. Put into greased baking powder tins 2-3 full or into loaf pan and bake at 350 deg. Fahr for 1 hour. Cool very well before putting on lids if baking powder tins are used.

Pound coffee tins are perfectly safe for baking cakes. If a loaf cake taks 2 hours baking the baking time would be between 1½ to 1¾ hours if the batter were baked in 1 lb. coffee tins.

Dinners Of The Week ..

By MARY MOORE

SUNDAY.

Mixed September Grill
Generous Bowl of Salad Greens
Compote of Chilled Pears
Crackers and Cheese
Coffee.

NOTE. — Order minced lamb patties or minced lamb from shoulder and make into patties. Wrap each pattie in a strip of side bacon and fasten with toothpick. Place on broiler rack about 3 inches from heat and broil until golden brown on one side, then turn over. At this point place halves of crumbed tomatoes on broiler with meat patties, and buttered small cobs of raw corn. Tomatoes need only to be broiled on one side, but corn has to be turned one-third way round twice. When patties, and tomatoes and corn are done "to a turn" arrange attractively on large hot platter, and garnish effectively with parsley. Mint Jelly is just right with the lamb patties and broiled tomatoes.

Prepare Now for Your Garden Next Year

PREPARE THE SOIL WELL

Nothing lifts the spirits so as does the sight of bright, lovely flowers growing around your home. True, it may be too late in the year to plant flowers, but prepare now for next year and get your ground ready.

Decide now what you want. You might want to flank your steps with bush roses. Polyanthus are beautiful and hardy and bloom for you all summer long—in orange-scarlet, pink or white.

Though you can grow many roses from cuttings, those propagated by budding do better, particularly the two-year field grown."

A veritable little Eden so easily created! Our 32-page booklet tells how to prepare soil, fertilize, for a thriving garden. Gives directions for making a rich green lawn, for growing trees, shrubs, bulbs, annuals, perennials, vines, herbs.

For your copy of booklet "Preparing Your Garden For Next Year" send 15 cents in coin or stamps to the Home Service Department of the Peterborough Examiner. Be sure to write your name, address and name of booklet plainly.

"The Authority on Authorities"

DON'T BE A PESSIMIST

SO LONG as there is a chance, though very remote, to make his contract, almost any declarer will try for it. You don't see that same spirit on the defense, however. Often a fair player will give up the ghost by merely reckoning that it is virtually impossible for his partner to hold the one card which would be required for him to set the contract, and so will not play him for it.

North	East	South	West

3 ♦	3 ♠	Pass	4 ♠

North and South had a terrific squabble after this deal was over really the kind which you never should see at a table where people are playing bridge, a game meant to produce pleasure for the participants.

South opened by laying down his diamond A, and then switched to his heart 6. The declarer reckoned that the K was surely under his tenace in view of South's bid. So he put in the Q and the K won for North. Back came a diamond, which South ruffed with the spade 5. That made three tricks for the defense, but it also constituted all but one that the pair got, as South then led to the heart A. Two high spades dropped the Q and J, and a club was given up at the end for down one.

If South, when in on the third trick after his diamond ruff, had led a club, North could have won with the A and returned another diamond. If East ruffed high, he would have built a trump trick for South, setting the contract two tricks.

In the argument, South said he thought it much more likely that North could ruff a second heart than that North could hold the club A. But North must have had something in high cards for his diamond bid, and a singleton heart K hardly would have been sufficient, according to North, who maintained South should have counted him for the club A.

Pickets Block Workers At Windsor Plant

WINDSOR, Ont. Sept. 9 (CP)—J. H. Barth, secretary-treasurer of the Gotfredson, Limited, war plant here, estimated Wednesday that one third of the Company employees were "on the job."

Some workers, he said, were kept away by pickets who paraded before the plant, which employs approximately 1,000 persons.

An unestimated number yesterday failed to return to work after the holiday week-end in protest against the dismissal of Aullay Miller, chairman of the United Automobile Workers of America (C.I.O.) Union Committee in the plant.

Union officials today said telegrams were sent to Premier Drew of Ontario and Hon. Charles Daley, Provincial Labor Minister, asking them to intervene in the dispute.

Company officials said pickets paraded before the plant stopping some men who reported shortly before 7 a.m.

Some Production

"We are operating," said Mr. Barth, "and the plant is open to any employee who wants to work."

Union officials, on the other hand, said Company plants were not operating.

Employees refused to work yesterday when it became known that Miller had been dismissed. A large number of the men congregated in front of the plant after the work stoppage and a spokesman for the group said they were not going back to work until the dispute was settled.

Company officials said Miller was fired "for a cause."

Last Friday, a number of employees walked off their jobs after Miller refused to accept a swing job shift. The plant remained closed Saturday to give workers a longer Labor Day holiday.

They were scheduled to start back again Tuesday morning.

Where To Now?

LONDON, Sept. 9 (CP).—The German radio reported today that there are "indications" that the U.S. 7th Army stationed in the Mediterranean area has gone to sea.

"News of the beginning of landing operations is not yet available," said the broadcast recorded by The Associated Press.

The 7th Army participated in the conquest of Sicily.

Under His Nose

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 9—(AP).—The J. D. Consulting its inventory listings, the local W.P.G. office located the steel in a jiffy—in a plant across the street from Adams."

Hitler Orders Reorganization

LONDON, Sept. 9 — (CP). — Hitler has ordered a complete reorganization of Germany's bomb-hampered war production, the German Radio reported today in a broadcast of a decree dated September 2.

Wider powers were given Albert Speer, Minister for Armament and Production, who was placed in charge of all Nazi war production.

To Economics Minister Dr. Walther Funk was delegated the responsibility for "the general trend of economic policy, for supply of the civilian population, for currency problems, for foreign trade and for financing German economy and the economy of protectorates."

Funk was called into the central planning committee.

"War events have made necessary further concentration regarding organization and management of German war economies," said the broadcast, recorded by The Associated Press.

The radio said the powers of Marshal Goering and Foreign Minister von Ribbentrop were not infringed by the new arrangement.

Fleet Seeks Safety Moves To Pola Port

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa, Sept. 9 (AP).— It was learned to-day the Italian navy has abandoned Toranto on the inner heel of teh Italian boot, as a naval base.

Warships recently steamed out of the much-bombed port and proceeded to Pola, apparently for safekeeping. Pola is on the western coast of the Adriatic south of Trieste and is about the farthest Italian port from present areas of war activity.

The other main part of the Italian navy still is at La Spezia as far as is known here. La Spezia is in northwestern Italy, some 60 miles southeast of Genoa.

Gen. Marshall Provides War Survey

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

The report by Gen. George Marshall, United States chief-of-staff, on the progress of the war is one of the finest military surveys produced since the world conflict started—a great accounting by a great soldier—and certainly falls within the class of "required reading."

The general gives a graphic summary of the war period between July 1, 1941, and June 30 of this year. It's shorn of unusual military terms and is wholly understandable to all.

The chief-of-staff's story is the record of Allied progress from the depths of peril to the present time of absolute assurance of victory. He doesn't attempt to predict when the war will be over; he doesn't say it will be short, and he doesn't say it will be long.

Victory Certain

"The end is not yet clearly in sight, but victory is certain," he states with calm optimism.

That's encouraging enough for anybody. The thing a lot of folk will like about it is that the general doesn't deem it necessary to bludgeon the public by threatening that the war is going to last forever and a day. There are a lot of self-designated psychologists who think the only way to give people determination to carry on is to frighten them by predicting a long war.

Gen. Marshall doesn't specifically mention the "second front" which Moscow is demanding. He does say, however, that the Anglo-American aerial offensive against the European continent "gives promise of being a decisive factor in the ultimate destruction of the German citadel." We know, of course, that an invasion of western Europe is projected by the Allies, and we also know that the way must be thoroughly prepared by bombardment from the air. It's logical to assume that the invasion will come when the bombing has sufficiently reduced German strength.

In this connection it's interesting to note that the Washington Star the first of this week disclosed on what it termed the highest authority that Gen. Marshall will be commander-in-chief of any Allied invasion of the continent across the English Channel.

Relieved Stomach Misery, Backache and Dizzy Spells For This Grateful Man

Says Syntona Gave First Real Results After Year of Suffering. Limbs, Joints Ached, Sleep Broken. Tired, Rundown. "Feel Fine Now," He Says.

MR. JOHN MOOTE

"In the past year I had no end of trouble with stomach and kidney disorders," said Mr. John Moote, 443 Ferguson Avenue North, Hamilton, Ontario, recently:

"I suffered with gas pains, bloated feeling and indigestion after almost every meal. Sour acid risings came up in my throat. I was subject to dizzy, billous spells and my nerves were tense; I couldn't sleep well, and I felt fatigued and rundown. I had to rise at night to relieve my kidneys. My back was aching all the time. It often got sore and lame and hurt when I stooped over. More recently I began to have aches and pains all through my limbs, joints and muscles.

"After taking various things without any benefit, I read in the paper about Syntona and decided to try it. Even before I finished the first bottle I felt definitely better. Now I have come to tell you how this medicine has helped me. I am enjoying my meals again and I don't have that gas, sour acid risings, and indigestion. The dizziness and billous spells haven't troubled me lately and I sleep soundly at night. That tired, fatigued feeling has gone. Syntona also helped my kidneys. I don't have to get up nights as I used to and the backache and other aches and pains have practically all gone away. I am certainly pleased and I recommend Syntona to anyone suffering as I did."

It is made from the pure liquid extracts of 12 of Nature's Finest Herbs and Roots. It acts on stomach, kidney, liver and bowels.... aids in the elimination of excess acids and poisonous waste matter, and promotes better assimilation of food for increased strength and energy.

Syntona is sold and recommended in Peterborough at Elliott's Drug Store.—(Advt.)

CITY OF ROME FALLS TO GERMANS

Red Advance Splits Nazi Armies

Advance 80 Miles In Three Days South Of Stalino

By HENRY C. CASSIDY
Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, Sept. 10 — (AP).—The Red Army marched across the northern Ukraine today along a 100-mile front from Bakhmach to Zenkov, closing in on Kiev and the Germans' middle Dnieper River defence line, less than 80 miles away.

The new push in the centre of this front, reported by the Army newspaper Red Star, brought the Russians to a series of small streams northeast of Romny, 135 miles east of Kiev, while the right wing bore down from Bakhmach, capture of which was triumphantly announced yesterday, toward northeast Kiev.

The left wing, which has served as a base for an immense turning movement against Kiev, rested on Zenkov and the Psel River defences which have been outflanked from the north by a Red army arc swinging to the west.

The immediate Soviet objective in the centre was plainly labelled as Priluki, 50 miles southwest of Romny and 81 miles east of Kiev.

A breakthrough in this sector would create a direct threat to Kiev, most important Ukraine city and shatter the German defences to the southeast around Poltava and on the eastern bulge of the Dnieper.

Romny was threatened from three sides after yesterday's capture of Smeloe, 15 miles to the north, Nedrigaylov, 18 miles to the east, and Sinevka, 30 miles to the southeast.

Yesterday's capture of Bakhmach 16 miles southwest of Konotop on the road to Kiev, virtually split the German southern and central defence sectors.

Capture of this vital rail centre would further cut the German north-south communications and would jeopardize the whole German position in the Crimea, toward which other Russian spearheads are driving along the Sea of Azov.

The Red Army columns south of Stalino have already advanced more than 80 miles in the past three days, and dispatches from the front indicated a decided weakening of German resistance in this sector. Yesterday they drove through Petrovka, 30 miles

REDS ADVANCE

Mariupol Falls To Red Army

LONDON, Sept. 10 —((CP) — Russian troops captured Mariupol, important Sea of Azov port about 55 miles west of Taganrog, Moscow announced to-day in a special order of the day.

The order, broadcast by the Moscow radio and recorded by the Soviet monitor, also announced the capture of Barvenkovo, Volnovakha and Chaplino in a general cleanup of the Southern Ukraine.

Chaplino, westernmost point of the four newly-captured cities, is barely 60 miles from the great Dnieper river power centre of Dnieperopetrovsk.

Volnovakha is on the Stalino-Mariupol railway about 35 miles north of Mariupol and Barvenkovo is about midway between Stalino and Kharkov.

For Music's Sake

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 10—(AP).—Back from a vacation in the Great Smoky Mountains, Ferdinand Schaefer, conductor emeritus of the Indianapolis Symphony Orchestra, confessed that he had tickled a sleeping rattlesnake with a branch from a tree. "Why?" he was asked. "Because," the 82-year-old musician replied, "I wanted to know what pitch a rattlesnake rattles in."

Dairy Producers To Get More Subsidies

OTTAWA, Sept. 10—(CP). — New and increased subsidies on dairy products to meet increased costs brought about largely by feed grain failures in whole milk and cheese producing areas were announced today by Agriculture Minister Gardiner.

Beginning October 1 and continuing until next April 30, subsidies will be paid to dairy producers as follows:

1. Fifty-five cents per 100 pounds to producer-distributors of fluid milk and of such milk bought by distributors for fluid milk consumption as the Agricultural Food Board may direct. The present subsidy is 25 cents.

2. Thirty cents per 100 pounds of milk used for concentration purposes as the Agricultural Food Board may direct. No subsidy now is being paid, although 25 cents was paid in March and April of this year to be used for condensed, evaporated or whole-milk powder purposes.

On Cheddar Cheese.

3. Thirty cents per 100 pounds of milk used in the manufacture of cheddar cheese. This subsidy is new.

4. The eight cents a pound subsidy on butterfat will be continued until December 31, and 10 cents a pound will be paid from January 1 to April 30, 1944.

"It is expected that these subsidies, together with the prices at which milk sells, will make it possible for farmers to produce sufficient milk to provide the fluid milk, canned milk, cheese and butter necessary to feed the civilian and armed population as well as supply our Allies with cheese and canned milk in considerable quantities," said the Minister's statement.

"It is thought that if Western grain is moved east at present ceiling prices in sufficient quantities, farmers in whole-milk and cheese producing areas, with the assistance of subsidies, will be able to maintain production at a reasonable level."

The Minister said the Government is making "a special effort" to encourage movement of every possible bushel of feed grain from west to east without increased price to the eastern farmer.

It is expected, he said, that Ontario and Quebec farmers who have light crops will be supplied with sufficient grain at present costs to maintain their planned production of meat and dairy products.

"It is hoped that the increased cost of purchased feed for dairy production over home-grown feed will be financed by the subsidies provided."

Bank Bandits Collect $34000 Cash

Manager And Wife Held Prisoner Until Safe Opened

WHEATLEY, Ont., Sept. 10 (CP)—After holding the manager of the Royal Bank of Canada branch here and his wife prisoner all night, five armed, masked and face-painted bandits this morning robbed the bank of $34,000 and escaped in an automobile bearing Ontario 1943 licence plate 37-J-97.

The bandits are being hunted by police throughout Essex and Kent Counties with particular vigilance being kept on roads leading to Windsor. The car in which they fled after the robbery was headed west on No. 3 Highway in the direction of Windsor. Wheatley is approximately 40 miles southeast of Windsor.

W. P. Forshee, manager of the bank, and Mrs. Forshee had a harrowing experience with the robbers. The five men appeared at a three-family apartment building next door to the bank about 9.30 last night and asked for the bank manager, whose name they did not know. The Forshees occupy one of the apartments and the men were directed to them by another occupant of the building.

With Drawn Guns

The bandits are reported to have said that they would throw a cordon around the building if they were not told which apartment the bank manager occupied.

Answering the door, Mr. Forshee was pushed aside and he and his wife told to be quiet by the five men who entered the apartment with guns drawn. The bandits cut the telephone wires and kept the Forshees in the apartment until 4.30 this morning. Three of the robbers then forced Mr. Forshee to accompany them to the bank and unlock the door. A few minutes later, the other two brought Mrs. Forshee to the bank.

The robbers remained in the bank until the staff reported shortly before 9 a.m. They discussed their escape route, saying that they expected to cross the border at Windsor.

Shortly before 9, the four members of the bank staff arrived, Miss Jean Tait, teller; K. McLean, Miss Alta McClennan and Yates White. They were herded into a closet until nine when the time lock on the bank's vault was released.

One Had A Sleep

Mr. Forshee and Miss Tait were then forced to open the inner door to the vault as they were the only ones knowing the combination, the robbers scooped up all the money in sight—$34,000—tied the thumbs and feet of their six victims and forced them all into the closet. They warned them not to leave the building until at least a half hour after their (the bandit's) departure. Sometime during the period between 4.30 and 9, the quintet had cut the bank telephone wires.

During the hours spent in the Forshee apartment, the bandits appeared unconcerned. Their leader was a big man, 35 to 40 years old and about six feet, one inch tall. He wore a knitted helmet and a green smock and carried two valises into which the money from the bank vault was dumped. The others were

Capua Airdrome Bombed By African Unit

By NOLAND NORGAARD
Associated Press War Correspondent

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa, Set. 10.—(AP).—The Allied Air Force went out in force yesterday to bomb military objectives in Italy heavily despite the Italian armistice, in support of the army's campaign to drive the Germans from the peninsula, it was announced to-day.

Medium and light bombers concentrated on roads leading to the beaches in the Naples area to thwart German plans for moving strong forces there to repulse the invaders.

The air offensive against communications was pursued vigorously with heavy bombers attacking rail bridges at Capua and Cancello and mediums raiding bridges and communications at Potenza and a landing ground at Scanzano. The Grossetto railway yards north of Rome were attacked last night, the Allied announcement said.

German planes loosed flares over beaches in the Naple area to enable them to see the landing parties to bomb them. Allied night fighters took advantage of the light to pick out the German craft and shot down three Junkers-88's.

Allied fighters meanwhile, maintained continuous offensive patrols over both battle areas.

Night bombers attacked the railway yards at Grossetto last night, continuing the aerial drive to destroy enemy communications.

Eleven Axis planes were destroyed during the operations. Seven Allied aircraft were reported missing.

Unrest Hits Balkan Powder-keg

Allied Leaders Expect Rebellion Soon

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10—(AP).—How to prevent a premature explosion in Europe's traditional powder-keg, the Balkans, was viewed here today as one of the pressing problems now confronting Allied strategists.

The fuse was lit when Italy surrendered. And already there have been reports to hastily-summoned war councils in the German satellite countries. These are taken here as only the outward signs of alarm in high quarters and strong unrest among the populations, who must now realize that they are playing on the losing team.

It may be expected, therefore, that some of the next major developments in Europe may come in some of those countries—Rumania, Hungary and Bulgaria—or in the two conquered countries of Yugoslavia and Greece where it is assumed that the spirit of rebellion against Nazi domination is strengthened by belief that the day for action is fast approaching.

Must Time Attack.

For the Allies this poses a delicate problem of timing and control.

The aim of Allied strategy for the Balkans now must be to try to keep the forces of revolution and guerilla warfare from spending their power before the armies of Britain and the United States are prepared to give them full assistance.

Because of the problem of getting troops into the Balkans an offer of surrender at present or in the immediate future might be somewhat embarrassing to the Allied commanders in the Mediterranean theatres. For if troops could be dispatched in force Germany might take advantage of any such situation to take over the surrendering country with her own armies.

Hitler Expected Italy To Fall

LONDON, Sept. 10 —(CP) —Hitler, speaking in the midst of the crash of the Italian end of the Axis, told his people in a broadcast tonight that the capitulation of his southern partner had been foreseen and was due to an "absence of will."

It was the Fuehrer's first speech in six months.

"Free of a heavy load which has been upon us since a long time and from pressing expectations, the moment has come now that I can talk to the German people without deluding myself or the public," he said in a speech which was recorded from the Berlin radio by the Associated Press.

The collapse of Italy, he declared, was not because the "necessary German support was not forthcoming, but rather as a result of absence of will of those elemnts who, to crown their systematic sabotage, now have brought about the capitulation."

Allied Fleet Nears Albania
Fall of Naples Imminent

Fleet Moves Into Taranto Port; Huns Hold Spezia

LONDON, Sept. 10 — (CP). — The Germans asserted tonight that Rome had capitulated to a German assault and that the Nazi army would "assume protection" of Vatican City.

The German Radio announcement said the attacking forces were led by Field Marshal Albert von Kesselring.

(A broadcast from the Rome Radio at 11:50 a.m. E.D.T. took up Nazi propaganda bulletins, indicating that the Rome Radio had fallen into German hands.)

The radio report said also that the surrender of Italian arms and equipment to the Germans took place without incident and that Genoa and the Italian Riviera had been taken over for "protection."

The port and naval base of Spezia, southeast of Genoa, also was reported to be in German hands.

Rommel In Charge

Field Marshal Erwin Rommel, whose forces were routed by the Allies in North Africa, was in command of the German forces in northern Italy, the broadcast recorded to Reuters news agency said.

British troops have occupied Taranto, Italian naval base on the inner heel of the Italian peninsula, it was announced today.

A special announcement from Allied headquarters said landings started yesterday evening at Taranto with the assistance of the Royal Navy.

It was disclosed the force had completed the occupation of the naval base, located approximately 270 miles southeast of Rome and about 80 miles north of the tip of the Italian heel.

No Mention of Fleet

Nothing was said officially of any disposition of Italian fleet units which were at the big naval base at Taranto at the time of Italy's capitulation to the Allies.

The fact the occupation was completed in such a short time indicated the Allies met scant if any opposition.

(The United Nations radio at Algiers said in a broadcast recorded in London that the landing forces made contact with German troops after occupation of Taranto.

(There was a possibility that the force landing at Taranto was the same force reported in Swiss dispatches to be heading toward Albania.)

Admit Fighting

(The German broadcast admitted "short fighting" had taken place at Trieste and Cremona in northeastern Italy, but claimed that 80,000 Italians gave up their arms to Germans in northern Italy in the last 24 hours, and that a "rather strong" detachment of Italians joined them in the Laibach area of Yugoslavia.)

Naples, Italy's second greatest port and the heart of the southern communications system of the country, appeared likely to fall into Allied hands.

Allied headquarters announced that the initial groups of the American 5th Army of Lt.-Gen. Mark W. Clark had smashed five German counter attacks in beating down German resistance in the

Zero Hour Near For Japs At Lae Airbase

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN THE SOUTH-WEST PACIFIC, Sept. 10—(AP). — Troops and guns sped hourly over the Owen Stanley Mountains today from Port Moresby, New Guinea, to reinforce Australian and American armies moving virtually unopposed from two sides on Japan's bomb-smashed air base at Lae.

This swift massing of forces brought the zero hour near for Lae with veteran Australian troops only two miles from an airdrome on its north-eastern outskirts and forward elements of Australians and Americans less than 10 miles away to the north-west.

Activity is intense at airdromes around Port Moresby, 200 miles south of Lae. From the moment after dawn when the cloud masses lift from the Owen Stanley Mountains until they close down again in the afternoon there is rarely a minute when a formation of transports is not in the air over the Moresby fields.

Clouds of black dust, rather than the Japanese, have slowed up the Valley troops. And the Australians above Lae, now laboring to wheel artillery into position, have encountered most of their trouble from swamp and jungle.

Inside Lae, if the Japanese choose to fight, they must do so from fortifications practically in ruins from the 500 tons of bombs which Allied heavy and medium bombers have dropped on them within a week.

Naval units have strafed the Finschhafen coastal area 60 miles above Lae and shelled the waterfront at Salamaua, 18 miles below it.

Within the encircled Lae-Salamaua area, which has three good airdromes, a Japanese army now is trapped. Some estimates place its size at 20,000 men.

Italians Leave Posts Cross Swiss Frontier

BERNE, Sept. 9 — (Delayed) — (AP). — Italian troops are continuing to abandon their posts in southern France and at least 2,000 already have crossed the Swiss frontier and surrendered with their arms and baggage vehicles, the Journal de Geneve reported today.

The newspaper quoted some of the Italians as saying they had to fight their way out of France through German road barriers. Others said they had turned their arms over to French guerillas in the mountains and had reached th[illegible]

They also reported that a large force of Italians was encamped on the Italian side of the Mount Cenis railway tunnel near Susa, halting all incoming German rail traffic.

Nazis Occupy Key Ports Across Albania

LONDON, Sept. 10 — (CP). — The German news agency, D.N.B. said today that the Albanian ports of Valona and Durazzo and the town of Elbasan have been occupied by German troops. Meanwhile Swiss dispatches said a powerful Allied fleet was en route to the little country opposite the heel of Italy on the Adriatic Sea.

A major battle appeared an imminent possibility for possession of the tiny former kingdom.

The Berlin broadcast, recorded by The Associated Press, said the Nazis also occupied Ragusa in Yugoslavia.

Valona and Durazzo are Albania's two most important ports.

Dispatches from Chiasso, on the Swiss-Italian border, said that a great British - American convoy escorted by a squadron of warships had quit an Ionian sea port and had begun moving toward Albania under cover of "important" air forces. Reuters news agency also reported a large Allied convoy under way in the Ionian Sea.

Previously, a Reuters dispatch quoting the Hungarian news agency said German troops had occupied Albania and the whole of the east Adriatic coast.

Both the Chiasso dispatch and the Swiss Radio said an Allied landing was imminent.

Albania, a rugged, mountainous area bordering Greece and Yugoslavia, fell to Italian invasion forces in 1939 and King Zog was forced to flee his throne. He now is in England.

The kingdom was annexed by Italy as a part of the Italian Empire and had been held in check by Italian occupation forces since the invasion.

German troops were reported yesterday to have moved into the Dalmatian area north of Albania and have begun disarming all the Italian occupation forces at that gateway to the Balkans and in the Balkans themselves.

8th Army Speeds Drive Northward

By LOUIS V. HUNTER

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Sept. 10 (CP Cable)—German forces in Calabria, on the toe of Italy, were withdrawing hastily today before British and Canadian troops of the 8th Army who were still in light contact with them.

Forces advancing up the west coast now have joined the infantry and commando force which landed from the sea ahead of the main body and captured Pizzo, four miles north of Vibo Valentia. The junction of these troops was made at Vibo Valentia.

Along the east coast the advance from the original landing beaches now is 60 miles, or five miles more than along the west coast. The eastern forces have reached Monasterace Marina.

The southern front now runs from a point near Pizzo and Vibo Valentia across country to Constantino, Cinquefrondi and Siderno, then up to Monasterace Marina.

Nazis Cancel War Memorial Contracts

German Leaders Predict War Climax Within Four Weeks

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

German army leaders predict that war developments will reach a climax within the next four weeks.

If we wanted to be argumentative we should of course, point out that the conflict already has turned the corner and that Hitler is definitely on the way out. Maybe the Nazis would concede that in their hearts, for from Stockholm comes this amazing dispatch:

Berlin has notified the Swedish stone industry to halt the quarrying of granite which had been ordered for post-war construction of victory monuments and official buildings. An enormous contract for the stone was made at the start of the blitzkrieg, which long ago had the blitz knocked out it.

Anway it would be easy to agree with the Hitlerite captains that another month or so may produce a situation which will enable us to see the end of the European struggle much more clearly. That length of time should clarify a number of points that will determine the speed with which the finish will come. For instance:

Grim Battle Looms

We must know how long it's going to take to break German resistance in Italy. The Nazis are showing grim signs of fight. And if they stick to their guns they can cause the Allies a lot of trouble and delay. However, indications are that we're not sending a boy to do a man's work, but will continue to land troops until we can annihilate the enemy. There's no present cause for anxiety.

Another month or six weeks probably will tell us what further invasions we are to get this year. We should know in that time whether the present invasion-type of bombing which the Anglo-American air fleets are doing along the French and Belgian coast, and the full-dress invasion rehearsal just held, are forerunners of amphibious operations against Western Europe or are merely the part of the war of nerves and an attempt to draw German forces from the Russian front.

We should know, too, whether the Balkans are to be invaded, and just how far the rebellious little Axis satellites are prepared to go in revolt against the master gangster. Things look black for him in the Balkans, and the storm might break at any time, quite apart from Allied invasion.

Directs Naval Operations

Wallace Creery Given High Post

OTTAWA, Sept. 10.—(CP).—Appointment of Capt. Wallace G. Creery, Director of Operations at Naval Headquarters and veteran of 29 years' service with the Royal Canadian Navy, to the newly-created post of Assistant Chief of the Naval Staff, was announced to-day.

Naval Headquarters said creation of the new position has been made necessary by the expanding activities of the Royal Canadian Navy. Capt. Creery will act as co-ordinator and director of the activities of the naval staff.

Prior to his appointment last May as director of operations at Headquarters, Capt. Creery was chief of staff to the commanding officer of the Atlantic Coast.

A native of Vancouver, Capt. Creery entered the Naval College at Halifax Aug. 1, 1914, and served during the First Great War as a midshipman on cruisers in the North Atlantic. Following the war, he saw general service in destroyers and in 1923 completed a two-year torpedo course in the United Kingdom. He was later appointed torpedo officer of the R.C.N. Barracks at Esquimault, B.C.

In August, 1938, Capt. Creery was given command of H.M.C.S. Fraser and served aboard that ship until she was lost in June, 1940, in a collision off Bordeaux.

Argentina Faces Upset

Loses Prestige As Major Power

By FREDERICK P. KRIEG,
Associated Press Staff Writer.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10 —(AP) — Argentina's prestige as a major Latin-American power was at stake to-day following the resignation of Foreign Minister Segundo Storni in the wake of State Secretary Cordell Hull's refusal of United States lease-lend aid.

There apparently was no immediate out for the only country in this hemisphere continuing to maintain diplomatic relations with the Axis, but it was conceded generally that Argentina faced at least an uncertain future.

Storni is regarded in official quarters here as the most Pro-Allied member of the new Argentine Government, which unseated by revolution the Conservative regime in June, and one authoritative source went so far as to say the ex-Foreign Minister was being made the "goat" for a Government which only professed to be Pro-Allied.

Two possible moves were considered as possible: a surge of the populace to unseat the Government, or action by dissatisfied military leaders to demand a change in an effort to get sorely needed material.

As a result of the lend-lease turn down, Brazil was regarded as the country that would emerge as the leader in Latin-America, outstripping Argentina as an industrial country.

ALLIED LANDING FORCE OVERCOMES OPPOSITION IN NAPLES AREA

Germans Control Genoa Port Eighth Army Captures Pizzo

Italians Ordered To Sabotage All Installations

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa, Sept. 10 —(AP) — An Allied broadcast to-day disclosed that the Germans have taken control of Genoa, important port on the northwestern coast of Italy.

The broadcast, made from the United Nations radio at Algiers to urge Italians to sabotage all communuhications which aid the German armies massing in Italy to meet the Allied invasion, declared:

"The German invader is stunned —but only for the moment. If you give him time, he will recover and strike back with all his barbaric cruelty.

"Already he is in control of Genoa, but there is still time."

The broadcast declared further that the "Germans are massing their main forces in Northern Italy and added:

"There they are preparing their main line of defence. There they are heaping up suppiles for the German armies around Naples and in Calabria."

Time Is Short.

The Italians were urged to sever immediately every communication line between the Naples area where the Allied Forces landed and northern Italy, where the main Nazi forces are massed.

"Italians! The time is short. The next seven days will be decisive," said the broadcast, which was reprinted in pamphlets for distribution by planes over all of Italy.

Remember, you are no longer alone in your struggle. Our armies are with you at last. Our Air Forces are harassing daily the German communications and destroying railroad sidings, dumps, bridges and depots. Assist our Air Forces by striking at German communications yourselves."

The Italians were assured that "now during this critical week, now when he (the German) has lost his arrogant self-confidence, now when he hears the news of his defeat in Russia, now when he is vulnerable, Italians strike!"

The broadcast concluded by quoting President Roosevelt to the effeat in Russia, now when he is victory for the Italian people and admonished them, "do not rest on your laurels, but strike now for the decisive victory against the German invaders."

U.S. Vice-Admiral Commands Fleet Off Naples

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Sept. 10 (AP)— The Allied army which stormed ashore on the Italian coast near Naples yesterday morning has overcome German resistance in the area, an Allied communique, said today.

The invading forces have firmly established their bridgeheads in spite of strong German resistance the war bulletin said, adding that Ventotene Island, 25 miles due west of Naples was captured yesterday.

In the Calabrian peninsula, the Anglo-Canadian Eighth Army has continued to advance, headquarters said, and has captured Pizzo, on the west coast of Calabria four miles above Vibo Valentia where a British amphibious force landed early Wednesday.

In spite of enemy opposition, the Naples landings were carried out according to plan, the communique declared.

For the first time, it was disclosed that the naval forces immediately engaged in the landing operations at Naples are under the command of Vice Admiral Henry Hewitt of the United States Navy. Both British and American fleet units are included.

Mines Cleared

Before the thousands of assault troops swarmed ashore, minesweepers passed back and forth along the coast clearing out mines laid off the beaches.

The work of unloading ships and other naval craft has continued "without intermission" ever since the first landing forces hit the beach at 4 a.m. yesterday, it was announced.

"The first groups of the American 5th Army have successfully established their beachheads in the Naples area in spite of strong German resistance," the communique said.

Although it has been announced that Lt. Gen. Mark W. Clark was in command of the assault, this was the first official disclosure here that the 5th Army, training in North Africa for months, had been chosen to undergo its baptism of fire in this new Allied move to carve a European land route to Berlin.

Ventotene Island, about two miles long by a mile wide, was taken in the early hours of yesterday morning by a divisional force that landed there at about the same time as the first shock troops were going ashore in the Naples area.

The Italian garrison on the island surrendered, the war bulletin said.

Persia Declares War On Nazis

LONDON, Sept. 10.—(CP).— Reuters News Agency reported from Teheran last night that Persia, which for many months has permitted the Allies to use its territory in sending supplies to Russia, has declared war on Germany.

The country has approximately 12,000,000 inhabitants and, according to latest available figures, a standing army of 120,000, including 32,000 officers.

Persia has an air force equipped with modern planes, many of them made in Britain. At last reports its navy consisted of two sloops armed with four-inch guns, five patrol vessels with three-inch guns and several tugs and motor patrol boats for service in the Persian Gulf. It also has an imperial yacht and motor patrol boats in the Caspian sea.

Its neighbor, Iraq, was the first Arab country to declare war against the Axis—on Jan. 16, 1943.

Otter was fined $20 and $1.75 costs, with the alternative of twenty days' imprisonment in the county jail.

Nazis Claim Italian Ships Sunk

Say Battleship Cruiser Dive-Bombed

LONDON.., Sept. 10.—(CP).— A Berlin broadcast reported to-day that an Italian battleship and a cruiser were sunk yesterday by German bombers between Sardinia and Corsica.

The Rome radio was quoted by London mornings newspapers as saying that three 35,000-ton Italian battleships had left the naval base at La Spezia and were heading toward Allied ports along with a flotilla of cruisers and destroyers.

The Berlin radio declared in a broadcast recorded by the Associated Press that units of the Italian navy have "joined the German navy to continue the fight" beside Germany. The report was unconfirmed by Allied sources.

A subsequent German broadcast heard by Reuters News Agency said the Nazi bombers and dive bombers in the Balkans forced Italian warships to return to the Greek harbor of Patras when they attempted to break out yesterday.

The German News Agency DNB said in the broadcast that the warships reported sunk were part of this formation fleeing from La Spezia and which "on Anglo-American orders was attacking German shipping between Sardinia and Corsica.

The broadcast added:

"As soon as this news was known German bombers took off to protect German transport movements. Their attack was so effective that another battleship, a cruiser and a destroyer were severely damaged by bomb hits.

"The battle with this naval formation still is in progress."

Cheese, Produce and Livestock

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, Sept. 10 (CP). — Grain futures pounded out healthy gains yesterday in active trading on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange. Wheat advanced 1⅛c to 2¼c a bushel, while rye ranged ⅛c to 1⅜c higher.

Good buying in the deferred months and reports of unfavorable harvesting conditions in Western Canada were responsible for the higher values in wheat, while rye moved up in sympathy and with higher levels at Chicago.

United States buyers were active in the wheat pit, and were credited with most of the purchases.

The United Kingdom took approximately 300,000 bushels of Canadian wheat for export purposes, but reports that Eire took 200,000 bushels could not be confirmed.

Voting Ordered At Two Plants

TORONTO, Sept. 10 — (CP).— Votes on the question of a collective bargaining agency were ordered by the Ontario Labor Court yesterday to be held at the Canadian Locomotive Company in Kingston and the Leland Electric Company at Guelph. Applicant in each instance was the United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers Union of America (C. I. O.) Votes of office staffs at both cities will be kept separate from those of other employees.

For the Canadian Locomotive Company H. M. Hickey told the court that there were 400 employees on active service and he suggested the vote should be postponed until they return. There were more than 800 workers and he felt that everyone interested in the plant's welfare should have a vote. He submitted a petition from 95 clerks asking permission to vote.

David Goldstick, for the Union, objected to the office staff being included. Mr. Justice F. H. Barlow replied there seemed no good reason why all employees covered in the act should not be entitled to a vote.

In the Guelph case the right of the C.I.O. union to certification was disputed by the Leland Electric Employees Union, independent, claiming a majority of the members.

Fleet Moves

Naples area and had established strong bridgeheads from which to push the assault toward their first great objective in the campaign.

British and United States troops then pushed inland, it was announced, encountering strong German forces in the immediate vicinity of Salerno, 20 miles south of Naples on the Gulf of Salerno. They identified their opponents as the German 16th Armored Division.

The repulse of the sharp blows of the Nazis—aimed with characteristic dash to throw the Allied invaders off balance at a critical stage in operations—indicated the Allies had weathered the first crisis of the bold campaign.

Under the guns of a British and United States fleet commanded by Vice Admiral Henry K. Hewitt of the U. S. Navy, the Allies poured a great additional force into the beachheads with the objective of lopping off all southern Italy.

The United Nations radio said landings actually had been made in the Bay of Naples.

German broadcasts described a battle going full swing along the shores of the Bay of Salerno.

Salerno, a city of 67,000 population, has been a traditional point for invasion operations in that part of Southern Italy.

The 16th Army Tank Division, met down the coast on the Salerno Plain, was last reported wiped out in the German holocaust at Stalingrad. It appeared, like so many other German divisions destroyed in this war, it was a reconstructed unit.

Although the Germans in the south would be threatened by isolation by an Allied thrust toward Foggia, the Germans apparently intended to make an effort to hold the backbone mountain line of the Appennines, and thus form an east coast corridor by which they might extricate their troops in a slow, delaying action.

Shells Falling Near Rome City

LONDON, Sept. 10. — (CP).— Stefani, Italian news agency, said in a broadcast that the outskirts of Rome were shelled at midday to-day.

Thirteen minutes later Stefani said an air raid alarm had sounded in the Italian capital.

Earlier the news agency had reported violent artillery firing south of the city.

Madrid dispatches quoted Stefani as saying that Rome was heavily bombarded from a point somewhere south of the city which led to immediate reports in the Italian capital that the Allies were making another invasion landing, perhaps at Porto D'Anxio, south of Ostia.

The Swiss radio said, meanwhile, in a broadcast recorded by the Associated Press that Premier Badoglio had left Rome and that his second-in-command, a General Baviglia, had taken over. The reason for Badoglio's reported departure was not stated.

Rome Denies King To Abdicate

Rumor Suggests Prince Umberto Likely To Take Over

LONDON, Sept. 10 —(CP)—The Rome radio today denied reports originating in Switzerland and broadcast by the Berlin radio that King Victor Emmanuel of Italy had abdicated in favor of Crown Prince Umberto.

"All these reports are untrue," declared Stefani, Italian news agency, in a broadcast recorded by Reuters news agency.

Earlier Reuters had quoted Swiss reports as saying that King Victor Emmanuel had resigned and that Crown Princess Marie Jose, wife of Umberto, had arrived in Switzerland last night.

The Associated Press, meanwhile, intercepted a Berlin broadcast which reported that King Victor Emmanuel had "resigned."

This was not the first time in recent months that there had been talk of the probable abdication by the Italian monarch. Last May the Morocco radio circulated reports that the King had abdicated or was about to do so.

Heard Before

Talk that Victor Emmanuel might surrender his throne was revived again when Mussolini was ousted on July 25 and Marshal Badoglio took over his place, but eventually it died down.

Badoglio, upon assuming office, had pledged his allegiance to the King and called upon the Italian people for their support in his name.

Victor Emmanuel, 73, never had been a dominating figure in the affairs of his country. He once described himself as "permanent undersecretary to successive premiers" and throughout the reign of Mussolini he was relegated to a position of insignificance in the government.

The dispatch reporting the arrival of Crown Princess Marie Jose in Switzerland said that she was accompanied by her four children.

They were said to have reached Martigny in the Canton of Valais by way of the Great Saint Begmwrd Pass and continued their journey in the direction of Lake Geneva after a brief rest.

Prince Umberto, 39, and the only son of Victor Emmanuel, always was considered lukewarm toward Fascism.

RECTAL SORENESS AND PILE TORTURE QUICKLY RELIEVED

If you are troubled with itching piles or rectal soreness, do not delay treatment and run the risk of letting this condition become chronic. Any itching or soreness or painful passage of stool is nature's warning and proper treatment should be secured at once.

For this purpose get a package of Hem-Roid from McDermid & Jury or any I.D.A. or other drug store and use as directed. This formula which is used internally is a small, easy to take tablet, will quickly relieve the itching and soreness, and aid in healing the sore, tender spots. Hem-Roid is pleasant to use, is highly recommended, and it seems the height of folly for any one to risk a painful and chronic pile condition when such a fine remedy may be had at such a small cost.

If you try Hem-Roid and are not entirely pleased with the results, your druggist will gladly return your money. —(Advt.)

Drew Suggests Old-fashioned Child Discipline

GUELPH, Sept. 10 — A plea for the return of the teaching of discipline as a means of combating juvenile delinquency was made here last night by Premier George A. Drew in addressing the eleventh annual banquet of the Ontario Police Association.

"I am inclined to think that during the period through which we have just passed and in which we worshipped many false gods, one of these gods was the belief that some of the simple ideas of education were old-fashioned," declared the Premier. "We got strange ideas of teaching our youth. We thought that the child himself knew more about what he should be taught in school than any one else.

"We seemed to be shying away from the old word 'discipline' and confusing it with tyranny. Many people who were bitterly opposed to tyranny felt that discipline was objectionable.

"Discipline is in no way opposed to the basic principles of democracy. Our democracy is based on the comomn idea of decency, and discipline is essential to the building of the character of the nation.

"I am convinced," the Premier went on, "that in the teaching of the children it is extremely important that we return to discipline as the proper basis for their training. I think I can perform no greater service in my capacity as Minister of Education than to contribute whatever I may to develop those ideas in our schools in order to form a basis for a Christian democracy."

Premier Drew stated that as Minister of Education he was directly interested in one field of building the character of the youth. "In time of war there are so many young men away from home for years at a time and these years are the most important in a child's life. Many women, too, with their zeal to be of service are working side by side with men to bring about a speedier conclusion of the war. A greater responsibility than ever before is placed upon the schools of Canada and every other nation to make up what is being missed and yet build up that character upon which the success of any nation depends.

"One of the things which will greatly increase the problems of our police forces and one which calls for mutual co-operation in all lines is the closeness in which the people of the world to-day and tomorrow will live," Premier Drew said.

"Behind all these problems and the war itself lies the great task of teaching. To-day in each community the chiefs of police and members of their departments are not men merely concerned with punishment of criminals, but in the developing of the services they perform they are more interested in the fundamentals which produce crime. No others are so conscious that preventive rather than punitive measures are needed in combatting crime. There is no greater duty to be performed than to concentrate upon the prevention of conditions that foster crime. This can be done to a great extent by teaching honesty and decency not only to our own youth, but also to those of every other nation as well.

"We are living in exciting times. I do not believe this is a period of despair. We have seen the consequences of bad teaching in Germany, Italy, and elsewhere. We must depend in training our youth upon their taking advantage of the opportunities offered them here. If we play our part in this important task we can march forward with the United States and other countries which are our Allies or becoming our Allies hourly."

The speaker was introduced by Mayor R. B. Robson of Guelph, and thanked by Brig.-Gen. D. C. Draper, Chief Constable of Toronto.

Sentence Zolomy To Ten Years

On a jury's conviction of attempted murder, Alex Zolomy was sentenced by Mr. Justice Hope Thursday afternoon to ten years in the Kingston penitentiary. The term is to be concurrent with the three years term which Zolomy is now serving.

The trial jury in the fall sessions of the Supreme Court of Ontario took only fifteen minutes to return their verdict of guilty

Zolomy and an associate, John Serkoski, were cornered by city police at the safe in the Silverwood's office, Aylmer street, March 18. In a hand to hand fight Zolomy wrested a revolver from P. C. Archie Menzies, pressed it against his body and, by the evidence, pulled the trigger.

Concluding the assize, Mr. Justice Hope committed Leo Webb to imprisonment for three years on an indictment of attempted rape. "A most dastardly and heinous offense," was the comment of His Lordship.

Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C. prosecuted for the Crown and the defence was handled by John Bradshaw who only came into the case when the trial opened on request of Mr. Justice Hope when Zolomy appeared for trial with no counsel.

The members of the Zolomy trial jury were:

Smith Milburn, J. Wesley Sargent, John Whitfield, Fred Batten, Harold G. Beath, Cecil Reynolds, Leo Tetterington, Lorne Webster, F. C. Burgess, John M. Beatty, Delbert Coward, Harry Drummond.

Coal Problem To Grow Ickes Reports

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10 (AP)— The coal situation in the United States is bad now and "it's going to get worse," Interior Secretary Harold Ickes said Thursday, but he hesitated at ordering a 48-hour work week in the mines.

Ickes, who is Federal boss of the mines, said the outlook appears darker partly because of the need to furnish coal to the military services in Italy.

While Italy's customary coal requirements amount to little more in a year than American mines can produce in a month, Ickes spoke of the Italian needs as having "an adverse effect on the domestic coal situation at a time when we can't stand any more setbacks."

These needs can be met only with coal from England, the United States and South Africa, he said.

Ickes told a press conference that coal already is being shipped for the use of the army in keeping Italian utilities, ships, locomotives, factories and other facilities going.

Factors Developed.

A discussion of extending the coal mine work week from 42 to 48 hours, as Ickes is empowered to do to increase production, developed these factors:

1. Ickes feels that a Federal order might not achieve its aim, that it might be better if a longer week were provided by a contract between the miners and operators.

2. Miners might not be able to stand up under hard work for 48 hours a week.

3. The question of raising coal prices to offset increased labor costs must be kept in mind. (Increases of about 14 cents a ton were approved when the work week was extended from 35 to 42 hours last winter.)

Ickes has estimated that the series of strikes this year cost the United States 25,000,000 tons. He has referred also to the loss of miners to the armed forces and to other industries, and has asked controls to reduce job turnover.

Discuss Wage Contract.

He told his press conference that Northern Appalachian and Illinois operators are meeting in Washington now, discussing with John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers "a general wage contract to settle the questions that have been bruited about so long."

The 48-hour week is one of these questions. The Illinois operators once reached an agreement with the U.M.W. for a pay boost, but this was not approved by the War Labor Board.

There is a possibility that coal rationing may be decreed, although Ickes and rationing officials have expressed the hope it will not be necessary.

Il Duce In Africa?

Tries To Enlist Army

BERNE, Sept. 10 — (AP). — The Berne newspaper Der Bund said yesterday the Nazi-sponsored "National Fascist Government" in Munich is striving to persuade 250,000 Italian workers in Germany to join a Blackshirt "army of liberation" to fight alongside the Nazis.

Cabinet Takes Cohen Off Labor Board

OTTAWA, Sept. 10.—(CP).—The National War Labor Board was without a Labor member to-day following announcement last night by Prime Minister Mackenzie King that the membership of J. L. Cohen, K.C., Toronto solicitor, had been terminated by order-in-council

The Government's action in removing Mr. Cohen from the Board ended a four-week period of uncertainty dating back to Aug. 16, when Mr. Cohen wrote Mr. Justice C. P. McTague saying he did not propose sitting on controversial cases until the Government's Labor policy was clairfied.

Mr. Justice McTague wrote Mr. King yesterday saying that Mr. Cohen's attitude was "completely inconsistent" with the principles on which the Board was organized.

The cabinet's action brought protest last night from Mr. Cohen who, in a prepared statement, said it was "fresh manifestation" of the government's "hostility" to labor and was a demonstration by Mr. King of his "unwillingness to grant to labor any right or representation in the formation of national problems."

Similar protests came from labor leaders.

There was no immediate indication of who might succeed Mr. Cohen as the labor representative on the board. At the recent inquiry conducted by the board into labor relations, it was suggested in some briefs that the board should be composed entirely of judges. It was thought in some quarters today that this recommendation might be receiving consideration.

McTague Disagrees

Mr. Justice McTague in the letter to the prime minister which was placed before the cabinet yesterday said: "....I cannot accept responsibility for conducting the work of the board on the principles agreed upon in continued association with Mr. Cohen."

The order-in-council which ended Mr. Cohen's membership on the board said that public statements made by Mr. Cohen "indicate an attitude incompatible with the proper exercise of the functions to be performed by the members of the board."

Mr. Cohen said in his statement following announcement of the cabinet's action that he had made it plain to Mr. Justice McTague and to leaders of the trade union movement that "I considered it my duty to resign at once."

"I yielded, however, to representations from the chairman and from the leaders of the trade union movement that I should not resign," he added. "The order-in-council which has just been passed has finally settled the matter."

Quoting an extract from his report on the board's labor relations inquiry, he said he favored equal direct representation from labor and management on the War Labor Board.

40,000 Italians Want To Return

LONDON, Sept. 10 (CP)—"When do we go home?"

That was the question some 40,000 Italian prisoners of war working in Britain's harvest fields asked today. But the ministry of agriculture confessed itself apprehensive of a labor shortage.

"We have heavy potato and sugar beet harvests to lift and even now we are calling for volunteers to work through September and October to save the crops," it stated. "The situation is really serious."

The Italian prisoners had taken up some of the slack in the shortage of workers, especially by serving as harvesting hands.

The prisoners work on a voluntary basis under the Geneva convention and are paid for their tasks.

"Unconditional Surrender"

Ever since the Casablanca Conference much has been heard about the term "unconditional surrender". Italy has thrown in the sponge and the phrase "unconditional surrender" has had its first complete application.

Opinions have differed as to whether Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt were wise in saying, the only terms on which they will cease the war against the Axis were "unconditional surrender". It has been asked do they mean all that, for General Eisenhower, commander-in-chief in North Africa and Sicily, who has wide political authority as well as military, invited the Italians in Sicily to accept terms of "honourable capitulation". There is a wide difference between those two phrases.

"Unconditional Surrender" is a form of words used in ordinary military operations. It sounds forbidding to a great nation, as it would have to the British people, if they had been overwhelmed in 1940. But in every instance of enemy capitulation in this war in Tunisia, in Sicily, n Italy, these have been the terms on which the actual fighting stopped. It was "unconditional surrender" that the German delegates signed in the railway carriage in the forest of Compiegne on November 11, 1918. However the subsequent terms of peace at Versailles, a year later, were onerous, but did not contain anything in the nature of penalties, which German leaders are trying to make their people believe is in store for them this time.

"Unconditional surrender" implies that the enemy will be called in to sign on the dotted line, regardless of what is in the document, which might include total long-term disarmament and provisions for making reparation for the damage done to communities in occupied territories. But also as German spokesmen have contended might include, massacre of German troops unable to get home; and for the sterilization of a large proportion of the male population, so as to place a limit on the German birthrate for years to come. Through this term a handicap has been thrown upon the leaders for peace in the Axis countries and had strengthened the hand of the war-minded.

There are few today who not not believe that Germany must be brought to the point where she is utterly defeated and nothing but "unconditional surrender" will do. She entered this war with no lesser objective than of making the rest of the world her slaves, and she has stooped to every form of cruelty to do so.

It is not the time for the United Nations to give out any terms for settlement, and the logical thing to do is to wait until the admission of defeat and some evidence of true repentance comes from the enemy before going too deeply into our terms for "unconditional surrender". It is the place of the Axis to beg the terms from us and to accept the conditions, which we will then lay down. The only surrender possible must be complete and full in which the enemy will rely upon such leniency as our past history and our present stated aspirations, lead them to believe we will grant in the hour of our complete triumph.

A Municipal Departure

The city council's decision to hold two meetings a month instead of its statutory one is recommended by the established practice of most other cities in the province, but also by the increasing volume of ordinary business and by the assumptive advance of local post-war problems as one of the domestic effects of the military collapse of Italy.

At that, Peterborough's council is not trying to keep up, or rather to catch up, with the municipal Joneses. It has been content to compress the management of the city's affairs into one monthly meeting, with occasional special sittings, largely by the thoroughness of its committee work. Ratepayers looking on as participating shareholders have apparently been satisfied with results; but the council itself have felt a growing pressure upon their time and attention from the expansion of the city that has convinced them of the necessity of bi-monthly meetings as a means of more efficient performance of their municipal duties.

Mayor Hamilton and his associates can never be accused of trying to give their administration a flourish of excessive busyness. That is probably one of the reasons that has kept them attached to the system of the monthly session. Their attitude has been sincere and matter of fact, one council after another, and the fruits of their work are reflected in the strong position of Peterborough's finances, and the ratepayers' responsiveness in prompt payment of their tax obligations.

However, the war has brought this city a large increase in population with new problems and an enlargement of those affairs which are regarded as routine. Beyond that is the realization that the city has to plan for the period of change that will follow the war, with a desire to assist in further promoting Peterborough's growth and especially in helping to provide municipal works to give employment for many of the local men on their return home. Annexation of a part of North Monaghan, the erections of a new city hall, investment in a civic airport, these are three of the enterprises which the council has already begun. Incidentally it might be suggested that in surveying properties from which to select a site for the city hall, the council might also consider a desirable location which it could at least recommend for a new hockey and skating arena. And to further that project which the public is bound to regard with favour, the city may own suitable land which it might be inclined to consider offering as an inducement for the construction of a rink which Peterborough realizes to be virtually a community necessity.

In brief, the council has work ahead for its extra monthly meetings, and it has also the spirit of willingness to devote the additional time to the municipality's business. On both counts it may feel assured of the endorsation of the ratepayers.

Too Much Speeding

In spite of the restrictions on gasoline and tires and war-time regulations against speeding there is still a lot of fast driving noticed on city streets.

This is probably as good a time as any to voice a warning to the motorists who like to step on the gas, regardless of the road and traffic conditions.

The city schools are re-opened again. There are scores of new pupils, tots who are attending school for the first time. Most of them have to cross busy streets to get to school. They are reason No. 1 why fast driving on city streets should be cut out. Reason No. 2 is that the coming of fall usually means more wet days, with slippery streets and more chances of accident.

There are many motorists in this city who are asking for trouble. They are driving through school areas at a dangerous speed, depending upon their warning horns to keep the road clear for them. When they see a little group of children at a crossing they do not slow down and get their car under control. On the contrary they sail over the intersection with no slackening of speed, trusting that the children will remain where they are.

If the little folk suddenly decide to cross the street and get hit the driver will tell the police who investigate the accident that the victim "stepped right in front of my car and I never had a chance." The reason that the speeding motorist did not have a chance is of course that he was driving too fast to have any control of his car when confronted with an emergency.

We would like to see a vigorous campaign against those drivers who use the streets as if they were speedways and their companions in carelessness, the motorists who do not seem to know that "Stop signs are supposed to mean STOP."

Will Cabinet Veto Price Ceiling?

By KENNETH R. WILSON
Financial Post

OTTAWA. — Spurred by the McTague report and by the apparently rising vote against the King administration at Ottawa, the Federal Cabinet is reported here to be ready to abandon the two-year-old price ceiling and wage control policy enunciated by the Prime Minister Oct. 18, 1941.

While there will, of course, be no formal or outright admission that our price control system has been thrown out the window, it is widely accepted here that that can be the only result of the policy which the Cabinet is now understood ready to adopt.

Publication of the McTague report is being withheld at least until completion of the Canadian Congress of Labour (C.I.O.) convention in Montreal. The C.C.L. meeting starts Monday, Sept. 13, and goes through most of that week.

The major recommendations of the McTague majority report are understood to call for the creation of a Federal Labour Court with wide powers over wage and labour relations and a plea for wage relief by giving heads of families now receiving less than 50 cents an hour the right to negotiate for higher wages outside the wage ceiling.

The McTague report would also eliminate the cost-of-living bonus so far as future wage control policy is concerned.

The Cohen minority report is described as a flagrantly inflationary document with extension of the cost-of-living bonus to all workers and a 50-cent floor under all wages.

Although at midweek the cabinet was still awaiting word from Prime Minister King as to his attitude, it is taken for granted here that the McTague report will be accepted by the cabinet. It is further expected that Justice McTague himself will be named chairman of the proposed court and that if its powers are commensurate to those suggested in the report, Mr. McTague will become the dominant personality in wage and labour relations policy in Canada.

OPEN THE WAGE DYKE

ASSUMING this action is taken, and the report adopted, then the way would be clear for several hundreds of thousands of low-paid workers to seek increases in their basic wage rates. To what extent these increases could be restricted to heads of families and earning less than the 50-cent per hour minimum living wage, is not clear. The report is said to throw little or no light on this point. It deals in principles rather than in detail. It is also said to skim lightly in preventing a wage adjustment of this type spreading through the entire wage structure of the country.

Further wage increases, on the scale envisaged by the McTague report, are held in the highest circles here to be quite incompatible with maintenance of the present price ceiling policy. Thus the implementation of the report is thought to mean the end of the present Canadian price ceiling and possibly as well the retirement from the W.P.T.B. of Donald Gordon and a dozen or more of his associates who have battled fearlessly the past two years to prove to the world that a ceiling policy was the best plan for fighting a successful anti-inflation battle.

CABINET DIVIDED

WHAT appears likely (unless the cabinet experiences a complete change of heart during the next few days) is a situation where Canada becomes forced to abandon the very type of price control which is now being acclaimed in other countries. Both Australia and New Zealand have recently adopted ceiling price control.

Not yet clear is the position which Finance Minister Ilsley will take in this crisis. For two years he has fought almost single-handed in the cabinet to maintain the ceiling policy introduced by the prime minister. (It is remarked here, that in the intervening two years neither Mr. King nor scarcely any member of his cabinet has gone out of his way to support the ceiling policy.) Championship of the policy has been left almost entirely to James Ilsley and to Donald Gordon and his organization.

ILSLEY TO RETREAT?

It is now thought unlikely that Mr. Ilsley will stand out against his colleagues in face of the present political situation and the McTague findings. In short, despite strong and determined public advocacy of the ceiling approach (an advocacy which was reiterated a few days ago when the Finance Minister exhorted the Trades and Labour Congress at Quebec to support the ceiling) it is now believed that Mr. Ilsley is no longer willing to buck the cabinet.

As yet, there is almost no evidence at Ottawa that the government's fiscal and economic advisers have devised any satisfactory alternative to the present ceiling policy of price control.

After two years of experiment, there is more conviction than ever that price control cannot succeed unless it has an anchor. To date that anchor has been the general level of prices which prevailed in Canada during the late summer and autumn of 1941.

What apparently baffles Ottawa's present price control authorities is how it is possible to prevent a runaway inflationary debacle once the over-all price ceiling policy is abandoned. It is pointed out that to extend the subsidy principle under conditions of sharply advancing wages would be little short of suicidal. Subsidies under such conditions would mount out of all proportion.

An alternative would be to resort to the British plan of pegging the prices of selected essential goods and allowing other prices to rise. This is probably the most likely alternative but one which was discarded by the government originally in 1941 because of the supposed difficulties of enforcement in a country like Canada.

BRITAIN IS DIFFERENT

IN BRITAIN, it is stated to be possible to rigidly control the production and output of essential versus luxury items. For one thing, the range and variety of merchandise is tremendously reduced and in the case of foodstuffs almost all supplies are rigidly controlled by import and other authorities. How to set about making arbitrary decisions in the present Canadian economy between essential and non-essential goods without a tremendously increased organization and far greater controls than are now operative is one of the questions asked.

"THE FINISHING TOUCHES"

American Eyes On Britain

(FROM MONTREAL GAZETTE)

GOVERNOR Thomas E. Dewey, of New York, on the eve of the Republican post-war conference at Mackinac Island, appears to have caused a medium-sized sensation by his advocacy of a continuing military alliance between the United States and Great Britain. He thinks such an alliance "very likely and in our interest" and thus takes a position as far from isolationism as any Republican, with the possible exception of Wendell Willkie, has occupied thus far.

What is perhaps just as signficant is the evidence of a new outlook on the part of American businessmen toward trade relations with Britain. Eric A. Johnston, President of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, returned to Washington last week after spending three weeks in Britain. He lost no time in advocating openly a "get together" of British and American businessmen for a series of post-war planning conferences looking to the development of world trade on an orderly basis and the avoidance of the "great mistake made after the last war when no planning was done." Mr. Johnston talked with labour, Government and business leaders in Great Britain and "realized as never before that we ought to co-operate now in finding the type of free enterprise we are going to have after the war."

This proposal has tremendous possibilities, and Canada cannot ignore them. Mr. Johnston proposes that Britain and the United States evolve a program based on "their similar economies." He thinks that Soviet Russia might be "brought into the picture," though Russia is likely to be busy with her internal economy and will not be exporting "in the forseeable future." He will make a formal move to enlist American industrialists in support of his post-war planning conference proposal when the attitude of British business is defined.

In the meantime he knows something about that attitude as expressed by individuals, and what he learned is highly instructive. True, he found less actual planning than he did post-war "thinking" among British business leaders, but he did find a general desire for "economic security, with profits," a desire shared by British labour leaders. Here surely, is something for our C.C.F.-Socialists in Canada to ponder upon. These Socialists deny the validity of the profit motive and would hamstring the Dominion in a world where the profit motive prevails. Canadian labour would be sacrificed—the same Canadian labour which socialism is endeavoring to attract to its fold. The C.C.F.-Socialist party professes to have a policy generally identical with that of the British Labour party, but British Labour leaders are out to preserve the profit motive. Canadian socialism will have to re-shuffle its cards.

We have digressed a little. Our main point is the activity of American business and political leaders in seeking a post-war future linked with that of Britain. Governor Dewey has broken a long silence on this subject. He has thrown down the gauntlet to the die-hard isolationists, Senators Vanderburg and Taft. He has found a middle course between their stand and that of Wendell Willkie. There is a striking similarity between the views expressed by him and the case set forth by Walter Lippman, the distinguished American commentator, in his latest book, U.S. Foreign Policy, Shield of the Republic, which is to appear in condensed form in The Gazette commencing tomorrow.

There are Democrats also looking in the same direction, Southern Democrats at that, though these have been represented as aggressively critical of President Roosevelt and Secretary of State Hull. Long Tom Connally, outstanding among these Southerners and Chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, is out for an international body to enforce world peace, and "Britain and other members of the United Nations must have a place at the council table."

All these things point to a new international order, with Britain and the United States marching shoulder to shoulder in peace as they are doing now in war. Momentous developments are in the making.

Washington Spotlight

(By J. F. SANDERSON, Canadian Press Staff Writer)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11 (CP)—When Russia came up recently with a Free German Committee, composed of war prisoners and political refugees, the eyes of those in charge of prisoner of war camps in the United States were opened to something new in re-educating Nazis in the ways of democracy.

Russia makes no bones about the fact she segregates prisoners of war. Those considered Nazis beyond redemption are placed by themselves. Those considered possible converts away from Nazism are housed separately and subjected to various educational methods and softer treatment.

The nucleus of the Free German Committee came from the latter camps, men who had seen the tragic error of Nazi doctrines of world mastery and race domination.

It is all part of a basic Russian conception of the war—that a distinction must be drawn between the Nazis and the German people as a whole, that it is a worthy object to try and divide the German people from Hitler's administration.

As far as can be learned here, nothing is being done in Canadian prison camps comparable to what is being done in Russia or even in the United States. This much is known: Canadian officals in charge of the camps have refused to permit distribution of an anti-Nazi newspaper, edited by an employee of the American government, which goes to every camp in the United States. There can be no doubt of the editor—he spent many months in a Nazi concentration camp as a political prisoner before reaching the United States several years ago.

WASHINGTON INVASION TALK

Military observers in Washington are offering odds against any invasion of northern France or the Low Countries in 1943. They base their opinion on the fact the ground there is waterlogged from September until March and April and the sky pea-scupy, making it bad for planes and armored forces.

Southern France is a different matter but landings there would have more psychological than military value. It's a long, long trail from Marseilles to Berlin, no matter how electrifying an invasion would be for the French people.

Prime Minister Churchill was a luncheon guest of the Washington newspaper corps last week and if he did nothing else on his present trip, Britain would owe him a debt of gratitude. For an hour and a half he answered questions fearlessly and frankly, dodging none, never seeking refuge in ambiguity or oratorical restraint.

When it was over, 500 newspaper correspondents left the banquet hall talking to themselves of his wit, candor and brilliance. The prime minister has done many great things for Britain and among them must be counted the day when he captivated the toughest newspaper corps in the world. He made many friends for his country that day.

By seeing Canadian troops in the field and learning of war's problems at first hand, Mr. Bracken will equip himself better for the duty of leading the Opposition in Parliament. But before he can perform the duty he has acepted, Mr. Bracken must enter Parliament.—Vancouver Sun.

Waste Paper

Canadians gave their sinews in the great Victory Loan drive. They have a right to know how that money is spent, or if it is being dissipated for political ends. A great corps of press agents for all departments hardly seems proper. And as far as many newspaper offices are concerned, the product of these press agents has only a nuisance value. It goes promptly to the Waste Paper Basket.—St. Catharines Standard.

A Bible Message

Seek ye the Lord while he may be found, call ye upon him while he is near: let the wicked forsake his way, and the unrighteous man his thoughts: and let him return unto the Lord, and he will have mercy upon him; and to our God, for he will abundantly pardon.

For my thoughts are not your thoughts, neither are your ways my ways, saith the Lord. For as the heavens are higher than the earth, so are my ways higher than your ways, and my thoughts than your thoughts.

For as the rain cometh down, and the snow from heaven, and returneth not thither, but watereth the earth, and maketh it bring forth and bud, that it may give seed to the sower, and bread to the eater: so shall my word be that goeth forth out of my mouth: it shall not return unto me void, but it shall accomplish that which I please, and it shall prosper in the thing whereto I sent it. (Isa. 55: 6-11.)

Many, O Lord my God, are thy wonderful works which thou hast done, and thy thoughts which are to us-ward: they cannot be reckoned up in order unto thee: if I would declare and speak of them, they are more than can be numbered. (Ps. 40: 5.)

Soda Water

We owe soda water, which Lord Woolton says we must learn to do without for a time, to one of the greatest of English chemists, for the chances are that no one would have been more surprised than Priestly could he have foreseen what would grow from his experiment in 1772 in making an aerated water resembling the natural mineral waters of this and other countries. It was in 1790 that Paul began in Geneva to manufacture that aerated water on a large scale, and he was followed in London by Schweppe. Then in 1807 a Philadelphia doctor named Physick conceived the happy idea of getting Speakman, a chemist from the same city, to manufacture it for the use of his patients. Speakman went one better and flavored it with fruit juices, and from that sprang the huge soda-fountain industry in America.—Manchester Guardian.

Board To Open New Room At Queen Mary

Inspector K. S. Wightman requested the Board of Education Thursday night to open an additional room in Queen Mary School because of the unusually heavy attendance of pupils, 107 of which were from the Park Hill Road Wartime housing area.

He said that the kindergarten and Grade 1 rooms were badly overcrowded and that no teacher could be expected to do a thorough job with such large classes. Other schools were proportionately burdened with the influx from the Wartime Housing areas. Out of the total of 4,508 pupils at the public schools, 244, or one-eleventh, were from families in these special areas.

Mr. Wightman also announced that a large number of pupils attending Prince of Wales had been sent to King Edward School.

The attendance at the schools is as follows: Central 517 pupils; King Edward, 390; King George 433, of which 44 are from Wartime Housing; Prince of Wales 672, of which 79 are from the Hatton property; Queen Alexandra 367, 12 of which are from Park Hill Road, and Queen Mary 529, with 107 from the Park Hill Road area.

Shift Pupils

It was suggested by G. W. Craw that the pupils from the Auburn attending Queen Alexandra should be moved to King George and part of those in the Park Hill Road area go to Queen Alexandra. The Inspector said he had considered that, but at the present time it represented too much of a major operation. D. G. H. Melton said that whether it was realized or not Peterborough was suffering growing pains and that in the not too distant future another school would have to be erected.

Inspector Wightman also brought forward a suggestion for the Board's consideration that Wartime Housing be asked to erect a school in the Park Hill Road area such as they have done in other places to help ease the congestion.

It was moved that the extra room in Queen Mary be opened and that the Inspector and the chairman of the Board be authorized to get a teacher, subject to the Board's confirmation. At the same time the Board is to explore the need of erecting a school on the Park Hill property of Wartime Housing.

Slight Increase

C. S. Browne, principal of the Collegiate, reported that in Grades IX and X there was an increase of 13 pupils over the same period as last year. In 1942 there were 529 students and in 1943, 542, for these two grades. He commented that there had been an unexpected drop in the Industrial Arts classes and that there were so many students in Grade X that a fourth classroom had to be opened for them.

H. L. Bamforth of the Collegiate staff will be absent until October 1 because of illness and his junior science classes are being taken care of by senior science teachers who because of the deferred opening of school are not as busy as usual, the principal reported.

Ottawa Opposes Ontario Gas Tax Plan

TORONTO, Sept. 10 —(CP) — Provincial Treasurer Frost of Ontario was reported to be in Ottawa Thursday conferring with Federal Revenue Department officials on the gasoline tax situation.

In connection with Mr. Frost's visit to the Capital, the Toronto Telegram Thursday said Federal authorities are claiming Ontario's system of permitting farmers to buy tax-free gasoline direct from pumps without first paying the tax and then seeking a refund is irregular. The paper said further that Federeal authorities are disputing Ontario's gasoline tax returns and have threatened to do something about the amount due the Province by the Dominion Government unles the system of selling tax-free gas to the farmers is changed.

The Telegram said the dispute between the Dominion Government and the new Ontario Progressive-Conservative Government might penalize Ontario to the extent of $7,000,000. It added that Federal authorities want the new tax-free gasoline system abolished and a return made to the old system whereby farmers paid their tax as usual and then made application for a tax refund on gas used in their farm work.

Red Cross Lays Plans For September Dance

HASTINGS, Sept. 10 (ENS). — The monthly meeting of the Cobourg Road Red Cross was held at the home of Mrs. Vergil Oliver on Tuesday afternoon.

The President, Miss Clara Williamson, was in charge of the meeting. There were 18 ladies present. Letters of thanks were read from Dennis Ward, Patrick Fitzpatrick, Harry Porter and Philip Forde, saying they had received their cigarets and parcels. The treasurer gave her report stating they had $57.40 on hand. It was decided to send each of the boys overseas a parcel for Christmas. The lucky draw on the hand made shawl was won by Mrs. James Dickey.

It was also decided to hold a Red Cross Dance in the town hall at Hastings, Wednesday evening, September 15. Music will be supplied by the Melody Makers of Hastings. The committee in charge for the dance are Winnifred Beamish, Mrs. Arthur Beamish, Mrs. Bruce Trotter and Marguerite Lamey.

Each line is responsible for a quilting to be held sometime during the remainder of the month, in order that the quilts be completed to be handed in at the next meeting.

The October meeting will be held at Mrs. Gordon Dickey's home.

Help Scarcity Dreadful In Hospitals

OTTAWA, Sept. 10—(CP) — A. J. Swanson of Toronto, delegate representing the 125 members of the Ontario Hospital Association said Thursday before the Seventh Biennial meeting of the Canadian Hospital Council that the staff situation in hospitals is "rather dreadful at present" and that "something must be done to give us some relief in the way of personnel."

Mr. Swanson said he could not see why hospital employees could obtain leaving slips on short notice. Government hospitals were the worst offenders, and they should adhere to Selctive Service Regulations.

"If civilian hospitals are forced to curtail their service in any respect, Selective Service can take very little pride in it," he said.

Delegates representing hospital associations and councils throughout Canada said during a discussion on hospital operation under war conditions that industries are "robbing" them of employees, and that Selective Service should apply the "teeth" of its regulations to overcome this situation.

Suggestion was advanced that hospital employees should be "more or less frozen" in the capacities for which they had been trained.

Teaching Staff In Schools Is Rearranged

Throughout the summer the Board of Education has spent considerable time making arrangements so that all the staff changes and vacancies would be taken care of and the members received another set of shocks when they met Thursday night and received one resignation and two requests for leaves of absence.

John D. Londerville, who has just accepted the position of acting vice principal of King Edward School, has notified the Board that he has been accepted for military service. This is the second time he has volunteered and his medical category having proved satisfactory he has been told to report September 20.

The Board moved that leave be granted on the same condition as the others along with a month's pay, and that Kenneth McKee of the Prince of Wales School be appointed acting vice principal at King Edward, with Miss B. Franks going to Prince of Wales.

Poor Health

Miss Miriam L. Richardson of the Prince of Wales School applied for leave of absence until the new year because of her health. This was granted and Mrs. D. Brotherstone, who has been doing supply work, has been appointed until the end of the present term according to salary schedule.

The janitor at the Collegiate, W. Wood, tendered his resignation, effective September 10, because of ill health. It was accepted and the Property committee was authorized to engage a temporary caretaker.

The glass breaking epidemic around the schools has reached such proportions that it has ceased to be a joke, according to D. V. Canning. Prince of Wales school has been hardest hit, along with King Edward and King George. The Board concluded that the boys got a tremendous kick out of hearing glass crack, particularly at night and it was moved that a letter be sent to the Police Commission requesting them to give more surveillance to the schools in an effort to reduce the window breakage which has become alarming.

At the same time a letter was received from George Sorenson stating that a number of his greenhouse panes had been broken and asking if something could be done to hold the school children in check. It was moved by T. Carley that the letter be acknowledged and that the principal of Queen Alexandra school be asked to stress this to the pupils and that Mr. Sorenson be instructed to notify the principal when any windows were broken during school hours.

Too Slow

A resolution was forwarded from the Belleville Board of Education drawing to the attention of the Minister of Education the unreasonable delay in the releasing of the upper school results. The resolution stated that it made things difficult for students contemplating normal school entrance and other schools. The Board of Education heartily endorsed this and decided to forward one of its own.

It was explained that 14 days after the examinations were written, the examining in Toronto was completed, so that this did not occasion any delay in giving out the results. Mr. Browne pointed out that the same thing occurred with the Middle School results, which were released from Toronto almost two months after they had been marked in Peterborough.

Increased Pay

On a suggestion by Inspector Wightman, the Board of Education decided to raise the rate for supply teachers, as all agreed that the rate was too low for experienced teachers. It was raised from $4 to $5 a day.

Mr. Wightman also praised the fine work done by N. C. Munro, who has been doing part time supply work from three to five half-days a week. He holds a specialist's certificate in manual training and six years ago began at a salary of $5 a day. Mr. Carley and H. G. Walker moved that his salary be raised to $7.50 a day.

A letter of explanation from the minister of education, Col. George Drew, explaining the sudden extension of time for the opening of forms 3, 4 and 5 was read. It stated that the emergency had become so acute since the original opening order had been given, that it had been found necessary to change.

The Board members felt that it called for a resolution stating their regret that Col. Drew had found it necessary to free all forms instead of leaving the matter to the discretion of the local boards, to decide where deferment was necessary.

Night School Principal

Two recommendations of the Vocational Advisory committee were adopted. It was moved that C. S. Browne be appointed principal of the Night School at a salary of $500 a year and that F. E. Johnston continue as supervisor and teacher of the Industrial Arts and Household Arts classes at a salary of $500 a year. A further motion was made that the secretary-treasurer be responsible for the collection and refunds of all fees in connection with the Night classes, and that all records of receipts and disbursements of fees be made through the secretary's office, all in conjunction with the principal of the Night school.

Two motions introduced by the Special committee were adopted. The superannuation is to be paid for enlisted teachers in accordance with the salary schedule only and no further action is to be taken in the matter of the request from Capt. J. Nicholls. The matter of retiring allowances and accumulated sick leave has been left for further study although the Board approved the principle of the sick leave.

Italian Officer Surrenders To Canadians Gets Married Same Day, Then Imprisoned

By ROSS MUNRO
Canadian Press War Correspondent

GALLINA, Italy, Sept. 10 (Delayed)—(CP Cable).— In this little town three miles south-east of Reggio Calabria an Italian officer surrendered with his company to a Canadian company commanded by Capt. Graham Simms.

The Italian officer was perfectly willing to go quietly to a prisoners-of-war camp, but made a special plea.

He said he planned to be married that afternoon in Gallina Church. That was a poser for Captain Sims but he conceded the point and the wedding arrangements were carried out.

The Italian marched his men to church. Canadians were there too. The bride appeared and the ceremony was performed.

On the church steps the Italian officer kissed his bride and marched off with his men to a camp on the Reggio beach.

Huge Dead Letter Parcel Sale Will Dispose of 9000 Items

By JAMES McCOOK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, Sept. 10 (CP).—Post office officials have sorted and packed a great accumulation of corsets and cutlery, cigarettes and cosmetics, silk stockings and best sellers in preparation for the sale of "dead letter parcels."

The sale is held every two years, after every bit of ingenuity has been used in attempting to locate either the person to whom the parcel was addressed or the sender.

Officials were completing their work with the hopeful feeling that future accumulations will not be as large. Canadians have responded to persistent appeals that they be careful in addressing thier maial. In the last decade, the number of letters going to the dead letter office annually has been reduced by some 750,000.

But the annual total of dead letter office mail totals still about 2,000,000. The yearly movement of all mails in Canada has been estimated at 1,500,000,000 pieces.

In a recent year, 16,798 parcels were received by the dead letter office. Incorrectly or carelessly addressed, they could not be delivered, and only 7,850 had a return address so they could go back to the sender.

When efforts to locate the owners have been exhausted, the parcel is laid aside until the two-year sale is held. This year the sale, by auction, will be held in Toronto, possibly next month.

Officials who sorted materials to be sold said the accumulation was sufficient to start a lingerie shop, equip several automobiles apart from the heaviest equipment, supply a kitchen or two with all the hardware needed and keep a tobacco store in cigarettes for a considerable period.

The money from the sale goes to the Receiver-General of Canada in the same way as cash and money orders from letters whose owners cannot be traced.

Sea Off Naples Alive With Ships

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa, Sept. 10 (AP) —Back from a flight over the Naples district, a Canadian flier said Thursday "the whole area of approximately 1,000 square miles was swarming with an invasion fleet."

FO J. Anthony Vasicek, 20-year-old Spitfire pilot from Catham, Ont. brought back the first eyewitness account of the Allied landings. He flew over the region on his way to a reconnaissance mission shortly after dawn.

"Through the haze I suddenly saw what at first appeared to be a moderately large amount of shipping," he said. "Then as I got closer to the bay I got a more accurate picture and realized the whole area of approximately 1,000 square miles was swarming with an invasion fleet.

"The ships varied in size from assault barges to warships. The barges were sailing in dozens and dozens of large formations," he said.

"It was a calm sea with no whitecaps, so that the straight lines of foam made by the assault flotillas showed very clearly against the blue of the sea as they moved to and from the shore."

On his return trip Vasicek saw the invasion fleet again—with many more men landed.

Peterboro Horse Sweeps Kingston Race

KINGSTON, Sept. 10.—(CP). — A dead heat for first between William Direct and Lucy Grattan in the third heat of the 2.18 class featured the harness races at the Kingston Fall Fair Thursday.

William Direct, owned by A. D. Harrison of Brandon, and driven by J. C. Winer, Brandon, won two straight in the 2.18 class but had to share the lead with Lucy Grattan and driven by Grant. However, the western Canada horse may yet get a complete sweep of the class as a protest was entered against Lucy Grattan on the grounds of ineligibility.

SPORTS – DAY BY DAY

By FRED D. CRAIG

Brintons and Generals will clash tonight at the East City Bowl in the first game of the final series for the intermediate girls' championship and the Knox Trophy and the two rivals should stage an exciting battle in trying to get the jump on each other. Brintons, who were the winners last season reached the finals by beating the Johnson Motors girls in two straight games while Generals climbed to the last round by getting two decisions over the Electrics. Both have some clever young players in their lineups and on paper and on their season's record they look well matched. Pat Wilson, southpaw pitcher will likely do the throwing for the Generals tonight while Doris Walker who caught for the Brintons last season and has now switched to the pitching mound will likely get the call for gunnery duty with the carpet-weavers. The game is called for 6.30 o'clock and players are warned to be on hand on time. With the days rapidly getting shorter it is impossible to start any later than that hour and hope to get seven innings in before dark. Generals and Electrics just barely got 4½ frames played in their game Wednesday night.

Peterborough fans who remember among other things the time when Peg Hurst slapped out a homer with the bases full off Archie Deyell to win a game at Riverside Park will enjoy the following yarn about the Oshawa pepper-pot picked up by Ken Colling and used in his Belleville sports column: "Whenever we hear Oshawa sports mentioned it recalls fond baseball memories of the old C.O.B.L. we recall one sunny Saturday about a decade ago when Kingston was playing Oshawa in the Motor City, with Peg Hurst playing centre field for Oshawa and Vinny McQuade holding down the same position for Joe Daley's Ponies. In his first appearance at bat Hurst whaled a liner to deep right-centre and McQuade, after a long run, stuck out his gloved hand to spear the ball for an out. The next time up Peg hit one just as hard and far to McQuade's left and Vinny going full tilt back-handed the ball to rob "Pegger" of another extra base hit and by now Hurst was fit to be tied. On his third appearance at the dish Hurst dropped a bunt down the first base line. As the ball trickled on its way, Hurst cupped his hands and yelled in the direction of centre field: 'Get that one McQuade, you robber.' That was Peg Hurst all over again, but how he chased your newsboy to his hotel room one day is still another story about the colorful little fellow, who has played a lotta ball and hockey for his native city. Too bad there aren't more like him."

Star Footballers

Soccer fans who are looking forward to the battle at Riverside Park a week from tomorrow between Picton R.A.F. and Mount Hope R.A.F. will be delighted to learn that most of the stars who played here a year ago for the Picton team are still playing and will be seen in action in the local engagement. Flying Officer Campbell, the tall former Patrick Thistle star who was the chief scorer for Picton last September is at inside left and Sergt. Miller, formerly of Middlesborough pivots the forwards again. The crack centre half LAC. Flockett, will also be back with Picton and the whole side looks as strong as the smart team which overwhelmed Mount Hope in the 1942 British War Victims' Fund benefit game—possibly stronger. Here is the lineup as announced from the Picton station: Goalkeeper, Pilot Officer Alexander, R.A.F. Selects; right back, LAC. Meeks, Reading; left back, LAC. Davey, Bristol Rovers; right half LAC. Harper, Selry Town; centre half, LAC. Flockett, Spennymoor United; left half, AC. Hutton, St. Roch's Juniors; outside right, AC. Farnsworth, Rotherham; inside right, AC. Parkinson, Enfield; centre forward, Sergt. Miller, Middlesborough, English 1st Division; inside left, Flying Officer Campbell, Patrick Thistle, Scottish Thistle, Scottish 1st Division; outside left, Flying Officer Lawson, Dundee United; reserves, LAC. Aitchison, Berwick and Warrant Officer Cooper, Southall.

When Earl Moose McCready and Gentleman Jack Clayborne meet here in the main bout of the Tunney wrestling show at the Brock Street Arena Monday night local fans should glimpse one of the most exciting battles staged during the current revival. Little needs to be said about McCready. He is recognized as one of the top-notchers in the mat game, big, courageous, fast for his size, and possessing a wide knowledge of wrestling grips and releases. He has fought the best of them and shown that he belongs in fast company. Clayborne lacks some of the Moose's power but the Colored Comet is lightning fast and in his local bouts has shown a resourcefulness that has enabled him to more than hold his own with such formidable opponents as Killer John Katan, Housepainter Dick Hogan and the rough-house unmasked Red Shadow, Leo Numa. McCready is a different type of course. He can use back alley methods if he has to but the Moose prefers the clean stuff and in that respect he will be a new sort of opponent for the Ebony Flash who has been meeting birds with only one idea in their heads, that is to make it as tough for the South African as possible without actually pulling a ring-post loose and crowning him with it.

Fifteen For Smith

Cleveland's Al Smith picked up his 15th win of the season Thursday as the Indians defeated the Detroit Tigers 8 to 3 in the first game of a double-header. Smith came up with a seven-hitter and was never in much trouble as the Tribe pounded Trucks and Henshaw for 16 solid blows. The shoe was on the other foot in the second half of the twin bill. The Tigers taking the verdict 10 to 3 behind good pitching by Hal White who yielded only seven hits. The New York Yanks, hitting more like the McCarthyites of old had a soft time winning from the Boston Red Sox. They slapped out 15 hits off Heber Newsome and old Mike Ryba while Hank Borowy gathered in his 11th victory of the campaign, the Yanks winning 11 to 3. In the National loop the Brooklyn Dodgers opened on the Phillies with homers by Augie Galan and Billy Herman in the first innings and the circuit clouts more than provided enough margin to take the verdict 7 to 6. Barney started for the Bums but had to be relieved by Webber who got credit for the win. Barrett and Kimball toiled on the hilltop for the losers.

George Campbell's powerful Oshawa Colts are still rolling along in the O.A.S.A. intermediate A playoffs. Wednesday they invaded Belleville and took the strong Reliance club into camp 5 to 3 in a light-hitting pitcher's battle between big Preem Whiteley for Oshawa and Freddie Vasil for Belleville. Each of the pitcher's allowed but five hits. Vasil however walked eleven but he might have got away with it at that if it had not been for bunched Reliance errors and Oshawa hits in the seventh innings that made it possible for the Colts to chase in four runs and come from behind to win out. Peg Hurst who seemed to have difficulty handling Whiteley's offerings here had two passed balls in the first inning that gave Belleville two runs and they led 2 to 1 until the Colts' rally in the seventh. In that frame Hurst and Jubenville singled after a walk to Dalton and Belleville came up with two successive wild throws to put together three runs and Whiteley then helped his own cause with a triple to send in a fourth. Reliance managed to get a counter in the eight but Whiteley held them safe in the ninth and another Colt win was in the bag. Murney Green, veteran Belleville outfielder led the hitters on both teams with a double and a single. The second game will be played in Oshawa tomorrow where the Reliance will have to beat Dean McLaughlin to even up the round.

Ordered back to Milwaukee of the American Association by Commissioner K. M. Landis after pitching for Tigers for some weeks, Henry (Prince) Oana was sliding into a base while performing for the Brewers and fractured a wrist, thus ending his career for the season.

National Selective Service officials declined to comment at Ottawa last night regarding the outcome of a discussion with Alan Sutphin of the American Hockey League earlier in the day regarding arrangements for the entry of Canadian players into the States for the coming ice campaign. An announcement might come Saturday, it was stated.

Connie Mack disagreed at Philadelphia yesterday with the common opinion that Dick Wakefield of Detroit Tigers is the champion rookie of the American League this year. Mack preferred Bill Jackson of the Yankees who is third in the circuit's standing for batted in while Wakefield is not among the leaders.

In the first game of the Ontario Senior Lacrosse semi-finals at St. Catharines last night, Toronto Lakeshores provided the season's upset by trimming the Athletics 7-5. Mimico Combines and Brampton Army are fighting it out in the other half of the semi-final round.

The team of the Stormont and Glengarry Highlanders captured the horseshoe-pitching title of a Canadian army division in England, being forced to break a first-place tie with the Regina Rifles in a sudden-death match, according to a cabled despatch last night. Capt. V. E. Stark of Kitchener was in charge of the tournament.

The Crowland ball team, Niagara Intermediate Baseball champions and defenders of the Ontario Intermediate "A" honours, last night won their way to the second round of the O. B. A. playdowns with a 1-0 win over Hagersville Fliers at Welland. Crowland now meets Brampton.

Monday Card Rated As Best Yet

Next Monday's complete wrestling card at the Brock St. Arena features the important British Empire Elimination match between Earl McCready and Gentleman Jack Clayborne; the semi-final between Rough-house Dick Hogan and Pat Flanagan and a return go between Joe Maich and Flt. Sergeant Ted Miller.

It's a good card with each of the three bouts shaping up as tops in their own particular way. The main fracas of course holds the spotlight because it brings together two of the best. Clayborne, the steel-spring chunk of flashing ebony, has proven his merit here in three great matches. Although obviously gypped by John Katan in his first appearance here, the fine big Negro athlete came back to win in two successive bouts and showed oodles of calibre and class. Matching him however even in those departments is the prowess of the tip top wrestler Earl McCready. The "Moose" as he is often called for obvious reasons is just as much of a mat gentleman as Clayborne and lovers of the grapple sport are asured that in this bout they will see more actual wrestling done—holds put on and countered—than ever before. It will be wrestling at its fastest, cleanest and best.

LAWN BOWLING

After watching the progress of our club over a great many years, we have come to the conclusion that once the regular schedule has been completed the interest of our bowlers drops off to less than 50 per cent. And maybe we are being generous when we make that statement. Try as the committee might, first trying one kind of series, and when that failed trying another, and then when the second on failed keeps on trying something new and different, but it all adds up to the same answer — no dice.

Last night was no exception; there were many defaults.

It is not fair to the committee to expect them to go out to the greens and spend their time and then have no response.

Whoever has charge of our games next season would be well advised to have many meetings during the winter with the committees and try and work out still another idea. When the members won't co-operate it certainly makes it a tough job.

We hope it warms up somewhat for our mixed tournament this evening. The time is 7:30 o'clock.

Toronto RCAF Team Must Beat Trenton

TORONTO, Sept. 10. — Toronto R.C.A.F. Airmen, senior T.B.A. champions, are faced with the necessity of winning their Saturday afternoon game at Earlscourt Park against Trenton Airmen or pass out of the baseball playoff picture.

Down one game after taking a 3-1 defeat behind Art Upper's fancy southpaw pitching for Trenton, the Command team are set to nominate Lefty Murray Allen as their pitching choice for Saturday's tilt.

"Upper had his nothing ball working perfectly," said Red Heron of the Toronto Airmen, "but he can't get away with it again." Carmen Bush and Ernie Wortley will be the umpires at Earlscourt Park, with Lou Walker and Elmer Stewart as conveners.

BROOKLYN'S HOME STRETCH DRIVE COMES TOO LATE FOR PENNANT

The Sports Round-Up

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Sept. 10 — (AP). —Elly Vines, probably the only athlete versatile enough to be a well-paid professional both in tennis and golf, laid the grounds for a good argument the other day by naming golf as the game he likes better . . . "It's a more sociable game," Vines said. "Tennis is personal combat and you can do things when you hit the ball that will throw the other fellows game way off. In golf if the other fellow shoots the first nine in 30, you just have to take it." . . . Vines also argued that golf is easier for the ordinary man to learn but it's harder to become a champ . . .

They Almost Had Olmo

Seaman Morris Siegel, who gets plenty of time to think at his unnamed post, recalls how the Dodgers nearly got outfielder Luis Olmo all for free a few years ago . . . Seems that the Richmond Colts sent Olmo his 1940 contract but he sailed from Puerto Rico before it arrived . . . Somehow the Dodgers learned that he wasn't signed and Branch Rickey Jr., met the boat and led Luis away to a Brooklyn farm club's camp . . . Owner Eddie Mooers of Richmond finally located his missing Puerto Rican and, by proving that he had mailed the contract before the deadline, got him back again . . . So when Brooklyn finally purchased Olmo last winter he cost $10,000.

Ottawa R.C.A.F. Captures Softball Title

CORNWALL, Sept. 10 —(CP) — Ottawa Air Force captured the Eastern Ontario Softball Association senior title here last night when they launched an 18-hit attack to smother Cornwall Army 16-8 in the final game of a best-of three series.

The contest, called at the end of the eighth inning because of darkness, marked the second victory of the Airmen, both scored on the Cornwall field. The first game was tied and Cornwall won in Ottawa Tuesday night.

The verdict never was in doubt after Ottawa rallied to overcome an early Cornwall lead in the second frame. Roger Despatie and Jimmy Drummond were on the mound for Cornwall while Don McCarthy pitched throughout for Ottawa and never was in danger. Although touched for 10 hits.

Hank Blade, with four hits for five trips, and Tony Licari, with four for six, were the Air Force batting stars. Solloway banged out a homer for them in the second frame with two mates aboard to knot the contest.

Johnny O'Flaherty hit a home run for Cornwall.

London College Starts Mustangs

LONDON, Sept. 10 —(CP)—Football weather is at hand, and at the University of Western Ontario plans are already in progress for lining gridiron contests with powerful teams in the senior O R. F. U. circuit.

J. Howard Crocker, director of physical education, said Thursday that prospects are bright for a first-rate Mustang squad, with 16 members of last year's team ready to don togs again this season.

With intercollegiate football out for the duration, Western is taking on other teams in exhibition games. Some of these teams are stronger than any opposition the Mustangs met in their clashes with grid squads of other universities.

Following a meeting Thursday of the stadium committee and the athletic directorate regarding football this year, Mr. Crocker is attempting to arrange games contacting O. R. F. U. squads in Ottawa, Hamilton and Toronto.

Teams being sought to provide Mustang competition here this Fall include such senior calibre gridders as Toronto R.C.A.F., Navy, Ottawa, Hamilton, Balmy Beach and Oakwood Indians.

The senior O.R.F.U. begins its schedule on Sept. 18 and, because Wednesday games are in the majority, Western officials hope to give local fans Saturday contests.

Wins Northern League

SUDBURY —(CP) — The Copper Cliff baseball team made a clean sweep of the Nickel Belt League by defeating Frood 4-3 yesterday in the third game of the titular series. The winners came from behind in the last half of the ninth to score the third straight triumph.

Best Canadian-Bred Racehorse

Meet Shepperton, said to be the best Canadian-bred race horse to come up in at least 20 years. He has already won five or six handicaps in Ontario. Here he is pictured in Toronto, with his breeder, owner and trainer, Fred Schelke. Son of Sun Craig and Chatwater, he is reputed to be better than Hallucination, J. K. L. Ross's race horse which frequently greeted judges 20 years ago. Schelke hopes to take Shepperton to California this fall.

Dodgers Beat Phillies; Yankees Win

By JUDSON BAILEY,
Associated Press Sports Writer.

The National League home stretch looks strange this year without a race—with St. Louis Cardinals in front by 15 games and soon to clinch their second successive pennant — but Brooklyn Dodgers are showing that it might have been a different story if they had not faltered in midsummer.

The Dodger's rebellion in July, and the conditions that led up to it, may not have cost Brooklyn a pennant, but apparently it did rob the senior circuit of its customary close competition through the closing weeks.

After Branch Rickey ripped the club apart it lost 10 straight games and 19 out of 24. But since the Dodgers found themselves again with new blood in mid-August they have been showing up the rest of the league.

Yesterday, with former President Herbert Hoover looking on from a box seat, they beat the Phillies 7-6 and moved within half a game of second place. This seems to put them among the top come-backs of the year in sports.

The frolic with the Phillies, who were making their first visit to Ebbets Field under the leadership of Fred Fitzsimmons, one-time idol of Flatbush, turned out to be quite a scramble.

The day's only other action was in the American League, where the New York Yankees stormed to an 11-3 triumph over Boston Red Sox and Cleveland divided a double-header with Detroit.

The Indians made 16 hits in taming the Tigers 8-3 in their first game as Lefty Al Smith pitched seven-hit ball for his 15th victory, but Hal White came back with a seven-hit hurling job in the second game as Detroit won 10-3.

Fight Champions Named At Borden

CAMP BORDEN, Sept. 10—Two representatives of No. 2 C.A.C., one from Cape Breton, the other from Winnipeg, were crowned boxing champions of the Canadian Armored Corps in the finals held at the K. of C. hut last night.

Packing one of the deadliest punches ever seen here, Tpr. R. M. Hawley, of Sydney, Cape Breton, N.S., took the middleweight championship in a whirlwind bout. Launching a rapid-fire attack at the opening bell, he had Tpr. David Knight of Winnipeg out on his feet in a minute and a half of the first round, the fight was stopped by Lieut. J. Coggins, referee, at that time.

The other champ was Tpr. Paul Kereluk, of Winnipeg, who punched his way through three rounds to a surprise decision over Tpr. Jackie Rice of Hamilton to take the welterweight championship. Rice, undefeated in this zone, showed to disadvantage last night and was unable to overcome the relentless attacks of the Westerner. He made a rally in the second round but took a barrage of punches in the third to drop the bout and the championship.

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By CHARLES EDWARDS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, Sept. 10 — (CP). — Maritimes sports writers apparently concede Kingston, Ont., will ultimately be chosen as the site for a hockey Hall of Fame. Halifax, of course, is making a strong bid for the memorial, but Bill (Moncton Transcript) Hutchinson writes: "Both these cities have dug up hundreds of reasons why the thing should go to them, but's our guess the Ontario city will be successful in getting it. For some reason or other a Maritime claim must be twice as strong as one from Ontario to get the nod in almost any line. Personally this observer believes the Halifax claim has about that much strength but will be overlooked." Ken Chisholm of the Halifax Herald comments on Hutchinson's view: "That Bill's idea is a pretty fair summation of the situation there can be little doubt."

Probably the Maritimes writers are correct, but not because the hockey moguls wish to deliberately pass over a Maritimes claim. Value of a hockey Hall of Fame will be as a tourist attraction. Rightly or wrongly, the hockey authorities will figure Kingston has the greatest tourist field on which to call.

Bitter Pills:

Gordon Drillon, the Montreal Canadiens hockey lad, gave Dink Carroll of the Montreal Gazette the story of the bitterest moment in his hockey career. And it was not the sudden souring of the Toronto fans a year ago. It happened when Gordy was a boy in Moncton after Drillon acted as a stickboy for the Ottawa Senators on an exhibition tour. Senators presented him with one of their uniforms and it was Gordon's proudest possession. He left the uniform in a locker one night and that night the rink was destroyed by fire, uniform and all. "That was the bitterest moment of my entire hockey career," says Gordon.

Glen Harmon, Canadiens' sensational rookie of last season, is expected to show in an Air Force uniform if he plays hockey this winter ....Ken (Vancouver Province) McConnell complains that boxing authority is divided in Canada and suggests the sport will never reach major proportions in the Dominion until it is placed under a central authority....Coach Ross Trimble of the Dominion football champs, Toronto R.C.A.F. Hurricanes, is sobbing so strenuously over prospects that grid writer Hal Walker dubs the team the "Trembling Trimbles."

Syracuse Chiefs Reach Playoffs

By The Associated Press.

Syracuse qualified for the International League playoffs by beating Jersey City last night, leaving Rochester and Montreal to battle it out for the last play-off spot.

The Chiefs assured themselves of third place behind Toronto and Newark by defeating the Little Giants 5-2 behind Millard Howell's six-hit pitching.

Rochester squeezed out a 2-1 triumph over Toronto and ousted Montreal—at least temporarily — from fourth place. The veteran Ira Hutchinson chalked up his 17th victory in turning back the league leaders. Joe King singled home both of Rochester's runs in the first inning.

Buffalo's Floyd Giebell allowed only seven scattered hits in beating the Royals, 3-1. The defeat put Montreal half a game behind Rochester. The winning run came in the eighth on singles by Bengoechea, Smith and Kobesky.

Baltimore and Newark were idle.

Italian Leader Tells Hitler Why He Gave Up

NEW YORK, Sept. 10 —(AP) — A Rome broadcast disclosed Thursday that Premier Pietro Bodoglio sent a telegram to Hitler in Berlin Thursday telling him that Italy was forced to ask the Allies for an armistice "to avoid total ruin."

"One cannot ask the people to continue to fight when all legitimate hope—I do not say victory, but even of resistance—has vanished," Badoglio's message said.

Similar telegrams were sent to Italian diplomatic missions in Tokyo, Budpest, Bucharest, Sofia, Zagreb and Bratislava, the broadcast said, so that they "might inform the Governments to which they are accredited" of Italy's reasons for seeking an armistice.

The broadcast was recorded by the U.S. Foreign Broadcast Intelligence Service.

Summing up the reasons for the surrender, Badoglio said:

"No part of Italy is safe from enemy attack, having no adequate defence, as has been proved by the fact that the enemy was able to land as he pleased, where he pleased and when he pleased, in considerable force which grew each day in numbers and in might, crushing all resistance and laying waste the country.

"Under these conditions the Italian Government could no longer assume responsibility for continuing the war which already has cost Italy —apart from loss of her Colonial Empire—destruction of her towns, annihiliation of her industries, of her merchant navy, of her railway network and, lastly, invasion of her own soil."

British Corral Mafia Gangsters

By MICHAEL CHINIGO
(Representing the Combined American Press)
(Distributed by The Canadian Press.)

SOMEWHERE IN SICILY, Sept. 10. — The Mafia, Sicilian extortionist gang which Fascism tried for years to rub out and then incorporated as one of its own criminal appendages, has been smashed from the top.

Two of its notorious ring leaders, Domenico Tomaselli and Giuseppe Piraino, and 17 district bosses were nabbed in a joint British-American coup in which even Scotland Yard had a hand.

All of them are safely behind bars and the responsible Allied authorities have enough leads on the other regional chiefs to ensure their capture.

Mafia men already in custody and those on the way to joining them controlled the black market, which still has a stranglehold on Sicilian life. It follows, therefore, that breaking the Mafia gang means breaking the black market.

It is true also that within the secret society there are men who have fought Fascism since its inception. This small minority has been one of the first to denounce the activity of the others.

U.S. Vice-Admiral

Despite German resistance, both flanks of the Anglo-Canadian 8th Army in the Calabrian Peninsula on Italy's toe advanced along the Eastern and Western coastal roads. Heavy demolitions slowed up the advances to some extent.

In taking Pizzo, the British and Canadian forces in the South again resorted to the "Leap-frogging" tactics that have accounted for so many Allied advances along the shores of both Sicily and Italy.

"This town was captured as the result of a successful seaborne assault," the communique said.

Yesterday headquarters told of a similar landing down the coast at Vibo Valentia.

Gain 20 Miles.

More than keeping pace with the west coast drive, the 8th Army column on the East coast has smashed northward to Manasterace, Eastern terminus of the trans-peninsular highway from Pizzo.

This represents an East coast advance of about 20 miles since the previous day.

(It was still not known to-day whether Canadian troops were taking part in the assault, although dispatches yesterday from London hinted at that possibility. Wrote Associated Press Correspondent William Smith White from London, "the flags of Canada are in all possibility of going forward in that area.)"

(Although offical quarters have confirmed that Allied Forces are in operation in Italy only in the Naples area and on the Calabrian Peninsula, a welter of reports from neutral and German sources have talked of landings elsewhere along 500 miles of Italy's Western coastline, as well as on Sardinia and Corsica.

(From Madrid to-day came a dispatch relaying unconfirmed reports received from Switzerland that British troops, under the protection of United States naval forces, had landed at La Spezia, site of an important naval base 75 miles southeast of Genoa.)

Gunners Use Italian Horses But Can't Catch Advance Guard

WITH THE CANADIANS IN SICILY, Aug. 27 (Delayed)—(CP)— It was something like the old days when RSM. W. C. Adams of Winnipeg and his group of Western Canadian gunners dragged their horse artillery into Modica. They were a sorry-looking outfit with their captured Italian horses and awkward Italian guns. All they wanted was to find their regiment and rejoin its ranks.

The gunners picked up the Italian equipment, a battery complete with everything but the guncrews who had fled, after its capture by the Princess Patricias.

Adams' orders were to put Canadian gunners on the Italian equipment. "I had a helluva time getting those horses from the Pats," Adams grinned. "They had marched a lot and were making good use of them."

He and his men finally outargued the infantrymen, hitched the horses to the guns, and set out, only to find that their regiment had moved. "We travelled all night but couldn't catch them, even though the horses were first class," Adams related.

"We stopped early in the morning near Ispica," he went on, "fed and watered up, had a bit of a rest and continued on our way." As they plodded on, four enemy planes came out of nowhere to rake the little convoy, wounding two men and two horses.

Only Six Letters

That incident over, they plodded on to Ispica where they were greeted by American paratroops. By the time they had pushed into Modica they found that the only other friendly troops there before them were patrols.

"We set up our guns covering the approaches to the town," Adams narrated. "L.-Bdr. Jack Mitchell of Trail, B.C., went down the road with his Tommygun on a recce The first thing he knew 100 Italians had surrendered to him."

Adams' story is only part of the experiences of an artillery regiment commanded by an officer who is a permanent force officer from Winnipeg. The unit was shelled near Leonforte two weeks after the landing.

Adams said one of the most touching scenes of the whole fight was the regiment's first mail parade. The gunners raced in from all sides when the call came. To their dismay, six letters had arrived.

Battery officers include Maj. J. T. Lang of Brockville, Ont. The medical officer is Capt. J. R. McManus of Kingston, Ont., and the Padre is Capt. E. S. Davis, Pembroke, Ont.

TORONTO, September 10 — Maj.-Gen. C. F. Constantine, D.S.O., for almost three years district officer commanding Military District No 2, will be tendered a farewell mess dinner this evening by officers of the reserve army of the district.

The dinner, which will be attended by close to 600 officers, will be held in the Crystal Ballroom of the King Edward Hotel and the gathering will include representatives of each of the 31 units in the district, which extends from Brantford and the Niagara Peninsula to James Bay and Sault Ste. Marie.

Maj.-Gen. Constantine took command of the district on Nov. 7, 1940, and went on leave, pending retirement, on August 14 last.

OTTAWA, Sept. 10 —(CP) — Official sources said Thursday they consider it "very possible" that the small number of Canadians held as prisoners of war by Italy may be released soon as a result of the Italian capitulation.

It was said here that the number of Canadians affected was "only a few more than 100" up to a couple of months ago and it is not anticipated the number has increased much since then, despite operations by Canadian soldiers on Italian territory.

The Canadian prisoners are principally navy and air force personnel.

Canadians Bag 3 Planes With Ack-ack

By ROSS MUNRO
Canadian Press War Correspondent

WITH THE CANADIANS IN ITALY, Sept. 8 — (Delayed). — (CP Cable). — Canadian light anti-aircraft gunners have shot down their first enemy aircraft in Italy.

The troops commanded by Captain J. H. C. Warren of Toronto brought down two planes and probably a third during an action on the Canadian main landing beach.

There Bofors gunners began to shoot just after they landed following waves of infantry. Enemy fighter-bombers wheeled over the beach to try to bomb the ships and the Canadians went for them.

Two planes crashed into Messina Straits and another was hit, limping off.

This regiment was the first to score against enemy planes in Sicily and also did notable work against pillboxes there.

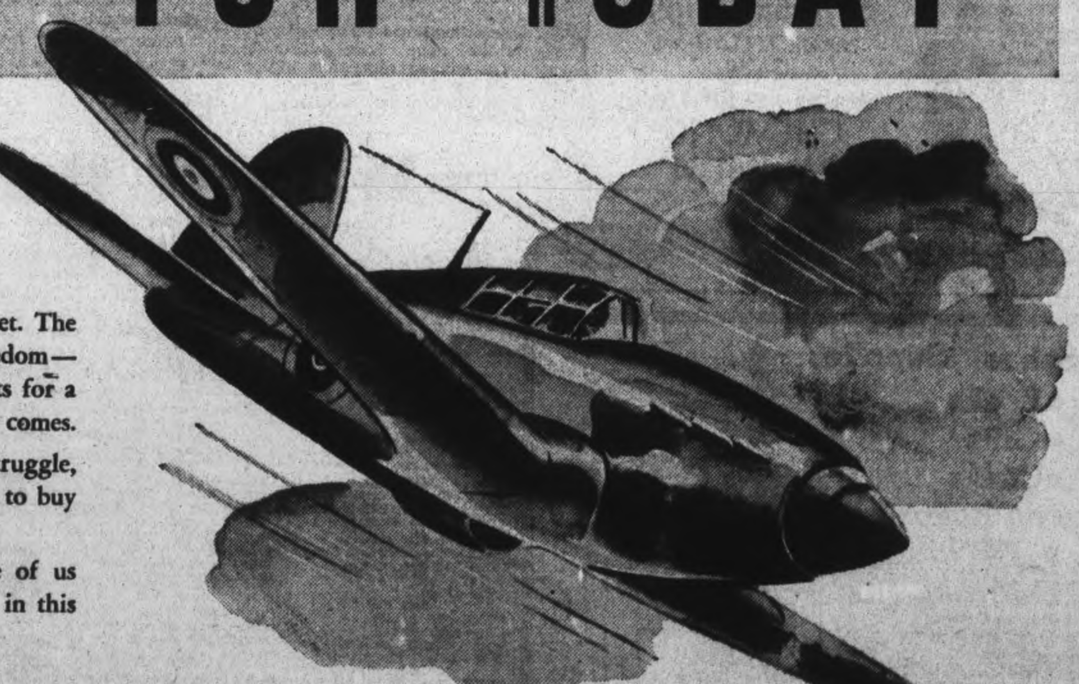
TARGET FOR TODAY



TODAY, Victory is our first and only target. The things of tomorrow—the new shape of Freedom—the new pattern of Security—the new projects for a better world—these will follow when Victory comes.

The duty of every Canadian is clear. In this struggle, every gun counts, and every dollar that helps to buy a gun counts, too.

Victory depends on how earnestly each one of us carries out the urgent undertakings set forth in this resolution:

I Resolve . . . that I will work and save and lend to the limit of my capacity to support the defenders of my freedom on the fighting fronts of the world.

I Resolve . . . that I will forego luxuries and comforts now to make sure of future security for myself, my loved ones, and my fellow countrymen.

I Resolve . . . that I will subscribe for Victory Bonds when they are offered, and will hold on to them until the war is over.

I Resolve . . . that I will buy War Savings Certificates and Stamps regularly, and keep them invested for the duration.

I Resolve . . . that my life insurance, which aids each Victory Loan and will help to further the measures for national re-adjustment after the war by providing individual independence, will be kept in force, for my own and the nation's benefit.

• • •

Your bonds, your war savings, and your life insurance are three safeguards for the future which should be maintained out of present income, even at the cost of personal sacrifice. Each has its protective value. Each means future delivery of money to you or yours. Each is as safe as the Dominion of Canada itself.

Every dollar saved today is a down payment on security and peace of mind.

School Board Reopens City Hall Issue

The Peterborough Board of Education at its meeting on Thursday night decided to re-open the question of taking space in the new city hall and on motion of G. Wilson Craw and W. A. Anderson the question will come up at the next regular meeting of the board.

However it took much debate and argument before the move was obtained for members differed on interpretation of the Board rule which says "no matter once disposed of by the Board shall be reconsidered during the same year except by a two-thirds vote of the members present, and the motion to reconsider any decision of the Board must be made by a member who did not vote in the negative when the decision was arrived at."

At the previous meeting held during the latter part of August only seven members were present when the request from the city as to whether the Board wanted space in the new city hall was considered. The members split three-three and the chairman, Dr. Charles Scott, cast the deciding vote against taking space in the proposed hall.

D. G. H. Melton, who was unable to be present at the special meeting started the fireworks when he asked for an interpretation of the rule regarding re-opening of a question and he moved, seconded by W. A. Anderson, who was also not present at the special meeting, that the question be reconsidered.

The chairman, Dr. Charles Scott, did not feel able at first to give a ruling on the question, but T. J. Carley argued that on the wording of the rule a member who was not present was permitted at the time the question was decided was entitled to re-open it under the rule. However the chairman ruled that it must be a member who was present and had voted in the affirmative. Mr. Carley appealed against the chairman's ruling and it was upset 4 to 3 with Carley, Craw, Anderson, Scollard voting against the ruling and Canning, Walker and Melton voting for the ruling.

But before the Melton motion could be put a motion to adjourn came from Canning and Walker and this went down 5 to 2.

Mr. Melton's original motion was then put that the question be reconsidered and it passed by a vote of 5 to 4 with Carley, Craw, Anderson, Melton and Scollard supporting and Canning and Walker opposing.

Mr. Craw then moved that the question be reconsidered at the next meeting of the Board and it was seconded by Mr. Anderson. Mr. Canning moved an amendment that it be reconsidered at the next meeting of the board at which all the members were present. The amendment introduced another argument over rules and regulations and here again the chairman was called upon to make a ruling. He ruled the amendment in order but it was defeated by 5 to 2 and the Craw-Anderson motion carried by the same vote.

Bailieboro Votes $100 For Milk

The Peterborough Kinsmen has received from the Bailieboro citizens the sum of $100, which has been donated to the Milk for Britain Fund. On Monday a most successful field day was held and the proceeds have been divided between the Red Cross and the Milk for Britain Fund. This $100 which is not the first donation to come from Bailieboro for this worthy fund means that 1,000 more quarts of milk will go forth to Britain just at a time when the scarcity of milk in that country is being greviously felt.

The fund also has received $20 from the Women's Auxiliary of St. Aidan's Anglican Church at Young's Point, and this is also most certainly appreciated. The third donation reported today comes from a monthly contributor to the fund, Mrs. William Shannon of Stewart Street.

City Will Prosecute If Railways Don't Act

Still campaigning against the railways for neglect of their tracks at street crossings, Alderman Gordon contributed the following injunction to the Council's action Wednesday "That City Solicitor Huycke be instructed to write the railway companies giving them a list of railway crossing in the city which are hazardous to motor and pedestrian traffic; this list to be prepared by City Engineer Parson; and that he notify them that if these crossings are not put in satisfactory condition one month from the date of notice the city will institute proceedings under the Railway Act and will prosecute them."

Alex Walker C.B.E. Stresses Plan Needed for Ex-Service Men

Early and adequate preparation for the return to civilian life of the men and women now serving in Canada's armed forces was emphasized by Alex Walker, C.B.E., Dominion President of the Canadian Legion, in a speech given comrades of the First Great War at the Legion Hall Thursday night.

Now on a tour of branches in many parts of the Dominion before returning to his home in the West, Mr. Walker spoke before a crowd of several hundred veterans gathered in the hall, members of the local and outlying branches in this district.

He stated that it would be as great an error to underestimate the possibilities for an early victory as it was to assume that the conflict would be long-drawn-out, because in this way it was likely that Canada would come to the period of peace-time readjustment unprepared to do its duty by the hundreds of thousands of service men returning to civilian life. Drawing a comparison with the unexpected end of the last war in November of 1918, months before the best military minds had ventured to predict a German collapse, Mr. Walker said the country had arrived at peace unprepared for the problems of demobilization and soldiers' re-entry into civilian life.

Full Co-operation

For this reason the Canadian Legion had advocated full provision for co-operation on the part of federal, provincial and municipal authorities, and the co-operation of leaders in industry and commerce as well, Mr. Walker related, in order that returning servicemen would not be let down as they were before.

"The problems of rehabilitation are many and complex," he admitted but asserted that preparation, together with goodwill and the experience of the last war to draw on, would overcome the difficulties. "Goodwill on the part of all and sacrifice on the part of some are needed to accomplish our ends. But the post-war period presents an opportupnity for the greatest social and humanitarian advances the world has ever seen."

The president of the Legion stated that his organization cannot look upon the peace as won unless full employment at rates of pay above subsistence levels is obtained for all. The minimum wage would have to be linked to the cost-of-living index, or a condition of near starvation for many, approximating that of the years of depression, would be the inevitable result. The prerequisite for all plans for reconstruction, he said, was a reconstruction of our own minds, a turning away from the "relief mentality" left us as a heritage of the depression.

Prepared Brief

With regard to the work of the Legion in planning rehabilitation of soldiers in the present war, Mr. Walker presented a picture of its activities and viewpoints on matters connected with this all-important program. At various times representations have been made to the Federal Government covering specific problems in the rehabilitation process, Mr. Walker said, and an overall statement of the position of the Legion was formulated in a brief presented last June. This brief, prepared from the point of view of the men and women now in the services, based its recommendations upon the belief that the return to civilian life of members of the fighting forces must proceed concurrently with the demobilization of those in war work and the plans for general reconstruction.

ALEX. WALKER

Many suggestions have been made to the Dominion Parliament since the beginning of the war for the actual handling of rehabilitation measures, the Legion president told his audience. From the outbreak of war, the Canadian Legion had been on record as advocating that steps be taken to ensure that those who volunteer shall in no wise be penalized economically as a result of their action, and that on their return they receive the position which they would have attained had they not enlisted.

At its last convention, the Legion had resolved that fighting men returning home should not be discharged except to gainful employment, and that they should remain a nobligation of the Federal Government until a year after their return to civilian life. Special consideration should be given those who have served overseas, clothing allowances should be raised and definite methods laid down to prevent the possibility of any haphazard adjustment.

Higher Rates

In a separate brief covering social security presented in July a strong plea was made for higher rates for servicemen, Mr. Walker stated, saying "Present rates are far too parsimonious for a country supposed to be fighting for freedom from want."

He suggested that a separate ministry in the Government be established to deal with veterans' affairs, fearing that the increasing volume and broadness of its activities spreading out over many Government departments might lead to confusion and inefficiency in handling business.

Reporting on other activities engaged in by the Legion, Mr. Walker summarized the accomplishments of the Canadian Legion's War Services organization, and stated that plans were already completed for members of this group to accompany our soldiers in their invasion of the Continent. Operating in Canada, in England and in actual battle areas, the personnel, now numbering 600 full-time workers, had performed a "highly satisfactory" job. In four years of war, 137,000 registrations had been taken for educational courses; attendance in recreation huts amounted to 20,000,000; and some 14,000,000 had been to movies, dances and smokers organized by the Legion.

Mayor Praises Legion

In welcoming the speaker of the evening to Peterborough, His Honor Mayor Hamilton paid tribute to the total war effort the Canadian Legion has made, and said that no organization can do better than it in helping to restore boys returning home to happy and useful lives in their communities. The legislation it sponsors, he said, was of service to the whole nation, and the Legion was an outstanding element in cementing friendship with the United States.

A colorful parade of Legionnaires accompanied by formations of Sea and Air Cadets and by the Prince of Wales Rangers band, the Salvation Army band and bands of the two junior services, preceded the gathering in the Legion Hall. Marching through streets in the business district, the parade was watched and followed by throngs of citizens and applauded on its way. At the conclusion of the parade memorial wreaths were laid at the Cenotaph.

Those seated on the platform beside the speaker at the Legion Hall were: Thomas Magladery, president of the Ontario Provincial Command; Lt. Col. Ivan Moore, K.C., district commander; George Gimblett, president of Canadian Legion Branch 52; Mrs. C. H. Porter, Mrs. Howson and Mrs. Joseph Mills of the Ladies' Auxiliary, Branch 52; Mayor James Hamilton, Alderman James Dutton and Judge S. Smoke; Lt. Col. E. O. Keeler, M.C., V.D.; Gordon K. Fraser, M.P. and Harold Scott, M.P.P.

During the day Mr. Walker and Mr. Magladery were guests at a luncheon served at the Kawartha Club, following which a tour was made of the Genelco plant. In the evening a civic dinner was tendered by the city in honor of the visitors in Hooper's Palm Room, with Alderman G. N. Gordon acting as chairman and Mayor Hamilton and Aldermen Glover, Dutton, Swanston, Sullivan, Curtis and Sands also in attendance.

Jail Sentence Spoils Westerner's Sojourn

One of the Western farmers, assigned to the Peterborough area for the Eastern harvest period, recently terminated his employment with an Otonabee farmer and left for home to take a hand in the Prairie harvesting.

"We were greatly pleased with him," the employer said. "He was a first class worker, agreeable and easy to get along with, and he certainly was a real help to us. He told us that he hoped he never see the city to Peterborough again, and that he was going to try to forget all about it."

On his arrival here this man took a few beers too many, was arrested and taken to county jail for a weekend. He deeply regretted the episode and was happy to get away from the city and settled down to the summer work. He left behind a good impression with his farm employer.

Bowling Club Gives $61 To War Victims

Sports lovers in general have on many occasions demonstrated that their own sportsmanship goes deeper than just playing a game for their own amusement entirely, that in itself being a proof of the inherent value that lies behind the playing of any game, and in no better way has this been shown than by the repeated support they have given to the various war assists which aimed at helping the person who has suffered by reason of the afflictions that the present war has caused.

For the past three years, the Peterborough Lawn Bowling Club has been good to the people of Britain who have suffered through air raid attacks over that country, by staging a special event which has been the means of a nice contribution coming to the Peterborough and District British War Victims' Fund which operates on their behalf, the event this year being held last Friday, from which it is a pleasure to record the sum of $61 in their name today through R. F. Downey, their president, and F. M. Brown, their secretary-treasurer.

To raise this amount of money, a tournament was held for which a special entrance fee of $1 per person was charged to all those who participated, and the amount so raised is indicative of the good support the officers of the club received in taking a leadership in this respect, so that others in less fortunate position than themselves might benefit.

In Memory Of Stanley Thompson.

One year ago, the late C. Stanley Thompson passed to his final reward, this being marked today by a contribution of $10 to honor his memory, there being no finer tribute that can be paid to the good deeds that anyone in their earthly career had performed, than that further good for the sufferings of others should be done in their name and thus keep their memory green.

The First St. Andrew's Company of Girl Guides have on many an occasion given help to the fund, either by a contribution in money or work done to advance its interests, this being particularly borne out through their help on Saturday mornings at the stall for the fund on the market. Today a contribution of $1.56 appears in their name which was raised through the very essential war assist of gathering fats, this being handed in by Miss Gladys Bridcott, their captain.

At the market this Saturday, two of this same group of Girl Guides will be on hand to act as sales clerks at the stall where in addition to the produce that will be on sale, tickets will also be available for a draw on a nice silver cheese dish donated by Schneider's Jewellery Store, the oversight of which has been undertaken by Mrs. V. Sweeting of R.R. 5, Peterborough.

Junior Flower Show.

This is an annual event sponsored by the Peterborough Horticultural Society, deserving of a widespread support for the good it does to the community in general and the boys and girls in particular, through the fostering of a knowledge of how they may co-operate with the work of an Almighty hand in the production of beautiful flowers, and vegetable for the sustenance of mankind.

The show is being held this Saturday in the agricultural rooms on Hunter Street, and all entries should be on hand by this Friday evening. A collection will be taken to help the fund along.

The theme of the devotional period which was conducted by Mrs. J. Gerrard was "God Speaks in the Silence." Assisting her were Mrs. T. Johnston giving the scripture passage and Mr. H. Darling a reading emphasizing the need of minutes sacred to prayer each morning when life is so demanding.

There are sixty four societies represented and the 30th anniversary of the Local Council will be observed.

'Y' Secretary Honored After 25 Years' Service

To mark the completion of twenty-five years of service in the Young Women's Christian Association in the United States and Canada, Secretaries of the movement throughout the Dominion presented Miss Louise Gates, general secretary of the National Council Y.W.C.A. with a walnut chair upholstered in blue damask. The presentation was made by Miss Eva Coon, general secretary of the Toronto Y.W.C.A., at the Saturday evening session of the Y.W.C.A. Seminar, held at the Peterborough Camp in Stoney Lake.

Following her graduation from MacMurray College, Jacksonville, Illinois, and a period of teaching and post-graduate work at the University of Chicago, Miss Gates began her Association career as Industrial Secretary of the Allentown, Penn., Y.W.C.A. Later she was appointed by the Toledo Association as general secretary. Subsequently in a world tour she visited Y.W.C.A.'s in Europe and the Orient and this experience was followed by six months as Advisory Secretary to the Association in Brazil.

In 1936 after post-graduate study at Columbia University, Miss Gates became general secretary of the Montreal Y.W.C.A. and in 1930 accepted her present post. It is interesting to note that in the same year in which Miss Gates celebrates a quarter of a century of service to the Young Women's Christian Association, she has also received the honorary degree of LL.D. from her alma mater, the first time such an honor has been conferred upon a graduate of MacMurray College.

WOMEN HAVE POWER TO ABATE MARRIAGE MISERY.

They Might Try to Lift It Out of Risk Class But Trust to Luck Instead.

No one will deny that unhappy marriages cause more sorrow and wreck more lives than any other one thing in the world, and it is a strange and sad fact that women—good, kind, noble, Christians— have it in their power to abate this potent source of misery, yet the great majority do nothing to stop it.

This is all the more inexplicable because practically all women have a passion for reforming things, and so many have endured the martyrdom of marriages that were veritable hells on earth. You would think they would get busy and do something that would lift marriage out of the foolhardy, risk class and put it on, at least, a reasonably safe investment basis.

But they don't. They trust to luck as to how a marriage will turn out yet in their hearts they know perfectly well that there is no luck about it. Everything depends on the kind of wife or husband John and Mary are getting, and that hinges altogether and absolutely on the way their mothers reared them.

Of every mother began from cradle days to train her children for matrimony it would save many a heart break, dry many a weeping eye, prevent many a home from being wrecked, and many little children from being half-orphaned. For the only way you can stop divorce is to keep people from wanting it. You have to attack every evil at its source.

Yet knowing all this, desiring above everything for their own children to have happy and successful marriages, we see on every hand mothers who are rearing selfish, spoiled, undisciplined, good-for-nothing youngsters who are foredoomed to be burdens on those they marry. Nothing else is more ironic than that so many mothers pray God on their knees every night to save their children from marrying the kind of husbands and wives that they are going to wish off on some other woman's children.

When John gets married, for instance, mother hopes that he will get a wife who will be a helpmate. She trusts that he will get a girl with plenty of good, hard, common sense, a sweet disposition, and enough diplomacy to know how to rub his fur the right way, for John needs a bit of managing to keep him pleasant to get along with. And she hopes that his bride will know how to cook and not give him dyspepsia for life before she learns how to boil an egg or make a cup of coffee. And she wearies Heaven with her importunities to send him a wife who will not keep his nose to the grindstone with her extravagance.

But is John's mother, conscientiously and simply as a matter of fair play, bringing up that kind of wife for some other woman's son? Not once in a blue moon. From the time the doctor put Angelina in her arms and said: "you've a fine little daughter," mother humored her every whim and caprice and let the girl run roughshod over her. Mother never taught the girl to control heself, conside anybody's else's right, or anyone's comfort or pleasure except her own.

Mother went shabby so Angelina could go about arrayed like Mrs. Solomon in all her glory. She wore patched shoes so Angelina could have a dozen pairs of fancy slippers. Mother's hands were soaked in dishwater so the daughter's nails could continue to look as if they were dripping blood. And Angelina knows no more about cooking than she does about running an airplane.

Nor has mother fitted John any better to be a good husband than she has her girl to be a good wife. She has spoiled him. She brought him up to think that all the amenities of courtship stop at the altar, that a husband doesn't have to bother to be even polite to a mere wife, that one of the compensations of marriage is that it gives a man a stooge that he can kick about and say all disagreeable things to that he wouldn't dare tell a man of his own size.

Half the men in the world who are mean, neglectful husbands are that way because their mothers never taught them how to treat a wife decently, nor what a wife has a right to expect of a man who has taken her life in his hands.

So it is no wonder that when these two spoiled children, whose mothers have unfitted them for marriage instead of preparing them for it, undertake to live together that they fight like Kilkenny cats and so often end up in divorce courts. Many of the colleges now feature courses in marriage. It is a fine idea, but how to be a good husband or a good wife is kindergarten stuff that boys and girls should learn at their mother's knees.

Price Control Ration News

The Women's Regional Advisory Committee, Consumer Branch, Central Ontario, Wartime Prices and Trade Board, answers questions put to this paper regarding price control and ration regulations.

◇ ◇ ◇

Q.—We are going to start building a barn and expect five men here for two meals a day for eight or nine days. We also expect about 50 men for two meals the day of the raising. Are we allowed any extra butter or meat?

◇ ◇ ◇

A.—Yes, of course. Farmers who hire extra temporary help may obtain additional supplies of rationed commodities. - For these extra rations you should apply at your local ration board office stating (a) the specific nature of the work, (b) the number of workers, (c) the number of days they will be employed, and (d) the total number of meals to be served....Applications for less than a total of 12 meals throughout the season will not be considered.

◇ ◇ ◇

Q.—Can a dance hall which always charged a rental of $5.00 raise the charge to $20.00?

◇ ◇ ◇

A.—Yes. Rental for dance halls and other places used solely for entertainment or exhiibtion purposes do not come under Wartime Prices and Trade Board rental regulations.

◇ ◇ ◇

Q.—Can soft drinks be sold for 10c per bottle even though not handled by a storekeeper before?

◇ ◇ ◇

A.—Definitely not. Ceiling price for a small bottle (6-13 fluid oz.) is 7c. Restaurants, however, may still charge basic period price plus excise tax as long as the total is not more than 12 cents small bottle and if they have special permission from the administrator.....Basic period prices plus tax may be crarged in hotels, cabarets, trains, amusement parks, and clubs serving meals.

◇ ◇ ◇

Q.—When applying for canning sugar, I applied for a friend who was living in my home at the time. She has left now. Should I forward the sugar to her or do I send it back to the store?

◇ ◇ ◇

A.—As the sugar is your friend's allowance, you shiuld get in touch with her and arrange to send it to her, if she still wishes it. Otherwise, you should surrender the equivalent number of regular sugar coupons from your own ration book to the regional ration office, 330 Bay Street, Toronto, giving particulars in your accompanying letter.

Please send your questions or your request for Consumers' News or the Blue Book (the book in which you keep track of your ceiling prices) mentioning the name of this newspaper to:

THE STARS SAY . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Saturday, September 11

A SUDDEN or whirlwind precipitation of unusual and unforeseen events mark this day, which may be memorable for its far-reaching effect on the future life and its destinies. Under the spur of such excitement much may be accomplished if a firm grip on the acts, words and emotions be rigidly held, without impetuous, erratic or wild flare-ups. Make changes with care, travel, make new contracts or agreements, although in business and not in the romantic affiliations, which have sensational angles. Shun all sorts of extravagances and excesses.

Birthday Omens

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a sudden and radical change in the tide of events, which may have an important and memorable reaction on the future life. All things new or novel should flourish, with new contracts, changes, travel and fresh fields of activity in both business and private interest. However, there is more progress and satisfaction in well and cautiously managed business affairs.

A child born on this day will have original and versatile talents, with brilliant ideas and propositions of scientific value, but a tendency to extravagance and self-indulgence may contribute to its undoing.

PRACTICAL EDUCATION

KINGSTON, Jamaica — (CP). —West Indies primary school teachers are attending short agricultural courses established to promote a rural basis in the ordinary school courses.

Chapter Makes Donations

The September meeting of the 57th Regiment Chapter, I.O.D.E. was held at the Armouries on Thursday afternoon with the Regent, Mrs. A. W. Turner in the chair.

The Regent announced satisfactory financial results from the carnival held in July and thanked all the workers for the interest shown.

Donations were made to the following funds: Camp Libraries, Sailors and Minesweepers, Prisoners of War, Cigarette Fund, and twenty-five seamen's sweaters are to be sent. Also a donation was made to the Susie Sarabji Memorial Wing of St. Helena's School, India. It was decided to send to headquarters for ditty bags to be filled for the navy. The annual Remembrance Day tea is being planned for Novemer 11th. A cash donation was voted to the Peterborough Corvette.

PRICE CONTROL GENERAL

Since the war started, most countries, both belligerents and and neutrals, introduced price control or strengthened the system in operation before the war.

The Popular Girl Is Sure of Etiquette

Used Napkin Left Under Plate

It's the little things that count in table manners and a smart hostess is oh, so aware, whether you observe them!

Naturally, after a dinner party, you don't fold your napkin. But it's what you do with it that counts! The lovely girl in our sketch correctly half-folds hers and puts it under the edge of her plate.

When she is served first she knows it's all right to begin before the others—but what counts is, she doesn't dive right in, table manners being based on the idea that you're not starving!

On a restaurant date, she knows it's the man's place to choose a table and pull out the more desirable seat for her; but if it's a double date she'll sit opposite the other man.

Knowing such fine points you can't possibly worry about making slips. Our 32-page booklet tells what silver to use for each course, how to eat unusual foods. Gives rules for restaurant dates, teas, buffets, formal dinners.

For your copy of booklet "Proper Etiquette" send fifteen cents in coin or stamps to the Home Service Department of the Peterborough Examiner. Be sure to write plainly your name, address and the name of booklet plainly.

Bishop Warns Victory Is Challenge

By H. H. GORDON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, Sept. 10 — (CP) — Warning that victory in the war would impose grave responsibilities on the Christian Church was voiced by Rt. Rev. H. St. George Tucker, Bishop of Virginia, in an address today before delegates to the General Synod of the Church of England in Canada.

Dr. Tucker, presiding Bishop of the Protestant Episcopal church of the United States, preached at the opening service of Holy Communion held in St. James Cathedral.

Urging the application of Christian motives to national activities, Bishop Tucker warned against individual selfishness and what, he said, was even greater—group selfishness.

Too frequently, he declared, public activities of Christians are far removed from their spiritual responsibilities. There was a direct challenge to the church to see that success in the material world should have a direct bearing on its work in the spiritual world.

"As far as human vision goes, victory appeals to us as an essential prerequisite to the carrying out of God's purpose for the establishment of His Kingdom here on earth up to a point never before looked for in human history," the preacher continued. "Christian faith looks at the war as an opportunity to carry God's purpose further than ever before. This is the kind of faith that will enable us to win a victory not only in the world, but over the ..."

QUEER BIDS MAY WORK

BIDDERS WHO "stick to the book" and never try any funny business may avoid certain disasters, but they do not get the same thrill as those who act according to their imagination. On the other hand, it costs something to get those thrills, as a terrific risk is sometimes involved in them.

North: ♠ 8 2 ♥ K 6 5 4 ♦ J 3 ♣ J 10 9 6 3
West: ♠ K Q ♥ 10 7 3 2 ♦ A 9 7 5 ♣ Q 7 4

South: ♠ 7 6 4 ♥ A Q J ♦ K 10 8 4 ♣ A K 5

(Dealer: West. Neither side vulnerable.)

West	North	East	South
Pass	Pass	Pass	1 NT
Pass	2 ♣	Pass	2 ♠
Pass	3 ♥	Pass	3 NT

North's bidding here, especially that reverse of 3-Hearts, was justified only by the fact that the side was using what it called "very strong" No Trump bids originally. South was taking a flyer when he bid the 2-Spades in order to prevent a lead of the suit. If he had been doubled, at 3-No Trumps, he would have taken out to hearts, feeling sure that the opponents would open spades.

As luck would have it, the long spades were held by East instead of the opening leader, who picked the 5 of the unbid diamonds. The Q forced the K, whereupon South took two high clubs and gave West another with the Q. Thereupon West led the diamond A and then the 9—bad bridge—which the 10 won. The 8 was then good. The heart A, Q and J overtaken by the K enabled the dummy then to run the rest of the clubs, making a total of ten tricks on a hand which did not contain anything truly resembling a game.

Please don't let anybody advise you to bid as South did, even though it may bring success upon occasion.

If South reached 4-Hearts by more or less normal bidding, what two considerations should make West wary about doubling the contract?

Allies Planning To Bomb Nazi Oilfields

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER,
Associated Press Staff Writer.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10 (AP)— — Allied forces sweeping through fallen Italy are believed to have one prime military objective— the occupation of air bases from which to destroy Germany's oil sources in Rumania and Hungary.

Bases within easy bombing reach of the great oil centre at Ploesti, Rumania, and the lesser fields in Hungary may prove to be the key to Hitler's whole European fortress.

At the same time, military experts here say, the launching of an Italian-based aerial offensive against southern Germany and enemy industrial centres in the Occupied Countries to the east would place an insupportable strain on Germany's fighter defences and hasten the breakup of the German Air Force as well as the destruction of vital war plants.

War Sho... ned.

These are among the reasons why official Washington believes that the surrender of the Mediterranean Axis power has advanced by several months the end of the European war. All the forces formerly marked for conquest of the Italian boot now can be turned speedily against Germany.

To the west of Italy the islands of Sardinia and Corsica, the latter believed garrisoned exclusively by Italian troops, seem to offer stepping stones for the establishment of a beachhead on the southern coast of France.

The French have a newly-equipped army of 300,000 men in the Mediterranean area. Obviously when the time is ripe it could spearhead such a drive.

The highest Allied leaders are not counting on an internal German collapse and their plans, so far as known, are based even on the possibility that Germany may still retain some limited offensive power next spring. Their view apparently is that victory now appears certain by the winter of 1944 with the remote but nevertheless real possibility of a German collapse in the winter immediately ahead.

From the Allied point of view, the main element in the Mediterranean situation now is that heavy forces such as Britain's Mediterranean fleet are no longer needed in great strength and may by released for service elsewhere. Their transfer to Indian waters for the expected assault on Burma this fall would not be surprising.

High Schools Generally Close Three Forms

By The Canadian Press.

The majority of High Schools throughout Ontario to-day were not operating their three senior grades as a result of an announcement by Premier Drew, in his capacity of Education Minister, that these grades would remain closed for two weeks after Tuesday's scheduled opening to allow students to provide labor-short farms with student help.

The Premier made the announcement at a Provincial Agricultural Conference last week and said he hoped that not only those students who had been working on farms during the vacation period would continue with their work but that other students would join them for the two-weeks extension period.

The Provincial Department of Education announced Tuesday the vacation extension applies to all Province's Secondary Schools without exception. The reopening or the granting of the two-weeks extension to students in the grades concerned was not at the discretion of local school board officials.

Few Are Open.

A survey by the Canadian Press Thursday revealed that only a few schools were operating their third, fourth and fifth forms. From Timmins it was reported that the senior grades of all Porcupine district High Schools opened yesterday on schedule. School officials said classes have been resumed because on official notification had been received concerning a delayed opening. Sault Ste. Marie senior forms were in operation but only review work was being undertaken until the return of students who are working.

In some cities, such as Ottawa, students in the forms concerned returned to school only to be informed of the Provincial Department's decision that they need not report for another two weeks. At Cornwall students actually began school work but before noon yesterday they were sent home.

Brockville school officials said their senior classes opened yesterday with "excellent registration," but when official notification was received from the Department during the afternoon studies in the forms concerned ceased. Brantford students registered but were sent home for the two-weeks' period.

Kitchener's senior forms closed after registration yesterday, while at Peterborough students were present to enrol but were dismissed. The Catholic High School in Peterborough opened as usual, however, and in Kingston Regiopolis College, Roman Catholic secondary school, will reopen as scheduled September 15. Notre Dame Convent is open now, officials of both institutions stating they had received no official information concerning the proposed delay in resumption of classes.

Kingston's other secondary schools, however, have closed their last three grades.

Secondary schools under the control of the Toronto Board of Education are not operating their senior forms, but St. M... College Secondary Scho... open all classes on schedule September 13. Private Girls' Schools in Toronto have reopened or will reopen as usual without any girls who may be engaged in farm work.

Toronto's suburban schools also have complied with the Premier's request.

Balkan Set-up Shaky As Italy Falls

LONDON, Sept. 10 (CP).— A German military spokesman asserted yesterday that "north and central Italy have been occupied by German troops," a Berlin broadcast said.

"In so far as the occupation had not been carried out already it now has been done," declared the spokesman. "In most towns of Italy the armed forces allowed those forces to be disarmed (by Germans) without offering resistance."

At the same time the spokesman claimed Allied troops which landed Tuesday on the Gulf of Eufemia, north of Palmi, had been enveloped by German troops and "their annihilation was imminent Wednesday evening." This claim lacked confirmation.

The German radio began issuing a stream of orders, apparently for the purpose of confusing the Italians and contradicting earlier steps taken by the surrendering Badoglio regime in Italy.

One Berlin broadcast said a new "Italian Fascist government set up by the Germans in Germany had issued orders to Italian ships to remain in continental ports and that the "air force would bomb ships which sail for North Africa," as was ordered by Marshal Badoglio yesterday.

A second announcement from the Berlin radio said a military spokesman declared that "conformably with an agreement with the Italian army in Greece, Italian troops after surrendering heavy material, will withdraw to the coast and there await further instructions from the German high command."

Another Nazi-controlled radio in Norway said Nazi and Croat puppet police units occupied the Italian Legation and Consulate in Zagreb, Croatia, last night after disarming all Italian forces in the city and arresting leading Italian personalities.

Meanwhile, a Reuters dispatch from Stockholm indicated the Italian peace was having repercussions in Germany itself. The dispatch said Blackshirted Elite Guards were patrolling the streets of Berlin and that Swedish correspondents reported an atmosphere of tension prevailed in the city.

A Bit Excited.

The Germans tried to put a frail prop under capitulated Italy by announcing the formation of "a national Fascist government in the name of Mussolini, which by all possible means will bring Italy out of the war with her honor intact and her future life assured."

This announcement over the Berlin radio foreshadowed bloody fighting for control of Italy between the Allied armies which landed far up the coast at Naples during the night, and is belligerent German divisions believed to be garrisoned in the northern and northwestern sectors of the country.

In his broadcast to the Italian people announcing the creation of the new "government which stands and acts in Mussolini's name," the Berlin commentator cried:—

"Soldiers! Do not obey the false orders of treason. Refuse to surrender to the enemy. Refuse to fight against your German comrades in arms. Those who can, continue to fight at their side, let the others reach their homes and await orders, which will be promptly given.

"From shame and suffering, let us make Italy emerge untainted and powerful. The Italian National Fascist Government will inexorably punish the traitors, the men who are solely responsible for defeat."

Balkans Upset

The surrender of Italy threw into confusion the entire German position in the Balkans, and Hitler's whole ramshackle political structure in southern and southeastern Europe seemed today to be in danger of falling to pieces even before the Germans are driven from Italy.

Dispatches to London newspapers told of Admiral Nicholas Horthy, regent of Hungary, anxiously summoning his chiefs-of-staff and promising a "most important declaration" later today; of heightened fears and restiveness in already fearful Rumania and the shakiness of Bulgaria, now minus her pro-Axis King Boris.

Berlin correspondents of neutral Swedish newspapers reflected the nervousness with which the Germans appparently received the news of Italy's surrender.

They Knew Before

Dispatches to Swedish newspapers quoted Nazi spokesmen as declaring, "The German Government took its steps to secure victory for Germany and its Allies and the world will see on Thursday that Germany expected the collapse of Italy."

These spokesmen, however, gave no further enlightenment as to what moves Germany is expected to make.

In accusing Italy of treachery, a German spokesman bitterly attacked King Victor Emmanuel and his government, the Swedish correspondents reported.

The Italians themselves greeted the news of the surrender with demonstrations of joy, Associated Press dispatches from Berne, reported. A cordon of troops was placed around the German Consulate in Milan in anticipation of anti-Nazi outbreaks.

London military commentators agreed that the Allies' most likely next step is an offensive in the Balkans. They reasoned that the expected withdrawal from the Balkans of 30 Italian divisions which have been attempting to keep the southeastern European countries subjugated, will make Hitler's position there "completely untenable."

ATTACK VIA AIR

Lord Croft, Undersecretary for War, warned the British Home Guard any German attack on Britain would be airborne and the country would be relying almost entirely on the Home Guard for defence.

AMERICANS TAKE PORT OF SALERNO

Reds Narrow Corridor Near Crimea

6,800 Nazis Slain Retreat Turns To Complete Rout

MOSCOW, Set. 11.—(AP).—Battering the fleeing German legions along a 400 mile front from the Sea of Azov to Bryansk at the northern end of the Ukraine, Red Army troops have imperiled the entire Nazi defence system east of the Dnieper River and are threatening the sole remaining escape corridor of the Crimean garrisons

Sledge-hammer Russian blows reported to-day turned the German retreat in many places into a rout. The enemy abandoned vast stores of material as they gave up more than 300 towns and villages. Upwards of 6,800 German officers and men were slain on the various sectors, said the daily Soviet communique.

Mariupol, important port of the Sea of Azov, and Chaplino, rail junction 60 miles from Dniepropetrovsk — both strategic German strongpoints in the Southern Ukraine—were stormed and taken by the Soviets.

Use Naval Units.

Russian naval forces from the Sea of Azov and air borne troops participated in the capture of Mariupol.

Volnovakha, on the Stalino-Mariupol railway and Barvenkovo, midway between Stalino and Kharkov, also were captured in the day's advance. Fall of Chaplino posed an immediate threat to Zaporozhe, capture of which would in turn endanger the whole German southern line.

In the north, the Germans fell back from their Desna River defences near Novogord Seversky. Here the Red Army troops apparently were heading for Gomel, 100 miles to the northwest. This breach of the Nazi lines opened the way for an encircling drive towards Kiev, Central Dnieper bastion.

Still further north in the Bryansk area, incessant blows by Red infantry and motorized units forced the Nazis back so fast that they were unable to lay minefields. Huge stacks of mines were found along the roads used by the fleeing enemy, the Moscow war bulletin said.

Huns Admit Pressure.

(Berlin acknowledged the unceasing Russian advance. A commentator of the German radio said the Red Army pressure was continuous and that the German withdrawal "was still going on and not likely to stop for some time. Very grim fighting is in progress.")

New Regulations Cuts Deferments

LONDON, Sept. 11.—(CP Cable.)—A sweeping comb-out of 1,500 occupations to provide men for the forces was announced to-day along with a change in the system of deferments which practically eliminate younger men from civil service jobs.

Deferments were cancelled for men up to 39 years of age in about one-third of the occupations affected, up to 34 for others and up to 29 for the remainder.

An example of how it will work: Previously farm workers in certain jobs were deferred if past 25. Now they will be deferred only if more than 33.

American Police Chief Catches Largest Muskie Of Season

Elmer E. Clark, husky chief of police from Canton, Ohio, and regular visitor to this district, snagged a 34-pound muskie this week in Rice Lake near Hiawatha, but needed the assistance of his friend, W. B. Burris, to land it. The fish is a record for the Kawartha district this year. Clark is shown ABOVE, and is being assisted holding the fish by Rosemond Burris, Kent State University sophomore, whose father helped land the fish. Clark also landed two other muskies, weighing seven and eight and a half pounds, and two four-pound small-mouth black bass. (Staff Photo)

1500 Hun Planes Guard Coast

By DOUG. HOW—Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Sept. 11—(CP).—In Britain these nights of a dwindling summer the bombers take off and fly out over the towns and cities where the little people stand in the streets and wave them on to Germany.

The little people don't know much about strategy but they know the day of the bomber has been a long and thundering day. Germany is laid waste by the thousands of acres and night upon night new ruins are added to the old.

And slowly the plan of strategy unfolds and the day of the fighter's return to a rival eminence draws near. The day of cross-Channel assault impends, and with it a renewal of the glory that was the fighter plan in the Battle of Britain.

Fifteen hundred German fighters await the day along the western rim of Europe. Untold hundreds of British fighters wait to cover the assaulting troops, to protect the bombers which blast the opposition in their path, and to engage the 1,500 German fighters.

A Day Of Remembrance.

Those scorching fights to come will give emphasis, if any is needed, to Sunday, Sept. 26, the day set aside by Royal decree for official commemoration of the Battle of Britain.

That is the atmosphere of expectancy in which Britain will pay homage to the people who fought that immortal conflict—the fighter pilots, the A.A. gunners, the observer corps, the multitude of civil defence workers who kept the nation on her feet, the factory workers who built the planes to replace those that fell.

Battle of Britain Sunday, according to the official pronouncement, "is intended to commemorate not any particular raid or raids but the defeat of the whole of the massed attacks which were aimed, first, at the invasion of this country and, later, at the destruction of the morale of the civil population."

C.I.O. Official Says Judge Denied Labor Its Rights

TORONTO, Sept. 11—(CP).—C. S. Jackson, president of District Five, United Electrical Workers of America (C.I.O.), in a letter to Ontario Premier Drew terms the judgment handed down September 4 in the Ontario Labor Court case involving Local 523 of the Union and Atlas Steels, Ltd., Welland, a virtual denial of the basic principles of the Ontario Collective Bargaining Act.

Mr. Justice D. P. J. Kelly, in the judgment made public Wednesday, dismissed the union's application for certification as collective bargaining agency for Atlas workers. Intervener in the case was Atlas Workers' Independent Union.

Labelling the judgment "a shocking and amazing document," a union statement said the trade union movement will long remember the Atlas Steel decision and will accept it as a challenge to its fundamental rights.

"Labor throughout the province, in fact, throughout the Dominion," the statement reads, "will be shocked to learn that the Collective Bargaining Act for the Province of Ontario is so loosely drawn that it is possible for a judge, apparently acting within the provisions of the Act, to render a judgment which virtually denies the rights of workers to freely choose the organization through which they wish to be represented for purposes of collective bargaining.

"This judgment actually informs any employer that when his employees commence organization into a legitimate union, he has only to go through the motions of signing an agreement with a select group of employees, stage a shop vote and thereby sign away the rights of the employees as regards their collective bargaining agency."

Fast Train Smashes Stalled Bus

12 Of 14 Killed As Flier Splits Vehicle

By KATHLEEN REX
Canadian Press Staff Writer

ALDERSHOT, Ont., Sept. 11 — (CP). — A fast Canadian National Railways passenger train, streaking toward Hamilton at 50 miles an hour, smashed into a stalled bus on the Aldershot level crossing last night, killing 12 of its 14 passengers. The other two were injured and taken to hospital in Hamilton, eight miles away.

One of the dead, a woman, remained unidentified early today

The Canada Coach Lines bus, bound from nearby Waterdown for Hamilton, was sheared in two by the heavy engine. A rain-soaked pavement is believed to have sent the bus into a skid before it stalled astride the tracks.

Several bodies were found on the cowcatcher of the engine. Others were thrown or carried 300 feet or more along the right-of-way.

One half of the bus was thrown 100 feet from the track, while the other half was crushed against the front of the locomotive and was carried a quarter of a mile before the train was brought to a stop.

It was the worst accident in this district since Christmas night 1934 when 16 persons were killed in a train wreck at Dundas.

Dr. S. T. Connell, C.N.R. physician who was first doctor at the scene, said the crash was the worst he has ever seen and that he could not understand "how anyone came out of the wreckage alive."

Terrible Injuries

One of the victims was decapitated. The face of a woman was torn off. Clothing was ripped and shredded. Blood-stained shoes and stockings, purses and other personal belongings were found scattered about and taken with the bod'es to the morgue in Hamilton Genc al Hospital.

The bus driver, Fred Smith of Hamilton, was among those killed. Of the others, four were from Waterdown, three from Hamilton, one from Toronto, one from Ottawa and one from Aldershot.

The two injured are David Gauthier, 16, Ottawa, who suffered lacerations to head and body; and R. C. Smith of Toronto, who suffered shock and lacerations. Their condition was believed not serious.

The train, making its Toronto-London run, was in charge of the conductor H. B. Thomson and engineer E. Amory, both of Toronto.

Amory said he saw the bus as it apparently skidded into the path of his train. He applied the brakes and brought the train to a stop as quickly as possible. The track where the collison occurred is fairly straight.

Train passngers said they first felt a sharp jolt, possibly caused by the application of brakes. The train lights blinked. A second jolt was felt and then there was an uneven, dragging sensation. The big spare tire of the bus flew past the car windows and smashed through the wooden platform of the station.

8th Army Streaks Northward Gains 35 Miles

By EDWARD KENNEDY,
Associated Press Staff Writer.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa, Sept. 11 —(AP) —The American 5th Army has seized the Port of Salerno and thrown back several more German armored attacks to deepen its wedge in the Naples area, Allied Headquarters announced to-day, while chaos reigned throughout Italy and Berlin reported pitched battles between Germans and Italians in the north.

Crack Nazi armored units lunged in several fierce counter assaults against Lt.-Gen. Mark W. Clark's British and American invaders at Salerno Friday, but these were broken and the Allies drove inland.

Pockets Wiped Out.

Several pockets of enemy resistance have been wiped out, and prisoners now total several hundred, all Germans. There are no Italians reported fighting in this area. Salerno (Pop. 50,000) is one of the larger Provincial cities of Southern Italy.

Besides knocking out Nazi reinforcement lines in a 60-mile arc around Naples, Headquarters aerial reports said, Allied planes attacked German convoys moving northward toward the Naples-Salerno districts, indicating a German withdrawal from areas further south to escape possible entrapment and throw greater weight against the 5th Army bridgehead.

"Steady progress" has been made by the invaders since the start of the campaign, it was announced.

Naval guns supported ground troops at Salerno. The bridgehead now is firmly established, Headquarters declared.

Meanwhile in the south the 8th Army met little opposition and despite demolitions went ahead more rapidly, now holding practically all the territory south of the Gulf of Sunta Eufemia.

This forms practically all the toe of Italy.

(NBC Correspondent Merrill Mueller in a broadcast said the 8th Army, made up of British and Canadian troops, had advanced 35 miles northward at such a pace that it is beginning to overtake the retreating Germans.)

The British force at Taranto completed occupation of that naval base and town. Most of the German were reported to have evacuated the city before the landing, and the population was said to have cheered the British troops.

(Radio France at Algiers said British forces were fanning out in three directions from Taranto.)

Italians did not oppose a small Allied force landing on the island of Ventotene off Naples, but the Germans there surrendered only after a fierce fight, and 91 were captured.

Headquarters said the Germans had many natural advantages over the attackers in the Naples area landings, and were prepared to meet the invasion which they had fully anticipated.

(A British broadcast heard by CBS said Berlin had announced annulment of Croatia's treaty with Italy guaranteeing Croatia's independence, and cancellation of the offer of the Croat crown to the Italian Prince of Aosta. It added the Zagreb radio had appealed to Croats "to support the Germans in their struggle against the Italians.")

Cop Wins Hair-do

ST. THOMAS, Sept. 11 — (CP). — Citizens of St. Thomas are warned not to be too surprised if they notice one of the local constabulary wearing a fancy hair-do. Members of the St. Thomas police force pooled their tickets on a carnival offering of $150 cash. Instead of the cash they won a permanent wave offered by a hairdresser.

Bombers Block Aid To Huns In Naples Area

By NORLAND NORGAARD

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Sept. 11 — (AP). —Continuous relays of British and American bombers blasting day and night at communications in a 60-mile arc around Naples have prevented "the enemy from getting reinforcements over badly-battered highways and railroads" to oppose the Allied armies, official Headquarters reports declared to-day.

Simultaneously, dive - bombers swooped down on large German convoys moving northward on the highways toward the Naples and Salerno battlegrounds.

They were credited officially with destroying fully 100 trucks and damaging 200 more on the road between Lagonegro and Auletta, north of Sapri.

Few enemy planes were encountered in the wide-ranging attacks directed against airfields. A total of 16 enemy planes was destroyed in 24 hours against loss of 10 Allied planes from North African Air Forces.

R.A.F. and Canadian Wellingtons flew through great cloud banks last night to tear up the important road junction at Formia, northwest of Naples, and hit the mouth of a tunnel on the adjacent rail line.

Splitting into smaller formations than usual, American four-engined bombers struck hard at a dozen key road and rail centres within a short range of the Naples-Salerno battlefields where German troops were massing for another attempt to smash the Allied beach-heads.

Fifty miles northeast of Naples the big bombers hit the Ariano region astride the main rail line connecting two principal Italian coastal systems.

Crisscross Italy

Other heavy bombers attacked highways in the area east of Benevento, Rochetta San Antonio, Monteleone Di Puglia, and between Grottaminardo and Ariano Irpino, and scored damaging hits on the rail bridge near Cancello. Hits also were scored on bridges at Boiano, nine miles west of Vinchiaturo, and on another bridge over the Tiber river.

The only opposition met during the wide, daylight sweeps came when unescorted medium bombers were jumped by from 10 to 12 fighters while they were bombing a truck convoy near Casanuova. Gunners shot down five of the enemy and the others fled.

However, enemy fighters and fighter-bombers were active over the Salerno area where the British-American landing force was locked in battle with German motorized units. Allied pilots counted 137 enemy planes in the area, but only a small proposition gave fight. Allied Spitfires shot down eight.

Three Battleships 7 Cruisers In Allied Hands

By E. D. BALL
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Sept. 11 (AP).—An important part of Italy's navy had run the German gauntlet today and was safely in Allied or neutral ports.

An Allied communique announced only that "the battleships, some cruisers and other units of the Italian fleet" had arrived off Malta, but Associated Press dispatches disclosed that three battleships, 11 cruisers, eight destroyers and numerous smaller units had steamed out of the Nazis' hands.

Two of the battleships delivered to the Allies at Malta, the dispatches said, were the Andrea Doria and the Giulio Cesare, both ancient 23,622-ton warships which were reconstructed and modernized in 1937. Each carries ten 12-inch guns as its main armament.

The third battleship reported to have reached Malta today, along with nine cruisers, six destroyers and smaller units, was not identified.

Two Italian cruisers, two destroyers and two smaller units were reported to have reached the British base at Gibraltar yesterday, while a dispatch today from the neutral Spanish port of Palma de Mallorca in the Balearics told of the arrival there of 12 units of the Italian fleet.

Despite severe losses the latest accounts indicated that in addition to her battleships and cruisers Italy had three aircraft carriers, 25 destroyers, 50 to 60 submarines and a large number of smaller craft.

The Germans claimed yesterday —and there has been no substantiation—that they sank a battleship and damaged cruisers which had fled from La Spezia.

Although the Italian navy showed reluctance to fight while it was at war, its escape from the clutches of the Germans was considered as a major achievement for the Allies.

The immediate benefit of its capital ships to the Allied sea war is problematical but there were long range possibilities.

It will take time to re-equip them with new guns of Allied calibre and there is also the question of manning them. It was considered that they would be useful for patrol work and hunting sea raiders but of little use in any co-ordinated battle action.

50 Canadians In War Hospital

ALLIED FORCE HEADQUARTERS, North Africa, Sept. 11.—(CP). —The radio quartet's harmonizing of an old favorite sent a soft wave of nostalgia through the endless wards of the big military hospital.

There were 50 Canadians in the building, most of whom were knocked out of battle in the early stages of the conquest of Sicily. They were the "hard luck boys" of the campaign, fellows who had troined and trained for the occasion and now brooded over the fact that they had been knocked out before they had a chance to take a harder crack at the enemy.

L/Cpl. Wilbur McCoy of Madoc, Ont., was near a town whose name he could not recall when the road was blown up in front of his unit from the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, and the enemy opened fire.

Allies Confident of Success in Italy

Confusion Caused By Flood Of False Axis Reports

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

Not since the Anglo-French agony in the summer of 1940 has the world's general public been confronted with such confusion of reports as are surrounding the Italian situation—and no small part of this is an artificial fog which is being deliberately created by the desperate Germans.

The situation on the Italian peninsula is of course serious, but we shouldn't let the confusion raise any doubts in our minds, for we may be sure that there is none in the minds of our High Command. We can "keep her steady as she goes" with full confidence that we are headed straight for port. There are two points to keep well in mind during these hectic days:

1. The Germans are making frantic efforts to shore up the collapsing house that Hitler built. Part of their efforts represents a real and grim fight with arms to delay the Allied occupation of Italy and also to save the Balkans. Part is propaganda and false reports which are being spread by Nazi agents from many points of Europe in an effort to bewilder the Italians and other Axis peoples as well as the enemy.

No Need For Alarm.

1. The Allies are doing better than all right. There's no occasion for alarm over the Italian position, although we must be prepared for bitter fighting, as well as some heavy complications such as grow out of the presence of German troops in Rome and their announced assumption of "protection" of the Vatican.

It seems obvious that Gen Dwight D. Eisenhower and his staff of brilliant officers fully anticipated German reprisals against the Italians and some smart moves such as the "occupation" of Rome. The Allied Commander-in-Chief's action in keeping the armistice secret for five days speaks for itself. He foresaw the complications which now have come to pass.

It is generally assumed that Gen. Eisenhower is throwing into the peninsula forces in sufficient strength to handle stiff enemy resistance and it is also assumed that the German boast of taking the Italian capital and establishing what Berlin called "protection" over the Vatican is true.

May Move Fast.

The speed with which General Sir Bernard Montgomery's 8th Army in the south and the Allied troops under Lt.-Gen. Mark Clark at Naples move to counter the Nazi aggressions is said to depend on two things the strength of the German dispositions in south and central Ialy, and the effectiveness of British, Canadian and American supply operations.

In their advances the Allied troops will have advantage of two decisive factors which the Germans lack. They will have aerial superiority over the whole front and complete domination in some areas. They also will have sea control permitting amphibious flanking attacks anywhere along either of the long Italian coasts.

Germans Not Ready To Yield

Britons Told Hitler Speech Strong Appeal

LONDON, Sept. 11 — (CP). — Britons were warned by the London Times today not to underrate the force of Hitler's appeal yesterday to the German soldiers and people.

In an editorial, the newspaper declared German leader's address his first in six months, left no doubt that the Germans intend to fight strongly to maintain their hold on Italy and that the capture of Rome suggests they plan defence line in that area.

"It was the most direct of Hitler's speeches," the Times diplomatic correspondent wrote. "He lied about the origins of the war, but even then he did not indulge in spasms of self-pity . . . Almost his only promise was his assertion that Germany would be avenged for the air raids . . . So far as words can spur the Germans to fresh efforts it cannot be ignored."

Hitler told the German country that the Italian surrender was of slight importance and that the "ring of steel forged by the German home front will never break."

"We may have to cede some territory," Hitler conceded, then declared the German army would be able to guard the country from all assaults except Allied bombing attacks.

"But," he said, "technical and organization means are growing which will not only break the enemy's air attacks forever, but will retaliate with other and more effective means."

3 Arrested For Bank Theft

Charge Men With Robbing Bank Of Montreal

TORONTO, Sept. 11 — (CP). — Toronto City Police today said three men had been arrested and charged with the robbery of the Royce and Symington Avenue branch of the Bank of Montreal, September 1, and "probably" will appear in police court this morning.

The men, two of whom were arrested by Hamilton police at Bartonville, Ont., last night, have been charged with holding up the bank, police said, adding that other charges probably will be laid against them.

The man are: Stanley Scarfield and William Lake, who were arrested at Bartonville, and John Rivers, alias Hector Leblance, who was arrested here early today by Toronto police.

In the holdup $12,509 was scooped from the teller's cage after three men, one carrying a tommy gun and the others revolvers, had entered the West Toronto bank, fired two shots and then forced the employees and a customer to lie on the floor.

Details of the arrest of the two men by Hamilton officers were not available. The men were brought to Toronto by city detectives who rushed to Hamilton following notification of the arrest by police there.

Rivers was arrested by Detective Sergeant John McArthur who is working his last day today—completing 30 years service on the Toronto police force.

MINISTER REPORTS 3,700 WOMEN ENLISTED IN CANADIAN NAVY

Canada Seeks Cruisers For Her Navy

Navy Personnel Now Totals 70,000 All Ranks

OTTAWA, Sept. 11 (CP)—Navy Minister Macdonald has announced that Canada is negotiating with Britain for the acquisition of two cruisers and is considering obtaining aircraft carriers.

Mr. Macdonald made the announcement late yesterday during a press conference at which he also reported these developments in connection with Canada's rapidly growing naval forces:—

1. During the past three months there have been no sinkings by U-boats in the North Atlantic, where convoying operations are handled by Canadian warships.

2. The Micmac, the first tribal class destroyer and the largest fighting ship ever built in Canada, will be launched Sept. 18 at Halifax.

3. Six destroyers have been added to the Canadian Navy this year and four more will be in service before the end of the year.

4. Navy strength now is more than 70,000 all ranks, including 3,700 women, and just under half of the total is at sea.

On Commando Jobs

5. About 1,000 Canadian Naval ratings will be used in commando landing craft in addition to some 500 now on such vessels, some of whom took part in the Sicilian invasion.

Mr. Macdonald said the cruisers of the medium type which mount six-inch guns, will be obtained from Britain and probably will be new ones. He expressed hope they will be manned by Canadians and will sail as units of the Canadian Navy.

A final decision has not yet been reached on the question of obtaining aircraft carriers, he said. Discussions have been under way with the Air Force and with British authorities.

While the actual strength of the Canadian Navy has not been disclosed officially, it is believed to include 20 destroyers. Additional 100 other ships now being built include destroyers, Fairmiles, frigates and minesweepers.

Danish Ships Caught

LONDON, Set. 11.—(CP).—Loaded to the gunwales, six trim Danish motorships, caught fishing in the North Sea, have been brought to a British port, the Admiralty announced yesterday. Despite repeated warnings that vessels operating from enemy occupied country would be seized, a number of Danish ships have continued to frequent the Doger Bank area, the announcement said.

Wrestling At Its Best Is Predicted

Wrestling at its tip top best—that's the expectation for the important bout between Earl McCready and Gentleman Jack Clayborne on Monday night at the Brock Arena. McCready has a great reputation here as well as in most other wrestling centres on this continent. The Aurora Farmer is one of the greatest wrestlers in the world to-day. In fact, he has repeatedly been called the "un-crowned Champion." But Peterborough mat fans in recent weeks have seen a new face here that of the colored Clayborne and have come to consider the African athlete as an equal to Earl. In past bouts here Clayborne has had to contend with some of the roughest and most illegal type of attacks made by opponets such as Katan and Hogan and Numa. But once thoroughly aroused the Bony Flash has shown veritable whirlwind of an offensive that forced each of those tough specimens that retreat was attractive.

In his match next Monday night, Gentleman Jack will be able to concentrate strictly on speed and science without having to guard against a sudden treacherous breaking of the rules. Earl McCready has just as much right to the title of "Gentleman" as Clayborne. But the Canadian will be fighting for the right to oppose Champion Billy Watson for the Empire Championship, and will be bearing down with his hardest holds. Both McCready and Clayborne have shown here that while as clean as a whistle, they can travel the hard punishing rounte in championship style. Here's one bout in which we can't pick a favorite, so may the best man win.

Dick Hogan and Pat Flanagan and Joe Maich and Flt. Ser. Miller meet in the other bouts.

Visitor From Detroit Sentenced to 10 Days

Clair Knowles, 21, came over from Detroit, Mich., a few days ago to visit Peterborough and this morning in police court extended the Detroit man's stay by ten days. Knowles was arrested near the corner of Water and Hunter streets by Officers C. J. McGilien and Andre Dalton, Friday afternoon on a charge of drunken driving.

He leaded guilty this morning and after Officer Dalton had related the circumstances Magistrate Langley sentenced the accused to ten days' imprisonment in the county jail.

The court also issued an order to the court to impound Knowles' car for three months.

3 Pronged Attack Aimed At Heart Of Italy

By EDWARD KENNEDY,
Associated Press War Correspondent

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa, Sept. 11 —(AP) —The Italian seaport of Salerno has been captured by the forces of the American 5th Army after beating off several German attacks, headquarters announced to-day, and the invading troops have driven further inland in the Naples area.

The 8th Army was reported pushing ahead in the drive to clear the Province of Calabria of German troops. British troops in the region of the Italian naval base at Taranto, captured yesterday, were likewise pushing inland.

The ground communique issued by Allied Headquarters said that the 5th Army was continuing to establish itself in positions around Naples and the Air Force reported that it had been engaged a number of times in the Naples area.

Bombers Active.

For the second straight day, heavy bombers from the Middle East returned to the Foggia area, across the Italian Peninsula opposite Naples, and attacked the Satellite landing ground at Palmori, a Cairo communique said.

The bombers shot down one of several attacking enemy fighters, the announcemtn said. Bursts were observed in the airport dispersal area.

In the air offensive the score stood 18 Nazi planes shot down to 10 Allied. It was also announced to-day that in the Foggia raid September 7 an additional 27 enemy planes were shot down.

Victor Emanuel is still in Rome and is still reigning as king, according to information here.

Fierce fighting was taking place between American and German forces in the Naples area, but additional troops and supplies were being landed, although earlier the Germans had bombed and shelled the invasion bridgeheads.

From Taranto, the Italian naval base at the heel of the Italian peninsula, came word that Italian units stationed there had overpowered German troops prior to the landing by the British Navy early on Thursday.

In the Calabria area the 8th Army was reported to be pushing steadily ahead.

(In a broadcast heard in London by The Associated Press, the United Nations radio at Algiers reported Italian troops continue to fight in the Turin district. Numerous acts of sabotage were reported from all parts of Italy.)

3rd Landing.

British sea-borne forces steamed into the Gulf of Taranto Thursday evening and by yesterday had seized the great Italian naval base just inside the heel of the boot in the third successful landing.

From Taranto, from the Naples area a third of the way up the west coast, and from the Calabrian toe in the extreme south Allied Forces now point inward to the heart of Italy.

(In addition, a frontier dispatch to Die Tat in Zurich, Switzerland, said British troops had landed at Ostia, seaport for the city of Rome at the mouth of Tiber, and were

School In Wartime Housing Area May Come With Annexation

Erection by Wartime Housing Limited of a two-room school in their community at the west end of Park Hill Road was suggested at a joint meeting last night of representatives of the Board of Education and city council as a practical and convenient solution of the problem of local school accommodation anticipated in the proposed annexation of part of North Monaghan.

Application to the housing company will be made by the council on the expected recommendation of the Board to be discussed at a meeting which the chairman, Dr. C. M. Scott, said he would call in the near future.

As outlined by K. S. Wightman, Public School Inspector, the proposed school in the northwest end would permit the transfer to it of children from Queen Mary School, who would be replaced by other children, from Prince of Wales School, leaving ample room there for children from that boundary area of the township which has ben marked off for annexation, depending on final agreement by the two municipalities and their residents.

Although there have been occasional minor frictions in the relations of the city's two major elected bodies, their meeting last night was friendly and co-operative, moving smoothly through the details of the Board's collateral interest in the proposed annexation of the Monaghan strip.

"We felt that the Board was entitled to all the information we have from our meetings with a committee from North Monaghan council," Alderman Gordon said, "and that we should have the benefit of their views on the question of school accommodation in which they are primarily concerned."

Those present at this discussion were Alderman Gordon as chairman, Mayor Hamilton, Aldermen Swanston and Sands, Dr. C. M. Scott, D. G. H. Melton, G. W. Craw, D. V. Canning, T. J. Carley, K.C., and P. D Scollard, also K S. Wightman and J. E. Huggins, secretary of the Board, and M. E. Shaver, City Treasurer, and E. A. Outram, City Clerk.

Attendance at May's

Mr. Wightman told the joint committee that he had visited May's School yesterday and learned that of the new term attendance of 275 pupils 177 are from homes in the area that is being considered for annexation.

Using the round term of 175, Mr. Wightman said, "Those 175 children would belong to us, and that would leave about 100 children for May's School. We could accommodate about 125 without bursting out at the seams, but it would be preferable for us to get some relief to the north," his first mention of the proposed two-room school in the Park Hill Road area now within the city's boundaries, and absorbed from Smith township.

With reference to the possibility of leaving some of the children in the Monaghan strip to continue attending May's School, Mr. Wightman remarked that naturally if the township area was taken into the city "we might expect an outcry if the children had to go to May's."

The 275 pupils at May's are distributed in six class rooms, one of which "is a makeshift hall nearby," and Mr. Wightman added "that is 100 children too many for that accommodation."

"We have still two rooms that are not being used as class rooms at Prince of Wales School," Mr. Wightman continued. "If we went to Wartime Housing and asked for the school building which they were the first to propose, we could take eighty or ninety of the children from Queen Mary School, transfer some from Prince of Wales to Queen Mary, and that would leave us with enough accommodation at Prince of Wales for all the others who would come to us from the present township area."

Mr. Wightman suggested that such a school should be located in the centre of the Park Hill Road community, and could be used by children of the primary grades.

"If the changes resulted in taking 175 children from May's, would that leave too few for that school?" Mayor Hamilton enquired.

"It would leave around one hundred for May's," Mr. Wightman replied, "and five rooms would be too large for that attendance. But they could dispense with two rooms, and that would cut down their operating costs, because they would need three teachers instead of six."

Assuming Obligation.

Mayor Hamilton and Alderman Gordon spoke of the part of the rural school debenture debt which would have to be assumed by the city.

May's School and Confederation School, the one on Lansdowne extension and the other on Park Street South, are both within the School Section No. 2. The part of the township proposed for annexation, from Lansdowne Street to Weller Street, and from Monaghan Road to Western Avenue, is also included in S.S. No. 2.

The total assessment of the property in that school section is $790,000, and the assessment of the area for annexation is $314,000. Therefore, on the basis of assessment, the city would have to assume that proportion of the outstanding school debenture debt, the fraction being 314/790.

It was said that properties for Separate School taxes were not included in the $314,000. Mayor Hamilton pointed out that the city would have to assume its proportion of the debenture debt on both the schools of the section, May's and Confederation. It is this proposed assumption by the city which is involved in the agreement between the two municipalities which their joint committee is at present discussing. Details of the increased debenture charges to the Board of Education, mentioned by Mr. Craw, depend in the first place upon the final acceptance of the agreement by the township, its affected residents, and the city.

Revenues from the Wartime Housing areas in North Monaghan are on the basis of yearly grant or allowance for each house, depending on its size, $24 for one type and $30 for the larger type of house.

Revenues "Ridiculous."

"Is it agreed," Mr. Melton asked, "that we cannot get additional grants from Wartime Housing? What about the children attending the Collegiate Institute and Vocational School? The part of the grant we would receive by no means meets the cost of educating one pupil."

Mr. Wightman told the committee that at present there are 24 children from Wartime Housing areas attending the Collegiate Institute and Vocational School. Ten of them are from Wartime houses already taken into the city, and 14 from similar houses in the Monaghan area outside the city.

"The revenue to the Board," Mr. Melton said, "on the basis of what Wartime Housing are allowing is ridiculous compared with the cost of education."

Alderman Gordon told the Board of Education members that he had moved a resolution in Council to apply to Wartime Housing for a substantially larger allowance from the company, but the Council did not support it.

"That is hardly fair," said Mayor Hamilton. "All the members of the Council would have liked to get more, but we knew that the amounts had been set arbitrarily, and they are the same throughout the province where there are other Wartime Housing groups."

"Well, I thought the Council threw up its hands too soon," Alderman Gordon concluded.

Mr. Carley said he believed in pressing for what he regarded as a just claim, and he was convinced that Wartime Housing should be contributing more money to the municipality for the services it was providing to the occupants of those houses.

It was Alderman Gordon who remarked that after all the company considered that it was not contributing anything toward capital charges on such services because the houses were planned only for wartime use.

Mr. Melton said he expected that they would be occupied for four or five years more at the least.

"Even if there is no annexation of part of Monaghan," Mr. Wightman stated, "we are going to need the school in the Parkhill area any way, certainly as long as the war continues."

Mr. Wightman's reference was to the fact that all the Parkhill Road area is now within the city's boundary.

No Damages Allowed

MONTREAL, Sept. 11 —(CP) — In a judgment of interest to Labor Unions here Friday Mr. Justice O. S. Tyndale dismissed a permanent injunction arising from a dress workers strike in 1937 and refused to allow damages of $10,000 claimed by the company against union officials.

A former Examiner carrier boy, Sgt. Robert E. Hendry (Bob) of the R.C.A.F., has arrived safely somewhere in England. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. T. Hendry, 37 Armour Road, and was employed at Pratten's Hardware before enlisting.

Fritzie Zivic Scores First Round K.O.

NEW YORK, Sept. 11 (AP)—Flat-nosed Fritzie Zivic of Pittsburg made quick work of Vinnie Vines in their scheduled 10-rounder at Madison Square Garden last night, knocking out the former Schenectady, N.Y., youth in 2.04 of the first round.

Vines, 150¾, who now lives in New York and had gained a reputation as a puncher, rushed the former welterweight champion in the first minute and actually drove the experienced Zivic, who weighed 151, into the ropes.

But his tactics cost him dearly. The second minute Zivic roughed him up in close, then he sneaked over a lightning right-cross that caught Vines on the chin.

Falls to Canvas

The New Yorker fell full length on the canvas. He stirred at six, rolled over and tried to get up at nine, but was counted out by Referee Billy Cavanaugh.

It was an unexpected quick ending to the fight that was hastily arranged after the scheduled lightweight title bout between Bob Montgomery and Beau Jack had to be postponed.

Vines made the 30-year-old Pittsburger give ground at the start with several blows to the stomach. He tried to land rights from in close, but the crafty Zivic tied him up, at the same time ramming home his "Sunday" punch, a counter uppercut to the pit of the stomach.

A couple of these made Vines drop his hands for a second. That was a mistake. Zivic promptly zipped over his right and the fight was over.

The attendance was announced as 7,608 and the gross gate as $15,979.

Bartolo Wins

Sal Bartolo, Boston's leading featherweight contender, was much the better of New York's Aaron Seltzer in winning a 10-round decision in the co-feature.

CAMPBELLFORD

IODE Members Plan Winter Activities

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 11 (ENS) —Conveners of various committees in the Bemmersyde Chapter I.O.D.E. had little to report at the opening fall meeting on Thursday following a summer of inactivity. But an energetic program of fall and winter activities began to take shape as members settled down to making plans for the months ahead.

It was announced that Group 2 under leadership of Mrs. V. Rutherford and Mrs. A. K. Loucks would organize a bingo to be held in connection with the fall fair. Members also felt it would be an excellent opportunity to let the puglic see the work they were doing by entering exhibits of quilts and knitting in the "Win the War Section" at the fair. The executive had decided several weeks ago a tag day should be held to raise funds for the Chapter and members ratified this action during the meeting, but the date for this drive was not set.

At the meeting's opening a minute's silence was observed for three members of the armed forces, one reported killed and two missing. Mrs. A. J. Armour, Salvage convener, asserted that a policy of collecting salvage twice a month had been adopted and was working successfully, while Mrs. E. C. Roberts head of the hospitality committee revealed that a number of visiting airmen had been entertained by individuals during the summer months.

Japs Desperate As Allies Close In On Lae

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, the Southwest Pacific, Sept. 11 (AP). —The imminent fall of the Japanese air base of Lae, New Guinea, into Allied hands was indicated strongly today by a communique which said "the enemy's position now is desperate."

Whether the Japanese, who have held the Huon Gulf town since January 25, 1942, propose to make a fight of it should become apparent soon. So far, only minor skirmishes have been reported by two Allied forces pinching in on Lae from the northeast and the northwest.

From the northeast, Australians who have battled the Germans in North Africa and are openly contemptuous of their present foe's ability to fight, have crossed the Busu River only two miles from the Malahang airdrome on Lae's outskirts.

"You watch," said one Australian sergeant. "When we get in close to the Jap, he'll turn tail or fold up."

These Australians, slowed up principally by swamp and jungle, now have 25-pounders shelling Lae.

Up the Markham Valley to the northwest of Lae, a large force of Australians and Americans, which has been flown in by air transports over the 12,000-foot-high Owen Stanley Mountains, has reached Narakapor, 12 miles from the enemy base. However, there are forward elements less than 10 miles from Lae.

"Our forces from both sides are rapidly closing in on the main citadels defences," today's communique said.

Baseball Teams Battle To Tie

TORONTO, Sept. 11 —(CP)— Trenton and Camp Borden failed to settle their argument for the Baseball championship of No. 1 Air Training Command last night at Via duct Park here when the game was called in the eighth with the score 8-8. The teams meet again Monday afternoon on the same grounds.

Patterson and Lee hit home runs for Camp Borden and Eddie Geraldi for Trenton. Geraldi's round-tripper with one on gave Trenton the lead, and Lee's homer in the eighth tied the game for Camp Borden.

The feature of the game was a great one-hand catch by Borden centre-fielder Anderson on Johnson's long high fly. It saved the game for Borden as the bases were loaded at the time and the clout had the homer label on it.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, Sept. 11 — (CP).— New seasonal highs were reached in October and December wheat futures shortly after the opening of trading yesterday on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange. The former hit $1.12⅛ a bushel and the latter $1.11¼. Values, however, declined near the close.

United States houses and exporters were the best buyers in the pit, but other support came from commission houses and locals.

Offerings were fairly liberal and well taken. Export business to the United Kingdom was estimated between 1,250,000 and 1,500,000 bushels of No. 1 Northern.

Rye trading was on a small scale and involved local spreading operations.

Trade in cash wheat was confined to 150,000 bushels of No. 1 Northern taken by exporters. Business in cash coarse grains restricted to odd cars of oats and barley for all-rail shipment to eastern dealers.

Giants Capture Junior Title In Church Loop

Last night at Memorial Park the Immaculate Conception Giants blasted out a 15-11 victory over the St. Peter's Tigers in the fourth game of this series, winning the championship 3 games to 1.

These two teams ran neck and neck all season and played good ball, but in the end the East City boys showed a little too much hitting power.

"Lefty" Bill Sullivan was on the mound again for the winners and pitched good ball all the way, being effective in the pinches.

Murphy, pitching every game this year for the Tigers, was steady after a shaky start. He has plenty of speed.

G. Sullivan led the Giants at bat with a double and two singles and drawing two walks for a perfect night at the plate. B. O'Rourke also had a double and two singles in five and B. Sullivan a triple and double.

For the losers Conlin led with two doubles and a single, followed by Giardino and Lynch with a double and two singles.

Conlin at third for the Tigers starred, handling several hard chances without a slip. F. O'Heron made a lovely running catch of a high pop fly back of first. Duignan made a nice play to throw Conroy out on his hard smash.

The Junior League this year has been a decided success.

"Come thou with us, and we will do thee good."—Numbers 10:29.

Israel Marches To Canaan

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for September 12 is Numbers 10: 11-12. 16, the Golden Text being Numbers 10: 29, "Come with us and we will do thee good.")

In this lesson the Israelites have been encamped in the wilderness of Sinai for about 11 months and 19 days. On the 20th day of the second month, in the second year of their wanderings, they took up their journey toward the land of Canaan. The cloud of the Lord was with them and halted in the wilderness of Paran. Look on the map and see where this wilderness was.

Tribe by tribe the people went on their way, led by the tribe of Judah, the tribe from which David and the kings and from which the Lord Jesus Christ came. Each tribe had its leader, and the Ark of the Tabernacle went with them.

Moses approached Hobab, the Midianite, who had accompanied the Israelites. You remember Moses' wife came from that tribe. He asked Hobab to go with them and show them the way to Canaan, because that rough and difficult country was well known to Hobab.

Hobab said. "I will not go; but I will depart to mine own land, and to my kindred."

"Come with us and we will do thee good," Moses told him. And further "Leave us not, I pray thee; forasmuch as thou knowest how we are to encamp in the wilderness, and thou mayest be to us instead of eyes."

Hobab Goes With Them.

Hobab decided then to go with them, and he was rewarded in Canaan, although the Midianites never were counted among the tribes of Israel. They had God to lead them, it is true, but God also likes folks to help themselves, and a trusted guide was a great help in the years of wandering in strange lands.

As usual with people when they leave their accustomed homes, the Israelites forgot all the hardships they had suffered in Egypt, and began complaining again. The Lord was very tired of their discontent and sent a fire to burn many of them. Moses interceded for them, and the fire stopped, and Moses named the place Taberah.

Next the Israelites began to complain of the manna which was the food the Lord had provided for them. They remembered the fish, cucumbers and melons of their days in Egypt, forgetting with what suffering they were accompanied Even Moses, patient man that he was, was displeased with them then. In his turn he complained to the Lord that he had been carrying the burden of this dissatisfied and trying people on his own shoulders and he asked that he be given help or be allowed to perish.

The Lord told him to gather 70 of the leaders, and He would give them the divine spirit so they could share Moses' burdens. Joshua, one of Moses' helpers, complained that two young men also seemed to have been given the divine spirit and were prophesying about the camp. Moses chided him and asked if he was envious of these two? "Would God that all the Lord's people were prophets, and that the Lord would put His spirit upon them," Moses exclaimed.

Promises Meat.

The Lord promised that the Israelites would soon eat flesh as they so much desired. They would have so much it would become loathsome to them. A great wind then arose and brought quails from the sea, so many that in some places they were piled two feet high around the camp. The people rushed out and gathered all day, all night and the next day. They evidently began to eat greedily, too, of the flesh, for "while the flesh was yet between their teeth, ere it was chewed, wrath of the Lord was kindled against the people, and the Lord smote the people with a very great plague." Many perished and were buried in this place, which was called Kibrothhattaavah in memory of these burials.

Now, of all people, Miriam and Aaron, Moses' sister and brother, began to speak against Moses. They used as an excuse that he had married an Ethiopian woman, but really it was jealousy because Moses was so favored by the Lord and chosen leader over them. "Hath the Lord indeed spoken only by Moses? Hath He not spoken also by us?" they argued. The Lord heard what they said, and as Moses was the meekest of men, the Lord spake suddenly to all three and told them to come to the tabernacle. There He told them that Moses indeed was His chosen servant, and He would speak with him "mouth to mouth." He was very angry at Miriam and Aaron, and when the cloud from which He was speaking lifted, lo, Miriam was white from head to toe with leprosy.

Was Moses pleased? No, indeed. He cried, "Heal her now, O God, I beseech Thee."

For seven days Miriam was shut from the camp, but at the end of that time she was received in again —healed.

Isaiah, the Statesman Prophet

REV. E. R. JAMES

In the year that King Uzziah Died, I saw the Lord. Isaiah 6:1.

Probably no name is so familiar to Christian people than that of the prophet Isaiah. Undoubtedly he was the greatest of the Old Testament saints. Isaiah was a man of unusual ability, well educated and occupying a high social position. Perhaps a member of the King's council. He was constantly consulted by the King and the councillors. It is interesting also to remember that he lived about the same time as Amos, the herdman of Tekoah, whom God used to reveal the new doctrine of social righteousness.

Among some people it is a proverb that it does not need a College education to preach the simple Gospel. This is a half truth. God does not despise education and scholarship. Moses was learned in all the wisdom of the Egyptians and thus equipped he was able to lead his barbarian countrymen, bond slaves, into the wilderness and into a wider knowledge of Jehovah.

Our Lord's own Apostles were plain, everday men—fishermen and so forth—and able to meet the ordinary people. On the other hand Saul, of Tarsus, who became St. Paul the Apostle to the Gentiles, was born of a learned rabinnical family and educated at the feet of Gamaliel, the most famous theological teacher of his day. St. Paul brought his great intellectual gifts and laid them at the feet of the Lord Christ. It was his privilege to take the Gospel into the intellectual world of his day, for which every generation of Christians will be thankful. When a man of great intellectual power lays these treasures of mind at the feet of the Lord Christ and cries:—"Here am I. Send me." Such a one will do great work for his generation and for those who follow.

"In the year that King Uzziah died." This throws light upon Isaiah's thoughts. Uzziah had reigned for half a century with prosperity to the country. He died a leper. Isaiah loved his country and as a patriot he saw dire ruin facing his people. There were two great nations. Assyria in the East and Egypt in the south, each striving for world domination. Death and misery followed in the train of their armies. Now history repeats itself.

Isaiah being a devout Jew takes his trouble into the Temple and lays it before Jehovah. It is our privilege to do likewise in these terrible days. "Cast your burden upon the Lord for He careth for you."

Then came the vision. "I saw the Lord sitting upon His throne high and lifted up." God is above all and ruling all things. As a devout Jew Isaiah knew this. But he was to be guided into another side of truth. "Holy, holy, holy is the Lord God Almighty" cry the seraphim with veiled faces. Jehovah is holy, not in the sense of separation, which the Hebrew word implies, but pure in character. This is a new and astonishing ideal for Isaiah to teach all the rest of his life. It is the new revelation of God which every generation needs to realise.

Isaiah's eyes are opened to see something of the beauty of holiness. Then he looked into his own heart and utters the bitter cry:—"Unclean, unclean." Perhaps he had never forgotten those words falling from the lips of King Uzziah as he passed into the leper house. Isaiah was a respectable, honorable young man.

His character was untarnished. In the light of God's purity and holiness he sees his own inward leprosy of sin. By God's goodness his lips are cleansed by the touch of the live coal from off the altar.

But that is not enough for him. He is truly fitted for the calling of a prophet of the Highest. Naturally he thinks of his own people. Can they be cleansed? His patriotic heart responds to the Divine appeal:—"Whom shall I send and who will go for us"? Immediately the young man utters the sacrificing cry:—"Here am I, send me."

In this terrible age God calls the highest minds for the work of the regeneration of this world. Have you spiritual and intellectual gifts? The need is the same. God grant that you may cry:—"Here am I send me." There is no greater work than to build again the walls of Zion.

SPEAK, LORD, FOR THY SERVANT HEARETH.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11 —(AP)— The German assertion that Hitler's armed forces would "assume protection" of Vatican City caused serious concern in official quarters here. The phrase had an ugly sound to those who recalled previous German statements to the effect that the Wehrmacht had taken over "protection" of Luxembourg or some other neutral state.

Plan Missionary Exhibition

TORONTO, Sept. 11. — The first Canadian National Missionary Exhibition and Convention to be held in Toronto October 15 to 18 will be the largest event of its kind ever conducted in Canada by the Catholic Church.

The exhibition will be held in the spacious Varsity Arena and will "bring the mission fields in miniature" to this city.

The war has seriously interfered with missionary activities but the Church is planning a post-war program and the exhibition is intended as a stimulus to interest English-speaking Catholics in Canada in this movement.

Already there are indications that thousands of visitors will be here for this unusual event. Among those expected will be Cardinal Villeneuve, also the Apostolic Delegate to Canada and Newfoundland and upwards of 40 archbishops and bishops.

RELIGION CROWDED OUT

LONDON — (CP). — The majority of men in the British army have no definite idea about religion beyond its most obvious external expressions, wrote Prof. F. E. Jessop of University College in Hull, in "The Padre's Hour." "Religion is both crowded out and hurried out," he wrote. "A generation has grown up that has not ceased to be religious but has never been so."

Israel Marches Toward Canaan — ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON — By Alfred J. Buescher
Scripture—Numbers 10:11—12:16

After about 11 months and 19 days in which the Israelites were encamped before Mt. Sinai, they started their journey toward the promised land, in companies, each headed by its own standard bearer.

Moses asked Hobab, leader of the Midianites, to go with them, but Hobab said he would go to his own land. Moses however, prevailed on him to go with them to show them the way.

The people complained that they had only manna to eat, and the Lord grew angry and told Moses they should have so much flesh to eat that they would be sick of it.

The Lord sent a wind that brought quails from the sea and let them fall by the camp, and the people stood up for hours to gather them.

With The New Pupils

New pages were opened in the school registers of the city this week listing for the first time in any enrolment the names of new scholars, bright-eyed children fresh from their sheltering homes, beginning in the primary classes the preparation for life which the state provides.

After a while they will be taught their first lessons in words and the spelling of them, cat and rat and hat. Presumably these are still the originals of modern pedagogy. Gradually they will put these simple rudiments behind them, and they will learn bigger words, and they will come to know their meanings as part of the routine of education.

By that time, of course, they will have advanced to a very superior height above their successors in the primary grades, and they will be learning words that will become fused into their spirit for all time, into that spark of intelligence which the mind of man believes is never to be extinguished. Faith, hope and love, honesty and honor; duty and character; courage, patience; country, loyalty, fireside, and a cloud of other words of light, and their opposites, their darker antonyms.

Possibly the words will be dismissed as the fabric of language, and the children growing older will pass on to things, as distinguished from the ideas, by which they will live. Ultimately they settle into the activities of life, occupations and professions and business. In the end, when their work is done, words and their associated ideas are about all that life has left them, words and memories and more or less studied philosophies. And all the accomplishment and use of life, and its final residue, begins with those three letter words the primary class teacher writes on the blackboard, leading on from simple little concepts to the illimitable bounds of an infinite universe and of a world without end.

Synthetic Tires

Ottawa has announced that synthetic rubber automobile tires will be available for passenger cars to a limited extent and under present rationing restrictions. Securing rubber has been one of the toughest and most heart-breaking problems that the United Nations have had to face. The announcement does not mean that rubber is plentiful, but it does indicate that the shortage of rubber will not hold up our war effort.

The appearance of synthetic rubber on the market is the fulfilment of a promise long held that there was another source of rubber than the trees in the tropics that Japan had commandeered.

The attack on Pearl Harbour found the United Nations in a terrible plight, as to rubber supply, for there was only on hand enough rubber for six months' normal use. A freezing-out order was immediately clamped on, and rigid rationing regulations have enabled the supplies to be spun out, while frantic efforts were made to develop synthetic rubber. The development of the synthetic program has been slow and actual construction has been several times held up as different construction methods were debated.

A board was formed in the United States with Bernard Baruch as head to study the question and as a result of their report William Jeffers, an able railway executive, was appointed rubber director, and things had gone ahead under his administration.

In March, 1942, Munitions Minister Howe announced that the Polymer Corporation, Limited, was being established to produce synthetic rubber in Canada. Work was rushed on the gigantic Sarnia plant, and now the manufacture of tires from synthetic rubber has begun, although the first tires available for civilian use will come from the United States.

Necessity has swept aside every other consideration, and we find today we are manufacturing synthetic rubber. Something always declared impracticable before Pearl Harbour. Besides being the mother of invention, necessity is the destroyer of sacred financial laws. Those laws often have stood in the way of a lot of processes, inventions and refinements which would make life much more convenient and rich. Who knows but synthetic rubber may replace the natural stuff, but to do this technical enterprise must be given the green light.

The Fifth Victory Loan

Canada's Fifth Victory Loan, to be launched October 18, will be for $1,200,000,000, which is $100,000,000 greater than the Fourth loan held in April. Four years ago, such a sum of money to be asked for in a loan would have been regarded as impossible; but this colossal amount today does not even call for a gasp.

Holders of Dominion of Canada bonds maturing in 1943 and 1945 and callable for payment this year will be given the opportunity to convert into bonds of the Fifth Victory Loan.

The cash total, or what is called the General Canvass in this new loan is the largest in the history of Canada, and is set at $525,000,000. In the last loan $500,000,000 was asked and $529,000,000 contributed. The special names class including business firms and corporations, etc., will be asked to subscribe $675,000,000 as against $600,000,000 set in the last loan. These two amounts are both within what was subscribed last spring when the Special Names canvass produced $779,343,700, and the grand total was $2,308,895,500.

This enormous sum will not be raised without a lot of hard work. There must be maximum support. Money is not easy to get and it is the duty of every Canadian to save every cent possible and buy every dollar's worth of war bonds which he can possibly afford.

The war is now reaching a critical stage and this is no time to let up. The next six months will be vital ones, and now is the time to prepare to subscribe and to the limit of our ability.

Real Publicity

If the city council and the Chamber of Commerce had sat in together to plan tourist propaganda for the benefit of this district they couldn't possibly have hit upon anything as effective, even if they had called in the experts of the Ontario Tourist Bureau, as the chance meeting at Rice Lake the other day of a chief of police from an Ohio city and an oversized muskie.

Chief Elmer Clark of Canton, O., has been a police officer for many years and has made many captures; he has been visiting the Rice Lake district for a score of years and has hooked and landed many fine fish but neither as a policeman nor a fisherman has he ever bagged anything that gave him such a thrill as the 34-pound maskinonge he caught near Hiawatha. The thing looked like a sturgeon when he proudly displayed it in Peterborough a few hours afterward.

When an individual as well known as the chief of police of Canton takes home a monster like that, displays the photographs of the huge maskinonge and tells his story of the battle he had in landing it it doesn't take a very vivid imagination to predict what is going to happen.

If we know anything about those spoftsmen in Ohio, the pictures of Chief Clark's fish are going to fill them with an irresistible ambition to come over here and try to land one for themselves. The authorities may cut down the gasoline allowance, other obstacles will crop up but there are scores of ardent fishermen in the Canton area who will take one look at the photograph of that 34-pound beauty and resolve to come over here next summer if they have to walk.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Up Lindsay way these days the war has a tough time keeping the Lindsay Fair off the front page.

Those Wheatley bank robbers operated as if they would have made good commandos if they had got into the army instead of into the underworld.

Port Hope is considering the question of an airfield. That is one municipality that surely needs such landing facilities for the municipal council is usually up in the air about something.

"What Ontario wants is a square deal for all" says a letter writer and we hasten to agree. The difficulty of course comes in when an attempt is made to define a "square deal."

Toronto police have been scouring pool-rooms looking for draft-dodgers and selective service evaders but there is no information yet as to how many slackers they found behind the eight ball.

The new regulation forbidding the swapping of rationed food stuffs doesn't seem to have found a newspaper friend anywhere. The general opinion seems to be that of the Telegram which calls it a nonsensical law.

England Reforms School System

By K.M.H.
In Winnipeg Free Press

NO innocent bystander can be expected to quite follow the mazes of the educational system which obtains, uneasily, in England. It appears to have to do with state supported schools, church schools, voluntary schools which just happen. However the recent presentation of a White Paper by Mr. Butler, president of the Board of Education in Parliament, and the almost simultaneous publication of the Norwood report, each covering plans for post-war education in England, indicate that a mighty effort is going forward to assess and make provision for educational needs.

The White Paper sets for the raising of compulsory age to 15; provision for religious education, for which it is announced that a syllabus has been agreed upon by the churches, local educational authorities and teachers; medical services and the provision of meals and milk; compulsory provision of nursery schools for children under five where attendance will be voluntary; enlarged units of administration; remodelling of the curriculum of secondary schools; and improved opportunity for university education. These last two are chiefly left to the Norwood report, as the provision of teachers is left chiefly to consideration by the McNair report, both of these committees have been set up by the Board of Education. It is these two which are of primany interest here, since they are in the nature of educational research, and moreover deal with matters of immediate and vital concern in our educational provision.

UNDER the Norwood Committee recommendation and set forth by the White Paper as government policy, secondary education adapted to their abilities shall be provided for all children as they come up from the elementary. There shall be three types of schools, grammar, which is largely academic, modern, and technical. Selection for these schools shall be made at the age of about 11 and shall be based upon primary school records, and parental wishes supplemented, if desired, by intelligence or other tests. However the child is not to be definitely placed at that age. He may transfer at a later date if that seems indicated.

The children from 11 to 13 shall be grouped in the lower school where the curriculum will be roughly similar. The report suggests that pupils in these lower schools should be under the supervision of a teacher charged with the special responsibility of recommending, after skilled observation, the kind of schooling most appropriate in each case....which is a large order for any finite human being.

The report further recommends that the school certificate examination in its present form shall be abolished, with its requirement of qualifying in a minimum number of subjects. Instead there will be complete freedom of subject. Every student will receive a certificate indicating his examination performance and his school record, the examination to be conducted by University examining bodies through a standing committee consisting of teachers, local authorities representatives, and school inspectors. The report envisions and presumably recommends that ultimately this examination would become an internal one conducted by the schools themselves. That being the case, how does the report suggest that there will be any uniformity of standard for the enlightenment of "employers, professional bodies and University authorities?" However the report does not quite banish eaxminations. These would be ocnducted twice a year without syllabus for pupils of 18 "for the strictly limited purpose of clearing matriculation and the requirements of professional bodies."

ON this continent an attempt has been going on for some years on analogous lines to that set forth by the Norwood committee, that is setting up of at least three divisions in our secondary schools, one division leading to a school leaving certificate....a matter for the school itself; one to commercial certificate; and one to matriculation. Enquiry at the Department of Education here as to results, indicates that the school leaving certificate has worked to mean, well the good wishes of the teachers. Professions, including nursing in the bigger training schools, have been and are adamant on matriculation. Perhaps it is for this reason that many parents desire the matriculation course for their children. The Norwood report, where the grammar school division is, one gathers, analogous with the matriculation course, seems to think that teacher guidance and parental good sense will agree upon the suitable course. Moreover it makes a strong play for teacher responsibility and privilege, to the extent of advocating the governing of each school by its staff with only general directions as to curriculum. In this connection it should be added that among the subjects especially emphasized is English.

It is entirely true that if any school system could engage heaven-born and adequately trained teachers, all these things so excellently advocated by the Norwood report would fall into place. But in the present state of human progress, including teachers as human beings, isn't this rather much to ask, or to expect? Perhaps the McNair committee which is engaged on a survey of the profession may throw some light on this. If it can, if it does discover how to secure first-rate teachers, then it will have accomplished far beyond what any system can promise.

Canadian Lend-Lease

Canada does not receive lend-lease aid from the United States. On the contrary, like the United States she lend-leases war supplies to the rest of the United Nations. To Britain have gone vast quantities of food and arms; to Russia, Canada has sent tanks, universal carriers, naval guns, Bren guns, ammunition, machine tools, textiles, clothing, grain and metals. To China, Canada has sent 25-pounders, Bren and Boys guns, rifles and ammunition. Large sums of money have been donated by the Canadian people to Russian and Chinese relief, and 15,000 tons of wheat are shipped every month to Greece as a gift of the Canadian people.—Kansas City Star.

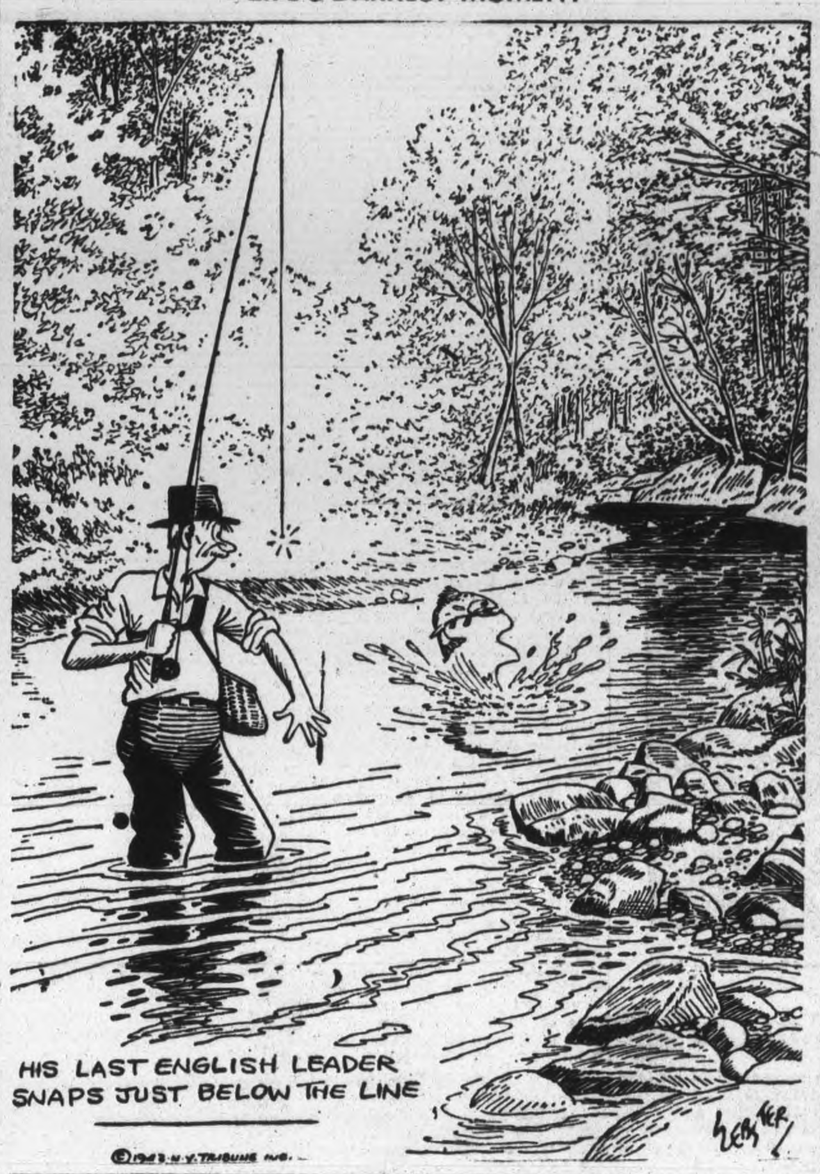
LIFE'S DARKEST MOMENT



Capital Closeups

(By JOHN DAUPHINEE, Canadian Press Staff Writer)

OTTAWA, Sept. 11 (CP)—A concerted drive to attract women from the home into part-time jobs is in prospect as national selective service moves to overcome an existing over-all manpower shortage estimated offically at 100,000 workers.

It has already been tried on a small scale and found effective.

Arthur MacNamara, director of national selective service, said this week that the only remaining labour pool of any worthwhile size is among "housewives and women who never worked before."

That selective service will capitalize on a successful scheme for increasing the Dominion's working force goes without saying. Organization of part-time workers in Britain is well advanced.

The Victory Loan people had to force the point a bit last time in the lapel badges for bond purchasers. You'll remember they split the "I" in the Roman numerals denoting the "Fourth" Loan to turn it into the ". . . —" of the Morse code "V" for Victory.

This time it's going to be a cinch. The Roman numeral for five is "V" and with the one symbol they'll be able to designate the Fifth Victory Loan and V for Victory all in one letter.

It hasn't been announced yet but they tell us the "V" is likely to sprout wings to go with a slogan like "Speed the Victory!"

Canada's export permit regulations don't leave many items to change. A revised consolidation of commodities affected has just been issued by the trade and commerce department and some of the words in it are pretty tremendous.

In very small type at the back of the booklet is an index of commodites mentioned elsewhere in the volume—and it fills 15 pages.

These are just a few of the commodities listed —and don't ask us what they're used for: acrylonitrile, brombenzylcyanide, dibromidimethyl ether, ethyliodoacete, henequen, ipecacuanha, methylethylene glycol (propylene glycol), and omga chloroacetophenone.

The Wounded Don't Die

(By "J.S.C." in the Vancouver Province)

WAR, ALAS, takes many a splendid young life, but it also is the means of stimulating medical knowledge and research, so that many another life is saved. No aspect of the present war is more compensatory than the record of lives saved from wounds and other injuries.

More than 97 per cent. of all the men who were wounded in the bombing and destruction at Pearl Harbour have survived. Only 2.6 per cent. met death. "The wounded don't die" is these theme of a medical report on the subject. A package of sulfa-diazine tablets to be taken as soon as hurt, with sulfa powder to dust into the wound, are credited with saving men from serious strep' infections.

Pectin—which the frugal housewife can obtain by boiling down apple parings and cores if she doesn't want to buy it in a bottle to make her jelly jell—is proving effective when taken in conjunction with the new sulfa drugs. This vegetable substance which stimulates granulation from the wound up is reported as "amazingly wonderful" in healing foot injuries.

⋄ ⋄ ⋄

Patients with bad cases of osteomyelitis, where the bone decays, and with burns and wounds that do not respect to sulfa-nilamide preparations, are now being treated with a new antiseptic—propamidine.

Most remarkable of all the new healing drugs is penicillin, the newest and most powerful germicide of all, made from mold somewhat like the green mold on Roquefort cheese.

Discovered more or less by chance some fourteen years ago by Dr. Alexander Fleming of the University of London during research work, it might have remained a laboratory curiosity but for the war. Its cost was prohibitive even for clinical work. Like radium—only more so—the recovery of the desired penicillin was slow and scant. So powerful is its effect on infections which other drugs do not affect, that one portion of penicillin can make itself felt in 160,000,000 portions of foreign bacteria.

Since the war began, Dr. Howard Florey of Oxford, aided by medical research organizations, has taken over the work. Now 16 drug manufacturing companies are engaged in its production. Scientists of the U.S. Department of Agriculture made a valuable contribution by discovery that corn steep liquor, a by-product in the manufacture of corn starch, is a favoured medium for the development of penicillin, increasing the yield several hundred times over the original yields.

Output of penicillin is still reserved for military use, though several victims of Boston's tragic Cocoanut Grove fire were treated with it, with good results. Next step will be to try and make the drug artificially, by synthesis. In any event, after the war is over and larger production of penicillin is achieved without its present need in battle injuries, it will be available to combat meningitis, osteomyelitis, eye and mastoid infections and other streptococci and staphylococci infections where it has proved potent.

War will continue to take its toll of our young manhood until the day of victory comes. On the other side of the ledger may be entered some items—impossible of exact computations —of war-brought victories in man's continuing fight against disease and premature death.

'McKenna's Eight'

Reginald McKenna, dead in London, was known chiefly to the present generation as a great banker (head of the Midland, England's greatest) and as a former Chancellor of the Exchequer who came to have unorthodox views on gold. He was much more than that. There was a day, in the early 1900's when himself a stern radical economist in a radical ministry, he became First Lord of the Admiralty to champion the building of eight dreadnoughts, famed as "McKenna's Eight." His victory in that memorable fight probably saved the last war.

Germany in 1907 had built four battleships to Britain's two. Yet though the Kaiser plotted and planned for war, and the state of Europe became more ominous with the years, successive British budgets took more and more for social policies and less for the navy; with even Mr. Churchill, then the friend and fellowswordsman of Lloyd George, opposed to the naval estimates. Reginald McKenna, seized with the peril of the hour, determined—to his everlasting credit—to fight for the Navy, fighting at the same time for his political life. He demanded at first six Dreadnoughts. The champions of lower estimates would only yield four. In the end, and with the backing of the Unionist party, and the support in the cabinet of Lord Grey, McKenna actually got eight Dreadnoughts—to be known as "McKenna's Eight." When, in 1914, war broke over the world, the "Eight" were at the head of the fleet.

A time came when Reginald McKenna's position at the Admiralty became politically untenable. The man who succeeded him was Winston Churchill, frankly and happily a convert to his doctrines. It is a chapter in British history that shouldn't be forgotten.—Ottawa Journal.

A Bible Message

In Gideon the Lord appeared to Solomon in a dream by night: and God said, Ask what I shall give thee.

And Solomon said, Thou hast shewed unto thy servant David my father great mercy, according as he walked before thee in truth, and in righteousness, and in uprightness of heart with thee; and thou hast kept for him this great kindness, that thou hast given him a son to sit on his throne, as it is this day. And now, O Lord my God, thou hast made thy servant king instead of David my father: and I am but a little child: I know not how to go out or come in. ....Give therefore thy servant an understanding heart to judge thy pepole, that I may discern between good and bad: for who is able to judge this thy so great a people?

And the speech pleased the Lord, that Solomon had asked this thing. And God said unto him, Because thou hast asked this thing, and hast not asked for thyself long life; neither hast asked for thyself understanding to discern judgment; behold, I have done according to thy words: lo, I have given thee a wise and an understanding heart. (I Kings 3: 5-7, 9-12.)

Letter To The Editor

A JOB FOR POLICE

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—Will someone please explain why it is that horse-betting and gambling are flourishing so freely in Peterborough? Surely the police aren't so busy solving crimes that they can't clean up these places. Charlotte street between George and Aylmer is a regular den of bookies. One establishment due to the success of others no doubt, and owing to the fact that the owner has recently bought himself an expensive house in the west end, has just opened a "bookie" account. The "suckers" have to pay for it. Crap-shooting has been going on in the basement in the same place for a long time. Crap-shooting joints also flourish on the same street, as well as Park Hill road around Reid street. Then there is a well known establishment in the south end of the city that caters to the horse-fanciers. Even a grocery store in the south-westerly part of the city takes bets.

Surely these places are known to the police, but in case they are not I am writing them at the bottom of this letter, not for publication of course. Let's have some cleaning up done!

ANTI-GAMBLER.

The Day of Little Ships

In the unquiet days between two world wars, a young naval officer with more daring than discretion committed himself to the dictum that the only battles won by battleships were at the then fashionable disarmament conferences; and he added that in actual fighting the real work would be done by the little ships whose superior mobility and initiative gave them an advantage over the floating castles that hypnotized the politicians. His opinion was heavily frowned upon as the ignorance, if not the impudence, of youths, but ever since the Ajax and the Achiles and the ill-fated Exeter knocked out the Graf Spee in South American waters the present war has done its best to justify the contention.... The little ships, as the stories coming in day by day of the Sicilian expedition show, have the romance as well as the roughness of the day's work, and perhaps even a grave Admiral of the Fleet looking down from the quarter deck of his great vessel on these small shrimps far below has sometimes envied them their freedom and their opportunities for offensive action.—Glasgow Herald.

The Sports Round-Up

NEW YORK, Sept. 11 —(AP) — Mel Ott has a new three-year contract to manage the Giants and, in our opinion, he'll have a three-year headache just like this year's unless he makes up his mind to become a bench manager .... That isn't to say Ottie is washed up as a ball player, but as boss of the Giants he'll not only have to handle the club on the field but also plan out any steps to strengthen the club, keep tabs on minor league prospects and do practically everything but sell tickets.

Here and There in Sport

The first gun in the build-up for an East vs. West football final this year was fired by the R.C.A.F. Bombers of Winnipeg in announcing the acquisition of star players who should help to make the Westerners a worthy aggregation for a play-off, providing the official nod is forthcoming from government quarters.

The Winnipeg Flyers announced the signing of Lineman Don Durno, last season with the Toronto R.C.A.F Dominion grid champions, who has been posted for duty in the Manitoba capital, it was stated. The 'Peggers revealed that Art Bray and George Shields, formerly with Toronto Balmy Beach, and Myron Kane, late of the Ottawa Rough Riders, had turned out to try for places on the 1943 line-up. Ches McCance, formerly of the Winnipeg Blue Bombers, once holders of the Grey Trophy for Dominion honors, had also been secured. McCance is a backfielder and placement kicker.

Win Championship.

The Belles of Racine, Wis., won the first championship of the all-American Girls' Softball League last night when they defeated the Kenosha, Wis., Comets in the last of three straight playoffs. The champions were coached by Johnny Gottselig, centre star of the Chi-Hawks in the National Hockey League.

The Pony Leaguers, once a factor in the Ontario baseball scene, are in the midst of 1943 semi-finals. Last night Wellsville, N.Y., won 10-8 from Hornell to take a 2-1 lead in the best-of-five series leading to the championship round.

Ford Frick, president of the National League, yesterday handed $325,558.84 to the American Red Cross and National War Fund, the amount being the proceeds of the 16 war charity games played during the past season by the American and National League teams. The largest total of $35,844.86 resulted from the N.Y. Giants vs. Pirates feature at Pittsburgh.

First-baseman Ethel McCready, formerly of Regina and with the Kenosha, Wis., girls' softball team during the past season, has arrived in Toronto to become the wife of Leo Gould, who is training at No. 6 I.T.S. for service with the R.C.A.F.

Judy Johnson, woman steeplechase rider, is still trying to obtain a licence to perform as a hurdle jockey from the Incorporated Canadian Racing Association. Although licensed to ride in the States, she has been unable to obtain a permit to appear on the courses controlled by the association. Miss Johnson wants to ride for the Mott stable at Thorncliffe and Woodbine fall meetings.

General George Marshall, chief of staff of the U.S. Army, is expected to grant permission shortly for a tour of foreign bases of the U.S. armed forces by all-star teams representing the major leagues. It has been suggested that several of the early games might be played in Canada and Alaska.

Operation On Knee May Finish Eddolls

MONTREAL, Sept. 11 (CP) — Royal Canadian Air Force doctors yesterday prescribed a major operation for LAC. Frankie Eddolls, which may result in his permanent retirement from hockey, where he had made a reputation as a star defenseman.

The Air Force physical instructor who won the "most valuable player" award in the Quebec Senior Hockey League last season suffered a knee injury playing for the Verdun junior club five years ago. The injury was in the nature of a loose bone chip and was aggravated by another bruise received in a lacrosse game this summer.

Doctors said the operation would be performed "in the near future." They added "Frankie will play no more hockey this season and may never play again."

Cards' Owner Opposes Play-off Plans

CHICAGO, Sept. 11 (AP)—Plans for conducting the 1943 world's series will be completed here tonight, but the site of the first games and the date remain in doubt.

Kenesaw Mountain Landis, commissioner of baseball, called the meeting, inviting representatives of the defending champions, St. Louis Cardinals and New York Yankees, to attend.

Normally the series would open in New York's Yankee Stadium on Wednesday, Oct. 6, but the desire of Edward Barrow, president of the Yankees, to avoid unnecessary rail travel has complicated the situation. Barrow has a plan for a "one-trip series." He has suggested that three games be played in New York, since the American League city draws the opening games this season, and the remaining games in St. Louis.

Sam Breadon, owner of the Cardinals, opposes the idea. He argues that in the event of a four-game series he would get only one contest in St. Louis. Barrow countered with a proposal to play the three opening games in St. Louis to avoid the necessity of making a second rail trip after the fifth game.

"This is wartime and we have to make concessions we ordinarily would not consider," Barrow explained.

Barrow's suggestion may develop objections. The St. Louis park could seat only 34,500, compared to the Yankee Stadium's 75,000. This would result in a big decrease in the players' pool.

The question of starting the series a day earlier than planned also will be considered.

Landis will preside today with the possibility that neither Will Harridge, president of the American League, nor Ford Frick, National League president, will be present. Harridge had made previous plans to visit his soldier son at Louisville, Ky.

Before today's games the Cardinals needed only nine more victories to clinch the National League pennant, with the Yankees needing 15 to sew up the American League flag.

Tigers Nose Out Giants 11 -10

At Memorial Park Thursday night the Tigers (St. Peter's) defeated the Giants (East City) to the tune of 11-10, in a somewhat free hitting tussle, to keep themselves in play-off running.

For the winners Murphy pitched steady ball all the way and kept the Giants' hits scattered. For the losers B. Sullivan did the mound chores, being nicked for fourteen well-placed hits.

At bat for the winners A. Giardino was top man with three for four, being followed by Murphy, Russell, Ferren and Spencer with a pair each for four trips.

For the losers B. Duignan, B. Sullivan and N. Plumpton had two for four.

The game was a free-hitting and free fielding contest throughout with a number of close plays being chalked up.

The play-off series now stands with St. Peter's one game and the Giants two game.

SPORTS – DAY BY DAY

By FRED D. CRAIG

Whether the girls' softball league winds up its operations for the season on Monday night depends upon the Brintons. Last year's champs dropped the first game of the best-of-three final round for the Knox Cup last night, losing to Generals, 13 to 6 and if the latter should happen to repeat on Monday it will mean the intermediate championship for the C.G.E. girls. Brintons can prolong the series and make a third game necessary by staging a comeback and handing last night's winners a trimming in the second game. Monday's fixture is called for 6.30 o'clock and should be an interesting argument between two clubs that are evenly matched and that each have considerable softball talent. Brintons were guilty of some bad ball at times last night but if they snap back to the form they have shown in most of their recent games they have a good chance of sewing up the round and forcing a third game. Pat Wilson the left-handed Generals' pitcher will likely be sent right back at Brintons again while the 1942 title-holders will use either Doris Walker or Beryl Lee. It may be the last league game of the season and with a break in the matter of weather should attract a good crowd.

Ken Colling, commenting on the victory of Oshawa Colts over the Belleville Reliance the other day blames Belleville errors for the result. Here are his views on the subject: "Maybe the Reliance softballers were never told—"it's good practice to have at least one player on the club who knows enough about the game to HOLD the ball," that is especially when the rest of the gang start pitching the spheriod around like a hot potato. Such by-play, plus a flock of inexcusable errors in 7th inning last night, cost Skipper "Spike" Pryke's Reliance their game versus the Oshawa Colts. One down in a best-in-three series the locals are faced with the task of moving into the Motor City on Saturday and winning, or else. Despite the fact Freddie Vasil issued eleven walks, the local moundsman was as stingy with his hits as the noted "Preem" Whiteley, Skipper Campbell's ace Oshawa hurler, as each allowed but five hits. However, Belleville out-errored Oshawa five to one and our errors really hurt. Aside from this and that disastrous seventh frame, there isn't much left to say, except the highly heralded Colts aren't the powerhouse expected. However, the Colts have one in the bag and now Reliance are over the well known barrel forced with the problem of having to win in Oshawa.

He's Changed Now

Tom Meany, baseball writer for PM has been having an interview on umpire-baiting with Frank Shaughnessy, president of the International League and Bill Klem, veteran umpire on the subject of umpire-baiting and some of the views credited to "Shag" will bring a smile to the faces of old time Peterborough fans. "After all," he is quoted as saying "what does it get you? I've seen guys fight with umpires for a good many years and "I've never seen anybody gain anything by it." Shag is right enough there but we can't help recalling that he is the same Frank Shaughnessy who managed the Ottawa Canadian League club back in 1912-13-14 when Peterborough had a franchise in that professional circuit. At that time umpires were apparently Shag's pet aversion. He was a playing manager most of the time, covering centre field and he had a path worn from there into the infield as a result of his frequent trips to object to official decisions. And his objections were delivered in a loud voice, in picturesque language and with appropriate gestures and nobody in the park had any doubt as to his meaning. At that however Shag's greatest outburst at Riverside Park was not directed at the umpire. It came when he and Petey Powers his catcher whom he switched to right field because of his hitting both took after the same fly and Powers stepped on his manager's foot just as the ball got there. Shaughnessy missed the fly but what what he said to Powers was a classic.

* * * * * *

The nearest approach to that effort was what Shag said one day when he asked Peterborough for permission to use a runner for one of his players who was injured but whom he wanted to keep in the game. It was a decidedly close battle and the Ottawa club didn't want to take any chances of removing a regular for a runner. The Petes consented to the Ottawa request and named Lefty Kubat, an over-weight pitcher, to do the pinch-running. Kubat jogged out to first base to take over for the injured player and before the next batter could be disposed of the home club picked the pinch-runner off first base, ending the inning. Shag's remarks to the sheepish Kubat produced blue sparks in the air. The first half a dozen sentences couldn't be even hinted at in a family journal like this but finally this much emerged from the Shaughnessy oration "You blankety-blank so-and-so if some other club is looking for a runner again and you are not hiding under the bench it's going to cost you $50." There was a lot of color in baseball those days thanks to Shaughnessy, Joe-Joe Keenan, Knotty Lee, and Rube Deneau, whose lively tongues pepped up many a contest.

It's A Real Card

Promoter Frank Tunney has provided a delectable sandwich for his wrestling card here Monday night. The bad man filling is provided by the second bout which brings together rowdy Dick Hogan and Pat Flanagan who can hand it out a bit himself, while the outside of the sandwich is provided by the preliminary and the main bout each of which introduces a pair of clean battlers. The net result should be a highly interesting evening with the chances bright for some of the finest real wrestling seen here this season. The Earl McCready-Gentleman Jack Clayborne tussle should be a wow. While each of the mat stars can take care of himself in heavy going they naturally prefer legitimate wrestling and they should give a memorable exhibition of holds and releases before a winner is decided. Both men are prime favorites here and for once the crowd will be at a loss as to whom to root for. The same condition applies to the opening bout which is a return engagement between Sergt. Ted Miller of the Trenton R.C.A.F. and the well-liked Joe Maich of Brantford. Many local fans are ready to declare that the first meeting between these two boys afforded the best wrestling seen here this summer. However for those who prefer the other kind of mat action, the semi-windup between Hogan and Flanagan should provide just the kind of stuff they like. Hogan is for anything not covered by the wrestling code and while Flanagan can take the rough stuff or leave it alone the Toronto Irishman is likely to meet Hogan at his own game Monday night.
